

ENGLAND'S MINISTERS TO CONFER ON CRISIS TO DAY
AS EDWARD REMAINS FIRM IN DEFIANCE OF CABINETArmory of Peace Advocated by Hull
For All Americas

Secretary of State Presents Eight-Point Plan Including Lowering of Trade Barriers and Wide Educational Program.

ROOSEVELT POLICY
BACKED BY BRAZIL

Full Support Is Promised 'Good Neighbor' Theme; American League of Nations Is Dominican Plan.

(Text of Address in Page 10.)

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The United States urged co-operative organization for peace and Brazil promised full support of President Roosevelt's "good neighbor" policy at the second plenary session of the inter-American peace conference today.

United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull, one of the 21 delegation chiefs to outline national policies, proposed an eight-point program to maintain American peace and, by example, help avert strife abroad, where, he said, "statesmen are shouting threats of war."

Jose Carlos Macedo Soares, Brazilian foreign minister, declared: "I proclaim Brazil's full solidarity with the good neighbor policy."

"The great perturbing forces in international society," he asserted, "are the alarming antagonism in the economic field and the financial oppression of certain peoples."

"In America those elements of discord are shackled by special conditions which enable free expansion of internal markets."

League Is Proposed.

A proposal that the conference move to create an American League of Nations was presented by the Dominican delegation.

Its fate was doubtful, inasmuch as some larger nations such as Brazil and Chile already had announced their opposition. It was understood

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

3 Workers Rescued
From Caved-In Mine

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Dec. 5.—(UP)—Rescue crews, comprising 250 miners who worked in two-minute shifts, broke through a rock barrier today that choked the passages of the Pioche No. 3 Lead and Zinc mine and rescued three men entombed by a cave-in.

The men were found in a recess 700 feet below the surface. They had been trapped there since last night when hundreds of tons of debris crashed down around them. They were not injured. The men were James Osletto, Ollie Ewing and Sam Boscher.

Earlier, rescuers had escorted to the surface three other miners, Jack Kaiser, Sigma Miller and Jack Schultz.

The six men had been repairing timbering of an ore chute between the 700 and 800-foot levels of the mine located 150 miles north of here.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

Continued in Page 6, Column 6.

DR. OPPENHEIMER REPORTED IN LINE
AS CHIEF OF GRADY

Mayor-Elect Hartsfield Is Silent on Dispute Between Franklin and Hines at Hospital.

Substitution of Dean Russell C. Oppenheimer, of Emory University, for Dr. Joseph Hines as medical director of Grady hospital has the tacit approval of Mayor-elect Hartsfield, it was learned yesterday from an authoritative source.

Though Hartsfield has declined to comment on the differences between Dr. Hines and J. B. Franklin, superintendent of Grady, which have flared into the open on more than one occasion, it was known he attended the last session of the hospital board where the discussion of the two was discussed.

Saving to the city of several thousands of dollars annually would be effected through Dr. Oppenheimer being made medical director of the entire city hospital and such a course is known to be favorable to the mayor-elect.

Now Paid Salary.

Dr. Oppenheimer is now medical director of the colored wards of Grady hospital and those favoring the proposed change declare he could assume medical direction over the whole hospital and do efficient work. As it is, he is paid a salary as medical director of the colored side, which would be supplemented if he took over the entire direction under Superintendent Franklin.

Advocates of the plan, who have made a strong move to this end at the board, point out that medical students at Emory would then

Continued in Page 11, Column 7.

REBEL SHIPS RAIN
BOMBS ON MADRID

MADRID, Dec. 5.—(AP)—A Fascist aerial bomb wrecked an occupied house near the American embassy today in a raid apparently aimed at raising an entire section of Madrid not half a mile from the United States official building.

At least a score of Madrilenos were killed in the second raid in as many days.

Inhabitants of a house in Glorieta de Quevedo were buried, dead or alive, in the splintered debris of their home, struck directly by an explosive bomb.

Two of the raiders were shot down in a spectacular battle in the skies against government pursuit ships which took the air when the invaders were first sighted.

While rescuers dug in the ruins

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Continued in Page 11, Column 1.

Cyclist in London 'Voices' His Backing of Monarch

A London cyclist "voices" his backing of King Edward in present crisis by holding aloft a sign as he cycles down a "Bobby" on Downing street in the British capital yesterday. This picture was radioed from London.

POPE'S CONDITION SAID NOT CRITICAL

Pontiff, Partially Paralyzed, Sinks Into Sleep; Is Visited by Relatives.

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 6.—(Sunday)—Pope Pius XI drifted into a troubled sleep early today, suffering from a blood clot on his left leg and with both lower limbs partially paralyzed.

Relatives who visited Vatican City said, however, they were assured his condition was not alarming.

Information issued by the Vatican tended to minimize the seriousness of the Pope's condition.

The Holy Father's condition, so far as his holiness accepted his discomfort with cheerful resignation, carrying on some of his duties.

He also visited the Vatican, and his relatives also visited the Vatican.

After talking with Monsignor Gonnajoni, the Pope's private secretary, they said they were reassured on the Pope's condition.

They expressed hope the Pope would be relieved of pain within a few days and would be able to resume his normal routine.

The Holy Father insisted on using his keen mind and unimpaired arms to carry on the duties of his church yesterday.

Secretly confident that God's will would permit him to rise shortly, the 79-year-old pontiff nevertheless resigned himself to death should it come.

"I am in the hands of God," a high

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

Continued in Page 11, Column 6.

King Carol Censors
News From London

VIENNA, Dec. 5.—(UP)—Although the Simpson affair is the chief topic between King Carol and Madame Magda Lupescu, his red-haired mistress, the Rumanian government today continued its censorship of news concerning the British King's romance.

The Rumanian press, miffed, severely criticized the government.

Universal, Bucharest's leading newspaper, said editorially:

"We wish to inform our readers that grave events are now happening in Britain. We have known about them since yesterday but have been unable to say anything because of the absurd conception of things existing here."

Surprised at Youth.

Miss Rogers and her mother, Mrs. Leila Rogers, expressed surprise at the youth of the sailor arrested.

"I am taken by surprise—spellbound," the actress declared. "I don't know what to do or say. The Lexington is one of my favorite boats."

Miss Rogers said she did not plan to visit the jail to see Hall.

"I didn't know about the letters until the federal men phoned me," she

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

SAILOR CONFESSES
THREAT ON GINGER

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—(AP)—An attempt to extort $5,000 from dancing Ginger Rogers, of the films, led a 20-year-old sailor into a Department of Justice trap today.

J. H. Hanson, of the department, announced the arrest of James F. Rogers, who identified as a sailor on the navy's aircraft carrier Lexington, about midnight near a Long Beach cafe where Miss Rogers had been directed to bring the money.

The officer declined to disclose details of the arrest, but declared Hall confessed he was the author of letters which threatened death to the red-haired actress unless she paid.

First announcement of the arrest came from J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, ending fears of Miss Rogers' studio for the safety of its prime feminine box-office favorite.

Surprised at Youth.

Miss Rogers and her mother, Mrs. Leila Rogers, expressed surprise at the youth of the sailor arrested.

"I am taken by surprise—spellbound," the actress declared. "I don't know what to do or say. The Lexington is one of my favorite boats."

Miss Rogers said she did not plan to visit the jail to see Hall.

"I didn't know about the letters until the federal men phoned me," she

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Churchill and Rothermere Defend Action of Monarch;
Wally at Villa in Cannes

King Telephone Mrs. Simpson's Host That He Will Join Her in Exile If He Is Forced to Abdicate; Wally Under Guard

YACHT IS READY FOR KING'S FRIEND

Wally Arrives at Cannes and Visits New York Couple, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rogers at Villa

By HERBERT KING.

(Copyright, 1936, by United Press.)

CANNES, France, Dec. 6.—(Sunday)—Mrs. Wallis Simpson, fleeing into seclusion from the future in England over her love affair with the King, and closely guarded by his majesty's and the French secret service, arrived here just before midnight.

While she was en route, the King disclosed by telephone to her host, Herman L. Rogers, that he will join her in exile if he is forced to abdicate. When she arrived, Mrs. Simpson was hustled under guard into the Rogers villa and the gates were barred to all intruders.

The palatial yacht of Mrs. Reginald Fellowes, a mutual friend of the King and Mrs. Simpson, waited with steam up in the near-by harbor of Monte Carlo, arousing reports that Mrs. Simpson would board it and find real privacy on the Mediterranean.

Arrives at Villa.

Mrs. Simpson arrived at the Rogers villa at 11:35 p. m., accompanied by three men. As soon as the car entered the grounds of the villa, the iron gates were closed and the party disappeared into the house.

The gates were barred to a swarm of 50 reporters and photographers who had been laying siege to the villa all evening long. Mrs. Simpson's party waited outside after leaving the six-o'clock train and all trace was lost until they arrived at Cannes.

The Fellowes yacht recently was decommissioned and the crew paid off. Suddenly the vessel's personnel was recalled and the yacht was immediately prepared for departure.

Guests aboard the yacht after leaving the six-o'clock train and all trace was lost until they arrived at Cannes.

Mrs. Simpson's two divorced

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Continued in Page 6, Column 3.

Co-ordination of Effort Is Sought For Passage of Safe Traffic Laws

Formation of Georgia Accident Prevention Commission Announced by C. C. Whitaker, Representative Here of National Safety Conference.

A campaign to secure a state driver's license law in Georgia, the bringing of present traffic statutes up to date, passage of a uniform traffic law and the establishment of the Georgia Accident Prevention Commission were discussed yesterday by C. C. Whitaker, Georgia representative to the National Accident Prevention Conference.

"Georgia's standing in per capita rating for traffic deaths, injuries and accident costs," he said, "has been one of the highest in the country. This is far from an enviable position and points to one indisputable fact—adequate laws and enforcement. And no matter how good and strong a law may be, without enforcement it is practically worthless."

Among the handicaps to traffic regulation, he declared, are the "political committee" who has been appointed to protect selective groups; the "conscientious objector," with selfishness as a predominant factor, who for a very small gain to himself is perfectly willing to have the public suffer; and the "layman expert," who, due to over enthusiasm, and imbued with "super-goggles" amounting to pure ignorance, knows how and what the remedy should be and wanders his theory put into practice.

"The public should realize," he said, "that we have advanced in traffic beyond the open and muddy stage, where speed and volume regulation was a simple matter, to a mechanical era with high speed and power vehicles and an increase in volume of many hundreds of times the former numbers. We should also bear in mind that we are, with but few exceptions, endeavoring to move this increased volume of traffic over the roadways that were originally planned for the open and muddy stage."

"The answer is simply that we can no longer regulate traffic by the 'rule of thumb' method, but must place the subject in the division of technical research and analysis to obtain relief."

"Our legislature will convene the early part of next year and considerable activity is being evidenced by civic and other improvement agencies throughout the state toward the revision of our state traffic laws and the enactment of a driver's license law. This activity is particularly commendable and if the many groups can be consolidated into one big working body, in which all will work along the same line and for the same objective, considerably less resistance will be met with from our law-making representatives and others."

Speaking of the work of the National Accident Prevention conference, to which Mr. Whitaker was appointed by Commerce Secretary Daniel C. Roper, the Atlanta said:

"The hope of the conference is to have each state create a working body, whose objective would be the enactment of a uniform traffic law, including within it the five fundamental acts dealing with vehicular uses, abuse, protection and regulation. In the forming of the law, it is very desirable particular be given to uniformity throughout the several states."

"With this end in view, a state-wide organization is being formed, to be known as the Georgia Accident Prevention Commission."

The purpose of the commission, he said, is to enroll as many as possible of the existing safety committees and the formation of new committees to augment their numbers into one organization.

"The combining of these units will insure a co-ordination of purposes and systematic effort which, when augmented by the strength of numbers, will insure consideration of the commission's objective by those in power."

The five acts of the uniform traffic law include uniform motor vehicle administration, registration, certificate of title and an anti-theft law; a uniform motor vehicle operators' and chauffeurs' license law; a compulsory insurance act; an act dealing with the physical conditions of vehicles and proof of financial responsibility; and uniform regulation of traffic on highways.

"All the five acts as written are the outcome of many years of careful study of traffic conditions," Mr. Whitaker said. "To a large extent the acts are such as to eliminate experimentation and to assure legal strength. It has taken many years of careful study by able attorneys and traffic experts to prepare these acts and their paramount aim has been 'safety.'"

Mr. Whitaker declared all organizations engaged in traffic safety promotion are invited to participate in the work of the commission, whether formal invitation has been extended to them or not. He asked heads of such organizations or chairmen of safety committees of various groups to communicate with him at his office in the Commercial Exchange building.

POLITICAL SPENDING MAY BE CURTAILED Senate Investigators Study Proposed Law to Control Funds.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Senate investigators announced today they were giving "careful study" to a proposed law drafted by Professor James K. Pollock, of the University of Michigan, to control "irresponsible and indiscriminate" political spending.

His plan was submitted to the senate committee investigating campaign expenditures, which will recommend legislation to the next congress for plugging gaps in the federal corrupt practices act.

At the request of President Roosevelt, the committee has undertaken a detailed analysis of expenditures in the last campaign, estimated at more than $13,000,000.

Robert Jeffers, committee secretary, said investigators were "deeply interested" in Pollock's suggestions, based on years of study of American and British election laws.

His scheme would forbid the national committee of any party to spend more than three cents for each vote cast in the preceding presidential election, and would lay similar restrictions on congressional and senatorial committees.

On this basis, less than $1,500,000 could have been spent by each national committee during the last campaign, in comparison with the $7,400,000 actually paid out by the Republican national committee, and the $3,400,000 by the Democratic national committee.

Famous Concert Artists To Appear in Series Here

KIRSTEN FLAGSTAD.

GLADYS SWARTHOUT.

ALBERT SPALDING.

Kirsten Flagstad To End Series Of Concerts Here This Season

Four Other Metropolitan Opera Stars, Ballet Russe, Two Symphony Orchestras and Violinist Spalding on All-Star Atlanta Program.

The Metropolitan Opera House has found a new theme song within the past year. It goes like this: "We'll rally round the Flagstad."

For in Kirsten Flagstad, Norwegian soprano, the Metropolitan has found its biggest attraction in prima donnas in many years. Her appearances during the past two seasons at the Metropolitan were one triumph after another. Within a few days after her debut she became the most talked of personality in music circles. The "standing room only" sign was out for all of her performances. There is no female voice of the moment that is so powerful, so magnificently equalized in all its registers and so effortlessly manipulated. A voice astonishing in its silver quality and its incredible mechanism.

The appearance of Madame Flagstad here this season as the closing feature of the All-Star Concert Series, on Saturday, May 1, is attracting widespread interest.

Other Attractions. Four other stars of the Metropolitan opera, two great symphony orchestras, the most spectacular and largest dance attraction of the day, and America's foremost violinist will be heard in the incomparable course of attractions to be presented in Atlanta this season under the auspices of the All-Star Concert Series.

Due to the delay in the completion of the new auditorium the first three attractions will be presented in the Georgia theater. The artists to appear there are:

Nino Martini, tenor, and Gladys Swarthout, soprano, in joint recital, on Friday and Saturday evenings, January 15 and 16. The same program will be given on both evenings, the two concerts being necessary to accommodate the large number of season subscribers.

Ballet Russe. The brilliant Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, which has been seen in Atlanta on two previous occasions, will be presented in a program of three new ballets on Friday and Saturday evenings, February 26 and 27.

To subscribers who have already made their reservations, a choice between concerts by Lawrence Tibbett and John Charles Thomas will be granted. Tibbett was originally announced for the course, and already enough tickets have been sold to completely fill the Georgia theater in case all subscribers should choose him.

However, many people prefer to hear Thomas, who is recognized as one of the greatest of American singers, and who is being offered as an alternate for Tibbett since Tibbett could not arrange to spend two evenings in Atlanta this season. Thomas will be heard on Monday evening, February 1, and Tibbett on Friday evening, Tuesday, April 20.

The Philadelphia orchestra, as well as Madame Flagstad, will be presented in the auditorium, March 19.

Symphony and Spalding. The St. Louis Symphony orchestra with Albert Spalding, violinist, as soloist, will be the first attraction to be heard at the new auditorium. They will play there on Wednesday evening, March 31.

The great Philadelphia Symphony orchestra, whose engagement in Atlanta last spring made musical history, will be an outstanding feature of the course, performing here on season tickets for the All-Star Concert Series will go on sale during the week of December 14. For the convenience of subscribers, season tickets may be purchased in three installments if desired.

MRS. FRANK H. FIELD, DENTIST'S WIFE, DIES

Mrs. Frank H. Field, wife of Dr. Frank H. Field, Atlanta dentist, died yesterday at a private hospital. The residence was 721 Parkway drive.

She is survived by her husband; two sons, Agnew F. Field, Atlanta, and Mayson D. King, Wentworth, N. C.; a brother, George Agnew, Atlanta, and a sister, Mrs. Willie Watson, Milledgeville, Ga.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Peachtree chapel of Brandon-Bond-Comdon, with Dr. Stuart R. Oglesby officiating.

Burial will be in West View cemetery.

VOTE OF CONFIDENCE SAVES BLUM, CABINET

Premier Emerges Victorious in Test on Spanish Neutrality.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The "popular front" government of Socialist Premier Leon Blum tonight successfully weathered the gravest political crisis in its history.

The Premier and his supporters emerged victorious in a test vote of confidence on Spanish neutrality on which the Premier had pinned the fate of his regime.

Despite Communist abstention, the vote was 330 to 171 in favor of the Premier, who announced he was determined to override Communist and other opposition to his neutrality stand.

Leaving the extraordinary session which gave him the first vote of confidence he ever asked, the Premier said his cabinet ministers were unanimous in their decision to retain their posts because of the majority given him.

Problems Cited. After the vote had been tabulated and announced, the Premier said: "I must repeat what I said in parliament—the vote is not only a question of surviving the stress of the hour, but it is a question of solving our difficulties in such a fashion that it followed under conditions of confidence and loyalty."

"It is for the future to show us how the Communist party will act," he said. "I am not a prophet, but I am informed political observers conjectured whether Blum's supporters, angered at the latest Communist attack, might force extremists to fall in line or risk the formation of an anti-Communist front."

No Reason To Condemn. The Premier, in pleading for parliament to demonstrate its approval of his hands-off policy in Spain, said it had not "achieved all expected of it, but there is no reason to condemn it."

The Communist leader, Maurice Thorez, led the opposition by charging the "intervention" of Germany and Italy in Spain was tantamount to the start of a European war.

Accusing them of taking an almost open side in the Spanish civil war, he asserted their operations were directed primarily against France, and declared Germany aspired to rule the Mediterranean.

In reply, Blum declared French peace was bound up indivisibly with that of all other European nations. He received a storm of applause from Socialists and Radical-Socialists while Communist deputies sat in stony silence.

Central of Georgia CHANGES SCHEDULES. New schedules for the Central of Georgia railway, with the addition of a new train for the winter traffic, was announced yesterday.

Leaving Atlanta, southbound trains will run on the following new time schedule: Southland Express (new train), 6 p. m.; the Southland, 6:55 p. m.; the Dixie Limited and the Flamingo, 8:35 a. m.

New arrival times include the Atlanta Express (new train), 6:30 a. m.; the Southland, 8:55 a. m., and the Dixie Flyer, 9:30 a. m. Departing schedules will go into effect December 10 and arrival schedules December 11.

Artificial light is causing a fungus growth on an Indian mummy, which was discovered a year ago in Mammoth Cave, Ky., and is exhibited in a glass case.

Overalls—Aprons—Coveralls
79 Alabama St.
DUCKETT'S ARMY STORE

A Brighter Home Is a Gift to All the Family

Be Practical This Year

Give a gift that will last for years. Redecorate the interior of your home with "Ripolin" the original Holland enamel—white and beautiful colors.

REGULAR $2.00 QT.

Now $1.60 Qt.

CHRISTMAS TREES

Spruce Pine painted snowy white, gold or aluminum paint. 3 to 12 feet. Prices—75c, $1, $1.50, $2, $2.50

ERMET DeLUXE ALL WOOD TABLES Beautifully Finished

Regular $5.00 Values
SPECIALLY PRICED $2.79

GLIDDEN PAINT STORE

Main 6075 19 Houston St.
JAP-A-LAC HEADQUARTERS

The New Cone Diffuser makes every Pin-it-Up Lamp a guardian of eyesight. Five beautiful designs. SPECIALLY PRICED $1.25, $2.45, $2.60

CABLE PIANO CO.

—A New Store
—A New Stock

The Cable Piano Company has re-opened all departments in spacious new quarters at 235 Peachtree St., N. E. Trains and trucks are daily bringing new instruments to meet Christmas demands. For the indulgence and good-will of our host of patrons and friends we are deeply grateful. Inspection of our new store and new merchandise is respectfully solicited.

PIANOS
MASON & HAMLIN
MUSICALLY THE MOST BEAUTIFUL PIANO THE WORLD HAS EVER KNOWN.
$995
CONOVER
More moderately priced than any other really great Piano of today.
$30 down
NEWEST STYLES
Verticals Consoles
as low as $30 down
CABLE
A great Piano and a great value. Cable-made and Cable-guaranteed.
$595
CHICKERING
America's Oldest and Most Distinguished Piano. A new small Grand—$595
FISCHER
Backed by more than 100 years of piano building experience.
$595
GULBRANSEN
Compare the unbeatable values in this great line with others in its price class. Baby Grands, $399 up.
ESTEY
The Baby Grand with patent stabilizer construction. New $399.
MIDGET UPRIGHT
Just right for small home or apartment.
$179
Old Piano Taken in Trade
RADIO
RCA VICTOR
The new 1937 models are here now. Radios and Phonograph-Radios. Prices start at $20.
ZENITH
The Zenith boasts many new improvements. Wide selection now. A small down payment reserves instrument of your choice.
HAMMOND ELECTRIC ORGAN
Here is a truly marvelous performer—one that occupies little space but does big things. For Home—Church or Concert Hall. Priced at $1,975.
CABLE Piano Company
Easy Terms
235 Peachtree Street, N. E.
Band and Orchestra Instruments
Four Doors from the Gas Company Sheet Music and Accessories
Easy Terms

NO RED TAPE—Your Choice—Any Garments

Now! ANY 3 Your Choice

1 Fur Trimmed Coat
1 Sweater Suit
Evening Dresses
Velvet Dresses
Ladies' Dresses (plain)
(1 for 2 piece)
Spring Coats (any kind) Furcoats
Men's O'Coats, Men's Suits
Felt Hats, 6 Neckties
Bath Robes

DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK GUARANTEE ON LAUNDRY

The efficiency of the New Primrose is second to none in Atlanta. Should you not agree that the quality of our work is superb, we will return your laundry—not only free of charge, but will also PAY YOU the cost of laundry!

Call JA. 2406
Called For and Delivered
3 for $1

THE NEW Primrose

... CASH AND CARRY BRANCHES ...

1098 Peachtree at 12th
608 Washington St.
1052 N. Highland Ave., at Virginia

599 Lee Street, at Gordon

457 Peachtree, at Pine

468 Ponce de Leon, near Boulevard

1182 W. Peachtree St., at 14th

FEET HURT?

Our Guarantee:

Regardless of how long you have had foot trouble, or how many different arch support shoes or appliances you have worn without getting relief:—

Buy a pair of Health Spot Shoes, wear them 30 days; if you do not get relief, return them and receive full purchase price. You are the sole judge.

The Right Way Nature's Way

The Wrong Way Foot Out of Balance

The mechanics of Health Spot Shoes assure perfect posture and body balance.

Health Spot Shoes straighten up weak feet.

HEALTH SPOT SHOE STORE

247 Peachtree St. Walnut 3779
Give Dad and Mother a pair of Health Spot Shoes for Christmas.

Gifts

Let Our Iris Lees Shop For or With You.
Three Gift-Wrapping Stands to Serve You.

Gifts with a Sparkle... the loveliest of them all

Ritz Blue Venetian glass vase with decorative foot of crystal leaves. 1.49.

Two-light Candelabras of sparkling Fostoria crystal glass with dripping prisms. Pair 9.98.

Crystal Urn-shaped vase in Pairpoint. A breathing creation to behold. 7.98.

Crystal flower bowl with double candlesticks to match. 7.98

Ruby Venetian glass vase with graceful fluted top and leaf foot of crystal glass. 1.49

High Ball Set of eight glasses with muddlers fitted in wooden tray to prevent spilling. 1.49

GLASSWARE, FOURTH FLOOR

(Right) REVOLVING BOOK TABLE of solid mahogany through and through. Stationary top with Satinwood inlay. 29.95

Designed for Giving

Not only at Christmas... but all through the year, Davison's Furniture of Character goes quietly but steadily about its business of making Atlanta homes reflect the traditional Southern hospitality by making them more livable, more comfortable, more "homey" and more beautiful. Now, with this Christmas season at hand, it is only natural that Atlantans are turning to Davison's for distinctive gift furniture. It is only natural that Davison's should reciprocate with the widest selection of many a Merry Christmas season.

(Above) MAHOGANY BAR WAGON, an inspired gift for imbibing friends! Fully equipped with all sorts of glasses, bitters bottles and cocktail shakers. Copper serving trays that fold up and over. Drop leaves forming a mahogany serving table, while the bar is closed. 98.95

(Above) SOLID MAHOGANY SOFA TABLE, an authentic reproduction. Graceful Duncan Phyfe pedestals. Beautiful Old World finish. 64.95

(Left) ALL MAHOGANY DROP LID DESK, designed with the attractive block front. Four spacious drawers with lock on each. Interior with secret drawer, and pigeon holes. 64.95

FURNITURE, FIFTH FLOOR

Use our Easy Payment Plan if you wish.

Distinctive Gifts of Pottery

CACTUS BAR, a delightful new idea for decorative and practical purposes. Done in modern fashion. 5.98

PALM TREE FLOWER HOLDER. Beautifully executed in gleaming white pottery. 2.49

RARE WHITE HORSE of shining pottery. It will add a decorative note to any living room. 2.98

LILY VASE of off-white pottery. Exquisite in its simplicity of line. 1.98

CUPID FLOWER RING of pottery. Ideal for short stemmed flowers like pansies and violets. 1.98

FLOWER BOAT simply but beautifully designed. An ideal gift suggestion for the home. $1

GIFTS, FOURTH FLOOR

Reflect the Spirit of Christmas with Prism Lamps

4.98 and 5.98

Buy them for gifts... then part with them if you can! They'll look so pretty placed about the living room singly, or in pairs, that you'll be tempted to keep them for yourself. Decorated frosted globes—the reflector kind—gracefully shaped bases of shining brass with clear, sparkling prisms dripping down to catch and reflect the dancing lights. They're styled to go perfectly with either 18th Century or modern settings.

(a) Classic in its simplicity with all brass base. 4.98
(b) Shining brass base mounted on marble standards. 5.98

LAMPS, FOURTH FLOOR

Full of Christmas Spirit

DAVISON-FAXON CO. ATLANTA

DAVISON-FAXON CO. ATLANTA

Full of Christmas Spirit

CHURCHILL, PUBLISHER COME TO KING'S AID

Continued From First Page.

avail herself of Mrs. Reginald F. Jones' 70-ton steam yacht in the harbor off Monte Carlo, no one professed to know.

There were some who thought Edward himself might join Mrs. Simpson in the Rogers' villa, but there was no indication that the sovereign was considering such a plan.

With Mrs. Simpson safely secluded, for the time being at any rate, from the eyes of a startled world, friends urged the King to play for time in what they said was his continued determination to surrender neither his throne nor his right to marry as he chose.

Partisan Support.
The partisan support and opposition to the match hardened more stiffly throughout yesterday with at least one influential statesman, Winston Churchill, publicly championing the monarch against the repeated demands of his prime minister to choose between Mrs. Simpson and the throne with no alternative.

Baldwin, bitter opponent of the King's association with Mrs. Simpson, held several conferences with high government leaders on the crisis.

Visitors to No. 10 Downing street included Home Secretary Sir John Simon and Lord Craigavon, prime minister of Northern Ireland, whom Baldwin summoned from Belfast. Simon has been said by authoritative sources to be desirous of avoiding a constitutional crisis through too strong representations against the King's actions by his ministers.

Whatever went on behind the closed portals of No. 10, no one but the principals professed to know—and they kept the most discreet silence.

Monday Awaited.
There were some informed persons who said a decision by either the King or the prime minister might be forthcoming at any hour, but the majority opinion was that not until Monday would the empire know the destiny of the crown.

Mass demonstrations in the streets of Edward's personal popularity, and the whole-hearted public support of Winston Churchill heartened that section of the British public which would like to see the King's personal wishes prevail over the dictates of his cabinet.

On the other hand, those firmly opposed to the proposed twice-divorced, American-born woman's becoming England's queen, believed the fourth session between Baldwin and the King in four days indicated the prime minister would stick to his guns and insist on a speedy decision. Edward himself searched his heart for the answer in his secluded country estate at Fort Belvedere where he and Mrs. Simpson had spent so many care-free hours.

Late yesterday he received a telephone call from Mrs. Simpson as she halted her flight to a refuge from the eyes of the world to inquire of Edward himself what she and he might expect their future would be.

Churchill Aids King.
Churchill threw his powerful influence behind Edward last night in an appeal to the empire to grant him "time and tolerance" in his fight to save the crown.

While Prime Minister Baldwin mortored to Edward's Belvedere retreat for yet another appeal to Edward to give up Mrs. Simpson, the brilliant Churchill, who may be King's premier if Baldwin resigns, attacked the government for not consulting parliament and challenged its right to advise the sovereign to abdicate.

In a formal statement he said that abdication must not "hastily be exhorting," and hinted that the King himself had asked for more time to consider.

"There is no question of any conflict between the King and parliament," said Churchill, who has perhaps more personal influence than anyone in parliament outside the cabinet.

No Hurry, Says Churchill.
"Parliament has not been consulted in any way or allowed to express any opinion. The question is whether the King is to abdicate upon the advice of the ministry of the day."

"No ministry has the authority to advise the abdication of the sovereign. Only the most serious parliamentary processes could even raise the issue in decisive form."

Pointing out that the present crisis, engendered by Edward's wish to wed Mrs. Simpson and government opposition, concerned a marriage that "in no circumstances can be accomplished for nearly five months and may conceivably, for various reasons, never be accomplished at all," Churchill asked for "patience."

Mrs. Simpson's divorce decree nisi becomes final next April 27, shortly before Edward's coronation is scheduled.

The cabinet could, he suggested, advise the King against his reported request for legislation to permit a morganatic marriage, and added pointedly:

"If the King refuses to take the advice of his ministers, they are, of course, free to resign."

"If an abdication were to be hastily extorted, the outrage so committed would cast its shadow forward across

Duke and Duchess of York Leave Piccadilly Home

The Duke and Duchess of York are shown leaving their Piccadilly home in London yesterday as suspense grew over the conflict between King Edward and the cabinet over Mrs. "Wally" Simpson. This picture was radioed from London yesterday.

many chapters in the history of the British Empire."

Baldwin remained with Edward tonight for an hour and a quarter. Secluded in his Belvedere castle, the monarch was believed determined to wed Mrs. Simpson, even though it cost his throne.

His antagonists were confident the monarch would be forced to abdicate to follow the dictates of his heart, but the King had not reached a decision on this.

He may decide within 48 hours: Whether to give up the throne because of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's firm warning that he cannot wed the former Baltimore belle and be King.

Whether to fight for both his love and his kingdom in the belief the people of the empire will rally to his cause.

Cabinet Meets Monday.
The cabinet will meet Monday to

MONARCH MAY FLY TO SEE MRS. SIMPSON

LONDON, Dec. 6.—(Sunday) (UP)—A rumor that King Edward might fly to Cannes to see Mrs. Wallis Simpson circulated today, but could not be verified.

The Sunday Times said airports at Le Bourget and Cannes had received orders to allow passengers or private planes from London to leave without the usual customs and passport formalities.

The King's personal plane was tuned up Friday at Hendon air station to ensure its good running condition.

While the American-born Mrs. Simpson sped across France to a haven at the villa of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rogers, Edward spent the day at rural Belvedere castle.

The longer he could delay a showdown on the constitutional crisis concerning his right to marry whom he chooses, the better appeared his chances of rallying public opinion.

The average reaction of the young Englishman, who admires the King, is "let him have her." There is growing belief here that the same reaction prevails throughout the empire, although Baldwin claims sufficient backing from the dominions to crush any attempt at permitting the marriage of Edward to Mrs. Simpson as his wife but not as his queen.

There was indication, too, today that opposition has grown against any quick effort to force abdication. Lord Rothermere, powerful British publisher and brother of the late Lord Northcliffe, in an interview in the London Evening News asserted a "concerted effort" was being made to hurry the King from the throne and oppose this with the warning:

"No government, which on this matter of supreme importance, runs counter to the wishes of the people of England can survive."

"You cannot smother the greatest living Englishman off the throne of England during the week-end. Time must be given for a solution to this matter."

The present haste is indecent and is giving rise to unpleasant rumors affecting high political and other persons.

Removed Premier Before.
The Rothermere expression seemingly threw to the King the support of the Northcliffe dynasty in the fight against government and church opposition to his projected marriage.

It was the influence of Lord Northcliffe's Daily Mail which drove out Asquith and made Lloyd George prime minister during the World War.

It was believed Prime Minister Baldwin hoped to get parliament to name the Duke of York, heir presumptive, to succeed his brother while England and the dominions still were breathless from the shock of first publication of the news that Edward desired to marry a divorcee.

Cards Against King.
The King's firm stand against giving up Mrs. Simpson and the pronouncement by Lord Rothermere, with a previous indication of sympathy by Publisher Lord Beaverbrook, gave time for public reaction to show itself.

Even so, practically all the cards are against the King. On the constitutional issue, the church issue and the flouting of conventions, he is in a tight corner.

But he could wage a tremendous battle over the constitutional question to determine whether the government or the monarch shall be supreme.

Meanwhile, from the Archbishop of Westminster, Dr. Arthur Hinsley, came an appeal for special prayers for the King by all Catholics tomorrow. The Archbishop of Canterbury also had asked prayers for the monarch from the Church of England.

Twenty ministers attended today's cabinet session, at which Edward's declaration he will marry the chic Mrs. Simpson was delivered by Baldwin.

He had received that declaration in audience last night at Edward's country retreat.

People Demonstrate.
As the ministers drew up before 10 Downing street, automobiles bearing banners urging the King not to give in to his government appeared in the streets.

"Confound the Clerics," said one sign. "A Free Country and a Free King," declared another.

All last night crowds demonstrated in London, cheering the King and some proclaiming "the new queen," meaning Mrs. Simpson.

A public rally was called for Hyde Park tonight "to support the King." Standing in the shadow of a statue of Henry Irving, off Leicester Square, a speaker called the crowd to shout: "Down with the Church of England—we want Edward."

Wheels of commerce of the mighty empire were slowed today because of the crisis, and business leaders clamored for speedy settlement—whatever it may be.

Preparations for the coronation, scheduled for next May, were being completely overhauled, for the time being at least, and much concern was felt by a number of trade and industries with contracts for goods for the huge event.

Thousands of orders for coronation goods were suspended temporarily by customers throughout the world and some threatened to refuse delivery if such goods already were in transit.

And as the crisis continued, the family-loving Duke of York went to the country for the week-end—with the possibility he would return to London to be hailed as king. With him went the Princess Elizabeth. Edward's Health Good.

Edward, described in "excellent health" by his royal physician, Lord Dawson of Penn, remained throughout the day at Belvedere and it was announced all his public appearances for the coming week had been cancelled.

During the day a number of Conservatives in the house of commons sent to the King their assurances of support in any parliamentary fight he may make, but their stand was regarded as almost hopeless; it was conceded no chance in forming a successful government, should Baldwin resign in the face of Edward's refusal to give up Mrs. Simpson.

The group of Conservatives, it was learned, met yesterday in the smoking room of the house of commons to discuss the crisis which demonstrated in favor of the King throughout the night gathered outside Buckingham Palace to shout:

"God save the King! God save the new Queen! God save the King! Down with the bishops!"

They paraded through avenues and alleys of the ancient city.

"We want Eddie and we want his missus!" demonstrators shouted. "After South Wales, you can't let him down. Come to the palace now!" read some of the banners.

Churchill's Statement.
Churchill, Baldwin's antagonist, said: "I plead for time and patience."

"The nation must realize the character of the constitutional issue."

"There is no question of any conflict between the King and parliament. Parliament has not been consulted in any way or allowed to express any opinion."

"The question is whether the King is to abdicate upon the advice of the ministry of the day."

"No such advice has ever before been presented to a sovereign in parliamentary time."

"This is not a case where differences have arisen between the sovereign and his ministers in any particular measure."

"These could certainly be resolved by the normal processes of parliament or by dissolution."

"In this case, we, in the presence of a wish expressed by the sovereign to perform an act which, in no circumstances can be accomplished for nearly five months and may conceivably, for various reasons, never be accomplished at all."

"That on such a hypothetical, supposititious basis the supreme sacrosanctity of abdication and potential exile should be demanded finds no support whatever in the British constitution."

Baldwin Expects Authority.
"No ministry has the authority to advise abdication of the sovereign."

"Only the most serious parliamentary processes could even raise the issue in decisive form."

"The cabinet has no right to prejudice such a question without having previously ascertained at the very least the will of parliament."

"This could perhaps be obtained by messages from the sovereign to parliament and by addresses to both houses, after due consideration of these messages."

"For the sovereign to abdicate incontinently in the present circumstances would inflict an injury upon the constitutional position of the monarchy, which is measureless and cannot fail to be grievous to the last generation itself, irrespective of the existing occupant of the throne."

"Parliament would also fail entirely in its duty if it allowed such an event to occur as the signing of the abdication in response to the advice of the ministers without taking all precautions to make sure that the same processes may not be repeated with equal uncanny facility at no distant date and in unforeseen circumstances."

Time, Patience Needed.
"Clearly, time is needed for a searching constitutional debate."

"The next question—what has the King done? If it is true, as alleged, that the King has proposed to the ministers legislation which they are not prepared to introduce, the answer of the ministers should not be to call for abdication, but to refuse to act on the King's request, which thereupon becomes inoperative."

"If the King refuses to take the advice of his ministers, they are of course free to resign."

"They have no right whatever to put pressure on him to accept their advice by soliciting beforehand the assurances of the leader of the opposition that he will not form an alternative administration in the event of their resignation, thus confronting the King with an ultimatum."

"Again there is cause for time and patience. Why cannot time be granted? The fact that it is beyond the King's power to accomplish the purpose which the ministers oppose until the end of April surely strips the matter of its constitutional urgency."

"There may be some inconvenience, but that inconvenience stands on a different plane altogether from the grave constitutional issues which I have set forth."

Calamity and Inconvenience.
"National and Imperial considerations alike require that before such a dread step as a demand for abdication is taken, not only should the constitutional position be newly defined by parliament, but every method should be exhausted which gives hope of a happier solution."

"Lastly, but surely not the least, there is the human and personal aspect."

"The King has been for many years under the greatest strain, moral and mental, that can fall on man. Not only has he inevitably been subjected to the extreme stress of his public duty, but also to the agony of his own personal feeling.

"Surely, if he asks for time to consider the advice of his ministers, now that at length matters have been brought to this dire culmination, he should not be denied."

"However this matter may turn, it is pregnant with calamity and inseparable from inconvenience."

"But all the evil aspects will be aggravated beyond measure if the utmost chivalry and compassion is not shown both by the ministers and the British nation toward the gifted and beloved King, torn between the private and public obligations of love and duty."

"The churches stand for charity. They believe in the efficacy of prayer. Surely their influence must not oppose a period of reflection."

No Voice in Parliament.
"The King has no means of personal access to parliament or his people."

"Between him and them stand, in their office, the ministers of the crown. If they thought it their duty to engage all their power and influence against them, still he must remain silent."

"All the more they must be careful not to be the judge of their own case, and to show loyal and Christian patience even at some political embarrassment to themselves."

"If an abdication were to be hastily extorted, the outrage so committed would cast its shadow forward across many chapters of the history of the British Empire."

The highest sources asserted the King was still determined to marry Mrs. Simpson. They said he had not yielded to the government's ultimatum that he renounce—formally and unconditionally—the American woman who is the choice of his heart.

The most authoritative sources declared this information was conveyed to the cabinet today during a gloomy 40-minute session at Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's home.

The ministers—wary over the romantic, empire-shaking crisis—left the prime minister's residence at 40 minutes after they first had entered.

They will convene to discuss the tense situation again at 10:30 a. m. Monday (4:30 Atlanta time).

During the interval, they had been instructed to "stand by" and remain in or near London.

Twenty ministers attended the session of the cabinet. As some were leaving the Baldwin residence, automobiles bearing banners urging the King to not to surrender appeared in nearby streets.

Conservatives Switching.
The popular movement, which reached its climax in widespread demonstrations in the King's favor throughout London, was reported spreading even among Conservative members of Parliament.

The whole situation shaped up like this:

1. Official opposition to the King is of the most formidable character. Official and party headquarters say opinion is hardening in Conservative ranks that the sovereign will have to choose abdication as an escape from his present dilemma.

2. British opinion, as reflected by the press and on the streets, supports and sympathizes with the King on the personal problem he faces.

3. Parliament undoubtedly is lined up strongly behind Baldwin on the constitutional aspects of the fight. Whether the constitutional problems involved in the possibility of the King's marriage to Mrs. Simpson are as serious as Baldwin interpreted them may not be known until the whole issue is decided.

4. Winston Churchill is actively supporting the King's position, but few members of parliament believe he could command the necessary support in common or from the electorate in the general election that inevitably would follow his selection as premier, should Baldwin quit. Thus Baldwin, as leader of the Conservative party, ultimately would control the situation and have the King at his mercy.

5. Mrs. Simpson is in France, seeking a place of seclusion. The part she will play in future acts of the empire's drama was not clear. But one thing was plain today—the King still intends to do his duty.

Assurances of Support.
A group of Conservative members from the commons met in the smoking room yesterday. It was learned, after the historic meeting in which the prime minister announced the cabinet's refusal to sponsor legislation enabling the King to marry Mrs. Simpson.

The dissenting group decided to send personal letters to the monarch, assuring him of their support in any action he might think necessary in defense of his constitutional rights.

Demonstrators shouted their allegiance to the British ruler as a wave of sentiment in favor of the King swept London.

Throughout Friday night parades meandered through the avenues and alleys, their cheers always for their King and against a stern government ultimatum he must give up Mrs. Simpson.

L. & N. CONDUCTOR DIES.
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 5.—(UP) George W. Tharp, 59, former conductor between Knoxville and Cincinnati on the Southern, L. & N. passenger train, died at his home here today. He was retired in 1935 after 35 years' service with the railroad.

Highlights of Crisis Over Wally, Edward

LONDON, Dec. 6.—(UP)—The Sunday Dispatch, indicating the extent to which the British press has kicked over all traces of its self-censorship, printed a half-page picture of a large double bed and the bedroom in which she slept last night in Riola, France, while rushing to the Riviera.

Ernest Simpson, lately divorced husband of Mrs. Simpson, was sick in bed and has been under a doctor's care for several days at Grosvenor House. His illness was believed to be due partly to nervous strain in connection with the crisis.

All dealings for seats along the route of the coronation procession in May have been suspended in the last two days. Many speculators face heavy losses if the King's coronation is postponed.

King Edward VIII is rumored to have said about the American divorcee who has been the center of the storm: "I adore her—she comes first."

A high government source was of the opinion the odds stood 6-to-4 on the King's abdication—but high palace sources said the odds were identical against abdication.

Three aldermen and six town councilors, as well as the Labor party leader, R. T. Paget, candidate for a seat in the Borough district of London, telegraphed Clement Attlee, Labor leader in commons, urging him to "form a government, if you are invited by his majesty." They expressed the view that any other action would be contrary to the best interests of the working class. A copy of the telegram was sent to the King.

The executive committee of the North Wales Liberal Federation, meeting at Bangor, adopted a resolution today supporting Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin and parliament in the present constitutional crisis.

LONDON GOES FISHING.
MONTICELLO, Fla., Dec. 5.—(UP)—Governor Alfred M. Landich's fishing and hunting companions remained in his secluded Wacissa River swamp today and no one here had information on the Kansan's luck with gun or reel.

Davison's Great Midseason Sale of Dresses in the Peacock Room

95 Dresses in misses' sizes, 12 to 20
25 Dresses in women's sizes, 38 to 44

Rare buys for discriminating women who recognize quality even when it's masquerading under low price tags. Fur-trimmed costume suits. Sheer wools. Distinguished silks. Devastating dinner and evening gowns.

Originally $20 to 149.95
Now—12.50 to $91

in the Budget Shop

200 Dresses in misses' sizes, 10 to 20
80 Dresses in women's sizes, 38 to 44

1/2, 1/3 and 1/4 off

Possibly your last chance of the season to pick up a couple of "extras" at such minute prices. Daytime, sports, dinner and formal types.

Originally 7.95 to $25. Now—3.47 to 13.90

DRESSES, THIRD FLOOR

DAVISON-PAXON CO.

ATLANTA • Affiliated with MACYS, New York

THE JUNIOR DEB SHOP, THIRD FLOOR

DAVISON-PAXON CO.

ATLANTA • Affiliated with MACYS, New York

Gifts

Let Our Iris Lees Shop for or With You.
Three Gift Wrapping Stands to Serve You

A "Vanity Fair" Label Makes Your Gift Mean More

Vanity Fair Undies

When she opens the box and sees the Vanity Fair label she'll know that everything's going to be quite all right about this gift. 100% all right as to quality, styling and durability. Here are three from a vast store of Vanity Fair gifts—

Vanity Fair Balbriggans in pink, blue, tearose or Nasturtium 2-piece style. Sizes 14 to 18. 1.50 to 2.50

Vanity Fair Toddies and vests to match. Small, medium and large sizes. Sleek-fitting. 50c ea.

Vanity Fair Pechglo Briefs. Sizes 4 to 7. $1

Vanity Fair Bandeaux to match briefs. Sizes 32 to 38. $1

VANITY FAIR LINGERIE, STREET FLOOR

CARON PERFUME:
Fleur de Rocaille,
(shown right), $30
Bellodgia, 10.75, 19.25, 36
Christmas Night, 19.25, 36.50

Five Five Perfumes

JEURELLE PERFUME: Libretto, (shown right) 1.75, 7.50,
Gardenia, 1.75,
7.50.

ELIZABETH
ARDEN'S
BLUE GRASS
PERFUME
(Shown Left)
3.75 and $12

MARY DUNHILL
Devonshire, $10
(Shown Above)
Gardenia
$5, 8.50, $10

DOROTHY
GRAY'S PARFUM
"ELATION" (Shown Above)
$6 and $10

GUERLAIN'S
SHALIMAR
(Shown Above)
$10, $18, $32, $48

LUCIEN LELONG
Indiscret
(Shown Above)
$5, 7.50, $10, $15
Mon Image
2.50, $5, 7.50, $10

CIRO PERFUMES:
Surrender
(Shown right)
$5, 10.50, 17.50
Camellia du Maroc
3.75, 6.75, $10, $20
Reflexions
$5, $12, $18, $35

COTY'S
A SUMA
(Shown Left)
1.50, 2.50, $6,
$10 and $35
Paris,
Emeraude,
L'Origan,
$1, $2, 3.75

GUERLAIN'S
HEURE
BLEUE
(Shown Below)
$5, 6.50, $18, 28.50

PERFUME BAR, STREET FLOOR

CORDAY'S TOUJOURS
MOI
(Shown Below)
1.25, 2.25, $5
9.50 and 17.50

Here's to a Man's Christmas

Give him life's little luxuries that he yearns for but hesitates to buy for himself.

MACY'S SHAVING SET, a grand and practical gift! Macy's wooden shaving bowl flanked by a bottle of refreshing after-shave lotion and a generous box of talc. 1.25

MACY'S SHAVING BOWL, wooden bowl of delightfully scented shaving soap that will last and last. 79c

PACKARD ELECTRIC RAZOR, the outstanding gift for Christmas 1936. $15
Complete Assortment Men's Shaving Sets and Accessories.

TOILETRIES, STREET FLOOR

It's a Man's Christmas

GOOD TASTE IN SHIRTS IS A GIFT WITH DAVISON'S DISTINGUISHED SHIRTS in woven broadcloth or madras.
British stripes, pin checks or neat figures. Long pointed tab, button down or regular collar. Any one of them will be a safe choice for your man. 2.95

CHRISTMAS TIES HE WON'T TIRE OF Reps, mogadors, drillards, charvets and failles. Many in the brand-new Persian patterns. Others in regimental stripes, spaced figures and solid colors. 1.50

CHRISTMAS SOX THAT WILL SATISFY
Imported wools, wool mixtures and lisle lined wools. In Scotch plaids, checks or neat figures. Also clocked wool sox in the popular 6x3 English rib. 1.00

Full of Christmas Spirit

DAVISON-PAXON CO.

DAVISON-PAXON CO.

Full of Christmas Spirit

WAZI PAPERS SUPPRESS KING, WALLY STORIES

BERLIN, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Thousands of Berlin residents, unable to find news of the British constitutional crisis in any newspaper printed here, got their information on the situation from Austrian dailies today.

Newspapers from that country are giving prominent display to the story of King Edward, his cabinet and Mrs. Wallis Simpson.

British and French newspapers, which contain reports of the crisis, are quickly sold out when they reach news stands.

TO MAKE DOLLS. WASHINGTON, Ga., Dec. 5.—(AP)—The sewing room of the National Youth Administration here will make dolls for distribution to needy children of this section Christmas.

If you're thinking of . . . Friend Husband

Gift SLIPPERS

Say what you will about man's peculiarities, there's at least one which redounds to his credit—the desire for home comforts. And it's almost universal.

Knowing this to be true, makers of House Slippers have capitalized the idea by creating styles that are irresistible. For example:

Opera Style, as pictured above, made of the softest of leather, turned soles and rubber heels. Solid color Tan and Black. Burgundy and Blue with patent leather counter. 3.00

Danile Green Comfy Slippers, made of best quality felt with soft cushion soles and heels. Come in Gray, Brown and Blue, all sizes. 2.50

Hirsch Brothers

EDWARD MAY CRUISE WHILE CRISIS COOLS

Continued From First Page.

commoner fret in the situation which they have forced on the country.

Mrs. Simpson and her companions dashed through Rouen at a mile-a-minute clip, and proceeded to Vienna, in the Rhone valley.

At 3:20 p. m. Mrs. Simpson, accompanied by a gentleman-in-waiting and a detective, entered the station restaurant at Vienna, which had been cleared of others, and ate hungrily as if she had had nothing since leaving Blois early in the morning.

Appears Cheerful.

She appeared cheerful and remarked at the excellence of the local French dishes.

It was said that the gentleman-in-waiting was Lord Brownlow, 37-year-old former grenadier guard, who was specially delegated by the King to assist Mrs. Simpson on her trip.

Shortly afterwards she stopped on the road and conversed with a person who happened to be a local journalist.

He said Mrs. Simpson told him: "The King alone is judge. I have nothing to say. Journalists are pleasant people, but they are pestering me. Twenty-four slept at my hotel last night. I am very tired."

Shortly afterwards Mrs. Simpson was sighted in the Rhone valley, near Valence, heading southward.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

She passed Orange at 5 p. m. and continued on towards Avignon.

King Termed Type Likely to Choose Wife in 'Romantic Period of Life'

Psychologist Views Edward as Stubborn Man Who Changes Moods Because the World Is Changing.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE, (Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The King's romantic period comes at the time of his maximum power in the empire. This period, in his type of personality, is likely to be his best period.

His romance, for this kind of man, changes its type with age. It is more concerned with companionship; it realizes that there are mature qualities in women worth consideration.

"This is the form of companionship which the King's station has deprived him of. He appears to have found it eventually."

"No doubt the King discusses fairly serious subjects with Mrs. Simpson. I do not think it is a case of feminine wiles, for the King has had endless experience."

"There is stimulation found in talk about serious problems not found in merely light entertainment. Moreover, I believe, in England tradition favors women taking an important part in decisions on affairs of large consequence."

Asked whether the romance might well be explained as a headstrong showing of the self-assertion attributed to the King, Dr. Jastrow said:

"Edward is said to be a non-conformist. I doubt that it is fair to call him so. Edward's life has been a case in point of the King's conforming."

"The King is one of the war generation, that has had to consider a reconstructed world. He has followed his father's conforming footsteps, he would have been obsolete."

live if they marry, although they recalled that Edward would be well provided from his personal fortune, even if he loses his income as king. Whether he is king or not, he will continue to receive his income from his Cornwall and Lancaster estates.

Rose Covered Villa.

At the Rogers villa here Mrs. Simpson will be assured privacy. The villa is a small provincial style. It is surrounded by terraced gardens filled with roses and palms, while over the hilltop mimosas grows in wild profusion.

The Riviera was joyous over the prospect of so interesting a visitor. Hotel keepers here had a fairly bad season. When Mrs. Simpson began her day here was a sudden change from one end to the other of the golden sands as hotel keepers looked for unexpected prosperity.

The Rogers were ready to receive the King's sweetheart at their hilltop villa high above Cannes.

An English secret service man arrived here by airplane and the French government assigned two secret service men to be on constant watch at the rose-colored villa.

The Rogers bolted their doors and kept their servants inside.

Mrs. Simpson's luggage arrived here by train, and her five valises were transported to the Rogers villa. But eight trunks were left at the railroad station, giving rise to the belief that her stay at the villa would be only temporary.

Close behind the luggage was Mrs. Simpson herself, who sped by motor after a restless and brief stop at Blois.

Mrs. Simpson sought to evade newspapermen by arising at 3:30 a. m. She was joined by three more British secret service agents and confused her followers by zigzagging back and forth.

Finally she headed for Lyons and picked up the famed "blue road" which is used by most motorists from Paris to the Riviera.

The Rogers were ready to receive the King's sweetheart at their hilltop villa high above Cannes.

An English secret service man arrived here by airplane and the French government assigned two secret service men to be on constant watch at the rose-colored villa.

The Rogers bolted their doors and kept their servants inside.

Mrs. Simpson's luggage arrived here by train, and her five valises were transported to the Rogers villa. But eight trunks were left at the railroad station, giving rise to the belief that her stay at the villa would be only temporary.

Close behind the luggage was Mrs. Simpson herself, who sped by motor after a restless and brief stop at Blois.

Mrs. Simpson sought to evade newspapermen by arising at 3:30 a. m. She was joined by three more British secret service agents and confused her followers by zigzagging back and forth.

Finally she headed for Lyons and picked up the famed "blue road" which is used by most motorists from Paris to the Riviera.

The Rogers were ready to receive the King's sweetheart at their hilltop villa high above Cannes.

An English secret service man arrived here by airplane and the French government assigned two secret service men to be on constant watch at the rose-colored villa.

The Rogers bolted their doors and kept their servants inside.

Mrs. Simpson's luggage arrived here by train, and her five valises were transported to the Rogers villa. But eight trunks were left at the railroad station, giving rise to the belief that her stay at the villa would be only temporary.

Close behind the luggage was Mrs. Simpson herself, who sped by motor after a restless and brief stop at Blois.

Mrs. Simpson sought to evade newspapermen by arising at 3:30 a. m. She was joined by three more British secret service agents and confused her followers by zigzagging back and forth.

Finally she headed for Lyons and picked up the famed "blue road" which is used by most motorists from Paris to the Riviera.

The Rogers were ready to receive the King's sweetheart at their hilltop villa high above Cannes.

An English secret service man arrived here by airplane and the French government assigned two secret service men to be on constant watch at the rose-colored villa.

The Rogers bolted their doors and kept their servants inside.

Mrs. Simpson's luggage arrived here by train, and her five valises were transported to the Rogers villa. But eight trunks were left at the railroad station, giving rise to the belief that her stay at the villa would be only temporary.

Close behind the luggage was Mrs. Simpson herself, who sped by motor after a restless and brief stop at Blois.

Mrs. Simpson sought to evade newspapermen by arising at 3:30 a. m. She was joined by three more British secret service agents and confused her followers by zigzagging back and forth.

Finally she headed for Lyons and picked up the famed "blue road" which is used by most motorists from Paris to the Riviera.

The Rogers were ready to receive the King's sweetheart at their hilltop villa high above Cannes.

An English secret service man arrived here by airplane and the French government assigned two secret service men to be on constant watch at the rose-colored villa.

The Rogers bolted their doors and kept their servants inside.

Mrs. Simpson's luggage arrived here by train, and her five valises were transported to the Rogers villa. But eight trunks were left at the railroad station, giving rise to the belief that her stay at the villa would be only temporary.

Close behind the luggage was Mrs. Simpson herself, who sped by motor after a restless and brief stop at Blois.

AN ARMORY OF PEACE IS HULL'S PROPOSAL

Continued From First Page.

the United States and Argentina also would not welcome establishment of such an organization.

Under the Dominican plan, all the American republics would unite against outside aggression, and would renounce war, intervention and forceful acquisition of territory. They would prepare for establishment of an inter-American court.

A permanent executive council would be set up, including one representative from each of the 21 American republics. A special assembly would be called by the treaty of inter-American war.

Limitation of armaments to the amount required for national defense and prohibition of sale of arms to private citizens of other nations would be two provisions of the league accord.

Soares Opposes Plan.

Macedo Soares indirectly opposed the inter-American court plan in his speech by praising the Hague court of international justice.

"In no manner should we isolate ourselves from the rest of the world," he said. "We should give it a great example. We should initiate a new policy of international fraternity."

Although not mentioning the American League of Nations project, which he previously had opposed in speeches—Macedo Soares said American nations should weigh the errors of the Geneva body but at the same time should keep its difficulties in mind, "owing to the disconcert of European passions and interests."

"8 Pillars of Peace."

Secretary Hull asserted peace and prosperity rest upon "eight pillars of peace":

1. Internal quiet and education.

2. Frequent international conferences.

3. Swift ratification of existing peace pacts.

4. Adoption of a common neutrality policy.

5. Fair and equal commercial policies.

6. Practical international co-operation.

7. Strengthening of international law.

8. Faithful observance of the sanctity of treaties.

Disputes Jam Machinery.

Disputes over technical questions jammed the machinery of the committee on organization of peace, the most important subdivision of the parley, and the committee on intellectual cooperation.

Chairmen of both committees had trouble quieting the arguing delegates, but compromises were reached.

The peace committee was debating whether sub-committees or individuals should report on the various peace projects submitted to it. The United States took no part until the discussion became heated, when Assistant Secretary of State Sumner Welles expressed full favor of the sub-committee plan, which was adopted soon afterward in a modified form.

Secretary Hull received one of the greatest ovations the conference has given any speaker. As he left the chamber he was warmly congratulated by several delegates.

Those who did not understand English followed closely a Spanish translation as he spoke.

Mrs. O'Day Lauds Speech.

Mrs. Caroline O'Day, Democratic United States representative from New York, who heads the delegation of the people's mandate to end war, which presented a peace petition yesterday, declared in a statement:

"I can think of nothing that women will hail with more enthusiasm than Secretary Hull's statement on reduction of armaments.

"If we take the first step in limiting or reducing our arms in this hemisphere, other nations must follow our example."

Miss Mabel Vernon, of Washington, D. C., a member of the People's Mandate Committee to End War, asserted: "Secretary Hull's speech was a magnificent opening of the meeting. He offers a definite program of action which he declares imperative and we naturally are gratified that it contains all the principles of the people's mandate."

Washington, Dec. 5.—(UP)—Sophisticated Washington was just plain gaga tonight over what diplomats call "England's constitutional crisis."

Should he or shouldn't he? Will he or won't he? What should she do? And what is the latest news about King Edward and Wallis Simpson?

Christmas shoppers scurrying the crowded streets, shopgirls besieged by irate matrons, society leaders over smart cocktails, politicians who a month ago had their own constitutional crises—all the cosmopolitan thousands that make up the nation's capital tonight were debating one topic—Mrs. Simpson and the King.

Questions vary as widely as the people. Here are some samples:

Thrones "Nothing."

Mrs. William Edgar Borah, of Idaho, wife of the one-time senate foreign relations committee chairman, believes thrones and empires, archbishops and prime ministers are as nothing compared with romance.

Said Mrs. Borah: "I think the world is well lost for love. It is all very sad, and I'm sorry for both of them, but I hope there is a happy ending to come. If I were Mrs. Simpson I'd go to France, as he did, and hope the King would follow."

"Do you think it is right for the King to marry a commoner?"

"Of course," she replied, "if the King is in love with her, nothing should interfere with true love."

Mrs. Eleanor Medill Patterson, heiress, author and editor, whose own life has been a storybook of romance and adventure—marriage to a Polish count, divorce from him, international complications over custody of their daughter, second marriage, ending with death of her husband, and acquaintance with the great of the world, has different ideas.

Said "Cissy" Patterson: "Beautiful Story."

"What would I do if I were in Mrs. Simpson's place? I'd leave and make a beautiful love story of it. Why? For the sake of the king, for the sake of England, and for the sake of romance. You know—the Prisoner of Zenda."

"So you think the King would live happily ever after if she left and he continued on the throne?"

"Oh, after a while, he would be happy," Mrs. Patterson said.

Madame Cantacuzene, who was Julia Dent Grant, granddaughter of President Grant, born in the White House, once wife of Major General Prince Cantacuzene, Count Speransky, of Russia, finds the situation "tragic."

Madame Cantacuzene, herself a commoner who married royalty, and she, too, divorced, found nothing to say about propriety of the King marrying a divorced commoner.

Caution is the watchword of Mrs. Edward Everett (Dolly) Gann, hostess of the late Vice President Charles Curtis, and heroine of the famous social battle with Alice Roosevelt Longworth.

Not Even a Word.

"What do you think of the problem?" she was asked.

"Not a word," said Mrs. Gann.

"What would you do in Mrs. Simpson's place?"

"Not a word," said Mrs. Gann.

"Do you think they should marry?"

"Not a word," said Mrs. Gann.

Mrs. J. Borden (Daisy) Harriman, Democratic political leader, from her hilltop home overlooking the Potomac river said:

"It's none of my business—or anybody else's—but the English people themselves, and it would be an impertinence for me even to express an opinion."

Elsie Hill, feminist leader, daughter of a famous Connecticut congressman, considers it "thoroughly creditable that the King wants to marry the woman he seems to love, in contrast with the conduct of certain other monarchs in history. It challenges admiration."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—

WASHINGTON, Dec.

LINDBERGH MAY SEEK GOVERNORSHIP OF N. J.

Atlantic City Papers Say G. O. P. Will Ask Noted Flier To Run.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 5. (AP)—The Atlantic City Sunday Press said it had learned through authentic north Jersey sources that influential Republican leaders have decided to ask Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh to become the Republican candidate for governor of New Jersey in 1937.

The newspaper said about 15 party leaders from all sections of the state reached this decision at "a quiet little meeting" in Newark a few days ago. They virtually agreed, it was said, that the "only hope the Republican party may hold in waging a successful fight against the prospective Democratic candidate, United States Senator A. Harry Moore, lies in erecting a solid front on behalf of a candidate who holds the sympathies and regard of the people."

Among those present, the Press said, were State Senator Lester H. Cleo, of Essex, mentioned as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, and Arthur T. Vanderbilt, Newark attorney and a leader of the Essex county clean government faction.

Dr. Cleo, reached in Newark, flatly denied he had attended such a meeting, said he knew Vanderbilt had not attended such a gathering and that he disbelieved such a meeting had been held.

The Press said Colonel Lindbergh's name was brought up when one of the conferees expressed the wish for a man like the late Dwight W. Morrow, former United States senator and father-in-law of the aviator.

It said the agreement on his candidacy was "spontaneous" and that "the more they thought about it, the more convinced they became that if anyone was the logical man" it was Lindbergh.

Vanderbilt, the newspaper said, was delegated to make the first move toward obtaining Lindbergh's acquiescence. Several, it added, volunteered to raise substantial sums of money on behalf of the Lindbergh candidacy. The conferees pointed out, it said, that Colonel Lindbergh was still a New Jersey resident and despite his temporary residence in England might be prevailed upon to accept the post.

GROUP TO PROBE CARRIER FINANCING

Investigation of Van Sweringen Empire To Begin Monday.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Senate investigators prepared tonight to present the inside story of billion-dollar railroad financing at a senate inquiry beginning Monday.

Under direction of a special committee, headed by Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, evidence of shoe-string investment for billion-dollar rail empire control and the behind-the-scenes activities of America's largest banking institutions has been prepared.

For more than a year, a squad of crack investigators led by Max Lowenthal, counsel for a special subcommittee of the senate interstate commerce committee, has been studying confidential files of large railroads and banking houses.

Behind the investigation was the possibility of federal government regulation of railroad financing and top-hat holding companies similar to the Wheeler-Rayburn utility holding company act.

The committee was given $100,000 for the last session of congress for the inquiry.

First witnesses will be George A. Tomlinson, Cleveland industrialist and shipowner, and George A. Ball, Muncie, Ind., glass jar manufacturer, who will describe the meteoric rise of the two Van Sweringen brothers.

Tomlinson and Ball were described by senate investigators as the "guiding figures" behind Mid-America which was formed in 1925 to save the Van Sweringen rail system from ruin after it was unable to repay a $10,000,000 loan from J. P. Morgan & Co. Morgan himself has been tentatively scheduled as a witness before the inquiry is completed. He has not been subpoenaed yet.

MISSING 3 MONTHS, BANKER IS FOUND

Man Sends Greeting to Family in Jersey From Virginia.

BERNARDSVILLE, N. J., Dec. 5. (AP)—Russell F. Randolph, 68-year-old retired banker who disappeared three months ago, sent Christmas greetings to his family today and advised them he was well and happy in Eastville, Virginia.

Mrs. Vernon J. Tiger, a daughter with whom he lived before he left here September 2, to join the army of missing persons, disclosed happily that a three-page letter from Randolph reached her today. Only three days ago she had expressed the hope that with the holiday season coming, he "would only let us know he was all right."

"His letter said he saw the Associated Press story about him in the Richmond Times Dispatch," Mrs. Tiger said. He expressed surprise we were still looking for him and said he was well and had enough money to keep him going. He said he was living with friends—people he has met down there, I guess—and hoped we would have a merry Christmas and a happy new year.

Mrs. Tiger said her father told her he had walked "all the way to Virginia, except for two short rides." He gave her his address, but she preferred not to disclose it.

"It was such a relief to find out about him," she said. "We had been wondering and wondering where he was, if he was all right. Now we know he is. We wouldn't have found him if it had not been for the Associated Press and its newspapers. We thank you very much."

DAVE GOULD WEDS MISS FRANCES PAXTON

YUMA, Ariz., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Dave Gould, motion picture director, and Frances Paxton, singer and dancer, arrived from Hollywood by airplane this afternoon and were married by Superior Judge Henry C. Kelly.

Gould gave his age as 33 and Miss Paxton's 21. The party planned to return to Hollywood. Ernie Parker, radio artist's representative who introduced Gould and Miss Paxton while he himself was her suitor, said "I heartily approve this marriage," as he witnessed the ceremony.

TVA WAGE SCALE. KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 5.—(AP)—A new wage scale for 11,000 employees of the Tennessee Valley Authority will be discussed here Monday by the TVA advisory council on labor relations and representatives of international labor unions.

LAWYERS URGED TO CHANGE VIEWS

Cummings Asks Legal Profession to Co-operate With Administration.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Attorney General Cummings tonight called on the legal profession to cooperate with the administration instead of waiting "to take pot shots" at legislative programs after they are set up.

The administration, business, labor, agriculture and the legal profession "should collaborate generously," Cummings told the District of Columbia Bar Association at its annual banquet.

"Ideas are loose in the world," Cummings said. "We may run from them but they will hunt us down. The American people have not abated an iota of their faith in our institutions but they are in a mood to demand something more substantial than this political gruel. They want results. They are entitled to results. It is not strange, therefore, that they should prefer a conception of progress that places its accent on human rights rather than on property rights."

Agriculture and unemployment were two problems which Cummings said had become national issues. In view of "changing aspects of such problems, he urged the legal profession to 'forget the habits of a strictly individualistic age' and to adopt 'a fresher outlook.'"

The legal profession Cummings said, had played an important part in the nation's history, but if it was to maintain a role of leadership it must make itself "the right arm" of statesmanship.

"The fact remains," he added, "that many of our learned brethren have given less and less attention not only to public service, but even to a public way of thinking while in private practice."

STAINS ARE TESTED IN RANCH MYSTERY

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Investigators in the search for John and Luther Blanton, who vanished

after leaving November 19 for a hunting trip on the East King ranch, in southern Texas, disclosed today they were chemically testing stains found on a man's coat and pieces of canvas.

M. T. Gonnau, intelligence bureau chief in the state Department of Public Safety, said bloodstain tests were being made on the coat and canvas. He would not say where the articles were found or who sent them to Austin.

He said the chemical examinations would not be completed before Monday of Tuesday.

Actual search in the forbidden hunting preserve north of San Perito was at a standstill. The last official posse had returned empty handed and citizens, despairing of seeing the Blantons alive again, were inactive.

Donkeys sometimes deceive a veterinarian by simulating sickness in order to enjoy a rest.

Gifts from DAVISON'S

Store hours now 9 to 6

For Anybody Who Wears Skirts or Suits—

Classic Cashmere Sweater

in a new light-weight Chiffon-Cashmere

7.95

Soft and light as a baby chick and a first-rate flatterer. Of imported cashmere yarn loomed on imported machines (that means it's exquisitely woven). In luscious tantalizing colors of Riviera Coral, Riviera Blue, Sunset Gold and Off-White. Sizes 34 to 40.

THE SPORTS SHOP, THIRD FLOOR

Corded Velvet Slippers

1.65

Black, blue, red, green or rose velvet with soft Shearling collar and gold piping. Soft soles, medium heels. For women or junior misses. Sizes 3½ to 8.

BOUDOIR SLIPPERS, SECOND FLOOR

For the Solitaire Shark, Bridge Fiends and Those Who Do Card Tricks!

Monogrammed Suede

Bridge Covers

$1

DAVISON-PAXON COMPANY, Atlanta, Ga.
Please send me the order as checked below. I allow 10c for postage.

Quantity: _____ Suede Bridge Covers.
Size: () Brown () Green () Red () Blue ()
The Initials: _____ (underline last initial)
Quantity: _____ Double Deck Playing Cards.
Black and Green () Red and Blue ()
The Initials: _____ (underline last initial)

Name: _____
Address: _____
City: _____ State: _____

Check Enclosed () Charge to My Account ()

Fine quality suede bridge covers in brown, tan, green, red or blue with embroidered monogram in contrasting color. Order early! MONOGRAMMED BRIDGE CARDS, DOUBLE DECK. A new attractive design (as shown). They come packed in color combinations. $1

STATIONERY, STREET FLOOR

For Everybody's Little Girls—

Beacon Blanket Robes

Sizes 2, 4, 6 1.98

Sizes 8 to 16 2.25

She'll be wild with delight to find a robe on her Christmas tree. And especially a robe like this! In checkerboard print with silk cord girdle and a pocket. 2-to-6 sizes come in blue, red, brown, green. 8-to-16 sizes in blue, red or green.

TOTS' AND FUTURE DEB SHOPS, THIRD FLOOR

Three Gifts That Fill the Bill for your young Bill, Bob or Joe

A DUNMOOR SWEATER ENSEMBLE including flannel shorts, broadcloth blouse and all-wool sweater in stripes or solid colors. Navy or brown. Sizes 4 to 9—

3.98

2-PC. VICTORIOY SUITS with Victorioy shorts that hitch over your shoulders like overalls and a striped cotton jersey blouse. Navy, brown, maroon. Sizes 3 to 8—

2.98

HOLLYWOOD ENSEMBLE—what our very best-dressed young men prefer. Flannel jacket, flannel shorts and blouse. Navy or brown. Sizes 3 to 8—

4.98

BOYS' DEPARTMENT, SECOND FLOOR

Oriental Scatter Rugs

make lasting gifts of priceless beauty

Approximate size 2x4 ft. 22.95

Exquisite Chinese patterns that have been handed down for generations. Chinese blues, greens, golds and deep, deep wine tones.

Approximate size 3x5 ft. 42.95

A good size to use between rooms. Gorgeous Chinese patterns in deep blue, wine, green or gold backgrounds. Excellent values.

Approximate size 4x7 ft. 79.95

They're washed to the deep, lustrous sheen of fine velvet. The thick, soft pile is richly luxurious underfoot. All traditional Chinese patterns.

Chinese Embossed Orientals

Size 9x12 $299

Dark blue, mulberry, light blue.

RUGS, FIFTH FLOOR

KIN OF MR. SIMPSON MARRIES AT LONDON

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—A relative of Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson's divorced husband, it was learned today, was married quietly amid the hubbub over her romance.

The relative is John Smiley, nephew by marriage of Ernest Aldrich Simpson's sister.

He was wed yesterday to Lady Cecilia Wellesley, after a last-minute cancellation of the ceremony the day before at fashionable St. Margaret's church.

Guests had assembled for the society wedding a few blocks from parliament, where members were feverishly discussing the "Simpson case," before the best man announced there would be no wedding.

Smiley and Lady Cecilia, daughter of the late Earl Cowley, were married quietly the next day.

AMERICAN NEUTRALITY IS FAVORED BY PACE

FITZGERALD, Ga., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Representative-elect Stephen Pace, of the Third Georgia congressional district made a plea for peace and American neutrality in an address before the Fitzgerald Businessmen's Club last night.

Pace pledged his support to a law conscripting wealth "as well as manpower" if war should come to our borders.

The representative-elect was honored guest at a club banquet.

More Breeding Mares Received by Future Farmers

The second carload of mares for breeding purposes were received by the Fairburn Future Farmers' chapter yesterday. Several members of the chapter are shown with some of the stock. The mares were ordered after a survey revealed only a few mares available in this section for breeding purposes.

FUTURE FARMERS BUY BROOD MARES

Second Carload Received at Fairburn To Improve Work Stock.

Future farmers of Fairburn yesterday received their second carload shipment of young mares, which will be used for educational study and breeding purposes, C. R. Gladin, assistant county farm agent, announced.

"The mares are being brought into the county in an effort to improve the grade of stock found in the county," he said. "If Fulton farmers will continue to co-operate in this project it will not be long before we have one of the finest stock breeds found anywhere."

The Fairburn project was originated as a result of a survey made several months ago, which revealed the work stock in the county was too old for useful service and that there were too few mares available for breeding purposes, Gladin said.

About 75 per cent of people are farsighted at birth—25 per cent have either normal vision or are nearsighted.

Social Security Act Registration Complicated by Puzzling Queries

Social Security headquarters reports the registration task has been complicated by questions in the minds of both employers and workers, requiring that thousands of forms be returned for correction.

If you are uncertain about some angle of how the S. S. A. affects you, let The Constitution, through its information bureau located at Washington, put you right.

Your query, presented to the S. S. A. Editor of The Constitution will be given prompt attention and the answer published the day received, in The Constitution, in similar manner to those printed here today.

Workers by Hour.

Q. Father and son own a contracting firm, hiring help by the hour. Do these men so employed make application in the Social Security account?

J. R. W.

A. Employees working in included employment make under the old-age retirement provisions of the Social Security Act. The basis upon which remuneration is paid and the time of payment are immaterial in determining wages. It may be paid on the basis of piece work, or a percentage of profits; and it may be paid hourly, daily, weekly, monthly or annually.

Q. Should father and son in the above situation make application for themselves with the Social Security account?—J. R. W.

A. Self-employed and bona-fide members of a partnership are not classified as employees under the old-age retirement provisions of the Social Security Act. Officers in a corporation are classified as employees.

Employed 30 Years.

Q. A man has been working at the same place for 30 years. He will be 65 on February 14, 1937. His wages have been $800 a year some time during a period of three or four years. Do then for three or four years it was $300 and during another period of time it was $450. Later it was $300. Now his health has failed and he must retire altogether. Would he be eligible for any benefit from the Social Security Act?—P. H. C.

A. Persons must be employed and under 65 years of age on December 31, 1936, in order to be eligible for benefits under the old-age retirement provisions of the Social Security Act.

Q. If an employee gets a yearly salary of $3,500 from each of three concerns he would earn a total of $210,000 in 20 years. Is $85 per month the maximum pension he would receive at the age of 65?—L. E. C.

A. An employee in an included employment in the United States who is eligible for monthly old-age retirement benefits under the Social Security Act makes contributions on the first $3,000 of wages received in any calendar year from each employer. Thus, if he receives $3,500 from each of three employers, his contributions and benefits are computed on the first $3,000 a year from each employer.

$85 Top Pension.

Q. With further reference to above, will such a person benefit from the income of $9,000 or just from $3,000?—L. E. C.

A. His monthly old-age retirement benefits will be computed on $3,000 per year from each employer or $9,000 per year. However, no individual can receive monthly old-age retirement benefits under the Social Security Act amounting to more than $85 per month. See also answer to R. E. C.

Q. I am secretary in a doctor's office, where there is only one other False!

BUT nobody knows it!

PLAYS BY DAY & NIGHT

DENTIST

DR. WELLS

301 BROAD ST., COR. ALA.

EXTRACTIONS ASLEEP OR AWAKE

Guns—Rifles—Shells

79 Alabama St.

DUCKETT'S ARMYSTORE

"It's true what you hear about — LOFTIS"

JEWELERS to the SWEETHEARTS of AMERICA for 4 GENERATIONS

YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD at LOFTIS

A Diamond Ring Is the Best Gift of All!

Loftis Diamond Engagement Rings Cover a Wide Range in Price

You can buy a Diamond Ring from Loftis for as little as $15 or as much as $2,500 and even more. Our policy, backed by a reputation of more than 75 years of fair dealing, is to deliver to you more Diamond value no matter what price you pay. Our Diamonds are quality goods, of beautiful color and brilliancy, imported by us direct from Europe and sold direct to you—doing away with all middlemen's profits. Come in—bring "her" with you—select the ring you want—buy on Convenient Terms.

LOFTIS HAS FURNISHED "THE RING" FOR FOUR GENERATIONS OF SWEETHEARTS

"SWEETHEART" Engagement Ring

"JUBILEE" Engagement Ring

"MARY-JO" Engagement Ring

"FLYING HIGH"

Wedding Ring Combination Fourteen Diamonds—full of lustrous brilliancy—set in rings of solid 14-K Yellow or White Gold—A LOFTIS SPECIAL $37.50 $1.00 a Week

Nine gorgeous Diamonds. Solid 18-K white or 14-K yellow gold ring$50

Solid 10% Iridium Platinum—specially selected Blue White Diamond, surrounded by 12 matched Diamonds, $175. $4.25 A WEEK

Seven fiery blue white Diamonds. Your choice of Solid 18-K White or 14-K Yellow Gold, $96.50.

You Can Buy All Your Christmas Gifts from Loftis—Have All Charged to One Account—Pay Next Year

ELGIN WATCH

Beautiful semi-baguette; choice of Yellow or White Gold filled case; 15 Jewels$39.75 $1.00 a Week

BULOVA WATCH

New, swanky Bulova wrist watch, "CLEOPATRA," in petite square shape. Full jeweled. White Gold finish$24.75 $1.00 a Week

THE "VICTORIA"

Green Watch. Dainty, new, smart, round Yellow Gold filled case. Quality and dependability throughout$29.75 $1.00 a Week

VERNA DINNER RING

Three fine blue white Diamonds; choice of Solid 14-K White or Yellow Gold$19.50 75c a Week

BULOVA'S NEWEST

The "PHANTOM" Watch

Man's handsome new Bulova watch, in latest style; Yellow Gold-filled case; link bracelet; 17 Jewels$39.75 $1.00 a Week

Men's Military Brush Set

Genuine ebony—two brushes and comb$3.95

Newest in Compacts: Cigarette Cases and Lighter Sets; Belt Buckle and Tie; Clip Sets; Bill Folds; Costume Jewelry; Baby Jewelry; Gifts for Men; Gorgeous Dresser Sets; Leather Goods; Clocks; Radios; Silverware; Electric Toasters; Pen and Pencil Sets; Cocktail Sets. Add all to One Account—PAY NEXT YEAR.

LOFTIS JEWELRY COMPANY.

36 Broad St., S. W.

Cor. Broad and Alabama Sts.

Entrance on the Corner

Phone WA. 3737

SEND FOR CATALOG—MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY FILLED

OPEN DAILY TILL 9, SATURDAY TILL 9:30 P. M.

USE PEPSODENT POWDER!

it alone contains IRIUM, which thrillingly steps-up luster on teeth!

DOUBLE SAFETY
No Grit... No Pumice

DOUBLE DELIGHT
No Chalk... No Soap

YET COSTS NO MORE than other well-known powders
ONLY 25c & 50c
ALREADY 6,000,000 USERS

PEPSODENT

DOUBLE THE THRILL, OR DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK

If Pepsodent Powder doesn't show-up any other tooth powder you ever used... Bar None!

PEPSODENT Powder comes closer than any other to matching your dentist's polish! No more can be said for a dentifrice.

You can't hope to get the same results with powder or paste that your dentist gets when he cleans your teeth. So we say, see your dentist twice a year, but use Pepsodent twice a day.

Pepsodent alone contains IRIUM, the spectacular new luster discovery.

It works on a totally new principle. It FLOATS-AWAY film on teeth with a wonderfully swift and gentle action!

It thrillingly steps-up luster on teeth, yet is DOUBLY safe because it contains NO PUMICE, NO GRIT! DOUBLY delightful because it contains NO CHALK, NO SOAP!

Because the first powder to contain IRIUM would make old-fashioned even the best known brands, many tried to get this wonderful discovery.

But Pepsodent alone contains IRIUM!

How else could it happen that 6,000,000 users already have switched to Pepsodent Powder almost entirely on the say-so of friends!

To introduce Pepsodent Powder containing IRIUM, we make this offer.

Try it. And if in your opinion, Pepsodent Powder does not give you DOUBLE the thrill, DOUBLE the safety, and DOUBLE the delight of any tooth powder you have ever used—bar none—we will give you DOUBLE your money back.

Just mail the partially used can to The Pepsodent Co., Chicago, and we will send you our check for DOUBLE what you paid plus postage.

VERIFY EVERYTHING WITH YOUR DENTIST!

WALLY'S FAMILY RUNS TO WILLIAM

Genealogy Establishes Warfields in England 648 Years Before Hanovers.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The New York Sun says the family of Mrs. Bessie Wallis Warfield Simpson was established on a noble foundation in England 648 years before King Edward VIII's family was established there.

While the King's German ancestors were trotting about in the North Sea meadows or riding in the bleak Hanoverian sand hills, her forebears were hunting the stag with William the Conqueror.

It was dislike for the actions of the house of Hanover (the present reigning Windsors), when King Edward's ancestors came to the English throne in 1714, which led Wallis Simpson's ancestors, the Warfields, to leave England for America. The Warfields disliked their Hanoverian king who preferred his home in Hanover to England and neglected Englishmen and their interests.

When her father, Teackle Wallis Warfield, married Alice Montague he united two families, both of whose houses had an aristocratic beginning in England. The Montagues came to Virginia in 1624 and a descendant of the first American Montague distinguished himself in the revolution.

The coat of arms of the Warfields has as distinguished a beginning as that of King Edward. It has two camels, facing a shield, while atop a helmet is a lamb bearing a banner. The camels probably represent some feat of the Warfields in the crusades to the Holy Lands.

REAL BASS BARGAINS

SHOP AT BASS' AND SAVE TIME AND MONEY

FIBER ROCKERS

Hundreds to select from. Price begins at... $1.79

Desk and Chair

Beautiful walnut finished desk with chair. You can get your size. Price begins at... $4.77

Scooters, $7.97

Velocipedes and up. Talking and up. Just see our display.

Notice.

Toys on sale at 188 Mitchell Street, Bass' old location. Select where you have plenty of goods to select from and lowest prices.

Special Values

These skates made by the makers of Union Hardware Skates and only... $1.19

Then the genuine Union Hardware Skates for boys and girls and only... $1.79

WAGONS

Up From $1

Hundreds of all kinds, sizes and makes, at greatly reduced prices.

$2.39

Will Buy One of the Best High Chairs Made

CECEDAR CHEST

Large line of all sizes and finishes in Cedar Chests. One to suit your purse. Make selection now... $5.00 UP

USED PIANOS

$39.50

Good condition, refinished. Tuned and ready for use.

We Upholster. We Buy. We Sell and Exchange Anything for the Home.

TOY AUTOS

The best assortment in town. All the newest streamlined. One you can afford to buy. Prices begin at $3.95

Singer Machines

Look and sew like new. See these and save money at... $12.50

NOW AT 146-150 MITCHELL ST.

BASS FURNITURE CO.

3-Pc. Living Room Suites

These suites are like new, every one reupholstered, and we have a large line of material for you to select yours from. Be sure to get one before it's too late; other suites from $14.75 up.

BIG BROTHERS PLAN CHRISTMAS FOR POOR

Continued From First Page.

mas a time of happiness and contentment.

"If we don't do this and if the people of Atlanta don't respond to the call of the Big Brothers, the result will be something that will make the city bury its head in shame."

"But I know from past experience we are going over the top in great style. The Big Brothers have been doing it for the past three Christmas seasons and I believe this will be the most successful of all."

Need Volunteers.

"Atlantians must not forget, though, that just a few of us will be pretty helpless in the face of the big task. We want volunteer workers, lots of them. And every Atlantian must be ready to help when these workers call on them. Otherwise, that miserable picture of a cheerless Christmas morning will be painted in a lot of needy homes this year."

The two "Big-Big Brothers" closed their conference with the warning to other Big Brothers to "watch the Craighead-Hannah combination."

Meanwhile, battle-fronts are being formed in other sectors. T. W. "Tom" Tiller has been appointed major in College Park and has gone to work to place his community in the front ranks of Christmas cheerers.

"Anyone who thinks College Park won't do her part is badly off," Mr. Tiller said yesterday. "The volunteers we shall need in the work won't be long in answering the call and then you'll see some real Christmas fund-raising."

College Park citizens are asked to call their Big Brothers' leader right away. His business phone is Main 3430 and his residence number is Calhoun 3495.

Vernon Frank, chairman of Big Brothers' activities in DeKalb county, has planned a Dutch dinner at 7:15 o'clock tomorrow night at the Candler hotel. All citizens of DeKalb and DeKalb county are invited to attend the dinner and learn just how that section is going about the big campaign to raise funds for its needy families.

PICTURE FRAMING

Distinctive XMAS Gifts
Pictures—Mirrors—Brick-a-Brac
Georgia Art Supply Co.
Factory, 280 Garnett St.
Between Spring & Forsyth, W. A. 1254

Games, Skates, Wagons
79 Alabama St.
DUCKETT'S ARMY STORE

MADAM WILLIAMS

Palmet and Crystal Reader
Why be unhappy and discontented? When one visit to this gifted lady will help you solve your most difficult problem. Truthful advice on love, business and domestic affairs. When you are doubtful, consult her. Satisfaction assured. All business confidential. Hours 10 to 5 P. M. daily and Sunday 1 to 5 P. M.

2967 PEACHTREE ROAD NEAR BUCKHEAD

Special—Two Weeks
Only—Reading 50c

Big Brother Partners Map Intensive Drive

These two "Big-Big Brothers" went into a war session yesterday and laid down plans of an intensive campaign to make a happy Christmas for needy families of the city. Colonel Edgar R. Craighead is shown on the left as he agreed with Fred C. Hannah on their slogan, "Watch the Craighead-Hannah combination." They are two of the leaders in the annual Big Brothers task of supplying poor families with great baskets of Christmas cheer to drive away the tears of needy parents and children on Christmas morning.

held Thursday, December 17, at the Shrine mosque. Remember that date for a great good time.

And remember, too, the success of the entire Big Brothers undertaking of happiness at Christmas time depends on your help.

JAYCEES IN FLORIDA SEEK CATTLE LAW

SARASOTA, Fla., Dec. 5.—(UP)—The midwinter convention of the Junior Chambers of Commerce of Florida today opened an organized drive for legislation designed to remove cattle from the state's highways.

The fight for new restriction of cattle headlined work of the convention which opened its formal session today.

A committee of nine attorneys was named to draw up legislation to present to the next legislature next spring to place civil and criminal responsibility for accidents caused by cattle on highways, squarely upon shoulders of cattle owners.

The convention instructed the committee to recommend that if a highway fencing measure is enacted, that

MERGER IS SEEN FOR METHODISTS

Complete Vote on Consolidation Expected by June, 1937.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 5.—(AP)—A program of merging three great Methodist churches into one of the world's largest—if not the largest—Protestant bodies moved steadily today toward consummation, with annual and lay conferences of the Methodist Episcopal church voting overwhelmingly for the plan.

Launched at a quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal

Big Brother Coupon

Big Brother Editor,
The Atlanta Constitution,
Atlanta, Ga.

I wish to be a Big Brother this year. I will gladly give two hours of my time December 20 to sell the Big Brother Edition of The Constitution for this excellent Christmas purpose. Please have my ward captain communicate with me.

NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

WARD NO. _____

PHONE _____

Church, the Methodist Episcopal with a total membership of 7,213,000. Church, South, and the Methodist Dr. John M. Arters, of Bangor, Protestant Church, the plan would merge the three churches into one, conference, said 85 conferences of the Methodist Episcopal church had baled out on the plan—and only two rejected it. Two-thirds of the church's units must ratify the program.

Only the conferences of Texas and West Texas have voted against the merger, he said, the total vote for the 55 annual conferences being 6,386 to 321 for the plan.

"The remaining conferences of our church will vote between now and June 1, 1937, and indications are that the plan will be favored by far more than the necessary majority," said Dr. Arters.

FIRST LADY TO ATTEND PRESS CLUB DINNERS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is going to brave the satire of the newspaper women again.

For the fifth time in the last four years, she will be honor guest of the Women's National Press Club at its annual dinner satirizing Washington politics and society, Mary Hornaday, president of the club, announced tonight.

No other first lady accepted the annual invitations to attend the "stunt party," until Mrs. Roosevelt began accepting in 1933. She has continued to attend every year, ending the program with an "off the record" speech. The 1937 dinner will be held March 1.

Newspaper women will also gather the night of December 21, when with women officials and wives of members and guests of the Gridiron Club, they are guests of Mrs. Roosevelt at the White House on the occasion when the President is the honor guest of the Gridiron Club, news men's club which puts on a satirical show twice a year.

Outstanding

Every Day From Now to Christmas Is "Ladies' Day" At Parks-Chambers

The Gift in the Box, and Parks-Chambers' name on the Box, will make this a perfect Christmas for him! Buy his gifts where he buys his things when he selects them himself—in a man's store where you're sure of style-smartness, guaranteed quality and moderate prices!

Valgora, "the coat with nine lives," $37.50.

Kuppenheimer Quality Clothes, $40 to $60. Varsity-town from $35.

Arrow Mitoga, Aloset Collar Shirts, $2 and $2.50 and $3.50.

Luxurious Silk Robes, $12.95 to $25. All-wool flannel Robes, solid colors and combinations, $6.50. Cocktail Jackets, $8.50 to $15.

Leather Golf Bags, from $9.75 to $40. Canvas, $3.50 to $18. Clubs, from $2.95 to $13.50.

U. S. Royal Golf Balls in Bostonian Humidor, $5.50. Other Golf Balls, $5c, 50c.

Broadcloth Shorts and Knitted Shirts... a welcome gift! 50c to $1.

Tennis Rackets, from $2.50.

Schick Electric Razor, $15.

Suspenders, $1. Evening Suspenders from $1.50.

Authentic correct cravats... long-wearing, easy-to-knot silks... by Cheney, $1. Other Ties to $3.50.

Swank Tuxedo and Full Dress Sets (studs and links) from $2.50.

Hickok Belt Sets in novelty boxes that he'll keep and use (a 2-in-1 gift!) from $2.

Steamers Rugs, $10 and $12.

Gay, colorful Pajamas, in smart coat and middie styles. Broadcloth, silk or madras. $2 to $8.50.

A Leather Jacket will be most acceptable to the golfer or outdoor man, $8.75 to $18.

Give him a Sweater for a practical holiday gift! We have all weights and all styles, $3.95 to $12.

Official All-America Sweaters from $4.95. Twin Sweater Sets, $4.95 to $7.95.

Pure Silk Socks, with hand-worked clocks, $1. Other Socks (clocks and fancies) from 50c.

Wool Socks from 50c.

PARKS - CHAMBERS, Inc.

37 - 39 PEACHTREE STREET

Gifts by HOLZMAN'S

Platinum Solitaire 17 Diamonds $200

Platinum Solitaire 27 Diamonds $350

Dainty Solitaire 17 Diamonds $37.50

Diamond Solitaire Natural Gold $29.50

Santa is no Mind Reader

... so make this advertisement your Christmas "Hint"

One must have the same confidence in their jeweler they have in their doctor. Because you don't know what's underneath the surface.

In other words, jewelry is purchased on faith. Everybody does.

Dependability is the keystone of Holzman's business structure. Here, we know things for what they are, and call them by their right name. No one takes chances when dealing at Holzman's.

Nor will you find a more attractive selection of Rings, Watches, Silverware and Novelties anywhere. And people who shop the town say our prices are substantially lower on many, many things.

Convenient Weekly or Monthly Terms

Matched Bridal Set Wht. or Nat. Gold $65.00

Matched Bridal Set Natural Gold $125

Holzman's have the most complete selection of Hamilton, Elgin, Gruen, Bulova and imported Swiss watches of any Atlanta store. Platinum, white and natural gold—plain and diamond studded $9.95 to $500

We specialize in diamond ring mountings, also make special designs to order.

HOLZMAN'S Jewelers
32 Broad St., S.W. ★ 2 Doors from Alabama St.
Established 1897

Text of Address of Secretary Hull

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The text of Secretary Hull's address here today at the Inter-American Peace Conference:

The primary purpose of this conference is to banish war from the western hemisphere.

In its earnest pursuit of this great undertaking, it is necessary at the outset to visualize numerous dangerous conditions and practices in general international affairs to the extent that they bear upon and affect the work of this conference.

It is manifest that every country today is faced with a supreme alternative. Each must play its part in determining whether the world will slip backward toward war and savagery; or whether it can maintain and will advance the level of civilization and peace. None can escape its responsibility.

FORCES OF MILITARISM NOW IN ASCENDENCY

The repercussions of wars and preparations for wars have been so universally disastrous that it is now as plain as mathematical truth that each nation in any part of the world is concerned in peace in every part of the world.

The nations of all the Americas, through their chosen delegates, have assembled to make careful survey and analysis of all aspects of their responsibilities; to take account of their common duties, and to plan accordingly for the safety and welfare of their peoples.

The western hemisphere must now face squarely certain hard realities. For the purpose of our undertaking, we must frankly recognize that for some time the forces of militarism have been in the ascendancy in a large part of the world; that peace have been correspondingly on the decline.

We should be lacking in common sense if we ignored the plain fact that the effects of these forces will unavoidably have direct impact upon all of us. We should be lacking in ordinary caution if we fail to counsel together for our common safety and welfare.

It is had enough when many statesmen and people close their minds and memories to the awful lessons taught by the millions of soldiers sacrificed in the World War; the shattered cities, the desolated fields and all the other material, moral and spiritual ravages of that conflict. Still worse, that war has brought in its train wounds to man's heart and spirit, national hatreds and fears, the dislocation or destruction of indispensable political and governmental structures, and the collapse or abandonment of former high standards of national conduct.

MUST FIND PROGRAM CONCRETE, EFFECTIVE

The supreme tragedy is completed by the breakdown of the commerce of mind and culture, the attempt to isolate the nations of the earth into sealed compartments, all of which have made war a burden not to be endured by mankind.

The delegates of the American nations, meeting here in the face of these grave and threatening world conditions, must realize that here words will not suffice. From every wise and practical viewpoint, concrete peace planning, peace views and peace objectives are imperative.

We must quicken our work and our hopes into a specific, embracing program to maintain peace. Such a program, adequately implemented, should constitute an armory of peace. It should comprise a structure affording all practical means for safeguarding peace.

At a time when many other governments or peoples fail or fear to proceed and embrace a broad or definite peace plan or movement; while their statesmen are shouting threats of war, it is all the more necessary that we of the Americas must cry out for peace; keep alive the spirit of peace, live by the rules of peace; and forthwith perfect the machinery for its maintenance.

Should we fail to make this outstanding contribution, it would be a practical desertion of the cause of peace, and a tragic blow to the hopes of humanity.

In meeting this problem, the American republics are in a peculiarly advantageous situation. There are among us no radical differences, no profound mistrusts or deep hatreds.

On the contrary, we are inspired by the impulse to be constant friends and the determination to be peaceful neighbors.

We recognize the right of all nations to handle their affairs in any way they choose, and this quite irrespective of the fact that their way may be different from our way, or even repugnant to our ideas. But we cannot fail to take cognizance of the international aspect of their policies when and to the extent that they may react upon us.

THERE IS NO NEED FOR WAR ANYWHERE

I, myself, am unalterably of the view that a policy leading to war may react upon us. In the face of any situation directly leading to war, can we therefore be other than apprehensive?

In sustaining the firm determination that peace must be maintained, and that any country whose policies make war likely is threatening injury to all, I believe that the nations of this hemisphere would find themselves in accord with governments elsewhere.

I strongly entertain the hope that a united group of American nations may take common action at this conference further to assure peace among themselves and define their attitude toward war; and that this action may not only demonstrate the happy position of the New World, but, though desired primarily for our own benefit, embody policies of world application, and correspond to the views and interests of nations outside this hemisphere.

There is no need for war. There is a practical alternative policy at hand, complete and adequate. It is no exclusive policy aimed at the safety or supremacy of a few, leaving others to struggle with distressful situations. It demands no sacrifices comparable to the advantages which will result to each nation and to each individual.

In these circumstances the representatives of the 21 American republics should frankly call the attention of the people of this hemisphere to the possibilities of danger to their future peace and progress, and at the same time set forth the numerous steps that can well be undertaken as the most effective means of improving and safeguarding the conditions of permanent peace.

While carefully avoiding any political entanglements, my government strives at all times to cooperate with other nations in every practical extent in support of peace objectives, including reduction or limitation of armaments, the control of traffic in arms, taking the profits out of war, and the restoration of fair and friendly economic relationships.

FACTS ARE NO GOOD IF GOOD-WILL DIES

We reject war as a method of settling international disputes, and favor such methods as conference, conciliation and arbitration.

Peace can be realistically safeguarded through international agreements. Such agreements, however, must reflect the utmost good faith; this alone can be the basis of their significance and usefulness.

Contemporary events clearly show that, where mutual trust, good-will and sincerity of purpose are lacking, peace or agreements fail; and the world is seized by fear and left to the mercy of the wreckers.

The conference has the duty of considering all peace proposals of merit. Let me enumerate and briefly discuss eight separate and vital principles and proposals for a comprehensive peace and peace structure. They are not designed to be all-inclusive.

In considering them, we should be guided by the knowledge that other forces and agencies of peace exist besides those made and to be made on our continents; what we do consider must be made and to be made on our continents; what we do consider must be made and to be made on our continents.

First: I would emphasize the local and unilateral responsibility of each nation carefully to educate and organize its people in opposition to war and its underlying causes. Support must be given to peace; to the suitable and desirable policies of prevention, and, finally, each nation must maintain conditions within its own borders which will permit it to adopt national policies that can be peacefully pursued.

More than any other factor, a thoroughly informed and alert public opinion in each country as to the suitable and desirable relationships with other nations and the principles underlying them, enables a government in time of crisis to act promptly and effectively for peace.

PUBLIC OPINION CONTR'LS ALL FOREIGN POLICY

The forces of peace everywhere are entitled to function both through governments and through public opinion. The peoples of the world would be far wiser if they expended more of their hard-earned money in organizing the forces of peace and fewer of the present five billion dollars in educating and training their military forces.

Since the time when Thomas Jefferson insisted upon "direct respect to the opinions of mankind," public opinion has controlled foreign policy in all democracies. It is, therefore, all important that every nation, every pulp and every forum should become constant and active agencies in the great work of education and organization.

The limited extent of such highly organized and intelligent public opinion in support of peace is by far the largest drawback to any plan

Atlantans To View $435,000 Doll House Masterpiece

Colleen Moore's $435,000 doll house, acclaimed the most marvelous work of its kind in the world, will be shown in Atlanta February 25 through March 4. A portion of the great hall museum is shown above. The Young Matrons' Circle for Tallulah Falls school will sponsor the exhibition, proceeds from which will be applied to the school fund. The great hall museum of the doll house contains invaluable art treasures and paintings in miniature by the world's most famous artists.

to prevent war. Truly the first step is that each nation must make itself safe for peace. This, too, develops a common will for freedom and the soil from which peace springs.

People everywhere should be made to know of the peace mechanisms. Even more, there should be brought home to them the knowledge that trade, commerce, finance, debts, communications have a bearing on peace.

The workman at his bench, the farmer on his land, the shopkeeper by his shelves, the clerk at his books, the laborer in factory, plantation, mine or construction camp must realize that his work is the work of peace; that to interrupt it for ends of national or personal rapacity is to drive him toward quick death by bayonets, or to slower, but not less grievous suffering through economic distress.

In all our countries we have scholars who can demonstrate these facts; let them not be silent.

Our churches have direct contact with all groups; may they remember that the peacemakers are the children of God. We have artists and poets who can distill their needed knowledge into trenchant phrase and line; they have work to do. Our great journals on both continents cover the world. Our women are awake; our youth sentiment; our clubs and organizations make opinion everywhere.

FREQUENT CONFERENCES INDISPENSABLE TO PEACE

There is a strength here available greater than that of armies. We have but to ask its aid; it will be swift to answer, not only here, but in continents beyond the seas.

Second, indispensable in their influence for peace and well-being are frequent conferences between representatives of the nations and inter-conference between their peoples. Collaboration and the exchange of views, ideas and information are the most effective means of establishing understanding, friendship and trust.

Third, indispensable in their written pacts or agreements not based upon such relationships as these too often exist on paper only. Development of the atmosphere of understanding and good-will during our sessions here will alone constitute a vast accomplishment.

Third, indispensable in their written pacts or agreements not based upon such relationships as these too often exist on paper only. Development of the atmosphere of understanding and good-will during our sessions here will alone constitute a vast accomplishment.

well-known peace agreements, produced in chief part by previous conferences, as well as through the draft convention of these five existing treaties between the American states and extending them in certain respects," which the delegation of the United States is presenting for the consideration of this conference.

In these, virtually all of the essentials of a comprehensive peace are present. If their operation is somewhat limited by provisions in the draft proposal I have just mentioned, they need by the normal processes of trade, they will continue to resort to the use of force.

We behold others, in their attempted isolation, becoming more indifferent and less considerate toward the rights, privileges and honest opinions of others.

National character and conduct are threatened with utter demoralization. At no distant time we shall see a state of moral and spiritual isolation, bringing with it the condemnation of the world, covering great parts of the earth, unless peoples halt and turn toward a sane course.

URGES RE-ESTABLISHMENT OF INTERNATIONAL LAW

Seventh, international law has been in large measure flouted. It opens up to each country, to the extent mutually profitable and desirable, the resources and the organized productive power of other countries; by its benefits small nations with limited territories and resources can have a varied, secure and prosperous life; it can bring improvement to those who feel their toil and their reward too meager.

Employed, comfortable people not warlike. Prosperity and peace are not separate entities. To promote one is to promote the other. The economic well-being of peoples is the greatest single protection against civil strife, large armaments, war. Economic isolation and military force go hand in hand; when nations cannot get what they need by the normal processes of trade, they will continue to resort to the use of force.

One feature of the resolutions adopted at Montevideo was the support for the principle of equality of treatment as the basis of acceptable commercial policy. This rule has been followed in a number of commercial agreements that have already been concluded between American nations. Their benefits are already becoming manifest and will continue to grow.

We cannot blind ourselves to the fact, however, that at the same time there has taken place even among the American nations a growth in the restrictions upon trade and an extension of discriminatory practices; these have tended to counteract the advantages resulting from the liberalizing terms embodied in other agreements.

I would urge again the wisdom of avoiding discrimination in our commercial policy.

The practice of discrimination prevents trade from following the line which would produce the greatest economic benefits; it inevitably in the long run must provoke retaliation from those who suffer from discrimination; makes it more difficult for countries eager to pursue a liberal trade policy to secure the fair gains from this policy and thereby checks the lowering of restrictions.

It will not serve our broad and deep aims; on the contrary, it steadily extended will lead us into new controversies and difficulties.

The Montevideo program offers the only alternative to the present short-sighted, war-breeding bilateral bargaining method of trade, to the exclusion of triangular and multilateral trade, which is being employed in many parts of the world with sterile results.

The ends we seek can best be achieved by the concurrent or concerted action of many countries. Each can exert itself steadfastly amidst the particular circumstances of its economic situation to make its contribution toward the rebuilding of trade. Each can grant new opportunities to others as it receives new opportunities for itself.

INTERNATIONAL ORDER IS SEVERELY DISLOCATED

All are called upon to share in the concurrent or concerted action which is required.

Any country which seeks the benefits of the program while avoiding its responsibilities, will in time shut itself off from the benefits. Any country which is tempted or forced by some special action to depart from these lines of action and which conceals and seeks special advantage jeopardizes the progress and perhaps the very existence of the program.

Faithful dealing, without favor, between equal partners will be required to readjust trade along the lines of growth, which is our goal.

Sixth, the conference must recognize the all-important principle of practical international co-operation to restore many indispensable relationships between nations, for international relationships, in many vital aspects, are at a low ebb. The entire international order is severely dislocated. Chaotic conditions in the relations between nations have appeared. Human progress already has slowed down.

NATIONS HAVE SOUGHT TO ISOLATE THEMSELVES

Nations in recent years have sought to live in hermit existence, isolating themselves from each other in suspicion and fear. The inevitable results are not unlike that experienced by a community where individuals undertake to live a hermit existence, with the resultant decline and decay of the spiritual, the moral, the educational and the material benefits and blessings which spring from community organization and effort.

The difference, when nations live apart, is that the entire human race in countless instances suffers irreparable injury—political, moral, material, spiritual and social.

Today, for illustration, through lack of comprehension, understanding and confidence, we see many nations exhausting their material substance and the vitality of their people by piling up huge armaments.

We behold others, in their attempted isolation, becoming more indifferent and less considerate toward the rights, privileges and honest opinions of others.

National character and conduct are threatened with utter demoralization. At no distant time we shall see a state of moral and spiritual isolation, bringing with it the condemnation of the world, covering great parts of the earth, unless peoples halt and turn toward a sane course.

URGES RE-ESTABLISHMENT OF INTERNATIONAL LAW

Seventh, international law has been in large measure flouted. It should be re-established, revitalized and strengthened by general demand. International law protects the peace and security of nations, and so safeguards them against maintaining great armaments and wasting their substance in continual readiness for another, as the nations and humanity, the great principles of international law are the source and fountain of the equality, the security and the very existence of nations. Armies and navies are no permanent substitute.

Abandonment of the rule of law would not only leave small or armed states at the mercy of the reckless and powerful, but would hopelessly undermine all international order. It is inconceivable that the civilized nations would long delay a supreme effort to re-establish that rule of law.

Eighth, observance of understanding, agreements and treaties between nations constitutes the foundation of international order.

May I say here that this is not a time for crimination or recrimination, nor is such in my mind during this discussion. There must be the fullest patience and forbearance, one country with another, as the nations endeavor to climb back to that high ground of wholesome and elevating relationship of loyalty to the given word and faithful fulfillment.

INTERNATIONAL FACTS HAVE LOST THEIR FORCE

International agreements have lost their force and reliability as a basis of relations between nations. This extremely inauspicious and fateful development constitutes the most dangerous single phenomenon in the world of today; not international law, but the loss of its higher moral law—and the whole integrity and honor of governments are in danger of being ruthlessly trampled upon.

There has been a failure of the spirit. There is no task more urgent than that of rekindling the basis of trusted agreement between nations. They must ardently seek the terms of new agreements, and stand behind them with unflinching will. The vitality of international agreements must be restored.

If the solemn rights and obligations between nations are to be treated lightly or brushed aside, the nations of the world will head straight toward international anarchy and chaos. And soon, too, the citizen begins to lower his individual standards of personal, moral and business conduct to those of his government.

Trust in each nation's honor and faith in its given word must be restored by the concerted resolve of all governments.

It is to the interest of everyone that there be an end of treaties broken by arbitrary unilateral action. Peaceful procedure, agreements between the signatories, and mutual understanding must be restored as the means of modifying or ending international agreements.

In the accomplishment of the high aim and purpose of this eight-fold program, the people of every nation have an equal interest. We of this hemisphere have reason to hope that these great objectives may receive the support of all peoples.

If peace and progress are to be either maintained or advanced, the time is overdue for renewed effort on each nation's part. There can be no delay.

OMIT NO WORD OR ACT IN THEIR FIGHT FOR PEACE

Through past centuries, the human race fought its way up from the low level of barbarism and war to that of civilization and peace. This accomplishment has only been partial, and it may well be but temporary. It would be a frightful commentary on the human race if, with the awful lesson of its disastrous experience, responsible and civilized governments should now fail.

The nations of this continent should omit no word or act in their attempt to meet the dangerous conditions which endanger peace. Let our actions here at Buenos Aires constitute the most potent possible appeal to peacemakers and warmakers throughout the world.

So only does civilization become real. So only can we rightly ask that universal support which entitles governments to speak for their people to the world not with the voice of propaganda but with that of truth. Having affirmed our faith, we should renew if we were to leave anything undone which will tend to assure our peace here, and make us powerful for peace elsewhere. In a very real sense, let this continent set the high example of championing the forces of peace, democracy and civilization.

ANNOUNCING

Private Studio

ALANO DASS

Noted Psycho-Mentalist who mystified thousands at the Rialto Theater.

For Private Readings

Telephone CH. 3687

the cheeriest "note" of Christmas 1937

RADIOBAR

Equipped with Philco!

Easy Terms ★ Liberal Trade-In ★

RADIOBAR MODEL 507-620

It's easy to have smart Christmas parties with the Radiobar—because it not only takes all the drudgery out of mixing and serving, but also furnishes incomparable music with the Philco Model 620 All-Wave Radio. Comes complete installed with a Philco high-efficiency aerial for only—

$215

OTHER RADIOBARS $119.50-$335

See Philco Radios—$20 to $600

RAIME'S INC.

107 PEACHTREE

Opposite Piedmont Hotel

GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules

Fine for Weak Acid Kidneys and Bladder Irritation

STOP GETTING UP NIGHTS

One 35-cent box of these famous capsules will put healthy activity into your kidneys and bladder—flush out harmful waste poisons and acid and prove to you that at last you have a grand discovery and attention that will swiftly cause these troubles to cease.

But be sure and get GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules—safe and harmless—the original and genuine—Haarlem in Holland. Millions have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it—some symptoms besides visits to bathroom at night are backache, moist palms, puffiness and weary passage that oftentimes aches and burns.—(adv.)

Trunk Lockers—Suit Cases

79 Alabama St. DUCKETT'S ARMYSTORE

LANE USES ONLY FRESH, PURE DRUGS — ALWAYS!

From Acetamidid to Zinc Valeriate —LANE has them all!

In LANE prescription departments you have ready access to whatever your doctor may need for your speedy recovery. Due to thousands of doctors whose needs we know and supply—we can also fill your requirements. Our shelves contain fresh stocks of standard drugs, as well as the newer and unusual combinations that are used in combating disease and preventing illness. LANE stocks are always FRESH—and COMPLETE!

"Filling Prescriptions is the most important part of our business!"

DRUG STORES

INSURGENT BOMB HITS NEAR U. S. LEGATION

Continued From First Page.

zalo, Donoso Cortes, and Guamanil. The government, concerned with interior as well as exterior defense of Madrid, announced that 345 men and 185 women, all Spanish refugees, were arrested in a raid on a Fernando El-santo street house over which flew the Finnish flag.

Many Seized
Among those held were Cecilio Rodriguez, Eduardo Ordonez, well-known football player; Marquesa de Montegudo, and other well-known aristocrats.

In a previous raid on another house under the Finnish flag the day before, 800 persons, among them many prominent Rightists, were seized. The defense junta, while shot and shell whined over Madrid, asserted their own planes had successfully bombed enemy concentrations and air-dropped, and that their infantry forces repelled repeated Fascist assaults at the city's gates.

It was officially proclaimed that Socialist warplanes bombed Villareal, in Alava province, and enemy fortifications in Grado, Escampero in the Asturias.

An insurgent ship apparently unloading war materials in Pasajes was also the target for aerial bombs, the government announced.

U. S. SAILOR CONFESSES GINGER ROGERS THREAT

Continued From First Page.

said, "That made it rather frightening, to be phoned by G-men. The letters were hand-written, so I was told. I didn't see them. I am not going to do anything now about the case. It's in their hands. I just happened to be the addressee on the envelopes."

Mrs. Rogers disclosed receipt of threatening notes Thursday night, but declared at the time she and her daughter were unconcerned over them. "Notes of this type come through and the players never see them," she said at the time. "The studio fan-mail departments get them first and the first thing anybody knows there is a body guard assigned to you. That's what happened to us."

Miss Rogers declared her studio was "much more frightened" than she was, and described herself as "just an innocent bystander in this case, hoping not to get shot in the leg."

The actress' mother said the threat in the letters was "to shoot us full of holes until we looked like slaves."

Miss Rogers is rated among the 10 leading players in box-office popularity along with the comedian-dancer, Fred Astaire, with whom she has appeared in the hit films, "The Gay Divorcee," "Top Hat," "Follow the Fleet" and "Swing Time." Her salary is reputed to be $2,500 a week.

Educational Leaders Honor Phi Beta Kappa

Constitution Staff Photo—Hera.

Among the notables who yesterday paid tribute to Phi Beta Kappa at the celebration of the 160th anniversary of the honorary society's founding were: Dr. Alfred B. Butts, chancellor of the University of Mississippi and professor of law, speaking on "Government and Progress in the South." That night Dr. George B. Program, noted physicist of Columbia University, will speak on "The Defenses Inside the Atom."

Princeton Dean Hurls Challenge On Educator's Duty to Humanity

Christian Gauss Is Featured Speaker on Emory University's Centennial Program; Phi Beta Kappa Honors Him at Dinner on Campus.

American universities last night were challenged to meet problems of today, to point the way to stability and to fulfill the mission expected of them, in an address by Dean Christian Gauss, of Princeton University.

Dean Gauss spoke on "The Human Tradition" as a feature of the Emory University centennial program, and charged educated classes with the "duty of defending our democratic institutions." The address was at Glenn Memorial auditorium.

Predicting his address on the premise that the ordinance of 1787 proclaimed "that schools, and that means education, shall forever be encouraged," Dean Gauss contended that the founders of the United States democracy established and charged the highly educated with the responsibility of maintaining and perpetuating the present system of government.

Dean Gauss has been associated with the Princeton faculty 31 years. He is one of the best known university executives of the country, and is widely known for his writings about college life. He is general supervisor of Princeton athletics, and is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa, Kappa, international scholastic society.

He was introduced by Robert H. Jones Jr., Atlanta attorney, and Dr. Comer M. Woodward, professor of sociology and president of Emory chapter Phi Beta Kappa, president of the Atlanta chapter of the organization attending the 160th anniversary of the founding of Phi Beta Kappa. Twelve new members were inducted.

On the contention that education is the safeguard of democracy, Dr. Gauss asserted "we cannot expect that the underprivileged members of any society are going to be at pains to look out for the larger interests of that society as a whole."

The chief duty of the American University, he believed, is to raise the American standard of living by safeguarding, cherishing and strengthening the "age-old humane tradition, and putting something into the standard to render it worth living and dying for."

"Social Scientists,"
Referring to what he termed fanatical social scientists, he said the "thing that has intoxicated so many of them is the statistical method, the method of mathematics which can not err, which cannot tell a lie."

"Let us ask ourselves what our measuring sciences that deal and must deal with the actual and factual have done and are doing for the common man."

"I can here mention only one thing that we have given him, and I do not hesitate to say that . . . it has been a disaster rather than a benefit."

"What we have given him is an actual and factual measure of life which, hopelessly blind to all that it excludes, we confidently call the 'American standard of living.'"

About 200 members of Phi Beta Kappa in Atlanta attended the dinner, from which the public was excluded. The Gauss address at Glenn Memorial, however, was open.

Dr. Comer Woodward, professor of sociology at Emory and president of the Emory chapter Phi Beta Kappa, presided at the dinner. A short business session of the Atlanta chapter was held after the Gauss address and Dudley R. Coles, president, presided.

Alumni members initiated by the Emory chapter were:
Dr. Grady E. Clay, Atlanta eye specialist; Professor James G. Lester, associate professor of engineering and applied mathematics at Emory; Dr. Richard B. Wilson, Atlanta, neurologist and psychiatrist; Dr. John Q. Schuler, of Nashville, Tenn., secretary of the local church department of the general board of Christian education of the Southern Methodist church; Dr. Albert E. Barnett, of Nashville, Tenn., professor of New Testament at Scarritt College; George R. Gibbons, of Pittsburgh, Pa., senior vice president of the Aluminum Company of America; Walter P. Jones, of Macon, superintendent of schools for Bibb county; Dr. John H. McFadden, of Pittsburgh, Pa., assistant professor of psychology at the University of Pittsburgh; George S. Roach, of Oxford, Ga., head of the junior college at Oxford; Walter W. Stancil, of Fitzgerald, Ga., superintendent of Fitzgerald schools; Herbert S. Phillips, of Tampa, United States attorney for the southern district of Florida, and Dr. Marion Lofton Smith, of Birmingham, head of the department of religious education at Birmingham-Southern College.

Dr. Quillian To Speak.
Dr. William F. Quillian, general secretary of the general board of Christian education, will speak on "The Mind of Christ" at 11 o'clock this morning at the third day of the centennial celebration at Emory given under way.

odist church, will be among those paying tribute to Bishop Candler.

Emphasis will be placed on various activities for which Emory students are trained in a series of addresses slated for tomorrow and Tuesday.

Higher education will be stressed tomorrow, with a morning talk at 11 o'clock by Dr. James R. McCall, president of the Association of American Colleges and head of Agnes Scott College, speaking on "Recent Progress in Higher Education."

Tomorrow night Dr. Isaiah Bowman, president of Johns Hopkins University, will speak on "The Decisive Hour."

Tuesday will be devoted to medicine, with addresses by Dr. James S. McEster, past president of the American Medical Association, in the morning and Dr. Walter B. Cannon, of the Harvard University School of Medicine, in the evening.

Law will be the subject for Wednesday, with an evening address by Silas H. Strawn, noted Chicago attorney, former president of the American Bar Association, Marion Smith, former president of the Georgia Bar Association, will speak that morning.

Government and science will be stressed on Thursday. Dr. Alfred B. Butts, chancellor of the University of Mississippi and professor of law, speaking on "Government and Progress in the South." That night Dr. George B. Program, noted physicist of Columbia University, will speak on "The Defenses Inside the Atom."

Friday will be devoted to Journalism and business. Mark Ehrlich, general manager of the Louisville Courier-Journal, will address members of the Georgia Press Association on "Adjusting the Newspaper to Changing Conditions." The Georgia Press Association is sponsoring the meeting jointly with Emory. Editors from all parts of the state will attend.

T. Guy Woolford, chairman of the board of the Retail Credit Company, will speak that afternoon at 4 o'clock. Virgil D. Jordan, president of the National Industrial Conference board, will speak Friday night.

Climax of the Emory celebration will come next Saturday morning with the academic convocation, to which delegates from colleges and universities of all parts of the country will come.

Significant in the Emory anniversary celebration will be a bell ringing ceremony on Thursday, when the historic bell which hangs atop Seney Hall at Oxford, Ga., on the old campus of Emory College, will be rung 100 times. Signal for the bell to start pealing will be given from the front campus of the university in Atlanta. The Emory Glee Club will participate in the ceremony.

CONDITION OF PONTIFF SAID 'NOT ALARMING'

Continued From First Page.

prelate quoted the Pope.

Whereupon, he summoned his assistants and took up "with complete good cheer" the work of the day, deciding to carry on the affairs of his church.

Paralysis Spread.
His valet, Malvestini, was the first to discover the pontiff's affliction when he went to assist him with his vestments in the early morning.

The holy father was unable to rise from bed.

Vatican physicians were summoned and found the pontiff barely able to stir the left leg. Later, they noticed heaviness of the limbs had spread to the right leg.

In a preliminary diagnosis, they said his condition was aggravated also by a combination of arterio sclerosis and high blood pressure. Official notice called his illness "a slight disturbance."

The sovereign of 300,000,000 Catholics declined a blood letting operation to relieve the blood pressure.

The pontiff had a message prepared to cardinals, archbishops and other church prelates awaiting him for today's final ceremonial after a week of spiritual exercises.

He excused his absence because of his illness and charged Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, papal secretary of state to congratulate the prelates for having observed the important religious exercises.

The churchmen replied with expressions of fervent hope that their sovereign shortly could resume his activities with "unchanged energy."

When the message was read, those present recalled that the Pope had given extraordinary emphasis to the exercises when they began a week ago, refusing all audiences and remarking to a high Vatican official:

"Owing to our great age, we must always be ready and prepared for the final call"—presumably referring to realization of his own years and declining health.

Official Vatican circles held optimistic hopes for his complete recovery, but it was recalled that the limit trouble today had been foreshadowed by his general physical condition the past three years.

An unrelenting worker, he ate regularly but lightly during this time and was visited only rarely by his doctors.

Audiences Postponed.
"Words" of recent weeks, over threats of widespread strife in Europe, were responsible for the pontiff's condition, the Vatican newspaper, Osservatore Romano, reported.

"The Pope remains in his private apartment by council of his doctors and because his age, fatigue and preoccupation of the past few weeks have weakened his physical resistance," the newspaper said.

tion," has been a sufferer for some time from inflammation of the heart.

His infirmities, coupled with Rome's humid heat, drove him to his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo last June 30, several weeks earlier than usual.

Shortly before leaving the Vatican he submitted to a thorough medical examination which led to rumors the 70-year-old pontiff was in critical health.

Earlier in the year he had cancelled several public audiences and had foregone his usual celebration of the Easter mass at St. Peter's.

In February, when the Pope celebrated the 14th anniversary of his coronation, it was evident every effort was being made to conserve his strength.

A high prelate said then the Pope's only ailment was endocarditis and that he did not want to be bothered with physicians.

Endocarditis is an inflammation of the endocardium, which is the endothelial lining membrane of the heart. Should he be made medical director of the pontiff suffers arterio sclerosis (hardening of the arteries). One doctor said the Pope had a form of arterio sclerosis and had received injections for it.

have the right to work on the white side as well as the colored, and insist on the newspaper to change its policy on the white side, would be used on the colored side also.

Dr. Hines was praised by several board members for his excellent work at the hospital, it being pointed out the system of handling expensive medicines, which he inaugurated, has resulted in considerable saving to the city.

However, a board member who asked that his name not be printed, said the clash of temperaments of Dr.

Hines and Superintendent Franklin was not to be desired.

At the last meeting of the board, Franklin and others were said to have discussed the "sensible" between the superintendent of the hospital and the medical director, but no action was taken at the time.

It is scheduled to be considered at a called session soon, as published in The Constitution yesterday morning.

S. C. Dobbs, chairman of the board, was quoted yesterday as saying "difficulties" sometimes arose in any institution housing hundreds of persons but we have ironed them out in the past and expect to do so in the future."

Efforts to "iron out the difficulties" between Franklin and Dr. Hines, which arose early this year over jurisdiction of the two over the staff of internes, were made in the spring with success.

Dean Oppenheimer is superintendent of Emory University hospital as well as dean of the medical school. Should he be made medical director of the hospital it would necessitate his resigning his superintendency at the university hospital, it was said.

Negro Thwarts Holdup,
Four Flee in Terror
Spencer Stewart, 22-year-old negro, of 250 Houston street, was displeased last night when four armed negro bandits entered the grocery store of his boss, H. C. Burger, at 249 Houston street, and commanded Burger to throw up his hands and "be quiet while we get your money."

Stewart, a man of action, went into the quartet with arms swinging. After the melee, three of the bandits fled and Stewart came out beating the fourth over the head with an old-fashioned frontier type pistol which he had taken from the bandit.

Spencer handed his prisoner over to a customer to mind while he telephoned the police. However, the customer wasn't as good a "minder" as Stewart, and the thug made his escape with a badly lacerated head. Spencer turned the gun over to police.

DR. R. C. OPPENHEIMER MAY GET GRADY POST

Continued From First Page.

Gift for a man who knows quality loves luxury and who probably never would "blow himself" to a Muse's jacquard robe!

Only 16 shopping days left!

$15 IN A MUSE BOX!

George Muse Clothing Co.

THE STYLE CENTER OF THE SOUTH.

Has been in ill health for many months.

Pope Pius, "Pope of the concilia-

Boot, Dress Sox—Gloves

79 Alabama St.

DUCKETT'S ARMY STORE

See Window for Other Specials Not Shown Here

Now for only ten cents you may own a gent's 7-jewel wrist watch. To be sold with any purchase of $37.50.

Beautifully fitted traveling case. Luxurious leather finish. $9.75 value for only 10c, with any purchase of $17.50.

This combination lighter case costs you only 10c with a $7.50 purchase. Value up to $5.00.

This perfect time-keeper is yours for only 10c with any $24.75 purchase. 7-jewels, $14.75 value.

Genuine leather combination billfold and key set. Worth $5.00; yours for only 10c with any $7.50 purchase.

Stunning 26-piece set of Rogers Silverware for only 10c. To be sold with any purchase of $49.75.

Costs you only 10c, this handsome men's ring has a value of $22.50. To be sold with a $7.50 purchase of $40.75.

One of the most beautiful time-pieces made. Yours for only 10c with any purchase of $12.50.

This gorgeous 3.5 diamond ring only 10c with any other purchase of $37.50.

Ladies' Genuine DIAMOND 10c

Men's Genuine DIAMOND 10c

Radio Clock 10c

Combination Cigarette Case and Lighter 10c

Fitted Traveling Case 10c

Man's 7-Jewel Wrist Watch 10c

Ladies' 7-Jewel Watch 10c

Billfold & Key Set 10c

See Window for Other Specials Not Shown Here

Now for only ten cents you may own a gent's 7-jewel wrist watch. To be sold with any purchase of $37.50.

Beautifully fitted traveling case. Luxurious leather finish. $9.75 value for only 10c, with any purchase of $17.50.

This combination lighter case costs you only 10c with a $7.50 purchase. Value up to $5.00.

This perfect time-keeper is yours for only 10c with any $24.75 purchase. 7-jewels, $14.75 value.

Genuine leather combination billfold and key set. Worth $5.00; yours for only 10c with any $7.50 purchase.

Stunning 26-piece set of Rogers Silverware for only 10c. To be sold with any purchase of $49.75.

Costs you only 10c, this handsome men's ring has a value of $22.50. To be sold with a $7.50 purchase of $40.75.

One of the most beautiful time-pieces made. Yours for only 10c with any purchase of $12.50.

This gorgeous 3.5 diamond ring only 10c with any other purchase of $37.50.

Ladies' Genuine DIAMOND 10c

Men's Genuine DIAMOND 10c

Radio Clock 10c

Combination Cigarette Case and Lighter 10c

Fitted Traveling Case 10c

Man's 7-Jewel Wrist Watch 10c

Ladies' 7-Jewel Watch 10c

Billfold & Key Set 10c

See Window for Other Specials Not Shown Here

LLOYD'S
Dating
10c
A Sale
JEWELRY RELEASE
No Other Store Can Equal!

Any Article
in this advertisement costs you only 10c, with another purchase. Buy now for Christmas; make your own terms. No interest or carrying charges.

Ladies' Genuine DIAMOND 10c

Men's Genuine DIAMOND 10c

Radio Clock 10c

Combination Cigarette Case and Lighter 10c

Fitted Traveling Case 10c

Man's 7-Jewel Wrist Watch 10c

Ladies' 7-Jewel Watch 10c

Billfold & Key Set 10c

Silverware Set 26 Pieces 10c

PAY NEXT YEAR

Stunning 26-piece set of Rogers Silverware for only 10c. To be sold with any purchase of $49.75.

Man's 7-Jewel Wrist Watch 10c

Ladies' 7-Jewel Watch 10c

Billfold & Key Set 10c

See Window for Other Specials Not Shown Here

LLOYD'S
Atlanta Owned, Atlanta Operated, Will Not Be Undersold
JEWELRY COMPANY
109 Peachtree Street
Across From Piedmont Hotel

AUTOMOBILE LOANS

FINANCE

YOUR NEW CAR

OR REFINANCE

YOUR PRESENT CAR

WITH BANK

INVESTIGATE OUR PLAN. COMPARE OUR RATES. YOU WILL FIND THEM SURPRISINGLY LOW.

MORRIS PLAN BANK

34 PEACHTREE STREET—AT FIVE POINTS

2 1/2% INTEREST ON SAVINGS

MEMBER OF FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORP.

$5,000 MAXIMUM INSURANCE FOR EACH DEPOSITOR

'J. R. M.' Tells Margaret Mitchell 'I Told You So', With Justification

Husband of Author Due Much Credit for Faith in Famous Book.

By LAMAR Q. BALL.
On the fly-leaf of "Gone With the Wind" is the simple dedication: To J. R. M.
It was put there for several reasons—
J. R. M. spent 10 years reading "Gone With the Wind."
J. R. M. was the first person to recognize that "Gone With the Wind" was a good book.
J. R. M. was the only person who thought "Gone With the Wind" was worth publishing.
J. R. M. is the person who was responsible for prodding Margaret Mitchell into continuing her labors on her manuscript instead of tossing it all into an indifferent ash can.
J. R. M. is one of the persons in the world, as proud of Margaret Mitchell as is her father and her brother.
J. R. M. is Margaret Mitchell's husband.

Not "Jack" Type.
No one has ever called John Marsh, Jack Marsh. John is a serious-minded young man of deliberate speech, who peers quietly at the world through spectacles and weighs each word thoroughly on a perfectly controlled tongue before he allows it to be accepted as representative of his thoughts. John is not the Jack type. He was born in Maysville, Kentucky, 41 years ago, the son of a newspaper editor. He was graduated from the University of Kentucky and then, with that thoroughness for which he has always been known, he turned right around and re-entered the University in quest of a master's degree in English. As this labor took up but a few hours of his day, he

Associated Press Photo.
JOHN R. MARSH.

Football, Boxing Gloves
79 Alabama St.
DUCKETT'S ARMY STORE

accepted a fellowship and taught freshman English. At night, he worked as proofreader in the composing room of The Lexington Herald, the morning paper of the Blue-grass.

John Marsh went into Dr. David Barrow's hospital unit, which was organized in Lexington shortly after the United States entered the war, and returned to Lexington as a reporter after the war.

Came Here in 1920.
In the early days of 1920, he came to Atlanta as a reporter on The Atlanta Georgian and then joined Legare Davis in publicity work in Atlanta. He worked then on the Atlanta Journal; went to Washington with the Associated Press and returned to Atlanta with the Georgia Power Company in 1924.

Margaret Mitchell had attracted attention as a feature writer on The Atlanta Journal and newspaper life threw them together. They were married in 1925. They have no children and live quietly today in the same apartment they have occupied for years, on Seventeenth street just around the corner from the mansion in which "Peggy" Mitchell's father lives on Peachtree street.

Had Rough Idea.
Although John Marsh had read various chapters of Peggy's book and, through conversation with her had a rough idea as to the entire plot, he did not read the completed novel until it had been accepted by her publishers and he was called on to help her check her proofs.

The helter-skelter way she worked on it prevented my ever being quite sure what it was all about," he said yesterday. "But, as I read a chapter here and a chapter there, at odd intervals when she had completed them and asked me my opinion, I knew it was better than the ordinary run novels. From the beginning, it was obvious she had done one of the most difficult things in fiction writing, in that she had created lifelike and real characters. I could see also there was great dramatic power in the story."

"I urged her to offer it to a publisher, but she could not be persuaded to do this until about a year ago. Of course, I never dreamed it would be a record-breaking success. Both of us would have been proud if a few thousand copies had been sold. That is the best a first novel can hope for. I am tremendously proud of her success, but I was surprised as she when the sales began to mount into the hundreds of thousands. Marsh has never written or attempted to write a book.

Lieutenant Commander

HARRY F. DOBBS.

DOBBS IS PROMOTED TO LIEUT. COMMANDER

Head of Local Naval Reserve Unit Is Moved to Higher Rank.

Harry F. Dobbs, prominent civic leader and commander of the Atlanta Naval Reserve Battalion, has been promoted from the grade of lieutenant to that of lieutenant commander in the fleet navy reserve, according to word received here Friday from the Navy Department in Washington. Announcement of Lieutenant Commander Dobbs' promotion was received following a conference in Washington of officers of the regular United States navy and naval reserve last week.

Under Lieutenant Commander Dobbs' leadership the Atlanta naval reserve unit has won more honors and commendations than any other reserve unit in the country. The standing of the local unit won personal commendation from President Roosevelt, the secretary of the navy and chief of naval operations, because of the fact that of 36 battalions and 149 divisions through the country, the Atlanta battalion was the only one not on navigable waters. The unit won first place for annual efficiency four consecutive years, held third place twice and now stands second in the nation.

Born and educated in Atlanta, Lieutenant Commander Dobbs enlisted in the United States navy at the outbreak of the World War and entered the reserve upon leaving the regular service. He was one of the organizers of the local naval reserve in 1921, which now consists of 200 officers and enlisted men. He was commissioned a senior lieutenant in November, 1925, and took command of the battalion in 1927, succeeding Lieutenant Commander Malcolm Forsyth, United States naval reserve. He received his lieutenant commander's commission Friday.

RESTAURANT RAID UNCOVERS LIQUOR
Herren Posts Bond After Officers Confiscate Stock of Whisky.

A raid by city detectives and Deputy Sheriff John Hopkins, of Fulton county, resulted yesterday morning in the arrest of C. D. Herren, manager of Herren's restaurant, 84 Luckie street, well-known Atlanta establishment, and confiscation of a quantity of assorted liquor.

Herren posted $300 bond on a charge of disorderly conduct, whisky. He will be arraigned in recorder's court December 16.

Lieutenant J. A. McKibben, Detectives J. B. King and John Crankshaw and Deputy Sheriff Hopkins reported they found five pints of whisky under a counter and 32 pints and 22 quarts of liquor secreted in a wall in the basement.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the residence with the Rev. C. R. Stauffer officiating.

Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery, with J. Austin Dillon in charge.

Woman in Australia Seeks Missing Father
From distant Australia yesterday came an appeal for aid in finding a missing father. A letter to Atlanta police revealed the colorful and adventurous background of the missing man.

The letter, revealed by Patrolman Joe Vining, in charge of the missing persons bureau, was from Miss Sylvia Beach, of Sandwich, New South Wales, Australia, seeking aid in her search for William John Beach.

According to the daughter's letter, Beach served during the World War as a member of the British Imperial Munitions Board, and many of his inventions were used by the British admiralty.

In 1925 Beach was a member of an expedition which sought buried treasure in the Cocos islands. Following that adventure, he went to Florida, where he operated boat, dance hall and restaurant concessions. Disastrous hurricanes wiped out these enterprises, and Beach was last heard from in 1933, when he was with a traveling theatrical troupe, known as the "Columbus Show."

The letter, which contained neither age nor description of the missing man, also stated Beach was a frequent contributor to magazines and was formerly chief engineer of the Canadian Radio Corporation.

FEDERAL WORKERS TO HEAR RAMSPECK

Congressman Will Discuss Civil Service at Banquet on Thursday.

Federal employees in Atlanta will hear a discussion of civil service matters by Congressman Robert Ramspeck, chairman of the committee on civil service of the national house of representatives, at a banquet Thursday night at the Henry Grady hotel.

Congressman Ramspeck's address will follow the dinner and employees who are unable to attend the dinner are asked to be present for the speaking. Congressman Ramspeck, it was said yesterday, has an important message for government workers.

The dinner is being given by Local No. 122 of the National Federation of Federal Employees. The invitation is not confined to members of the organization but is extended to all federal employees.

DEADLY HORSE MALADY CONFOUNDS EXPERTS

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 5.—(UP)—Baffling all efforts at control, encephalomyelitis, a deadly horse malady, killed approximately 100 horses in northern Utah in 1935, Dr. W. H. Hendricks, chief veterinarian of the state department of agriculture, said.

Although attempts of veterinarians to control the disease, commonly called brain fever, have failed, Dr. Hendricks said Utah horses may be developing immunity to the disease. Three years ago 4,000 horses died of the malady and 800 in 1934. There was no epidemic in 1935, he said.

Remember This!

Nationally Advertised WATCHES from KAY'S are the Perfect Gifts

And Your Dear Ones Will Always Remember Your Thoughtfulness

Remember This!

Nationally Advertised WATCHES from KAY'S are the Perfect Gifts

And Your Dear Ones Will Always Remember Your Thoughtfulness

CHOOSE FROM THE LARGEST SELECTION OF NATIONALLY ADVERTISED WATCHES IN THE CITY. ... NO INTEREST OR CARRYING CHARGES.

Choose finer watches at Kay's—a written guarantee accompanies every watch purchased here! No other gift will please your dear ones so much! Every one wants a watch for Christmas and we are meeting the demand with the largest stock of nationally advertised watches in our history.

COLLINS' THE NAUTICAL

MAN'S FAIRFAX WRIST WATCH

A splendid watch at genuine savings, presented as a feature Christmas gift value. Handsomely designed case—dependable movement.

$14.75

50c Down—50c a Week

MAN'S BULOVA "SENATOR"

Smart, dependable, 15-jewel Bulova for you who seek quality at a moderate cost.

$24.75

50c Down—50c a Week

MAN'S ELGIN CURVED WATCH

Elgin dependability and accuracy in a smart, new case—curved to fit the wrist. 17-jewel movement—natural gold color case—leather band.

$47.50

$1.00 Down—$1.00 a Week

MAN'S HAMILTON POCKET WATCH

The handsome "Howe" model in the color and beauty of natural gold. Finely engraved case—17 jewels—a truly fine watch for gift giving.

$42.50

$1.00 Down—$1.00 a Week

MAN'S CURVED WALTHAM

New curved Waltham wrist watch that will make an ideal gift this Christmas. Natural gold color case. Smart leather band.

$24.75

50c Down—50c a Week

LADIES' BULOVA "GODDESS OF TIME"

Ultra-new, ultra-smart Bulova for fashionable women. Tiny square style that "she" will adore! A value achievement!

$29.75

50c Down—50c a Week

MAN'S BULOVA "AMERICAN CLIPPER"

New streamlined design Bulova for men... the perfect gift... the perfect value! The gift for "Tim"!

$29.75

50c Down—50c a Week

LADIES' WALTHAM WRIST WATCH

Smartly fashioned square case in natural gold color. Dependable Waltham movement. A gift to thrill her.

$24.75

50c Down—50c a Week

LADIES' ELGIN WRIST WATCH

A lovely new Elgin for her! The traditional Christmas gift. Ultra-smart case—cord bracelet attached.

$27.50

50c Down—50c a Week

LADIES' 2-DIAMOND 17-JEWEL ROUND BULOVA "DOROTHY"

A lovely new Bulova wrist watch in the charm and color of natural gold. Beautifully designed case—link bracelet.

$49.50

$1.00 Down—$1.00 a Week

Tune In This Easy Way to Buy

NO INTEREST OR CARRYING CHARGES...

LADIES' RYTIME ROUND WATCH

Here is an inexpensive watch she is sure to appreciate. A very dependable timepiece—smartly designed case.

$12.75

50c Down—50c a Week

LADIES' ROUND 7-JEWEL BULOVA "MEDALLION"

It's exquisite in gleaming yellow gold color. Fashionable cord bracelet.

$24.75

50c Down—50c a Week

LADIES' WALTHAM WRIST WATCH

Smartly fashioned square case in natural gold color. Dependable Waltham movement. A gift to thrill her.

$24.75

50c Down—50c a Week

LADIES' ELGIN WRIST WATCH

A lovely new Elgin for her! The traditional Christmas gift. Ultra-smart case—cord bracelet attached.

$27.50

50c Down—50c a Week

LADIES' 2-DIAMOND 17-JEWEL ROUND BULOVA "DOROTHY"

A lovely new Bulova wrist watch in the charm and color of natural gold. Beautifully designed case—link bracelet.

$49.50

$1.00 Down—$1.00 a Week

Imagine!...
Sterchi's Price on This Big All-Wave 1937
11 TUBE GRUNOW

Only 69.95

Sterchi's
116 Whitehall St.

Right! An 11 for No More Than Most Sixes
Gets Europe! South America!... Police Calls, Amateurs, Aircraft, Ships at Sea! What a radio for only $69.95! Beautiful tone; clear, lifelike reception; beauty! When bought on Easy Terms, small carrying charge added.

A Small Payment Holds for Christmas Eve Delivery!

Here's plenty of light on the Gift problem!

I.E.S. Reflector Floor Lamps

complete with shade!

$9.90

Once a person uses a good reflector lamp, he's never satisfied with any other! It gives a beautiful, diffused light, that's so easy on the eyes! Reflector with 3-way switch light... separate switch to candle light! Bronze or antique base with pleated silk shade. Others, $5.98 to $7.95.

Maple Lamps

cheerful and inexpensive!

BOUDOIR LAMPS of honey-colored maple complete with parchment shade $1.29

BRIDGE LAMPS, attractively styled bases, special.... $1.49

PIN UP LAMPS, grand for that "extra" light, complete— $1.29 to $1.59

Imagine! Real Alabaster Lamps with shade for only $2.49

Lovely all-white alabaster bases in many attractive styles with WASHABLE all-white shades! Give her a pair for those end tables... they are a perfect size.

A Large and Varied Assortment of Smart Lamps to Choose From!

SEARS All-Star CHRISTMAS

The Longest Store Aisle in the Country
Crammed With Gifts of Dependable Quality for Every Name on Your List!

Millie Mills, Sears personal Shopper, to Shop with you or for you!

Checkroom!
Special gift wrapping stand!
FREE parking space!

Branch Postoffice in building where you may mail packages!

14 Gift Suggestions and We've 14,000 Others Equally Attractive .... Equally Low Priced, from

Sears, Your Gift Store!

BOOK ENDS, antique and bronze. 98c to $2.49

PICTURE FRAMES. You're sure to find what you want here. 98c to $1.98

PICTURES and BOTANY PRINTS, colorful subjects $1

POWDER JARS, especially made to please Millady's fancy. 25c to 79c

CHRISTMAS TREES, complete with lights $1.95

FIGURINES, are coming in strong.... $1.29

PENCILS with CARVED WOODEN HEADS, grand for bridge playing friends.. 10c

VASES, all white or white with colored linings. $1.19 to $2.98

CLOTHES HANGER and BRUSH combinations 29c

MIRRORS, console and wall types. Quality mirrors. 29c to $16.95

PERFUME BOTTLES, beautifully cut 98c

CHINESE BRASS, all sorts of things, candles, vases, jars, etc. 59c to $1.39

ASH TRAY SETS, one can never have too many 10c to 89c

PAPER WEIGHTS with SILVER PENCILS, unusually patterned 59c

★ Dresser Sets

$1.98

Comb, brush and mirror in fancy or plain metal.

Others to $25

★ Cutex Club Kits

$3.19

Genuine leather case with zipper fastener complete for manicures.

★ Silver Trays

$1.98

$4.95

Something lasting! Attractive silver trays. Plain or embossed patterns.

★ Playing Cards

49c

Double deck size in attractive boxes. Linen finish.

Others, 25c to 98c

★ Dictionaries

$1.25

Over 1,400 pages! With thumb index, page illustrations. Golden Jubilee value.

Others 20c to $3.50

★ Bond St. Pipes

69c

Men! Genuine French Briar pipe, box and 12 pipe cleaners!

Others to $5

★ Men's Travel Cases

$1.98

Genuine leather case with zipper fastener, comb, brush and utility pieces.

Others $1 to $9.98

★ Men's Yardley Sets

$2.85

Give him one! Set contains talcum, soap and after-shave lotion.

If you want a Gift that is sure to please, then choose Sears blankets and comforts!

4-Star Blankets

All wool, of course! Of soft 100% virgin wool that you seldom find in blankets for less than twice this price! White with luscious pastel borders in a generous 70x80-in. size. $4.98

Sears Famous "Slumbersound" Blankets

With wool going up, Sears offers you this big, fluffy all wool blanket for this modest price! Solid colors and white with colored borders. 4-lb. weight, 72x84-in. size. $7.40

Others 59c to $7.49

Taffeta Comforters

These lovely rayon taffeta Slumbersound comforters with all-silk filling are so fluffy and soft! The edges are corded... and they come in luscious color combinations. Give her one... you know it's exactly what she's been wanting. Sizes 72x84-in. $6.59

Other Comforts $3.49 to $14

For the Most Exciting Things at the Thriftest Prices...

Sears Toyland

Oh, Boy! Electric Freight Trains

Any boy'll get a thrill out of operating this remote control 5-unit electric freight train. Start and reverse it at any point in the 120-inch track... first time this feature has been offered in trains of anywhere near this price! $4.49

Others, to $15.45.

Quintuplets 95c

Beautifully painted eyes, mouth, and lashes. Full composition bodies with inside jointed turning heads. Composition arms and legs; 7 1/2 inches tall. Others to $6.95

Steel Wagons $4.49

The grandest wagon value offered... bar none! Full size body of 20 gauge auto body steel. New auto type spoke wheels and extra long rubber bearings pressure tested at factory! Others, $1.29 to $11.95

Movie Projectors $5.49

Motor oil projector that brings you the perfect flickerless pictures you've been wanting. It has direct film wind-up and handle reels up to 200 ft. capacity. Others as low as $1.98.

Come On, Kiddies! "Smilo" and "Laugho"

The World's Funniest Clowns Are at Sears!

Santa Claus in Sears Toyland to learn what Kiddies want!

Bake Sets 69c
17 pieces Complete with cook book! Now, bake goodies just like mother!

Mechanical Tractors 98c
Clock work motor with governor. Aluminum case. Value!

Electric Stoves 98c
1-burner stoves and they really cook! Your little girl will really love one!

Even If She Has a Lot of Everything, She Can Never Have Too Many Linens!

Towel Sets

$1 Set

3 Pieces

To unify your bathroom, get these lovely matched sets... 2 towels with wash cloth! Soft and absorbent, they will stand up through endless washings. A variety of luscious colors. Others, 49c, 79c and $1.98 set

Colored Border Sets $2.98
Of finest Lady Pepperel quality, set consists of 1 sheet (81x99) and pair of pillow cases. Hemstitched and in gift box.

Linen Luncheon Sets $1.00
Yes, you get all 5 pieces for just $1! The large 50x50 cloth with four matching napkins, in colorful plaid patterns. Others to $2.98.

Give Quaker Lace

Table Cloths
Exquisite patterns, size 63x83 $5.98
Large lovely size, 72x90... $7.50

Curtains
Beautiful all-over patterns for every window in the house. $1 to $5.50 pr.

Make This a "Personal" Christmas

Women's Initialed Linen
Kerchiefs... 10c and 15c

Women's Handbags
(25c and 35c for initial) 94c to $2.94

Men's Initialed
Kerchiefs 29c to 3 for $1

Men's Billfolds with 3 Initials ... $1 to $2.98

Playing Cards (15c deck for initials on back) 25c to 98c

Christmas Cards (name written on 24 cards for 15c) 1c to $1

Men's Initialed Belt and Buckle Sets .. $1 to $5

Sears, Roebuck and Co.

8 NEW BUILDINGS TO BE DEDICATED AT GEORGIA COLLEGES

DALHOUSIE UNIT OPENS TOMORROW WITH EXERCISES

Eighteen Federal and State Projects Are Either Completed or in Process of Construction.

Dedication exercises for 8 of the 18 new federal and state buildings of the Georgia University system will begin tomorrow and continue through December 17.

The buildings were erected or are in process of erection as a part of a cooperative program between the state and the Public Works Administration from which $1,000,000 was appropriated by the 1935 Georgia legislature.

This is being matched with 45 WPA dollars for every 35 dollars contributed by the state.

3 Yearly Payments.

The state portion is payable in three yearly installments of $333,333.33 each. The present group of buildings is being erected from the first year's payment. A state installment has been made available, but contracts have not been let under it.

The following schedule of dedication exercises will be held during the next two weeks:

Dalhousie tomorrow; Carrollton Tuesday; Cochran Wednesday; Statesboro Thursday; Douglas December 14; Americus December 15; Tifton December 16; Valdosta December 17.

Chancellor S. V. Sanford, of the University System, members of the State Board of Regents and educators generally, are expected to attend the dedication exercises.

Dr. Sanford said dedicatory exercises for buildings at the Milledgeville, Athens, Augusta and Atlanta institutions will be held in January or February.

He said he would decide later on dates for dedications at Savannah and Forsyth.

The building at the North Georgia College at Dahlonega, to be dedicated tomorrow, is a girls' dormitory of 40 rooms which will accommodate approximately 80 students. The contract price was $128,500. The college enrollment is 360 students.

At Carrollton Tuesday a library building will be formally opened at the West Georgia College, built at contract price of $13,200. The college has an enrollment of 302 students.

On Wednesday at Cochran there will be dedicated a 100-room boys' dormitory to accommodate 120 pupils at the Middle Georgia College there. The contract price of the building was $24,201.68. The college has enrolled 333 students.

Statesboro Dormitory.

A dormitory of 80 rooms which will accommodate 160 students, will be opened Thursday at the South Georgia Teachers' College, at Statesboro, built at a cost of $80,724. The college has an enrollment of 302 students.

Next week there will be dedicated a $32,000 auditorium at Douglas on Monday, December 14; a $31,200 boys' dormitory at Americus on Tuesday following; a $39,400 boys' dormitory at Tifton on Wednesday, December 16, and on Thursday, December 17, a $36,700 girls' dormitory at Georgia State Women's College at Valdosta.

MINERAL LANDS SOLD IN CARTERSVILLE AREA

New York Firm Buys 12,000-Acre Tract in Bartow and Cherokee Counties.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Dec. 5.—Purchase by William R. Hale and associates, of New York, of the vast property holdings formerly under the management of the Etowah Development Company, is announced by the First National Bank of Atlanta.

These holdings include valuable mineral and farm lands, some 12,000 acres, and are located in Bartow and Cherokee counties. The tract covers the area between Allatoona and White. The consideration is said to have been about $50,000 and may run to $100,000.

The new owners plan extensive mining operations, with carload shipments of iron ore, manganese, barytes and ochre. Many of these products would be taken care of increased needs caused by the expansion now in progress here by the United States Steel Corporation, it is said.

EXPERIMENT STATION CONDUCTS FLAX TEST

EXPERIMENT, Ga., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Widespread growth of flax in Georgia for the two-fold purpose of producing a money-producing crop and of improving the grade of cotton cloth is the objective of tests the Georgia Experiment station is conducting here.

The experimenters showed that flax mixed and spun with cotton produced a more durable cloth which at the same time was more absorbent, and therefore better adapted to manufacture into towels, napkins and handkerchiefs.

At the same time, flax is classified as "cover crop" and is suitable for planting in areas where farmers desire to check erosion.

Harry Vaughn, of the Georgia Tech Ceramic Department, directed the mechanical tests connected with the manufacture of the flax-cotton cloth, and the Tennessee Valley Authority lent assistance in the soil conservation aspects.

EPISCOPALIANS PLAN GAINESVILLE CHURCH

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Dec. 5.—Reconstruction of Grace Episcopal church, razed by the April 6 tornado, will begin as soon as the weather permits, Rev. G. C. Hineswood, the rector, announces.

Dr. G. C. Butler is chairman of the building committee, with John E. Woodcock as building fund treasurer. The new structure will cost approximately $5,000, the funds having been raised by popular subscription.

Charles Hopson, Atlanta, is the architect, and the contract has been let to the Chambers Lumber Company here.

The new church will be erected on the same site and is expected to be completed within two months.

Cook Sets—Canteens—Purses

79 Alabama St. DUCKETT'S ARMORY

New Units Are To Be Dedicated at Georgia Colleges This Week

LIBRARY AT CARROLLTON COLLEGE.

GIRLS' DORMITORY AT COLLEGE AT DALHOUSIE.

BOYS' DORMITORY AT MIDDLE GEORGIA COLLEGE, COCHRAN.

DORMITORY AT STATESBORO COLLEGE.

HAMPTON TO PRESENT TESTIMONY IN FANNIN

Republican To Attack Evidence Given in Contest for House Seat.

BLUE RIDGE, Ga., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Attorneys for R. T. Hampton, Republican state representative-elect, whose election is being contested, arranged today for presentation next week of their testimony in the case being heard by Justice of the Peace Juan Hipp.

William Butt, of Blue Ridge, one of counsel for Hampton, said today the testimony would attack evidence previously offered by witnesses for Glenn Allen, a Democrat, who is contesting Hampton's election.

Butt said he would present evidence Monday that "illegal ballots were cast for Allen."

Allen's attorneys have already presented testimony claiming that improperly registered voters cast Republican ballots.

The testimony will be certified to the Governor by Justice Hipp. The Governor will in turn present it to the house of representatives for a decision in the contest.

Butt said the evidence "will show 150 to 200 illegal ballots were cast for Allen."

The ballots which Allen's attorneys assert were "cast by illegally registered voters" are expected to be examined Monday.

Butt said today he believed the evidence he will present Monday will overcome the testimony given by witnesses for Allen.

Allen was the Democratic candidate and Hampton the Republican candidate in the election held November 3 in Fannin county.

MRS. SALLIE BYROM, 92, DIES AT CARROLLTON

CARROLLTON, Ga., Dec. 5.—Final tribute will be paid Mrs. Sallie Byrom, 92, pioneer Carroll county woman, at funeral services to be held at the Methodist church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. W. H. Clark, of Atlanta, assisted by Rev. H. C. Emory.

Mrs. Byrom died this morning after a long illness.

Surviving are one son, George L. Byrom, Houston, Texas, and two daughters, Mrs. R. E. Forster and Mrs. L. K. Smith, both of Carrollton.

STATE SANITARIUM DEFENDED BY SHIP

Americus Member of Control Board Says No Patients Are Suffering.

AMERICUS, Ga., Dec. 5.—"Most of the patients at the state sanitarium, in Milledgeville, are better housed, better fed and better clothed than ever before in their lives," was the statement made here today by Judge J. E. D. Shipp, a member of the board of control of that institution.

The statement was made in answer to a published interview with J. A. Moore, representative-elect from Baldwin county to the next general assembly of Georgia, who was quoted as saying that conditions existing in the state sanitarium "are beyond belief to the average individual, and that the state administration expects the inmates there to be housed, clothed, fed, kept warm and given medical attention for 25¢ a day."

"We do need another and a larger building," Judge Shipp said, "but no inmate of the state sanitarium now suffers from lack of necessities. Four years ago there were 4,000 inmates in the institution, now there are 7,000."

"We do need another and a larger building," Judge Shipp said, "but no inmate of the state sanitarium now suffers from lack of necessities. Four years ago there were 4,000 inmates in the institution, now there are 7,000."

"We do need another and a larger building," Judge Shipp said, "but no inmate of the state sanitarium now suffers from lack of necessities. Four years ago there were 4,000 inmates in the institution, now there are 7,000."

"We do need another and a larger building," Judge Shipp said, "but no inmate of the state sanitarium now suffers from lack of necessities. Four years ago there were 4,000 inmates in the institution, now there are 7,000."

"We do need another and a larger building," Judge Shipp said, "but no inmate of the state sanitarium now suffers from lack of necessities. Four years ago there were 4,000 inmates in the institution, now there are 7,000."

"We do need another and a larger building," Judge Shipp said, "but no inmate of the state sanitarium now suffers from lack of necessities. Four years ago there were 4,000 inmates in the institution, now there are 7,000."

"We do need another and a larger building," Judge Shipp said, "but no inmate of the state sanitarium now suffers from lack of necessities. Four years ago there were 4,000 inmates in the institution, now there are 7,000."

"We do need another and a larger building," Judge Shipp said, "but no inmate of the state sanitarium now suffers from lack of necessities. Four years ago there were 4,000 inmates in the institution, now there are 7,000."

"We do need another and a larger building," Judge Shipp said, "but no inmate of the state sanitarium now suffers from lack of necessities. Four years ago there were 4,000 inmates in the institution, now there are 7,000."

"We do need another and a larger building," Judge Shipp said, "but no inmate of the state sanitarium now suffers from lack of necessities. Four years ago there were 4,000 inmates in the institution, now there are 7,000."

"We do need another and a larger building," Judge Shipp said, "but no inmate of the state sanitarium now suffers from lack of necessities. Four years ago there were 4,000 inmates in the institution, now there are 7,000."

NEW SORGHUM SYRUP MADE AT BLAIRSVILLE

Mountain Experiment Station To Market Improved Product This Week.

BLAIRSVILLE, Ga., Dec. 5.—(AP)—A new, improved kind of Georgia sorghum syrup, better for syrup lovers and more profitable for farmers, will be introduced to housewives next week.

The syrup was made at the Georgia Mountain Experiment Station, Blairsville, by a new steam pressure process, that as does not crystallize and that maintains the distinctive sorghum flavor. It is being introduced to the public in a co-operative project between the experiment station, the state agricultural extension service, the Tennessee Valley Authority and the Union County Farmers' Association, officials said.

Georgia farmers produce about 1,000,000 gallons of sorghum syrup each year, they said, but most of it is made in small batches at home and merchants have hesitated to handle it because it was not uniform in thickness, color and flavor, and because it often crystallized. The new process overcomes these objections, they said.

A number of skillful farmers have created quite a reputation for producing fine quality syrup, and the officials said that the demand has been increasing for uniform, high quality sorghum syrup in assorted, attractive containers.

The new process overcomes these objections, they said.

A number of skillful farmers have created quite a reputation for producing fine quality syrup, and the officials said that the demand has been increasing for uniform, high quality sorghum syrup in assorted, attractive containers.

The new process overcomes these objections, they said.

A number of skillful farmers have created quite a reputation for producing fine quality syrup, and the officials said that the demand has been increasing for uniform, high quality sorghum syrup in assorted, attractive containers.

The new process overcomes these objections, they said.

A number of skillful farmers have created quite a reputation for producing fine quality syrup, and the officials said that the demand has been increasing for uniform, high quality sorghum syrup in assorted, attractive containers.

The new process overcomes these objections, they said.

A number of skillful farmers have created quite a reputation for producing fine quality syrup, and the officials said that the demand has been increasing for uniform, high quality sorghum syrup in assorted, attractive containers.

The new process overcomes these objections, they said.

MRS. M. F. COLE DIES AT MACON RESIDENCE

MACON, Ga., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. M. F. Cole, of Macon, died at her home here following an illness of five months.

Mrs. Cole, who had lived in Macon for a number of years, was a native of Carrollton and formerly lived in Newnan.

Mrs. Cole was a lifelong member of the Baptist church, being one of the charter members of the Central Baptist church of Newnan, in which she retained her membership until her death.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Lee, of Macon, and Mrs. Frank B. Williamson, of Forsyth; five grandchildren, Christine Lee, William G. Lee Jr., and Madison Cole Lee, all of Macon; a daughter-in-law, Mrs. J. S. Cole, of Macon; one brother, W. J. Stewart, and one sister, Mrs. Alice Shaw, both of Carrollton, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held at her home on Nottingham drive at 12:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, followed by interment in the Newnan, Ga., cemetery at 3:30 p. m. Services will be conducted by Dr. Ronald Young, of Central Baptist church, Newnan, and Dr. J. P. Boone, pastor of First Baptist church, Macon.

Surviving are her husband, Jesse Armstrong, mayor of Waverly Hall, and four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Callous, Waverly Hall; Mrs. Theodore Floyd, Yatesville; Mrs. F. E. Green, Talbotton; and Mrs. Fox Lindsey, Stone Mountain.

MRS. MAGGIE ARMSTRONG. WAVERLY HALL, Ga., Dec. 5.—Funeral services were held here yesterday for Mrs. Maggie Armstrong, 64, with Rev. W. D. Hayburn, pastor of the Waverly Hall Methodist church and the Baptist pastor, Rev. J. J. Sizemore officiating. Interment was in Mt. Zion cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, Jesse Armstrong, mayor of Waverly Hall, and four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Callous, Waverly Hall; Mrs. Theodore Floyd, Yatesville; Mrs. F. E. Green, Talbotton; and Mrs. Fox Lindsey, Stone Mountain.

MRS. MAGGIE ARMSTRONG. WAVERLY HALL, Ga., Dec. 5.—Funeral services were held here yesterday for Mrs. Maggie Armstrong, 64, with Rev. W. D. Hayburn, pastor of the Waverly Hall Methodist church and the Baptist pastor, Rev. J. J. Sizemore officiating. Interment was in Mt. Zion cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, Jesse Armstrong, mayor of Waverly Hall, and four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Callous, Waverly Hall; Mrs. Theodore Floyd, Yatesville; Mrs. F. E. Green, Talbotton; and Mrs. Fox Lindsey, Stone Mountain.

MRS. MAGGIE ARMSTRONG. WAVERLY HALL, Ga., Dec. 5.—Funeral services were held here yesterday for Mrs. Maggie Armstrong, 64, with Rev. W. D. Hayburn, pastor of the Waverly Hall Methodist church and the Baptist pastor, Rev. J. J. Sizemore officiating. Interment was in Mt. Zion cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, Jesse Armstrong, mayor of Waverly Hall, and four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Callous, Waverly Hall; Mrs. Theodore Floyd, Yatesville; Mrs. F. E. Green, Talbotton; and Mrs. Fox Lindsey, Stone Mountain.

MRS. MAGGIE ARMSTRONG. WAVERLY HALL, Ga., Dec. 5.—Funeral services were held here yesterday for Mrs. Maggie Armstrong, 64, with Rev. W. D. Hayburn, pastor of the Waverly Hall Methodist church and the Baptist pastor, Rev. J. J. Sizemore officiating. Interment was in Mt. Zion cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, Jesse Armstrong, mayor of Waverly Hall, and four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Callous, Waverly Hall; Mrs. Theodore Floyd, Yatesville; Mrs. F. E. Green, Talbotton; and Mrs. Fox Lindsey, Stone Mountain.

MOVEMENT BEGUN IN SOUTH GEORGIA TO ADVERTISE PINE

Thirty-Five Counties Join in Plan To Raise Fund To Seek Location of Paper Mills.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 5.—(AP)—A movement to inform the paper industry of Canada and the United States of the advantages of locating paper mills in the heart of the slash pine area of southeast Georgia went forward today.

Thirty-five counties united efforts to put on an advertising campaign through the Slash Pine Forestry Association.

Dr. Charles H. Herty, noted chemist director of the Savannah pulp and paper laboratory and a member of the association, outlined the plans for the campaign, which were endorsed by the other members of the association at a meeting here yesterday.

In carrying out the program, a two-page advertisement will be run in four of the leading trade papers, and from these advertisements 3,000 reprints will be made and mailed to every paper mill office of the United States and Canada.

In order to carry out such an extensive campaign, it was pointed out that a minimum of $2,000 would be needed to finance it. The association appointed J. S. Elkins, of Waycross, secretary, to canvass the 35 counties to raise the funds. From $50 to $100 will be solicited from the counties concerned.

The counties included in the heart of the slash pine region are as follows: Appling, Atkinson, Bacon, Brantley, Bryan, Bulloch, Camden, Candler, Charlton, Chatham, Clinch, Coffee, Dodge, Echols, Effingham, Emanuel, Evans, Glynn, Jeff Davis, Jenkins, Johnson, Laurens, Liberty, Long, McIntosh, Montgomery, Pierce, Screven, Tattnall, Telfair, Toombs, Treutlen, Ware, Wayne and Wheeler.

These counties were chosen because they represent the heart of the slash pine region and because they comprise Georgia unit No. 1, United States forest survey, and all figures and information used will be official.

The original workers' deadline was midnight tonight. The board said so many inquiries had come in that an extension was necessary to allow time for proper preparation of the questionnaires affected. The treasury is preparing the plan to extend the deadline.

Under the law, both the taxing employers and workers are liable to fines and jail sentences if they fail to submit data required by the law.

Giving no hint of punitive action, the board expressed appreciation for the co-operation evident throughout the country on the part of employers and employees. The latter were reminded that application forms can be obtained from their employers or post-office.

It was estimated that 10,037,000 workers are now covered by unemployment insurance in these states: Alabama, Arizona, California, Connecticut, Colorado, Idaho, Indiana, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Mississippi, New Hampshire, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Texas, Utah, Wisconsin and the District of Columbia.

Commissions are studying the subject in a number of other states, including Georgia, Michigan, Missouri, Arkansas, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas, Washington and Wyoming.

MRS. MAGGIE ARMSTRONG. WAVERLY HALL, Ga., Dec. 5.—Funeral services were held here yesterday for Mrs. Maggie Armstrong, 64, with Rev. W. D. Hayburn, pastor of the Waverly Hall Methodist church and the Baptist pastor, Rev. J. J. Sizemore officiating. Interment was in Mt. Zion cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, Jesse Armstrong, mayor of Waverly Hall, and four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Callous, Waverly Hall; Mrs. Theodore Floyd, Yatesville; Mrs. F. E. Green, Talbotton; and Mrs. Fox Lindsey, Stone Mountain.

MRS. MAGGIE ARMSTRONG. WAVERLY HALL, Ga., Dec. 5.—Funeral services were held here yesterday for Mrs. Maggie Armstrong, 64, with Rev. W. D. Hayburn, pastor of the Waverly Hall Methodist church and the Baptist pastor, Rev. J. J. Sizemore officiating. Interment was in Mt. Zion cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, Jesse Armstrong, mayor of Waverly Hall, and four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Callous, Waverly Hall; Mrs. Theodore Floyd, Yatesville; Mrs. F. E. Green, Talbotton; and Mrs. Fox Lindsey, Stone Mountain.

MRS. MAGGIE ARMSTRONG. WAVERLY HALL, Ga., Dec. 5.—Funeral services were held here yesterday for Mrs. Maggie Armstrong, 64, with Rev. W. D. Hayburn, pastor of the Waverly Hall Methodist church and the Baptist pastor, Rev. J. J. Sizemore officiating. Interment was in Mt. Zion cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, Jesse Armstrong, mayor of Waverly Hall, and four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Callous, Waverly Hall; Mrs. Theodore Floyd, Yatesville; Mrs. F. E. Green, Talbotton; and Mrs. Fox Lindsey, Stone Mountain.

MRS. MAGGIE ARMSTRONG. WAVERLY HALL, Ga., Dec. 5.—Funeral services were held here yesterday for Mrs. Maggie Armstrong, 64, with Rev. W. D. Hayburn, pastor of the Waverly Hall Methodist church and the Baptist pastor, Rev. J. J. Sizemore officiating. Interment was in Mt. Zion cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, Jesse Armstrong, mayor of Waverly Hall, and four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Callous, Waverly Hall; Mrs. Theodore Floyd, Yatesville; Mrs. F. E. Green, Talbotton; and Mrs. Fox Lindsey, Stone Mountain.

MRS. MAGGIE ARMSTRONG. WAVERLY HALL, Ga., Dec. 5.—Funeral services were held here yesterday for Mrs. Maggie Armstrong, 64, with Rev. W. D. Hayburn, pastor of the Waverly Hall Methodist church and the Baptist pastor, Rev. J. J. Sizemore officiating. Interment was in Mt. Zion cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, Jesse Armstrong, mayor of Waverly Hall, and four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Callous, Waverly Hall; Mrs. Theodore Floyd, Yatesville; Mrs. F. E. Green, Talbotton; and Mrs. Fox Lindsey, Stone Mountain.

MRS. MAGGIE ARMSTRONG. WAVERLY HALL, Ga., Dec. 5.—Funeral services were held here yesterday for Mrs. Maggie Armstrong, 64, with Rev. W. D. Hayburn, pastor of the Waverly Hall Methodist church and the Baptist pastor, Rev. J. J. Sizemore officiating. Interment was in Mt. Zion cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, Jesse Armstrong, mayor of Waverly Hall, and four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Callous, Waverly Hall; Mrs. Theodore Floyd, Yatesville; Mrs. F. E. Green, Talbotton; and Mrs. Fox Lindsey, Stone Mountain.

MRS. MAGGIE ARMSTRONG. WAVERLY HALL, Ga., Dec. 5.—Funeral services were held here yesterday for Mrs. Maggie Armstrong, 64, with Rev. W. D. Hayburn, pastor of the Waverly Hall Methodist church and the Baptist pastor, Rev. J. J. Sizemore officiating. Interment was in Mt. Zion cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, Jesse Armstrong, mayor of Waverly Hall, and four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Callous, Waverly Hall; Mrs. Theodore Floyd, Yatesville; Mrs. F. E. Green, Talbotton; and Mrs. Fox Lindsey, Stone Mountain.

MRS. MAGGIE ARMSTRONG. WAVERLY HALL, Ga., Dec. 5.—Funeral services were held here yesterday for Mrs. Maggie Armstrong, 64, with Rev. W. D. Hayburn, pastor of the Waverly Hall Methodist church and the Baptist pastor, Rev. J. J. Sizemore officiating. Interment was in Mt. Zion cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, Jesse Armstrong, mayor of Waverly Hall, and four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Callous, Waverly Hall; Mrs. Theodore Floyd, Yatesville; Mrs. F. E. Green, Talbotton; and Mrs. Fox Lindsey, Stone Mountain.

MRS. MAGGIE ARMSTRONG. WAVERLY HALL, Ga., Dec. 5.—Funeral services were held here yesterday for Mrs. Maggie Armstrong, 64, with Rev. W. D. Hayburn, pastor of the Waverly Hall Methodist church and the Baptist pastor, Rev. J. J. Sizemore officiating. Interment was in Mt. Zion cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, Jesse Armstrong, mayor of Waverly Hall, and four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Callous, Waverly Hall; Mrs. Theodore Floyd, Yatesville; Mrs. F. E. Green, Talbotton; and Mrs. Fox Lindsey, Stone Mountain.

MRS. MAGGIE ARMSTRONG. WAVERLY HALL, Ga., Dec. 5.—Funeral services were held here yesterday for Mrs. Maggie Armstrong, 64, with Rev. W. D. Hayburn, pastor of the Waverly Hall Methodist church and the Baptist pastor, Rev. J. J. Sizemore officiating. Interment was in Mt. Zion cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, Jesse Armstrong, mayor of Waverly Hall, and four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Callous, Waverly Hall; Mrs. Theodore Floyd, Yatesville; Mrs. F. E. Green, Talbotton; and Mrs. Fox Lindsey, Stone Mountain.

MRS. MAGGIE ARMSTRONG. WAVERLY HALL, Ga., Dec. 5.—Funeral services were held here yesterday for Mrs. Maggie Armstrong, 64, with Rev. W. D. Hayburn, pastor of the Waverly Hall Methodist church and the Baptist pastor, Rev. J. J. Sizemore officiating. Interment was in Mt. Zion cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, Jesse Armstrong, mayor of Waverly Hall, and four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Callous, Waverly Hall; Mrs. Theodore Floyd, Yatesville; Mrs. F. E. Green, Talbotton; and Mrs. Fox Lindsey, Stone Mountain.

To Retire From Bench

Judge W. W. Start, of Commerce, who after serving since 1924, will retire December 31 as judge of the Piedmont superior court circuit. He did not seek re-election this year and will be succeeded by Solicitor Clifford Pratt, of Winder, elected judge this fall.

Judge W. W. Start, of Commerce, who after serving since 1924, will retire December 31 as judge of the Piedmont superior court circuit. He did not seek re-election this year and will be succeeded by Solicitor Clifford Pratt, of Winder, elected judge this fall.

Judge W. W. Start, of Commerce, who after serving since 1924, will retire December 31 as judge of the Piedmont superior court circuit. He did not seek re-election this year and will be succeeded by Solicitor Clifford Pratt, of Winder, elected judge this fall.

Judge W. W. Start, of Commerce, who after serving since 1924, will retire December 31 as judge of the Piedmont superior court circuit. He did not seek re-election this year and will be succeeded by Solicitor Clifford Pratt, of Winder, elected judge this fall.

Judge W. W. Start, of Commerce, who after serving since 1924, will retire December 31 as judge of the Piedmont superior court circuit. He did not seek re-election this year and will be succeeded by Solicitor Clifford Pratt, of Winder, elected judge this fall.

Judge W. W. Start, of Commerce, who after serving since 1924, will retire December 31 as judge of the Piedmont superior court circuit. He did not seek re-election this year and will be succeeded by Solicitor Clifford Pratt, of Winder, elected judge this fall.

Judge W. W. Start, of Commerce, who after serving since 1924, will retire December 31 as judge of the Piedmont superior court circuit. He did not seek re-election this year and will be succeeded by Solicitor Clifford Pratt, of Winder, elected judge this fall.

Judge W. W. Start, of Commerce, who after serving since 1924, will retire December 31 as judge of the Piedmont superior court circuit. He did not seek re-election this year and will be succeeded by Solicitor Clifford Pratt, of Winder, elected judge this fall.

J

Georgia Peaches Give to Vintner Potential Gold Mine of Profits

Orchards of State Hold Amazing Potentialities as Source of Additional Income—Delicious Wines of Light Flavor, Low Alcoholic Content.

By RALPH T. JONES.

There is, in Georgia, one potential source of income from wine that is, in its finest form, exclusive to this state. Peach wine is a recent discovery of the vintner's art and it promises, eventually, another great source for disposal of Georgia's most famous fruit crop.

Peach wine, naturally fermented and, of course, not fortified with brandy, is a delicate, delicious table beverage. Its flavor is light and its alcoholic content, so low it becomes merely an aid to digestion and a pleasant concomitant of the well-served table. It is of negligible effect as a liquor, but valuable as a pleasure and an aid to good digestion.

Synthetic Peach Wine.

It is only within the past year or two that peach wine has appeared on the commercial market and much of the labeled peach wine you now see for sale in the stores is not the genuine article. Some is synthetic and some is so highly fortified with brandy that it loses its value as wine and becomes merely a camouflaged liquor. This type, of course, is potentially harmful and should be avoided.

Advice on how to be sure you are getting the genuine, natural peach wine is difficult. There are several wineries in Georgia, in Atlanta, in fact, where it is made, and probably the surest and safest way would be to visit these, see the wine made and discover the brand names under which it is marketed. Then insist of those brands when you buy.

The story of the discovery of peach wine is an interesting romance. It is only about two years ago since a couple of prominent Georgia men called on a famous wine maker in New York and told him of their idea of disposing of their surplus peach crop by making it into brandy. Peach brandy, of course, has been known for centuries, though it has naturally been a home-made product.

Planned Experiment. The wine maker, after listening to their ideas and after considerable persuasion, agreed to experiment along their proposal if they would furnish the necessary peaches. His expectation was for a bushel or two of the fruit and he planned strictly laboratory experimentation.

He had almost forgotten the incident when one of the Georgians, some weeks or months later, entered his office and announced he had brought the peaches, as promised.

And, when he stepped outside the building, the startled wine man saw a truck load of the famous Georgia fruit.

The Georgian was still thinking of peach brandy, which is, of course, a distilled product and the wine maker immediately explained he was not a distiller and could not handle it in that form.

The peaches were partially frozen, having been driven to New York direct from an Atlanta cold storage plant.

Under special permit from the government the peaches were fermented.

Luggage of Merit
Adds Individual Prestige
Visit Our Modern Store
W. Z. Turner Luggage Co.
219 PEACHTREE ST.

Leather Boots—Shoes
● 79 Alabama St.
DUCKETT'S ARMY STORE

Gold Shield
The Emblem That Stands for Safety, Skill and Reliability

DRY CLEANING
3 FOR $1

Called for and Delivered!
ABOVE PRICE GOOD ON FOLLOWING ITEMS

● Ladies' Plain Dresses ● Men's Wool Suits
● Coats (without fur) ● Men's Overcoats

PHONE ONE OF THESE

"Yours for Excellence in Quality and Service"

MAY'S HEMlock 3360
TROY-PEERLESS HEMlock 2766
DECATUR DEARborn 3162

PIEDMONT WALnut 1651
AMERICAN MAIN 1016
EXCELSIOR WALnut 2454

TRIO JACKson 1600
CAPITAL CITY WALnut 7121
GUTHMAN WALnut 8661

Gold Shield LAUNDERERS—DRY CLEANERS

FIREWORKS

BUY NATIONAL AND BE SURE—ONLY THE NATIONAL EAGLE ASSURES HIGHEST QUALITY

Write for Catalogue

GEORGIA FIREWORKS CO.

Near Terminal Station

DISTRIBUTORS

236-238 Mitchell St., S. W.

wine, it is always the natural, fermented product. That is the only kind of wine legal in the state, under the wine law.

Future developments, of course, may change the entire situation.

But, regardless of the legal aspects, peach wine made from the fruit will always be a desirable adjunct to the meal, a help to good digestion and a source of gastronomic enjoyment.

Fortified wine, which is made by adding brandy of the same origin—as peach brandy to peach wine, grape brandy to grape wine, etc.—is not really a table delicacy, is not a food nor a beverage of medicinal value. It is merely a camouflaged liquor of interest only to the person who wishes to use intoxicating beverages despite their evils and the laws against them.

Georgia's wine law provides we may use the delicious gift that nature provides, naturally fermented fruit juices and find, like the Apostle said, it is wise to "take a little wine for the stomach's sake."

And, in Georgia, we have the muscadines, the supergrapes, the berries, to make all the natural wine we need. As well as the wild peaches and the peaches, which are the fruit of the state, to make Georgia peach wine as world-famous as Georgia peaches themselves are today.

EDWARD'S HEALTH SAID 'EXCELLENT'

King's Reserve Strength Proves Invaluable Ally, Friends Declare.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Lord Dawson, of Penn, the royal physician, today said King Edward was in "excellent health."

Lord Dawson, who is an old personal friend of the monarch, visited him briefly yesterday.

He and other intimates of the monarch's tremendous reserve of physical and mental energy had proved an invaluable ally in his struggle with a hostile cabinet over his determination to marry Mrs. Wallis Simpson.

In recent days the world's most physically fit King has been lucky to get up three or four hours' sleep out of the 24.

But, his friends said, the intense emotional crisis has only sharpened his fighting instinct.

He long has been known as the "hard rock" of European royalty—both mentally and physically.

For years it has been his custom to take setting-up exercises on getting out of bed each morning; then to jump on the scales.

If the scales showed an ounce over 142 pounds, he dashed for the squash court and a strenuous workout.

He long has been noted for spending 12 hours at the business of state; then dropping in at a convenient cafe for three or four hours of dancing.

A few months ago—before Mrs. Simpson obtained her divorce nisi—he and the lady entered a cabaret after midnight and danced for 45 minutes without a break.

"It will take more than a cabinet crisis to do Edward in," laughed one of his friends this afternoon.

There was every indication, in fact, that the monarch and his Belvedere household was as fit as ever today.

Although the King passed up his usual morning walk. At 10 a. m. the royal motor sped to London, returning after 3 p. m. It was believed to have contained only a member of Edward's entourage.

WEED CONTROL URGED.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Hope that some kind of tobacco production control program may be worked out during the next session of congress was expressed today by Representative Frank Hancock, of Oxford, North Carolina.

COURT DECISIONS

COURT OF APPEALS.
Judgments Affirmed.

Edwards v. Moore, from Chatham superior court—Judge Bourke. Shelby Morris, Edwin J. Fuller, for plaintiff in error. Aaron Kravitch, J. C. Lemon, contra.

Hart v. State, from Bulloch superior court—Judge Woodruff. J. M. Murphy, D. C. Jones, Neal & Boulton, for plaintiff in error. W. G. Neville, solicitor general; H. R. Strang, contra.

Jones v. Moore et al., and vice versa; from Atlanta municipal court—Judge McClelland. H. C. Hendrix, Phillips, Johnson, for plaintiff. Benton E. Gaines, Noah J. Stone, for defendants.

Battle v. Kilbreath, from Sylvester city court—Judge Monk. J. B. Williamson, R. S. Fox, for plaintiff in error. Tipton & Houston, contra.

Harris v. Whitehall Chevrolet Company, from Fulton superior court—Judge Humphries. L. C. Dutton, F. L. Brown, for plaintiff. John M. and James J. Sloan, Ponce and Fraser, for defendant.

Scott, executrix vs. Sala; from Fulton superior court—Judge Howard. M. E. Kilpatrick, for plaintiff. Harry S. McCowan, Crenshaw, Hensell and Gunby, for defendant.

City Council of Augusta vs. Diakoff; from Savannah city court—Judge Magdonell. C. Wesley Kilbreath, Baxter & Clark, for plaintiff in error. John J. Hennessey, contra.

Atlanta and West Point Railroad Company vs. McCord, from Lathrop city court—Judge Judge. Herman & Hoffman, R. W. Martin, for plaintiff. In error, L. M. Wyatt, L. R. Morgan, contra.

Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company et al. vs. Athon et al.; from Baldwin superior court—Judge Perkinson. G. H. Carpenter, Jones, Johnston, Russell & Sparks, for plaintiffs in error. Shiber & Allen, A. Gilles, Gordon Evans, Brandon, Hynds & Tindall, contra.

Ennis v. Newton, from Liberty superior court—Judge Grier. Donald H. Fraser, for plaintiff in error. F. Jackson, W. C. Little, contra.

Estelle v. Hanna et al.; from Thomasville city court—Judge Earle. Clifford E. Hay, Jesse J. Galey, for plaintiff. Lee W. Branch, B. H. Mertz, Ira Carlisle, contra.

State Revenue Commission vs. Porter; from Fulton superior court—Judge Howard. M. J. Yeomans, attorney general, B. D. Murphy, for plaintiff in error. Jones, Johnston, Russell & Sparks, Colquitt, McDougall, Troutman & Arkwright, Robert S. Sams, contra.

Johnston et al. vs. Travelers Insurance Company, from Richmond superior court—Judge Franklin. Isaac S. Peebles Jr., Nathan Jones, for plaintiffs. Hull, Barrett & Williamson, for defendant.

Mandamus Denied
Fouts vs. Franklin, Judge from Richmond. Abram Levy, for Movant. William K. Miller, Isaac S. Peebles Jr., Paul T. Chance, D. G. Fugitt, for respondent.

Rehearing Denied
Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company vs. Ellis, from Baldwin.

Certified to Supreme Court.

Hartfield Company vs. Shoff, from Fulton.

McCord vs. L. G. Powell, Inc.; from Fulton.

Ellis vs. Russell; from Florid.

RFC Public Relations Man Beams As He Tells of Many Loans Repaid

Norman Baxter Says Corporation Is Exceeding Most Optimistic Forecasts.

By LAMAR Q. BALL.

The beaming face of Norman W. Baxter, as he sat in Erle Coker's office in Atlanta yesterday, is suggestive of the Roosevelt administration as something a sculptor should preserve in marble as the Spirit of the National Recovery.

Baxter talks modestly. "Business is better everywhere. The RFC is getting back its money at a far more astonishing rate than it was accused of having put it out three years ago. They told us back in those days we were dropping $5,000,000,000 into a rat hole, but today they will all have to agree we must have dropped it into an oil well."

Baxter relaxed easily, rattled along, quoting figures and verifying the facts to prosperity which the public seemed to have suspected in last month's election. He is the public relations man of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, to sum up his title which he describes as:

"The longest title in Washington! As I am to be in Atlanta for just a day, I really must get down to other matters."

Inspirational Manner.

The proof of the prosperity, however, is written on Baxter's face. It soothes the ears in the bell-like tones of his voice. His quiet, easy manner of perfect relaxation as he sits in a chair is inspirational.

Three years ago, Baxter was sitting in a cubbyhole in the vast acreage of office space that had just been turned over to the newly organized Reconstruction Finance Corporation, first of the Democratic administration's moves to quiet America's tottering commerce. His hair was disheveled, dosed of telephones rang at his elbow, secretaries and clerks bounced in and out with piles of papers to be read or signed or both.

His eyes had a hunted look, his voice was hoarse and he spluttered as he talked. He was taking the rap for Jesse Jones, who took over the corporation and has carried it through in spite of hostile criticism from one side while bankrupt and near-bankrupt businessmen shrieked to him for help.

Newspaperman. Baxter had just finished doing a publicity job for President Roosevelt during the 1932 campaign and had worn him down. He was an old newspaperman who had been born in the south, had worked in the south and was managing editor of the Washington Post when he joined Governor Roosevelt's campaign crew in that memorable fight.

The election over and Roosevelt in office, Baxter was turned over to Jesse Jones to help him work out the great experiment of the RFC. Yesterday, it was evident how well that job had been handled.

He was in Atlanta to visit Erle Coker, who is Georgia's representative of the RFC. During the morning, he and Coker went over the he-impressed himself on the President. Georgia figures on the RFC and discussed the situation.

NORMAN W. BAXTER.

Then, Baxter said: "Business is liquidating those loans at an astonishing rate. We are far ahead of anything we had anticipated. Some of those loans were issued on rather shaky security, but today between 67 and 70 per cent of them have been repaid and 90 per cent of the entire RFC loans are being paid far ahead of schedule."

"Not only that, but we have an operating profit of $110,000,000 we have turned into the treasury."

"Not even our mildest critics anticipated that operating profit."

Baxter, by the way, is the man who is being mentioned in the gossip columns of Washington as the certain successor to Steve Early, the President's secretary, who is planning to resign.

Baxter did some noble work in Maine during the recent election. He was borrowed by a Democratic newspaper up in Maine to help it out during the election and the RFC granted him a leave of absence.

Just Verification. The Washington columnists insist Baxter did such noble work in Maine that he impressed himself on the President. Baxter impressed himself on the President when he rode about the country with him in 1932 during the first campaign for the presidency. Baxter handled the newspapermen who swarmed over the Roosevelt private car in those days. Baxter has also impressed himself on the President by the way he has handled the RFC job. The Maine job was just verifying things the President knew and understood well before.

But, in spite of this talk from the Washington columnists, Baxter is certain that Eugene Leggett, of the National Emergency Council, will be picked for the secretarial job at the White House.

"I have been away from Washington for some time," he said yesterday. "I have been touring the country and all I know is what editors have told me in the various towns I have visited. I'm sure 'Red' Leggett will get that job. He certainly deserves it."

Baxter is a former president of the National Press Club at Washington. Negroes are practically immune to cancer of the skin.

FRATERNITY FOUNDED.
WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Dr. John H. Finley, associate editor of the New York Times, presented the College of William and Mary with two tablets today honoring the 50 founders of Phi Beta Kappa at exercises in observance of the society's 160th anniversary.

Altogether, women have toppled about as many thrones as have wars, which upset such recent monarchs as the German Kaiser and Russia's Czar Nicholas.

Don't COUGH YOUR HEAD OFF

ask for MENTHO-MULSION IF IT FAILS TO STOP YOUR COUGH DUE TO COLDS ASK FOR YOUR MONEY BACK now only 75¢

The Pen You Have Been Waiting For

Today and All This Week This Certificate Is Worth $1.91 Buy Now For Xmas

59c 59c

The Pen That Is Guaranteed Leak Proof!

THE NEW FLUNGER FILLER—VACUUM. This PEN holds 90% more ink than any ordinary fountain pen on the market. You can write for Three Months on One Filling! No Repair Bills! No Lever Filler! No Pressure Bar. Every Pen tested and guaranteed to be unbreakable for life. Get yours NOW. THIS PEN GIVEN FREE if you can buy one in the city for less than $2.00! This certificate good only while advertising sale is on. Manufacturer's guarantee with every pen.

$1 PENCILS TO MATCH ABOVE PENS, 29c

ADD 6c Extra For Mail Orders

JACOBS MAIN STORE

SOLD THROUGHOUT FIVE POINTS

Copyright, 1935, A. L.

We Reserve Right to Limit Quantities

De Luxe Tudor Sedan Base Price $580, at Dearborn Plant—

News from any angle—this QUALITY CAR IN THE LOW-PRICE FIELD

THE New Ford V-8 for 1937 is one car, built in only one chassis size—but the quality V-8 engine which powers it is now offered in two sizes. 85 horsepower for maximum performance with good economy—60 horsepower for good performance with maximum economy.

The smaller 60-horsepower V-8 engine, optional in several body types, makes possible the lowest price for a Ford car in years.

The car is entirely new in appearance—wide and roomy, with a low center of gravity. Headlamps are streamlined into the fender aprons. The modern lid-type hood is hinged at the back. The new all-steel top sweeps back from the windshield in an unbroken curve. Interiors are tailored to the minute. The slanting V-type windshield opens in all closed cars.

It is new in safety, quiet and comfort. The body is all steel—top, sides, floor and frame, welded into a single steel unit of great protective strength. Safety Glass all around at no extra charge. New methods of mounting body and engine bring quieter operation.

You are invited to visit your Ford dealer and see how the quality car in the low-price field has broadened its range and extended its usefulness as The Universal Car.

TWO V-8 ENGINE SIZES: Improved 85-horsepower V-8 engine delivers the modern dynamic performance for which the Ford V-8 is famous—with unusually good gasoline mileage. New 60-horsepower V-8 engine, optional in five body types, delivers V-8 smoothness and quietness—even at speeds up to 70 miles an hour—with gasoline mileage so high that it sets an entirely new standard of economy.

BASE PRICES $480

AND UP AT DEARBORN PLANT

Taxes, Delivery and Handling, Bumpers, Spare Tire and Accessories Additional

Body types available with 60 or 85 horsepower engine (without de luxe equipment): Tudor Sedan, Tudor Touring Sedan, Fordor Sedan, Fordor Touring Sedan, Five-window Coupe, De Luxe types, with 85-horsepower engine: Tudor Sedan, Tudor Touring Sedan, Fordor Sedan, Fordor Touring Sedan, Five-window Coupe, Roadster, Phaeton, Club Cabriolet, Convertible Cabriolet, Club Coupe, Convertible Sedan.

AUTHORIZED FORD FINANCE PLANS

$25 a month, after usual down-payment, buys any model 1937 Ford V-8 Car—from any Ford dealer—anywhere in the United States. Ask about the many payment plans of the Universal Credit Company.

NEW COMFORT: By every modern standard of design, the 1937 Ford V-8 is a big, roomy car. Extra space is in the body where you need it, not taken up by the engine under the hood. Comfort of the Center-Pole Ride is increased by smoother action of the long-tapering springs with new-type interleaf pressure lubrication. The whole car is quieter too.

1937 FORD V-8 NOW ON DISPLAY

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, SUNDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 6, 1936.

Opinion Supports U. S. Gestures in South America, Poll Shows

Sentiment Now Opposes 3d Term for Roosevelt In Nation-Wide Survey

Today's Opinions—2

THIRD TERM FOR ROOSEVELT
Sentiment favoring third terms for American Presidents has been strong before. It may become strong during the next four years, even though President Roosevelt—like President Coolidge—should not "choose to run." As the result of an exclusive nation-wide test, the "institute answers these questions about third term sentiment, as of today:

1. How many Americans believe Roosevelt should be a candidate again in 1940?
2. How do Republicans and Democrats divide on the question?
3. What reasons do they give?

By Institute of Public Opinion.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Before the election of 1940 rolls around, President Roosevelt may face unusually strong temptations to be a candidate for a third term. It is a problem that every popular second-term executive has met.

A nation-wide survey by the American Institute of Public Opinion shows that an overwhelming majority of citizens today oppose such a third term.

The opposition comes from Democrats as well as Republicans. "Should President Roosevelt be a candidate for a third term in 1940?" the Institute asked American voters in every state in the Union.

"Yes," answered 56%.

"No," countered 44%.

The tradition which George Washington created, and which Thomas Jefferson and James Madison helped to cement, remains one of the strongest of our unwritten laws—more enduring than many of the principles written into the original Constitution itself but since amended.

Between now and 1940 opinion may change. That is one reason why the Institute of Public Opinion has conducted the poll at this time. It reflects the wishes of the same electorate that has just given President Roosevelt the greatest electoral majority in 116 years.

Republicans Almost Unanimous.

Ballots from Republicans are 92% to 8% against a third term for President Roosevelt, in spite of the fact that some Republican strategists believe the surest way to recover national power in 1940 is to encourage the President to defy the third term tradition.

Roosevelt has given no indication that he desires a third term, or that he would accept his party's nomination again even if drafted; but 45% of the Democrats in today's poll believe that he should put precedent aside and run.

Probably the Democratic vote is as large as it is only because there are no other candidates. The national scene has not yet thrust forward other Democrats of a popular stature comparable to the President's. But other candidates will surely emerge, and future Institute polls will measure their effect on third-term sentiment.

Socialists oppose Roosevelt as a candidate for a third term by a vote of 83% to 17%. Other third party voters disapprove, 75% to 25%.

Of all the important classes of voters, only persons on relief are today in favor of a third term for Roosevelt. But relievers, mindful that New Deal generosity began with him, are 60% to 40% for a Roosevelt candidacy four years hence. A summary of the vote of important groups follows:

	Roosevelt a Candidate in 1940?
Farmers	YES 25% NO 75%	Young People	YES 32% NO 68%
Small Towns	20 80	Women	33 67
Cities	33 67	Relievers	60 40

Verbatim Comments.

Verbatim comments compiled by the Institute of Public Opinion illustrate the conflicting attitudes which the third-term issue arouses.

A typical Southern farmer believes that Roosevelt should break the third-term precedent "just the way he's broken all the other precedents."

"We shelve our leaders too early," is the opinion of an Easterner. "If Roosevelt can be re-elected his experience would be invaluable."

But a Republican in Atlanta, Georgia, favors Roosevelt as a third-term candidate "so he can be properly defeated."

The most vociferous opinion comes from persons who oppose another term.

"We need Washingtons, not dictators."

"The Democrats would have a stranglehold on the United States if Roosevelt ran again and won."

"Roosevelt wouldn't run a third time; it's un-American."

Difference Between Theory, Practice.

Last June, when the Institute asked a cross section of the nation's voters, "Should a President be eligible for a third term?" their answer was "no." But the difference of opinion was not so great as in today's poll. Fifty-seven voters out of 100, on the average, opposed eligibility for a third term.

Today's poll, which found 69 voters out of 100 opposed to a third term for Roosevelt, shows the difference between theory and practice.

In the June poll numerous Republicans approved the principle, whereas the same voters would probably not approve if the candidate were Roosevelt. The following table contrasts the vote in the two polls, section by section:

	JUNE Should Be Eligible	TODAY For Third Term
New England States	42% 58%	32% 68%
Middle Atlantic States	42 58	35 65
East Central States	39 61	25 75
West Central States	42 58	29 71
South	45 55	32 68
Rocky Mountain States	44 56	29 71
Pacific Coast States	44 56	29 71
NATION	43 57	31 69

Persons on relief averaged 62% in favor of the eligibility principle in the early test. Today they favor a third term for Roosevelt by almost the same vote, 60%.

Next Week

Since 1933 the supreme court has voted against the Roosevelt administration eight times out of ten in cases involving the New Deal. In the coming months the court will hand down many more decisions which will make history. What position does public opinion—ultimate source of all governmental power in a democracy—now take regarding the supreme court? In an Institute survey a year ago voters opposed any limiting of its powers.

But since that time the New Deal has received a tremendous vote of confidence at the polls. Therefore the Institute has once again asked the voters: "As a general policy, are you in favor of limiting the power of the supreme court to declare acts of congress unconstitutional?"

The results will be reported next week, together with those on another question: "Should the supreme court be more liberal in reviewing New Deal measures?"

Two Terms Enough, Voters Say

Above, the inauguration of President Roosevelt on the steps of the Capitol four years ago. Voters oppose the suggestion that he become a candidate again in 1940 by a vote of 69 per cent to 31 per cent.

Sphere of New League Favored in Poll

America Speaks

★
"Should the Countries of North and South America form their own League of Nations?"
★

★
YES—56%
NO—44%

Although American voters have unshakably refused to join the League of Nations, a majority today are in favor of a regional league of nations for the republics of North and South America. Insert, above: President Roosevelt as he left for Buenos Aires to open the inter-American Conference for the Maintenance of Peace. His reception there was an outstanding ovation.

Citizens of 47 States Reject Proposal To Ease Divorce Laws

New York Is Only State To Welcome Change in Institute Referendum.

State Vote in Nation-Wide Poll

Should divorce be easier to obtain in your state?

	YES	NO
Alabama	15% 85%
Arizona	33 67
Arkansas	10 90
California	23 77
Colorado	7 93
Connecticut	29 71
Delaware	14 86
Florida	14 86
Georgia	24 76
Idaho	12 88
Illinois	16 84
Indiana	14 86
Iowa	10 90
Kansas	12 88
Kentucky	28 72
Louisiana	26 74
Maine	4 96
Maryland	27 73
Massachusetts	35 65
Michigan	15 85
Minnesota	16 84
Mississippi	17 83
Missouri	10 90
Montana	24 76
Nebraska	12 88
Nevada	11 89
New Hampshire	9 91
New Jersey	39 61
New Mexico	29 71
New York	51 49
North Carolina	24 76
North Dakota	16 84
Ohio	14 86
Oklahoma	15 85
Oregon	11 89
Pennsylvania	20 80
Rhode Island	16 84
South Carolina	45 55
South Dakota	21 79
Tennessee	19 81
Texas	15 85
Utah	15 85
Vermont	13 87
Virginia	23 77
Washington	15 85
West Virginia	24 76
Wisconsin	9 91
Wyoming	21 79

Today's Opinion—3

DIVORCE

Divorce law differs widely from state to state; some laws are lenient, others severe. The Institute of Public Opinion has undertaken to discover how satisfactory the citizens of each state believe their laws to be. The result, below, comprises the first information ever available to the public on such a scale.

By Institute of Public Opinion.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—An avalanche of "noes" was the result today as the American Institute of Public Opinion recorded balloting in a nation-wide referendum on the question: "Should divorce be easier to obtain in your state?"

The American temper on the subject of divorce is expressed for the majority by a voter in Westfield, N. J., who told an Institute interviewer: "Don't make it easier than it is; when a fellow gets married it should be once and for ever."

There is a minority opinion in dissent, but the referendum shows a country-wide sentiment of approximately four to one against further relaxation of the divorce laws.

The Institute distributed ballots to a cross-section of the voters in each state.

Returns reveal that majorities in 47 states oppose making the laws more liberal. Sole exception is New York state, where a vote of 51 per cent to 49 per cent in favor of easier divorce presages an amending of the law in the future.

Few Changes Ahead.

There are many kinds of divorce laws in the United States today as there are states. Most of the laws have been the products of patchwork and reform; a few have been drafted entirely by sociologists and psychologists; one state, South Carolina, makes no provision for divorce at all.

If it is possible to get a divorce in Reno, Nev., within six weeks, in certain other states you may wait for five years and be refused a decree anyhow. With so much diversity it is a matter for surprise that the voters, on the average, consider their state laws so satisfactory.

Changes there will no doubt be in the future, but most of the demand for change today could probably be satisfied by bringing a commonwealth's law into line with the existing standards of such states as Massachusetts, Wisconsin or California. These states, as or most of the others, ordinarily require a year's residence and satisfactory evidence on any one of a number of charges.

In almost every case, a strong sentiment for easier divorce regulations points to a stricter-than-average existing code.

It is so in New York state, where divorce is granted only on the grounds of adultery, and where the parties must meet exacting residence requirements. In today's Institute poll, New York voters favor easier regulations by a vote of 51 per cent to 49 per cent.

A second group of states with a relaxed divorce law is the group of states with a residence requirement of less than a year. These include Nevada, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, and Oklahoma.

Women Less Liberal Than Men on Divorce Issue, Poll Indicates.

actively high protest vote includes Connecticut, New Jersey and Maryland. In each of these states from two to three years is the usual period of residence required before a decree can be granted.

Women voters once more prove that they are more conservative than men, for they average only 19 per cent in favor of easier divorce as compared with an average for men and women of 22 per cent.

The voter who lives in the country or in a small town tends to hold stricter views on divorce than the man who lives in the city. Persons on relief, however, lead all other groups in supporting a change.

The following summary shows how seven special groups answer the question: "Should divorce be easier to obtain in your state?"

	Easier	Divorce?
Farmers	16% 84%
Small Towns	16 84
Women	19 81
Young People	22 78
City Dwellers	23 77
College Students	25 75
Relievers	31 69
Nation	22 78

Comments Explain.

In presenting the results of its first nation-wide survey on divorce, the Institute emphasizes that its poll measures only the extent of public opinion—not its intensity. It may be that 45 per cent in South Carolina who favor easier divorce regulations there, for instance, will exert more influence in the future than the satisfied majority. Vigorous minority action in other states may well alter the patterns of existing law.

But comments from thousands of ballots show the prevailing satisfaction. Typical are these:

"Leave the law as it is; there are too many divorces and too little seriousness in marriage already."

"The law is liberal enough; it should encourage people to stay married."

Voters Favor American Peace League, 56%-44%

Democrats, Republicans in Agreement; Referendum Does Not Mean Approval of Geneva Assembly, However.

Today's Opinions—1

AN AMERICAN LEAGUE OF NATIONS
The Monroe Doctrine was 115 years old this week as President Roosevelt addressed the Pan-American peace conference at Buenos Aires and outlined a new and wider doctrine of peace and neutrality for the Western Hemisphere. Today the Institute publishes results of a nation-wide poll on inter-American affairs. The poll answers these questions:

1. How far will the United States go today toward Pan-American co-operation?
2. What sections of opinion in this country favor an American League of Nations?
3. Is the U. S. ready to join the League of Nations at Geneva?

By GEORGE GALLUP

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—America's voters—suspicious of foreign entanglements and instinctively isolationists since the days of George Washington—are willing to ratify today a system of security for the western hemisphere that would be nothing short of an American League of Nations.

This trend of opinion, which coincides with the Pan-American peace conference at Buenos Aires, is revealed for the first time in an informal referendum conducted by the American Institute of Public Opinion.

In order to make the people's wishes available on this question, the Institute confronted a cross-section of the voters in each state with the question:

"Should the countries of North and South America form their own league of nations?"

Out of every 100 voters, on the average, 56 answer "yes"; 44 say "no."

Their decision is of the utmost significance, for it occurs at a time when Europe's collective peace seems icy with paralysis and when delegates from 21 American nations are exploring paths to a new continental accord at Buenos Aires. President Roosevelt has undertaken a journey of 13,000 miles to give the conference the most auspicious possible beginning.

The success of Pan-American co-operation depends, however, on public opinion within the countries concerned. Today's Institute poll confirms the friendly gestures made this week in the Argentine capital by President Roosevelt, Secretary Hull and other members of the United States delegation. It shows that a preponderant section of the American public is willing to go even as far as a "league"—swallowing its traditional distaste for alliances—if that will guarantee common security for North and South America.

Democrats Most in Favor.

Democrats, the Institute finds, are more anxious for a co-operative agreement with Latin-America than members of other parties. For one reason, the idea for the current Pan-American peace conference came from President Roosevelt a year ago, when he sent personal letters to the presidents of southern republics. From the President, too, came the conference's basic aims—peace, neutrality and trade—which it may take a "league" to accomplish.

Not only Democrats, however, but Republicans and members of minor parties favor an American League of Nations. Party by party, the vote in today's Institute poll is:

	A Pan-American League?
	YES	NO
Democrats	60% 40%
Republicans	51 49
Socialists	5 47
Others	5 44
NATION	56 44

With heavy Democratic majorities in its voting rolls, the south leads all other sections in approving a Pan-American league. Not far behind, however, come New England, and the east and Rocky Mountain states. In the grain belt states and on the Pacific coast the voters are divided 50-50 and 48-52 against the plan, respectively.

In spite of these sectional differences there is a solid groundwork of sentiment for a league based on the triple objectives of peace, neutrality and trade. Future Institute polls will show whether it waxes or wanes.

Not Approved by Geneva.

The vote for an American League of Nations is not a belated vote of confidence for the Geneva organization. Probably there has been no right-about-face on that score since the disillusioned days of 1919 and 1920, when the Republican "irreconcilables" of the United States senate, led by Hiram Johnson, William E. Borah, Henry Cabot Lodge and Philander Knox, blocked ratification of Woodrow Wilson's plan.

This was confirmed one year ago when the American Institute of Public Opinion conducted a nation-wide referendum on the question of co-operating with the League against aggressor nations. Public opinion defeated the proposition by a vote of 71% to 29%.

Distrust of the "Geneva League" may even be a contributing cause of sentiment for a Pan-American league, for a league with headquarters in Geneva in affairs of this hemisphere.

Conversely, some may have voted against a league of American nations in today's poll because they still hope to have the United States sit down at Geneva.

Farmers and persons living in small towns register the strongest support for a regional agreement, whereas young voters, as a class, are most opposed.

	A Pan-American League?
	YES	NO
Farmers	63% 37%
Small Towns	62 38
Cities	52 48
Men	59% 41%
Women	53 47
Young P'ple	40 60

Anniversary of Monroe Doctrine.

It was on December 2, 1823, that a United States congress, troubled by an unsettled political situation in Spain which threatened to reach into the western hemisphere, listened to President Monroe's famous pronouncement against European interference in the two Americas. That was the Monroe Doctrine, welcomed in 1823 but unpalatable as "Yankee imperialism" today to every country south of the Rio Grande. On December 1, 1936—almost exactly 113 years later—the Pan-American peace conference heard President Roosevelt reinterpret Monroe. Today's poll illuminates the public opinion behind an important new phase in western hemisphere history.

Voters Approve Peace Moves Here

A majority of voters in an Institute poll favor a new league of American nations, as delegates from 21 nations meet this week in the Congressional Palace, Buenos Aires, above, to discuss peace and neutrality.

Walnut Street, Philadelphia

THE CONSTITUTION

CLARK HOWELL JR.
Vice President and General Manager.
H. H. TROTTER
Business Manager.

Entered at the Postoffice at Atlanta as second-class mail matter.

Telephone Walnut 0653.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.
By Carrier or Mail.
1 Yr. 1 Mo. 3 Mo. 6 Mo. 1 Yr.
Daily 10c 25c 50c $1.00 $2.00
Sunday 5c 12c 25c 50c 1.00
Single Copies—Daily 5c.

BY MAIL ONLY.
Mail rates for R. D. and small or non-dealer towns for 1st, 2nd and 3d postal zones only, on application.

REMITTANCE COMPANY. National representatives, New York, Chicago, Detroit, Boston, Philadelphia, Atlanta.

THE CONSTITUTION is on sale in New York City by 2 p. m. the day after issue. It can be had by mail from the publisher, The Constitution, 100 Broadway and Forty-third Street (Times Building corner), New York 17, N. Y. The Constitution to be delivered to your room each day when you register at a New York Hotel.

The Constitution is not responsible for advance payment to out-of-town local carriers, dealers or agents. Receipts given for subscription payments are not in accordance with published rates are not authorized; also not responsible for subscription payments until received at office of publication.

Member of the Associated Press.
The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to use for publication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited to this paper and also the local news published herein.

ATLANTA, GA., DEC. 6, 1936.

VITALLY NEEDED REFORMS FACE NEW ADMINISTRATION

Out of the welter of conflicting reports, of charges and counter-charges, that during the past two weeks have involved the officials and the conduct of the police and fire departments, emerges one clearly defined fact—that there must be fundamental changes in the method of administration of these two departments charged with the protection of the lives and property of the people of the city.

So long as they remain political footballs, to be kicked around at the whim of selfish and unscrupulous politicians; as long as their heads are heads in name only and not in fact; and as their ranks are filled with men chosen for political reasons and not for fitness for the job, Atlanta cannot expect to receive the kind of policing and fire protection to which it is entitled and which it must have.

Two weeks ago the city was deeply shocked by the death of three persons, as the result of what the grand jury terms inefficient and bungling work on the part of the fire department in fighting a blaze in the business heart of the city. In addition, widespread apprehension was created as to what might happen if a more serious conflagration should occur.

Only a few days later there followed the charge by a group of citizens that the chief of police, while under the influence of intoxicants, had engaged in rowdy and disorderly conduct.

In its investigation of the fatal fire of three weeks ago, the grand jury, in voicing strong criticism of the work of both the fire and police departments, laid the fundamental blame to the "malicious influence of political interference with the make-up and the administration of the departments."

After a week of careful and impartial consideration of the charges of inefficiency and incompetency on the part of the fire department in connection with the blaze which gutted the Cable Piano Company building, the grand jury found that "the early efforts of the firemen to have the Mives of those trapped in the building were without competent direction and that an unfortunate amount of time elapsed before the 75-foot and the 85-foot aerial ladders were hoisted."

The jury in special presentations expressed the belief that "had these ladders been hoisted with the utmost promptness and efficiency the lives of at least two of those who died in the fire might have been saved," and places the responsibility upon "the lack of sufficient training for the firemen."

To its criticism of the work of the fire department the grand jury adds condemnation of the police department, charging that "there was an insufficient number of police officers present in the early stages of the fire and a lack of competent direction of police efforts after a sufficient number of officers had arrived on the scene."

In the face of these findings, reached by the grand jury after hearing the testimony of many witnesses and a careful study of all available facts, the board of firemasters continues to dilly-dally, ignoring both the report of the jury and the public demand for an authoritative statement as to the work of the department in connection with this fire.

Not until Friday night, more than two weeks after the fire, did the board issue a statement in which the department was entirely exonerated of the charges of inefficiency and lack of proper direction. Earlier in the week the board had refused to adopt resolutions of censure drawn up by a committee of its members who rightfully and courageously put a higher value on the safety of the lives and property of the people of the city than on saving the department from what the grand jury work in connection with this fire.

Instead of earnestly endeavoring to get at the root of the trouble in the department, the board of firemasters spent its time during the two weeks following the fire in re-instating, over the earnest protests of the chief, men who had been suspended or fired for serious offenses.

A man convicted of being drunk and engaging in a fight on a street, for which he was fined in police court, was put back to work with the amazing statement that his fine and one-day suspension was sufficient punishment.

Another man, a high-ranking officer of the department, was given only a nominal suspension on drinking charges, despite the plea of the chief that discipline in the department could not be maintained unless its officers were properly punished for violations of its rules.

Such action by the board is tantamount to an open invitation to the members of the department to go out and get drunk whenever they want to, with the assurance that they will suffer but little.

A prime qualification for a position on either the fire or police force should be that the applicant is sober and law-abiding.

These two instances, illustrative of many others which have occurred in both the fire and police departments, emphasize the destructive influence of politics in the public service. Certainly the chiefs of these departments, whoever they may be, cannot be expected to get results when their hands are tied by boards generally chiefly influenced in their decisions by personal and political reasons.

If, as the grand jury inferentially charges, the lack of efficiency in both the fire and police departments is attributable to the destructive influence of politics, a shocked public, many thousand members of which saw at least two of the victims of this fire meet agonizing deaths which might have been avoided, will not be content until these influences are wholly removed.

To this end the grand jury recommends that—

Both departments should be placed under the sole direction of a director of public safety, who should be appointed by the mayor with the advice and consent of city council.

Such a director of public safety should have the absolute power to hire and fire, and should be responsible for his actions solely to the mayor of the city of Atlanta. Chiefs of both departments should be appointed by and be responsible to such a director of public safety, and both chiefs should be placed beyond the reach of political influence from any source whatsoever.

The grand jury finds also that the equipment of the fire department is inexcusably antiquated and strongly recommends the appointment of a commission of experts, not connected with the city government, to ascertain the department's needs, both as regards apparatus and more adequate training methods.

Mayor-elect Hartsfield has pledged that the incoming administration will undertake a vigorous and thorough house cleaning which will sweep from both the police and fire departments the conditions and the personnel responsible.

It is better that the correction of the intolerable conditions now existing in these vitally important municipal departments should be left to the new administration. Mayor-elect Hartsfield is earnest, sincere and determined that under his administration the city government will render better and more economical service and that the recurring scandals that have prevented the proper functioning of several of its most vitally important departments shall be brought to an end.

It will be a Herculean task and he may have to overcome the bitter opposition of selfish political interests, but he will have the overwhelming support of a public disgusted and outraged with conditions that have grown intolerable.

What the city must have is a complete house cleaning of destructive political influences, of antiquated methods, and of unfit and inefficient municipal employees.

A long-suffering public, come finally to the end of its patience, will visit a storm of disapproval upon any who, for selfish or political reasons, may attempt to block whatever constructive program of reform is sought by the incoming administration.

DRIVERS' LICENSES AND SAFETY

One of the paramount duties of the Georgia general assembly which meets in January will be to enact a measure based on the standard drivers' license law now in operation in a total of twenty-one states and the District of Columbia, and provide for the creation of a state highway patrol with a division for the examination of drivers and automobiles operated under Georgia licenses.

Georgia can no longer bear the stigma of leading the ghastly record of deaths, injuries and property damage due to automobile accidents, in proportion to population and gallons of gasoline consumed. The standard drivers' license law is not an untried theory aimed at lessening such highway losses. Laws conforming to standard requirements have been in effect in several eastern states and in some of the Pacific coast states for from 12 to 20 years. Results have been so marked that in no case has such a law ever been repealed or weakened.

Until 1935 North Carolina had a small highway patrol, which was busy most of the time collecting taxes. A law was passed in 1935 to enlarge its highway patrol and provide for a drivers' license. As a result for the first nine months of 1936 there were 689 motor fatalities as compared with 757 for the same period in 1935; this, despite an increase of more than 10 percent in the number of motor vehicle registrations. During the month of September, 1936, 88 were killed as against 116 in September, 1935.

Virginia, with a population, number of motor vehicles, and miles of highway comparable with Georgia, passed the standard drivers' license act in 1932. It had 856 motor fatalities during 1935 as against 937 in Georgia.

From 1926 to 1935 states having the standard drivers' license law reduced motor vehicle deaths from a rate of 25 per 100,000 gallons of gasoline consumption to 19.7. Southern states without license laws advanced from 24 to 32, an increase of 33 percent.

On the opposite page Representative Clement E. Sutton, of Wilkes county, presents the third in a series of articles citing the necessity of the Georgia assembly passing adequate measures to check the slaughter in highway accidents in the state. His article in this issue is a comprehensive exposition of how the matter is handled in Pennsylvania, a pioneer in the movement for highway safety.

The practical operation of the standard drivers' license law works no hardship upon any motorist; the cost is an insignificant matter; the tests required need give no competent driver any concern. Every driver is entitled to expect that other drivers will be reasonably skillful and careful. To provide this protection for the motoring public, the privilege of operating a motor vehicle should be given only to those people who qualify as safe and efficient drivers and whose vehicles are properly equipped with brakes, lights, tires and other necessities so as not to become a hazard to other cars in traffic.

The drivers' license law raises the standard of driver performance, and its effect is not only to take a few drivers off the road, but to make a much larger number of drivers fit to stay on the road.

Then there was the commander in Madrid who gave the regiment a 15-minute fight talk, only to find that none of the boys spoke Spanish.

Two hamlets on Broadway are inviting us to consider what is rotten in Denmark. Conditions elsewhere in Europe are covered by the regular columnists.

A mysterious ray, calculated to paralyze any gasoline motor, is being tested for military use. On frosty mornings, our garage is alive with them.

The time comes when we must assume again an attitude of high indignation against the industrial smoke nuisance, bless its heart.

ONLY TOO TRUE

The friendly complaint expressed in a communication appearing elsewhere on this page by John H. Brennan, a Chicago citizen who recently traveled through Georgia by automobile, forcefully emphasizes the almost unbelievable indifference of both officers and the public to conditions on the highways in this state which would not be tolerated elsewhere.

This visitor to Georgia asks, "Is there a law in Georgia that requires cattle owners to allow them free access to highways?" and cites that in traveling only a short distance in a south Georgia county he had to stop "at least 20 times" to scarce cows from the road.

The tragic results possible from permitting cattle to frequent the highways was strikingly brought home to Atlantans only a few weeks ago when William Candler, one of the city's most valuable citizens, met death in south Georgia when his car was wrecked after striking a cow.

No wonder that this autoist, accustomed to traveling in states where recognition is given to the necessity of protecting the lives of innocent and law-abiding citizens on the highways, marvels at the number of "one-eyed automobiles," and those with no tail lights, which are to be found on even the chief traffic arteries of the state.

In addition to the stunning loss in life, limb and property, a further penalty Georgia is paying for the conditions on the highways is emphasized in the inquiry of this Illinois citizen that "I like Georgia and Georgians, but as man to man, wouldn't you suggest that I tell my friends in the middle west who are going to Florida, to go on the train and pass up the risks they will run by driving through Georgia?"

Georgia has no more valuable asset than the lives of its citizens, and yet hundreds are being sacrificed needlessly every year on our highways because we do not enact and enforce the simple safety laws which have eliminated much of the dangers on the public thoroughfares of other states.

Material contribution to the property and development of the state comes from the presence of tourists in Georgia, especially in the fall and spring season when families from the north and west come southward to spend the winter in Florida.

The extent to which this tourist travel through the state by automobile is lessened because of the unreasonable dangers encountered on Georgia highways is indicated by the communication of this "good friend" of Georgia, who is amazed at the indifference of Georgians to dangers that can be eliminated.

The general assembly will have no more vitally important task when it meets in January than to create an efficient and well-equipped state highway system and to supply laws that will require all users of the public highways to rigidly observe the same safety precautions which are operating to save lives and property in other states.

ALAS, SPINACH!

After many years in which fond, and worried, mothers have told rebellious children that they must eat spinach if they would grow up strong and healthy, even if they did not like it, come a couple of renowned professors of physiological chemistry who assert that spinach, after digestion, does not possess the wonderful body-building properties ascribed to it.

The late Dr. Lafayette B. Mendel, a pioneer nutritionist, first instituted a study of spinach, and Drs. George T. Cowgill and Mak K. Horowitz, of New Haven (Yale), followed the research. They found that the vegetable is easily digested, but that less than one-half of its iron and less than one-third of its calcium content are absorbed by the body during the process of assimilation. Consequently, they assert, most of the body-building value is lost.

They conclude that to obtain benefit a child would have to eat about three times the normal portion—a difficult accomplishment, as the normal portion is usually consumed under duress.

However, spinach has its usefulness, it is revealed. Asked if he thought the truth about spinach would lessen its consumption, Dr. Horowitz said:

I doubt it very much. I still eat spinach, although I am rather tired of looking at it after these two years in which I have worked with it. But, like all vegetables, it is good roughage.

It is stated that all other vegetables will be analyzed, so in due time we may learn what body-building properties we absorb by eating onions, turnip tops, okra and other root and leaf garden products. Perhaps the learned scientists will also inform us of the value of pot liquor, and whether to dunk or not to dunk our corn pone.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

You have seen gangsters, Tough and ugly ones, In pictures on the screen, In the news— Well, he looked like that.

We were together, It was late at night, Waiting on the corner, For the car— My wallet was fat.

I noticed his hand, Pushed under his coat, Began, then, to worry, Thought, "Suppose He's clutching a gat!"

Street was quite empty Except for me two; Inside I grew cold, While sweat oozed From under my hat.

Then, his coat opened, I saw that he held, Gently, a starveling City stray— Anemic young cat.

The Case of the Well-Worn Bank Steps.

What do you make of this: Just a few steps from the corner, Five Points, on Marietta street, is the entrance to one of Atlanta's big banks. Leading up to the main banking room is a stairway, with a brass railing, dividing it into two sectors, one for ascending and one for descending.

Each step is edged with a brass, ridged tread, to prevent feet slipping. The trends leading upward are worn smooth, most of them. And those coming down are not worn at all. As good as new, in fact.

Discussed the matter with a friend of mine, cashier of the bank.

I suggested, inasmuch as it seemed evident far more people went up than came down, the bank must be responsible, in some way, for the phenomenon.

Asked if it was possible so many would be borrowers, told their security was inadequate, had jumped out of the windows?

Or could it be the incoming patrons, so laden with currency for deposit, and the outgoing so lightened, it makes all this difference in these brass treads?

The cashier wanted to go into a technical explanation, saying people going up stairs naturally tread heavier than people coming down. Or that they stepped closer to the edges of the steps. Or something like that.

But I refuse to accept such prosaic explanations of what I insist is a real mystery thriller.

What DOES the bank do with the bodies?

Picturesque

Atlantans of Old.

Press Huddleston indulged in a little reminiscence last night.

He descanted on the subject of peculiar characters who were familiar on the streets of Atlanta, long ago.

Spoke of the goat man, the fellow who traveled around in a little wagon drawn by a goat.

Of well-known officers of the police force, friends of everyone and indissolubly linked with the history of the city.

And of "Old Limerick," "Old Limerick," he said, was a disreputable greybeard, his career largely confined to repeated orgies of excessive drinking. Very frequently, Press said, "Old Limerick" would be so inebriated that he was absolutely necessary for the police to load him into some sort of conveyance and pour him into a cell at police station.

Every time they started to seize him, "Old Limerick" would fall on his back, on the street, and with wild yells defend himself against the police.

"Many a policeman got a badly bruised shin from Old Limerick's flying kick," he recalled.

Does anyone remember the life story of "Old Limerick"? Or of the goat man? Or others of like caliber?

Press said he has seen a section of local tradition the Historical Society has neglected.

Only One

Question.

He is a well-known local businessman. Last Monday he came to his office, and the day after, wearing a most noticeable black eye.

He tried to explain to numerous solicitous (but phony) sympathizers about the sudden opening of the door. But they all laughed and everyone asked the same question:

"Who were you for? Tech or Georgia?"

How Do They Do It?

It may be cruel to raise false hopes. But, according to me, some people seem to get a substantial supplementary income by winning prizes in all these contests you hear of over the air or read about in the advertising columns.

I have heard of a young married couple in Atlanta who are reputed to be millionaires. They live in a comfortable home and an expensive make of automobile out of their winnings.

So many prizes have they won in fact, according to my informant, that their names and address are known to all the contest directors and they can't win any more under their right names.

So they are now living in their entries under the names of obliging friends.

And still winning.

Business Is Picking Up at the North Pole, Too

By RALPH T. JONES.

You have seen gangsters, Tough and ugly ones, In pictures on the screen, In the news— Well, he looked like that.

We were together, It was late at night, Waiting on the corner, For the car— My wallet was fat.

I noticed his hand, Pushed under his coat, Began, then, to worry, Thought, "Suppose He's clutching a gat!"

Street was quite empty Except for me two; Inside I grew cold, While sweat oozed From under my hat.

The Case of the Well-Worn Bank Steps.

What do you make of this: Just a few steps from the corner, Five Points, on Marietta street, is the entrance to one of Atlanta's big banks. Leading up to the main banking room is a stairway, with a brass railing, dividing it into two sectors, one for ascending and one for descending.

Each step is edged with a brass, ridged tread, to prevent feet slipping. The trends leading upward are worn smooth, most of them. And those coming down are not worn at all. As good as new, in fact.

Discussed the matter with a friend of mine, cashier of the bank.

I suggested, inasmuch as it seemed evident far more people went up than came down, the bank must be responsible, in some way, for the phenomenon.

Asked if it was possible so many would be borrowers, told their security was inadequate, had jumped out of the windows?

Or could it be the incoming patrons, so laden with currency for deposit, and the outgoing so lightened, it makes all this difference in these brass treads?

The cashier wanted to go into a technical explanation, saying people going up stairs naturally tread heavier than people coming down. Or that they stepped closer to the edges of the steps. Or something like that.

But I refuse to accept such prosaic explanations of what I insist is a real mystery thriller.

What DOES the bank do with the bodies?

Picturesque

Atlantans of Old.

Press Huddleston indulged in a little reminiscence last night.

He descanted on the subject of peculiar characters who were familiar on the streets of Atlanta, long ago.

Spoke of the goat man, the fellow who traveled around in a little wagon drawn by a goat.

Of well-known officers of the police force, friends of everyone and indissolubly linked with the history of the city.

And of "Old Limerick," "Old Limerick," he said, was a disreputable greybeard, his career largely confined to repeated orgies of excessive drinking. Very frequently, Press said, "Old Limerick" would be so inebriated that he was absolutely necessary for the police to load him into some sort of conveyance and pour him into a cell at police station.

Every time they started to seize him, "Old Limerick" would fall on his back, on the street, and with wild yells defend himself against the police.

"Many a policeman got a badly bruised shin from Old Limerick's flying kick," he recalled.

Does anyone remember the life story of "Old Limerick"? Or of the goat man? Or others of like caliber?

Press said he has seen a section of local tradition the Historical Society has neglected.

Only One

Question.

He is a well-known local businessman. Last Monday he came to his office, and the day after, wearing a most noticeable black eye.

He tried to explain to numerous solicitous (but phony) sympathizers about the sudden opening of the door. But they all laughed and everyone asked the same question:

"Who were you for? Tech or Georgia?"

How Do They Do It?

It may be cruel to raise false hopes. But, according to me, some people seem to get a substantial supplementary income by winning prizes in all these contests you hear of over the air or read about in the advertising columns.

I have heard of a young married couple in Atlanta who are reputed to be millionaires. They live in a comfortable home and an expensive make of automobile out of their winnings.

So many prizes have they won in fact, according to my informant, that their names and address are known to all the contest directors and they can't win any more under their right names.

So they are now living in their entries under the names of obliging friends.

And still winning.

Business Is Picking Up at the North Pole, Too

By RALPH T. JONES.

You have seen gangsters, Tough and ugly ones, In pictures on the screen, In the news— Well, he looked like that.

We were together, It was late at night, Waiting on the corner, For the car— My wallet was fat.

I noticed his hand, Pushed under his coat, Began, then, to worry, Thought, "Suppose He's clutching a gat!"

Street was quite empty Except for me two; Inside I grew cold, While sweat oozed From under my hat.

The Case of the Well-Worn Bank Steps.

What do you make of this: Just a few steps from the corner, Five Points, on Marietta street, is the entrance to one of Atlanta's big banks. Leading up to the main banking room is a stairway, with a brass railing, dividing it into two sectors, one for ascending and one for descending.

Each step is edged with a brass, ridged tread, to prevent feet slipping. The trends leading upward are worn smooth, most of them. And those coming down are not worn at all. As good as new, in fact.

Discussed the matter with a friend of mine, cashier of the bank.

I suggested, inasmuch as it seemed evident far more people went up than came down, the bank must be responsible, in some way, for the phenomenon.

Asked if it was possible so many would be borrowers, told their security was inadequate, had jumped out of the windows?

Or could it be the incoming patrons, so laden with currency for deposit, and the outgoing so lightened, it makes all this difference in these brass treads?

The cashier wanted to go into a technical explanation, saying people going up stairs naturally tread heavier than people coming down. Or that they stepped closer to the edges of the steps. Or something like that.

But I refuse to accept such prosaic explanations of what I insist is a real mystery thriller.

What DOES the bank do with the bodies?

Picturesque

Atlantans of Old.

Press Huddleston indulged in a little reminiscence last night.

He descanted on the subject of peculiar characters who were familiar on the streets of Atlanta, long ago.

Spoke of the goat man, the fellow who traveled around in a little wagon drawn by a goat.

Of well-known officers of the police force, friends of everyone and indissolubly linked with the history of the city.

And of "Old Limerick," "Old Limerick," he said, was a disreputable greybeard, his career largely confined to repeated orgies of excessive drinking. Very frequently, Press said, "Old Limerick" would be so inebriated that he was absolutely necessary for the police to load him into some sort of conveyance and pour him into a cell at police station.

Every time they started to seize him, "Old Limerick" would fall on his back, on the street, and with wild yells defend himself against the police.

"Many a policeman got a badly bruised shin from Old Limerick's flying kick," he recalled.

Does anyone remember the life story of "Old Limerick"? Or of the goat man? Or others of like caliber?

Markers on Local Historic Sites Planned by Commerce Chamber

Atlanta's historic and colorful past is about to receive a public recognition that has long been neglected. Markers that will guide tourists to the spots where Atlanta's history was written and will help to educate Atlantans in the founding and the early struggles to build and preserve the city will be placed by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, in co-operation with the Atlanta Historical Society.

The plan was launched at a meeting of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, officers and directors of the Historical Society and representatives of the Atlanta Hotel Men's Association and the Atlanta Convention and Tourist Bureau.

Impetus was given the meeting when W. Eugene Harrington, president of the Chamber and sponsor of the movement, read a letter from Margaret Mitchell, author of "Gone With the Wind," in which she recounted struggles she had had with tourists passing through Atlanta who can find no one to show them locations of historic spots they want to visit and appeal to her.

The movement launched by Harrington is to serve these purposes:

1. To encourage the visits of tourists to Atlanta and make the city a more pleasant and profitable to them while they are here.

2. To assure for Atlanta a steady revenue by attracting to the city a creditable share of the tourists who flock to southern resorts for the winter. Their number averages now about 3,000,000 persons annually.

3. To revive and stimulate the interest of Atlantans in their city's historic associations.

4. To familiarize all Atlantans with actual locations of historic scenes so that every citizen will be equipped to direct visitors to points of interest.

"Atlanta is the most historic city in the south and I believe if the Chamber of Commerce will sponsor this movement, with other organizations co-operating, it will meet with success," declared Eugene M. Mitchell, Atlanta lawyer, former president of the Historical Society and father of Margaret Mitchell, author of "Gone With the Wind."

Harrington launched the plan by reading to the meeting the letter from Mrs. John R. Marsh (Margaret Mitchell).

"I had heard she had some intimate contacts with some dissatisfied tourists, who seemed unable to learn what Atlanta was all about after they had taken the trouble to travel across the country to visit us," said Harrington. "I told her we were planning to make the city coherently and we wanted some suggestions from her."

Harrington told of having learned that a widespread interest had been aroused in Atlanta by the tremendous sales of "Gone With the Wind" and the amazing popular appeal of the book.

Civic Value of Book.

"That book," he said, "has brought us advertising we could never have bought. We ought to capitalize on it. I have brought everyone together to decide just how we can make Atlanta more attractive to these visitors and by making their visits pleasurable, increase the enormous revenue they bring to the city."

"Your message that a group of business men are interested themselves in the matter of putting up markers at historic spots in and around Atlanta appeals to me very much," wrote Mitchell. "In fact, I have often wondered why something of this kind was not done long ago. Atlanta has a fascinating history, but strangers passing through the town would never know it. Only a few of the many interesting places have been marked; the rest are not only unidentified but, if strangers inquire about them, comparatively few of our own Atlanta people are able to answer the questions."

"My experiences of the past few months have impressed me with the need for a serious program along this line. Since July, tourists by the hundreds have written me, telephoned me and called at my apartment to ask how they could locate the battlefield of Peachtree creek and other battles fought around Atlanta where the old Union soldiers were, whether any of the old battleworks are still in existence and how to find them, and innumerable other questions. Trying to give them directions is practically impossible, since there are so few markers in the whole city and no direction signs to help strangers find the places they want to see. To the best of my knowledge there isn't even a map that is generally available to tourists which will show them the location of Atlanta's many historic spots."

"I am always sorry to see the tourists leave Atlanta with their curiosity unsatisfied but, short of carrying them over the city on a personally conducted tour, which I can't, of course, do, I know of no way to help them see the places they seem so anxious to see. But if Atlanta should mark its interesting spots and provide suitable maps, as other cities have done, it would make our city much more attractive to visitors and, I believe, to our own people as well."

"If such a program should be undertaken, it ought to be carried out with strict regard for historical accuracy. In the research work for my novel, I found some very interesting rumors and legends had been confused with facts and where haste and carelessness had resulted in serious misstatements. If markers are put up they should be by all means be accurate. If they are not, we are better off with no markers at all. I would think that the location and the markers ought to be decided by some group composed of people who have given real study to Atlanta's past history. The Atlanta Historical Society and certain other groups and individuals have done invaluable work in digging out the facts from original sources and they should be consulted in any program of this kind."

Present at Meeting.

At the meeting to consider Harrington's plan, besides Mr. Mitchell, father of the author, were Walter McElreath, chairman of the board of the Atlanta Historical Society; John Ashley Jones, Wilbur G. Kurtz and Miss Ruth Blair, members of the society's executive committee; Mrs. A. L. DeLoach, president of the convention bureau; J. F. DeJarnette, of the Atlanta Hotel Men's Association; Joe Harris, assistant publisher of the Atlanta Georgian-American; Francis W. Clark, associate editor, The Atlanta Constitution; Walter C. Hendrix, chairman historic markers committee of the Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. A. G. Maxwell, W. J. Carter, J. E. Warren, Lewis D. Sharp and W. R. Ulrich, directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

They have been trying to stimulate public interest in just such a move, declared Mr. McElreath, pledging the aid of the historical society.

"I'm embarrassed every time someone asks me where some battlefield is or where some particular place of Atlanta history was enacted," said Belle Tate. "Our garage houses cars from 25 or 30 states every night and our drivers do their best to supply them with information they want, but we are just not equipped to answer all the questions."

"The hotel men do their best to direct the tourists but we need more detailed information," said DeJarnette. "We need markers and maps and folders and we shall be glad to do our best when we know the city better ourselves."

Temporary Markers.

As a starter, wooden markers were suggested by Wilbur G. Kurtz, well-known historian and Atlanta artist. "We can select the spots that should be marked and place the markers, temporarily, at first, until we are certain that our locations are exact," said Kurtz. "Then we can replace these temporary markers later with more substantial ones."

Other cities, according to Kurtz, have found that when markers are first distributed throughout a city innumerable objections arise from persons who declare they are placed wrong. It takes some years to straighten out these disputes and ultimately arrive at exact locations by popular agreement.

Kurtz accepted appointment by Harrington as the man who will arrange for the assembly of the markers and will write the text for each. He will co-operate with the historical society and others interested in Atlanta to select the most significant spots in the city's history.

A committee will be appointed by Harrington to serve permanently until the job is completed.

"The D. A. R.'s, sometime ago, were interested in placing markers at the various historical points," said Mr. Mitchell. "One point of interest was the location of Standing Peachtree."

Lack of Co-operation.

"But they did not meet with success, due to the fact that they were unable to get the co-operation of the city. Other points they desired to mark were branches of the Atlanta Historical Society on the site of the First National Bank, the Kimball house and Peachtree Arcade, but property owners opposed this as they were afraid it would create the impression the foundations were not secure."

"We must educate people to the importance of allowing these markers to be placed," said Mr. Mitchell. "He pointed out property owners along Missionary Ridge had operated to make that area one of the most interesting to tourists in the south, but they should be by all means be accurate. If they are not, we are better off with no markers at all. I would think that the location and the markers ought to be decided by some group composed of people who have given real study to Atlanta's past history. The Atlanta Historical Society and certain other groups and individuals have done invaluable work in digging out the facts from original sources and they should be consulted in any program of this kind."

Present at Meeting.

At the meeting to consider Harrington's plan, besides Mr. Mitchell, father of the author, were Walter McElreath, chairman of the board of the Atlanta Historical Society; John Ashley Jones, Wilbur G. Kurtz and Miss Ruth Blair, members of the society's executive committee; Mrs. A. L. DeLoach, president of the convention bureau; J. F. DeJarnette, of the Atlanta Hotel Men's Association; Joe Harris, assistant publisher of the Atlanta Georgian-American; Francis W. Clark, associate editor, The Atlanta Constitution; Walter C. Hendrix, chairman historic markers committee of the Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. A. G. Maxwell, W. J. Carter, J. E. Warren, Lewis D. Sharp and W. R. Ulrich, directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

They have been trying to stimulate public interest in just such a move, declared Mr. McElreath, pledging the aid of the historical society.

"I'm embarrassed every time someone asks me where some battlefield is or where some particular place of Atlanta history was enacted," said Belle Tate. "Our garage houses cars from 25 or 30 states every night and our drivers do their best to supply them with information they want, but we are just not equipped to answer all the questions."

"The hotel men do their best to direct the tourists but we need more detailed information," said DeJarnette. "We need markers and maps and folders and we shall be glad to do our best when we know the city better ourselves."

Temporary Markers.

As a starter, wooden markers were suggested by Wilbur G. Kurtz, well-known historian and Atlanta artist. "We can select the spots that should be marked and place the markers, temporarily, at first, until we are certain that our locations are exact," said Kurtz. "Then we can replace these temporary markers later with more substantial ones."

Other cities, according to Kurtz, have found that when markers are first distributed throughout a city innumerable objections arise from persons who declare they are placed wrong. It takes some years to straighten out these disputes and ultimately arrive at exact locations by popular agreement.

Kurtz accepted appointment by Harrington as the man who will arrange for the assembly of the markers and will write the text for each. He will co-operate with the historical society and others interested in Atlanta to select the most significant spots in the city's history.

A committee will be appointed by Harrington to serve permanently until the job is completed.

"The D. A. R.'s, sometime ago, were interested in placing markers at the various historical points," said Mr. Mitchell. "One point of interest was the location of Standing Peachtree."

Lack of Co-operation.

"But they did not meet with success, due to the fact that they were unable to get the co-operation of the city. Other points they desired to mark were branches of the Atlanta Historical Society on the site of the First National Bank, the Kimball house and Peachtree Arcade, but property owners opposed this as they were afraid it would create the impression the foundations were not secure."

"We must educate people to the importance of allowing these markers to be placed," said Mr. Mitchell. "He pointed out property owners along Missionary Ridge had operated to make that area one of the most interesting to tourists in the south, but they should be by all means be accurate. If they are not, we are better off with no markers at all. I would think that the location and the markers ought to be decided by some group composed of people who have given real study to Atlanta's past history. The Atlanta Historical Society and certain other groups and individuals have done invaluable work in digging out the facts from original sources and they should be consulted in any program of this kind."

Present at Meeting.

At the meeting to consider Harrington's plan, besides Mr. Mitchell, father of the author, were Walter McElreath, chairman of the board of the Atlanta Historical Society; John Ashley Jones, Wilbur G. Kurtz and Miss Ruth Blair, members of the society's executive committee; Mrs. A. L. DeLoach, president of the convention bureau; J. F. DeJarnette, of the Atlanta Hotel Men's Association; Joe Harris, assistant publisher of the Atlanta Georgian-American; Francis W. Clark, associate editor, The Atlanta Constitution; Walter C. Hendrix, chairman historic markers committee of the Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. A. G. Maxwell, W. J. Carter, J. E. Warren, Lewis D. Sharp and W. R. Ulrich, directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

They have been trying to stimulate public interest in just such a move, declared Mr. McElreath, pledging the aid of the historical society.

"I'm embarrassed every time someone asks me where some battlefield is or where some particular place of Atlanta history was enacted," said Belle Tate. "Our garage houses cars from 25 or 30 states every night and our drivers do their best to supply them with information they want, but we are just not equipped to answer all the questions."

"The hotel men do their best to direct the tourists but we need more detailed information," said DeJarnette. "We need markers and maps and folders and we shall be glad to do our best when we know the city better ourselves."

Temporary Markers.

As a starter, wooden markers were suggested by Wilbur G. Kurtz, well-known historian and Atlanta artist. "We can select the spots that should be marked and place the markers, temporarily, at first, until we are certain that our locations are exact," said Kurtz. "Then we can replace these temporary markers later with more substantial ones."

Other cities, according to Kurtz, have found that when markers are first distributed throughout a city innumerable objections arise from persons who declare they are placed wrong. It takes some years to straighten out these disputes and ultimately arrive at exact locations by popular agreement.

Kurtz accepted appointment by Harrington as the man who will arrange for the assembly of the markers and will write the text for each. He will co-operate with the historical society and others interested in Atlanta to select the most significant spots in the city's history.

A committee will be appointed by Harrington to serve permanently until the job is completed.

"The D. A. R.'s, sometime ago, were interested in placing markers at the various historical points," said Mr. Mitchell. "One point of interest was the location of Standing Peachtree."

Lack of Co-operation.

"But they did not meet with success, due to the fact that they were unable to get the co-operation of the city. Other points they desired to mark were branches of the Atlanta Historical Society on the site of the First National Bank, the Kimball house and Peachtree Arcade, but property owners opposed this as they were afraid it would create the impression the foundations were not secure."

"We must educate people to the importance of allowing these markers to be placed," said Mr. Mitchell. "He pointed out property owners along Missionary Ridge had operated to make that area one of the most interesting to tourists in the south, but they should be by all means be accurate. If they are not, we are better off with no markers at all. I would think that the location and the markers ought to be decided by some group composed of people who have given real study to Atlanta's past history. The Atlanta Historical Society and certain other groups and individuals have done invaluable work in digging out the facts from original sources and they should be consulted in any program of this kind."

Present at Meeting.

At the meeting to consider Harrington's plan, besides Mr. Mitchell, father of the author, were Walter McElreath, chairman of the board of the Atlanta Historical Society; John Ashley Jones, Wilbur G. Kurtz and Miss Ruth Blair, members of the society's executive committee; Mrs. A. L. DeLoach, president of the convention bureau; J. F. DeJarnette, of the Atlanta Hotel Men's Association; Joe Harris, assistant publisher of the Atlanta Georgian-American; Francis W. Clark, associate editor, The Atlanta Constitution; Walter C. Hendrix, chairman historic markers committee of the Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. A. G. Maxwell, W. J. Carter, J. E. Warren, Lewis D. Sharp and W. R. Ulrich, directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

They have been trying to stimulate public interest in just such a move, declared Mr. McElreath, pledging the aid of the historical society.

"I'm embarrassed every time someone asks me where some battlefield is or where some particular place of Atlanta history was enacted," said Belle Tate. "Our garage houses cars from 25 or 30 states every night and our drivers do their best to supply them with information they want, but we are just not equipped to answer all the questions."

"The hotel men do their best to direct the tourists but we need more detailed information," said DeJarnette. "We need markers and maps and folders and we shall be glad to do our best when we know the city better ourselves."

Temporary Markers.

As a starter, wooden markers were suggested by Wilbur G. Kurtz, well-known historian and Atlanta artist. "We can select the spots that should be marked and place the markers, temporarily, at first, until we are certain that our locations are exact," said Kurtz. "Then we can replace these temporary markers later with more substantial ones."

Other cities, according to Kurtz, have found that when markers are first distributed throughout a city innumerable objections arise from persons who declare they are placed wrong. It takes some years to straighten out these disputes and ultimately arrive at exact locations by popular agreement.

Kurtz accepted appointment by Harrington as the man who will arrange for the assembly of the markers and will write the text for each. He will co-operate with the historical society and others interested in Atlanta to select the most significant spots in the city's history.

A committee will be appointed by Harrington to serve permanently until the job is completed.

"The D. A. R.'s, sometime ago, were interested in placing markers at the various historical points," said Mr. Mitchell. "One point of interest was the location of Standing Peachtree."

Lack of Co-operation.

"But they did not meet with success, due to the fact that they were unable to get the co-operation of the city. Other points they desired to mark were branches of the Atlanta Historical Society on the site of the First National Bank, the Kimball house and Peachtree Arcade, but property owners opposed this as they were afraid it would create the impression the foundations were not secure."

"We must educate people to the importance of allowing these markers to be placed," said Mr. Mitchell. "He pointed out property owners along Missionary Ridge had operated to make that area one of the most interesting to tourists in the south, but they should be by all means be accurate. If they are not, we are better off with no markers at all. I would think that the location and the markers ought to be decided by some group composed of people who have given real study to Atlanta's past history. The Atlanta Historical Society and certain other groups and individuals have done invaluable work in digging out the facts from original sources and they should be consulted in any program of this kind."

Present at Meeting.

At the meeting to consider Harrington's plan, besides Mr. Mitchell, father of the author, were Walter McElreath, chairman of the board of the Atlanta Historical Society; John Ashley Jones, Wilbur G. Kurtz and Miss Ruth Blair, members of the society's executive committee; Mrs. A. L. DeLoach, president of the convention bureau; J. F. DeJarnette, of the Atlanta Hotel Men's Association; Joe Harris, assistant publisher of the Atlanta Georgian-American; Francis W. Clark, associate editor, The Atlanta Constitution; Walter C. Hendrix, chairman historic markers committee of the Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. A. G. Maxwell, W. J. Carter, J. E. Warren, Lewis D. Sharp and W. R. Ulrich, directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

They have been trying to stimulate public interest in just such a move, declared Mr. McElreath, pledging the aid of the historical society.

"I'm embarrassed every time someone asks me where some battlefield is or where some particular place of Atlanta history was enacted," said Belle Tate. "Our garage houses cars from 25 or 30 states every night and our drivers do their best to supply them with information they want, but we are just not equipped to answer all the questions."

"The hotel men do their best to direct the tourists but we need more detailed information," said DeJarnette. "We need markers and maps and folders and we shall be glad to do our best when we know the city better ourselves."

Temporary Markers.

As a starter, wooden markers were suggested by Wilbur G. Kurtz, well-known historian and Atlanta artist. "We can select the spots that should be marked and place the markers, temporarily, at first, until we are certain that our locations are exact," said Kurtz. "Then we can replace these temporary markers later with more substantial ones."

Other cities, according to Kurtz, have found that when markers are first distributed throughout a city innumerable objections arise from persons who declare they are placed wrong. It takes some years to straighten out these disputes and ultimately arrive at exact locations by popular agreement.

Kurtz accepted appointment by Harrington as the man who will arrange for the assembly of the markers and will write the text for each. He will co-operate with the historical society and others interested in Atlanta to select the most significant spots in the city's history.

A committee will be appointed by Harrington to serve permanently until the job is completed.

"The D. A. R.'s, sometime ago, were interested in placing markers at the various historical points," said Mr. Mitchell. "One point of interest was the location of Standing Peachtree."

Lack of Co-operation.

"But they did not meet with success, due to the fact that they were unable to get the co-operation of the city. Other points they desired to mark were branches of the Atlanta Historical Society on the site of the First National Bank, the Kimball house and Peachtree Arcade, but property owners opposed this as they were afraid it would create the impression the foundations were not secure."

"We must educate people to the importance of allowing these markers to be placed," said Mr. Mitchell. "He pointed out property owners along Missionary Ridge had operated to make that area one of the most interesting to tourists in the south, but they should be by all means be accurate. If they are not, we are better off with no markers at all. I would think that the location and the markers ought to be decided by some group composed of people who have given real study to Atlanta's past history. The Atlanta Historical Society and certain other groups and individuals have done invaluable work in digging out the facts from original sources and they should be consulted in any program of this kind."

Present at Meeting.

At the meeting to consider Harrington's plan, besides Mr. Mitchell, father of the author, were Walter McElreath, chairman of the board of the Atlanta Historical Society; John Ashley Jones, Wilbur G. Kurtz and Miss Ruth Blair, members of the society's executive committee; Mrs. A. L. DeLoach, president of the convention bureau; J. F. DeJarnette, of the Atlanta Hotel Men's Association; Joe Harris, assistant publisher of the Atlanta Georgian-American; Francis W. Clark, associate editor, The Atlanta Constitution; Walter C. Hendrix, chairman historic markers committee of the Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. A. G. Maxwell, W. J. Carter, J. E. Warren, Lewis D. Sharp and W. R. Ulrich, directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

They have been trying to stimulate public interest in just such a move, declared Mr. McElreath, pledging the aid of the historical society.

"I'm embarrassed every time someone asks me where some battlefield is or where some particular place of Atlanta history was enacted," said Belle Tate. "Our garage houses cars from 25 or 30 states every night and our drivers do their best to supply them with information they want, but we are just not equipped to answer all the questions."

"The hotel men do their best to direct the tourists but we need more detailed information," said DeJarnette. "We need markers and maps and folders and we shall be glad to do our best when we know the city better ourselves."

Temporary Markers.

As a starter, wooden markers were suggested by Wilbur G. Kurtz, well-known historian and Atlanta artist. "We can select the spots that should be marked and place the markers, temporarily, at first, until we are certain that our locations are exact," said Kurtz. "Then we can replace these temporary markers later with more substantial ones."

Other cities, according to Kurtz, have found that when markers are first distributed throughout a city innumerable objections arise from persons who declare they are placed wrong. It takes some years to straighten out these disputes and ultimately arrive at exact locations by popular agreement.

Kurtz accepted appointment by Harrington as the man who will arrange for the assembly of the markers and will write the text for each. He will co-operate with the historical society and others interested in Atlanta to select the most significant spots in the city's history.

A committee will be appointed by Harrington to serve permanently until the job is completed.

"The D. A. R.'s, sometime ago, were interested in placing markers at the various historical points," said Mr. Mitchell. "One point of interest was the location of Standing Peachtree."

Lack of Co-operation.

"But they did not meet with success, due to the fact that they were unable to get the co-operation of the city. Other points they desired to mark were branches of the Atlanta Historical Society on the site of the First National Bank, the Kimball house and Peachtree Arcade, but property owners opposed this as they were afraid it would create the impression the foundations were not secure."

"We must educate people to the importance of allowing these markers to be placed," said Mr. Mitchell. "He pointed out property owners along Missionary Ridge had operated to make that area one of the most interesting to tourists in the south, but they should be by all means be accurate. If they are not, we are better off with no markers at all. I would think that the location and the markers ought to be decided by some group composed of people who have given real study to Atlanta's past history. The Atlanta Historical Society and certain other groups and individuals have done invaluable work in digging out the facts from original sources and they should be consulted in any program of this kind."

Present at Meeting.

At the meeting to consider Harrington's plan, besides Mr. Mitchell, father of the author, were Walter McElreath, chairman of the board of the Atlanta Historical Society; John Ashley Jones, Wilbur G. Kurtz and Miss Ruth Blair, members of the society's executive committee; Mrs. A. L. DeLoach, president of the convention bureau; J. F. DeJarnette, of the Atlanta Hotel Men's Association; Joe Harris, assistant publisher of the Atlanta Georgian-American; Francis W. Clark, associate editor, The Atlanta Constitution; Walter C. Hendrix, chairman historic markers committee of the Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. A. G. Maxwell, W. J. Carter, J. E. Warren, Lewis D. Sharp and W. R. Ulrich, directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

They have been trying to stimulate public interest in just such a move, declared Mr. McElreath, pledging the aid of the historical society.

"I'm embarrassed every time someone asks me where some battlefield is or where some particular place of Atlanta history was enacted," said Belle Tate. "Our garage houses cars from 25 or 30 states every night and our drivers do their best to supply them with information they want, but we are just not equipped to answer all the questions."

"The hotel men do their best to direct the tourists but we need more detailed information," said DeJarnette. "We need markers and maps and folders and we shall be glad to do our best when we know the city better ourselves."

Temporary Markers.

As a starter, wooden markers were suggested by Wilbur G. Kurtz, well-known historian and Atlanta artist. "We can select the spots that should be marked and place the markers, temporarily, at first, until we are certain that our locations are exact," said Kurtz. "Then we can replace these temporary markers later with more substantial ones."

Other cities, according to Kurtz, have found that when markers are first distributed throughout a city innumerable objections arise from persons who declare they are placed wrong. It takes some years to straighten out these disputes and ultimately arrive at exact locations by popular agreement.

Kurtz accepted appointment by Harrington as the man who will arrange for the assembly of the markers and will write the text for each. He will co-operate with the historical society and others interested in Atlanta to select the most significant spots in the city's history.

A committee will be appointed by Harrington to serve permanently until the job is completed.

"The D. A. R.'s, sometime ago, were interested in placing markers at the various historical points," said Mr. Mitchell. "One point of interest was the location of Standing Peachtree."

Lack of Co-operation.

"But they did not meet with success, due to the fact that they were unable to get the co-operation of the city. Other points they desired to mark were branches of the Atlanta Historical Society on the site of the First National Bank, the Kimball house and Peachtree Arcade, but property owners opposed this as they were afraid it would create the impression the foundations were not secure."

"We must educate people to the importance of allowing these markers to be placed," said Mr. Mitchell. "He pointed out property owners along Missionary Ridge had operated to make that area one of the most interesting to tourists in the south, but they should be by all means be accurate. If they are not, we are better off with no markers at all. I would think that the location and the markers ought to be decided by some group composed of people who have given real study to Atlanta's past history. The Atlanta Historical Society and certain other groups and individuals have done invaluable work in digging out the facts from original sources and they should be consulted in any program of this kind."

Present at Meeting.

At the meeting to consider Harrington's plan, besides Mr. Mitchell, father of the author, were Walter McElreath, chairman of the board of the Atlanta Historical Society; John Ashley Jones, Wilbur G. Kurtz and Miss Ruth Blair, members of the society's executive committee; Mrs. A. L. DeLoach, president of the convention bureau; J. F. DeJarnette, of the Atlanta Hotel Men's Association; Joe Harris, assistant publisher of the Atlanta Georgian-American; Francis W. Clark, associate editor, The Atlanta Constitution; Walter C. Hendrix, chairman historic markers committee of the Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. A. G. Maxwell, W. J. Carter, J. E. Warren, Lewis D. Sharp and W. R. Ulrich, directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

They have been trying to stimulate public interest in just such a move, declared Mr. McElreath, pledging the aid of the historical society.

"I'm embarrassed every time someone asks me where some battlefield is or where some particular place of Atlanta history was enacted," said Belle Tate. "Our garage houses cars from 25 or 30 states every night and our drivers do their best to supply them with information they want, but we are just not equipped to answer all the questions."

"The hotel men do their best to direct the tourists but we need more detailed information," said DeJarnette. "We need markers and maps and folders and we shall be glad to do our best when we know the city better ourselves."

Temporary Markers.

As a starter, wooden markers were suggested by Wilbur G. Kurtz, well-known historian and Atlanta artist. "We can select the spots that should be marked and place the markers, temporarily, at first, until we are certain that our locations are exact," said Kurtz. "Then we can replace these temporary markers later with more substantial ones."

Other cities, according to Kurtz, have found that when markers are first distributed throughout a city innumerable objections arise from persons who declare they are placed wrong. It takes some years to straighten out these disputes and ultimately arrive at exact locations by popular agreement.

Kurtz accepted appointment by Harrington as the man who will arrange for the assembly of the markers and will write the text for each. He will co-operate with the historical society and others interested in Atlanta to select the most significant spots in the city's history.

A committee will be appointed by Harrington to serve permanently until the job is completed.

"The D. A. R.'s, sometime ago, were interested in placing markers at the various historical points," said Mr. Mitchell. "One point of interest was the location of Standing Peachtree."

Lack of Co-operation.

"But they did not meet with success, due to the fact that they were unable to get the co-operation of the city. Other points they desired to mark were branches of the Atlanta Historical Society on the site of the First National Bank, the Kimball house and Peachtree Arcade, but property owners opposed this as they were afraid it would create the impression the foundations were not secure."

"We must educate people to the importance of allowing these markers to be placed," said Mr. Mitchell. "He pointed out property owners along Missionary Ridge had operated to make that area one of the most interesting to tourists in the south, but they should be by all means be accurate. If they are not, we are better

Granville Is Ranked Best
Colt During '36
See Page 4-B

SPORTS

COMPLETE
SPORTS
—
FINANCIAL

VOL. LXIX., No. 177.

RALPH MCGILL, Sports Editor
Jack Troy — Melvin Pazol — Roy White — Thad Holt — Grantland Rice — Alan Gould
ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 6, 1936.

Crackers Sell Hamel; Mann, Connie Mack Confer Monday

If the late Huey P. Long were living—
I know who'd be playing Washington in the Rose Bowl saucer on January 1 when the New Year comes blushing on the scene.

"I would be the boys from L. S. U.
Because the Senator was clever that way.

There was, for instance, the story an amazed and admiring athletic official at L. S. U. told to me a few years ago—a very few years ago.

It was just a few days before the opening game on the L. S. U. schedule—a big night game with a famous team from Texas.

And the athletic official was visiting in the Senator's office at Baton Rouge.

"Well, we ought to have a great crowd Saturday night," said the senator.

"Yes, I guess we will," said the athletic official.

"But of course, the circus will hurt some."

"What circus?" asked the senator, sitting bolt upright in his chair.

"Why, the Ringling circus is here that same afternoon and night," said the official.

"Who owns it?" asked Huey.

"John Ringling, I think."

"Where can I get him?"

"I think he lives in Sarasota."

Huey picked up his telephone and told his secretary:

"Get me John Ringling in Sarasota."

The athletic official said he was a bit surprised, but not much at that, because very few people were around Huey Long for any length of time before they lost the capacity for surprise.

"MR. RINGLING, SENATOR."

It wasn't long before the telephone rang and the secretary said:

"Mr. Ringling, Senator."

Now, the athletic official heard one end of the conversation and Senator Long reported the rest of it. It went something like this—all very pleasant:

"Mr. Ringling, I understand you are the Kingfish of the circus world. This is the Kingfish of Louisiana, Huey Long. Mr. Ringling, we've got a big football game here Saturday night and your circus is playing here that night. We think a lot of our team and of your circus. But I'm going to ask you to play some other town that day and we won't interfere with one another's performances."

"Why, Senator, I really don't have anything to do with it. That's all under another management. And I have nothing to do with it at all."

"Well, Mr. Ringling, I imagine you have some other dates in Louisiana. And if you could just exchange with this one it would be all right."

"Well, Senator, I'd like to oblige you, but I'm afraid I can't. You see, that's all under a general manager. And the whole thing, including railroad transportation is made out about six months or a year in advance. So, it would be impossible."

"You own the circus, don't you?"

"Well, in a manner of speaking."

The athletic official said that Senator Long sat forward a little bit in his chair, cleared his throat and began talking again.

"DID YOU EVER DIP AN ELEPHANT?"

"Mr. Ringling," he said, "did you ever hear of the Louisiana tick law?"

(His voice was innocent, guileless, friendly.)

"The tick law? No, Senator, I never did," the late circus magnate replied.

"Well, Mr. Ringling, did you ever dip an elephant or a tiger?"

(The athletic official said he could hear the voice at the other end of the wire grow louder.)

"Dip an elephant or a tiger, did you say, Senator?"

"Yes, you see, the Louisiana tick law provides that any animal coming into the state must be dipped in a special tank and must also be kept in quarantine for a period of weeks. And, of course, it might be hard for your circus if you had to dip that herd of elephants and the tigers and the lions and the camels and the giraffes and the others and keep them in quarantine for several weeks. Just to see if any ticks developed—"

In Florida, a great light had broken.

"I'll call you back directly, Senator."

And within a couple of hours the call came through.

IT WAS A GREAT GAME.

It was a great game. The best crowd in history was present.
There was no competition from the circus.

A few days later the circus came to town and played to capacity crowds both afternoon and night.

Both did well. There was no competition for either the football or the circus performance.

The athletic official said he was surprised. In fact, he went home and disgraced himself. There were some people in for bridge. He couldn't tell his story.

But he said that every now and then he would break into gales of laughter as his mind pictured the big herd of elephants being lowered into a tank of tick dip. His wife would look at him very harshly. His breath was innocent of any intoxicating smell. But he kept laughing.

He said the mind's picture of monkeys being dipped didn't worry him so much. He had to laugh at the thought of a whole train load of tigers and lions and bears being dipped.

But it was not until he got to thinking about the giraffes that he went into hysterics. He was wondering how they'd get a man up high enough to try and push the giraffe's neck and head down into the tank.

This got him. The bridge game broke up early. And the friends looked at him suspiciously for weeks and to this good day don't quite understand about it.

If the late Senator Long had been living he'd have fixed it so the Washington people would have been camping on his doorstep waving the invitation.

Irish and Trojans Tie---Arkansas Beats Texas

Sports Writers Select These 11 Great Stars on All-S. E. C. Team

FitzSimons Named At Guard Position

Riley, Bryan, Dickens, Coffee Form Backfield of Team Regarded as Very Strong.

Writers' All-Southeastern for 1936

Player	Position	School
Joel Eaves	End	Alabama Polytechnic
Gaynell Finsley	End	Louisiana State
Bruiser Kinard	Tackle	Mississippi
Paul Carroll	Tackle	Louisiana State
Tarzan White	Guard	Alabama
Middleton FitzSimons	Guard	Georgia Tech
Walter Gilbert	Center	Alabama Polytechnic
Joe Riley	Quarterback	Alabama
Bucky Bryan	Halfback	Tulane
Phil Dickens	Halfback	Tennessee
Pat Coffee	Fullback	Louisiana State

The members of the board to select the All-Conference team annually are Zipp Newman, News and Bob Phillips, Age-Herald, of Birmingham; Blinkey Horn, Tennesseean, and Freddie Russell, Banner, of Nashville; Bill Keefe, Times-Picayune; Harry Martinez, New Orleans State, and Fred Digby, Item-Tribune, New Orleans, and Ed Danforth, Georgian, Ralph McGill, Constitution, and Morgan Blake, Journal, of Atlanta.

Sports editors of to newspapers again collaborated in selecting an All-Southeastern conference football team and the result is deemed one of the strongest they have named since the inauguration of the joint plan in 1928.

Save for the position of tackle, which was conspicuously below the par of other years, more good players were nominated than in any recent year.

Player	Pos.	College
Garrett Tinsley	E.	L. S. U.
Wille Gary	E.	Vanderbilt
Haygood Peterson	T.	Ashore
R. Thompson	T.	Vanderbilt
Frank Johnson	G.	Georgia
Kay Francis	G.	Alabama
Walter Gilbert	C.	Auburn
Riley Smith	Q.B.	Alabama
Joe Pickle	H.B.	Miss. State
Pat Coffee	F.B.	L. S. U.
William Criss	F.B.	L. S. U.

At the center position for instance, no less than six brilliant, consistent performers appeared. Several of them actually received consideration in All-American picks.

The team selected by the sports editors was arrived at by exchanging their own views based on games they had seen, reinforced by communications from coaches all over the south.

The eleven named may not include the best players at each position—it would be a miracle if any man or group of men could name such a team —but it represents a fair cross section of talent.

Not a man was moved out of his
Continued on Fifth Sports Page.

Football Scores

(West Maryland 12, Maryland 0.
West Reserve 32, Case 3.
Mississippi State 7, Florida 0.
West Ky. Teachers 20, Tampa 20.
Mississippi 0, Tennessee 0.
Elon 33, Catawba 13.
Arkansas 6, Texas 0.
Texas A. & M. 13, Manhattan 6.
Southern Methodist 9, Rice 0.
Texas Tech 7, Arizona 7.
St. Mary's 13, Temple 7.
Southern Calif., 13, Notre Dame 13.
Gonzaga 13, Washington State 6.
Hardin-Simmons 23, Fresno State 6.
Arkansas State 3, Xavier (N.O.) nothing.
San Diego Marines 0, College of Pacific 0.
Knoxville 13, Miami 0.
Tuskegee 12, Morris Brown 6.

U. S. C. scoring: Touchdowns—Bryman, Langley, Point after touchdowns—Henderson (placement).

U. S. C. scoring: Touchdowns—Bryman, Langley, Point after touchdowns—Henderson (placement).

U. S. C. scoring: Touchdowns—Bryman, Langley, Point after touchdowns—Henderson (placement).

U. S. C. scoring: Touchdowns—Bryman, Langley, Point after touchdowns—Henderson (placement).

IRISH, TROJANS BATTLE TO A TIE

Langley, Southern Cal
Back, Races 100 Yards for a Touchdown.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—(AP)—
The luck of the Irish deserted Notre Dame today and University of Southern California's Trojans scored one on a 100-yard sprint and again on a 65-yard dash to tie the famed Green of South Bend, 13 to 13.
Seventy-five thousand fans at the Troy homecoming saw Fullback Dick Berryman run 65 yards for the opening Trojan score. A moment later they went into hysterics when Bud Langley, a substitute halfback, intercepted a Notre Dame pass on his own goal line and ran the length of the field for another tally.
Coach Elmer Layden's decided favorites made their touchdowns on smashing, battering football, and outgassed the men of Troy in top-heavy fashion. Southern California made only one first down—on a holding penalty. Notre Dame made 18 and out-rushed U. S. C. 225 yards to 24.
Headman Howard Jones lived up to his promise that the Trojans would not lose prestige in this, the eleventh annual inter-sectional clash between the schools.

PARADE 78 YARDS.

Notre Dame's starting team took the opening kickoff and paraded 78 yards for a touchdown. Halfback Bob Wilke passing 32 yards to Bunny Mc-Cormick on route, and Wilke cutting back over tackle for the final three yards to score. Pupils failed to convert.

It looked easy for Notre Dame, and the first stringers were replaced by reserves.

Then Dick Berryman grabbed a lateral, eluded the Notre Dame safety man and ran 65 yards over the goal line. Jim Henderson failed to convert.

Back came the Notre Dame regulars, and down the field they plowed.

Continued in Third Sports Page.

NOTRE DAME	Pos.	U. S. C.
O'Neill	E.	Belts
Steinkemper	E.	Belts
Lauter	T.	Wilkey
Mundus	T.	Kuhn
Kuharik	G.	Pratt
Cronin	G.	Morton
Swanson	G.	Williams
Pupils	Q.B.	Robbins
McCormick	H.B.	Dubsky
Danahorn	F.B.	Beatty
Score by periods:
Notre Dame	0	0
U. S. C.	0	0
Notre Dame scoring: Touchdowns—Wilke, McCormick; points after touchdowns—Pupils (placement).
U. S. C. scoring: Touchdowns—Berryman, Langley, Point after touchdowns—Henderson (placement).

ARKANSAS WINS FROM TEXAS, 6-0

Razorbacks Annex Southwest Title by Victory.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 5.—(AP)— Dwight Sloan, slim University of Arkansas junior, drove his passing
Porkers to their first undisputed Southwest Conference championship and a 6 to 0 victory over the University of Texas here this afternoon on a field reduced to a morass by a cold driving rain.
Approximately 7,000 fans braved the elements to witness a game drab throughout with the single exception of Sloan's sensational scoring drive that culminated in a touchdown pass across the goal line into the waiting arms of Jim Benton, all-Conference end.

Texas had every advantage in statistics except forward passing and the Arkansas aerial circus proved that even a December storm couldn't check its sensational effectiveness.

The Arkansas eleven completed eight out of 16 forwards for a total of 71 yards.

The scoring break in the game of passes and fumbles came on a forward pass interception late in the third period. Texas had the ball on its own 45-yard line. Halfback Wallace Lawson dropped back and heaved a long forward intended for Collins. Sloan, circling behind Quarterback Jack Robbins, who covered Collins, took in the forward on his own 30. Cutting around in a wide sweep, he dashed back up and across the field through the disorganized Texans before he was finally smothered on the Texas 44.

Sloan then shot a forward to Martin for eight yards and another neat pass to Benton for ten more, giving Arkansas a first down on the Texas
25. Faking a pass, Sloan drove through the line for five and then heaved another pass to Benton for a first down on the Texas 13. Sloan

Continued on Third Sports Page.

THE LINEMEN	Pos.	TEXAS
Collins	E.	Collins
Keeling	E.	Keeling
Sanders	T.	Sanders
Kuhn	T.	Kuhn
Pratt	G.	Pratt
Morton	G.	Morton
Williams	G.	Williams
Robbins	Q.B.	Robbins
Dubsky	H.B.	Dubsky
Beatty	F.B.	Beatty
Score by periods:
Arkansas	6	0
U. S. C.	0	0
Arkansas scoring: Touchdowns—Sloan, Benton; points after touchdowns—Henderson (placement).

Outfielder Is Sold To Oklahoma City

Champions Seek to Land Outfielder and Pitcher From Athletics.

NEW YORK CITY, Dec. 5.—The Crackers have disposed of Clarence (Peck) Hamel, irregular centerfielder of last season.
President Earl Mann, announcing outright sale of Hamel to the Oklahoma City club of the Texas league, said:
"Hamel apparently did not play his best baseball consistently for us.
We recognize that he is a great natural outfielder and should do well for the Oklahoma club."
Sale of Hamel was not made without Mann thoroughly explaining to Business Manager Jimmy Humphreys the eccentricities of Hamel. The purchase price was not revealed.
Marshall Mauldin, Atlanta boy, will take Hamel's old place in center field. Mauldin is a colorful outfielder, as Atlanta fans well know. He hit .378 last season for Knoxville.
GREAT BUNTER.
The Crackers have not had a player who could really bunt in the past two seasons. But they have one in Mauldin. He is a great bunter and one of the few minor league players who slides head-first into a base. The Mauldin boy has a rep of getting on base, by some means, about three out of every five times up.
President Mann was busy today trying to locate Connie Mack, of the Athletics. Mr. Mack is in Atlantic City for the week-end. Mann is to confer with him in Philadelphia Monday. Two big deals are scheduled.
An outfielder and a pitcher may result from the Monday morning quarterbacking of the two moguls.
Atlanta has profited greatly from the annual minor league meeting, which ended Friday in Montreal. The Hamel deal was transacted there but was held for Sunday release.
Bill Schmidt, whose mid-season collapse was something of a mystery, was traded to Rochester for John Michaels, a southpaw pitcher. The Crackers haven't had a promising left-hander in two seasons. Michaels may fill the bill.
Other deals included purchase of Bill Beckman, a winning right-hander, and Louis Garland, who should prove a handy pitcher to have around.
The Birmingham club bobbed up with a fine deal today. Secretary Hilly West announced here the Barons had bought Cy Moore, Elberton, Ga., boy from the Little Rock Travelers.
Moore won .12 and lost 13 last season.
BARONS GET TWO.
Birmingham will continue to work with the Cubs, West stated. The Cubs have awarded Hutchens and Decker, right-handed pitchers, to the Barons as a starter. Two other players have been promised before the season starts.
Other deals made by the Barons included the trading of Joe Woodward and Brooks Hagler and Cash to Elmira for First Basemen Hanneke, a left-handed thrower and hitter. Three players were bought from Sioux City.
They included Kinner Graff and John Loft, right-handed pitchers, and Phil
Seghi, a third baseman.
The only deal announced by Larry
Gilbert was the swapping of Bill
Gilbert was the swapping of Bill
Continued on Fifth Sports Page.

JUDY KING WINS CHICAGO HONORS

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—(AP)—A smiling blond girl from Georgia tonight was the heroine of Chicago's International Horse Show.

Miss Judy King, of Atlanta, finished the grueling eight days and nights of showing with 15 blue ribbons, more than was taken by any one of the other 166 stables participating.

She came to Chicago with four horses, two ponies, three dogs and a billy goat for the final appearance of a triumphant tour of the United States and Canada that began last April.

Miss King took undisputed possession of the harness class with horses as splendid as their names: King
Ragdoll, La La Success, Killerin
Magi, Dufferin Dare, Dunbeck Princess and Penwortham Creation.

The second high scoring honors were captured by the Nan Su farm at Arkansas.

Continued on Fourth Sports Page.

Continued on Fourth Sports Page.

Continued on Fourth Sports Page.

Continued on Fourth Sports Page.

Continued on Fourth Sports Page.

Tech's 11-Game Grid Card in 1937 Virtually Same as 1936 Slate

ONE OPEN DATE MAY BE FILLED WITH SEWANE

Attractive Home Card Arranged; Game at Berkeley Finale.

By Ralph McGill.

Georgia Tech's 1937 football team will answer the whistle in eleven games next fall.

The schedule is practically a duplicate of the schedule of the past season, closing with the California game on December 27 at Berkeley, Cal., home of the Golden Bears.

One date remains open. It is that occupied by Sewanee on the 1936 card. And Sewanee may fill the date next fall. There is a complication in dates which may bring in another team. If not, the Bengal Tiger from the mountain will again play at Grant field.

The schedule offers an attractive home program. Duke, Auburn, Vanderbilt, Clemson and Georgia will appear at Grant field, giving the Jackets five major home games. The schedule will be an exciting one, offering no rest game once Presbyterian and Sewanee, if the latter team is scheduled, are played.

Kentucky will be played at Lexington on October 9. Then follow, in the order named, Duke, Auburn, Vanderbilt, Clemson, Alabama, Florida and Georgia.

The intersectional game with California will complete the two-year, home-and-home contract with the Berkeley eleven. It may be renewed. California appears at Grant field on December 26 of this year and the Jackets will play at Berkeley on the 1937 schedule.

The complete schedule, with dates, follows:

September 25.—Presbyterian at Atlanta.
October 2.—Open.
October 9.—Kentucky at Lexington.
October 16.—Duke at Atlanta.
October 23.—Auburn at Atlanta.
October 30.—Vanderbilt at Atlanta.
November 6.—Clemson at Atlanta.
November 13.—Alabama at Birmingham.
November 20.—Florida at Gainesville, Fla.
November 27.—Georgia at Athens.
December 27.—California at Berkeley.

Jackets Resume Practice Monday.

JACKETS RESUME—The Georgia Tech football team will resume practice Monday for the week following the game with Georgia's Bulldogs, will resume practice Monday for the week following the game with Georgia's Bulldogs, will resume practice Monday for the week following the game with Georgia's Bulldogs.

Down the Alley

The Businessmen's league continues to hold the spotlight at the downtown arena, despite the fact that many every league in the city is experiencing closer races for the first-half titles than in any previous year.

In the eight-team Businessmen's league, it is mathematically possible for any one of the top six teams to finish in first place, with just six games remaining to be played. Andy Hottel holds a one game lead. Walter A. Goret is in second place. Budweiser and Pison Tire Company are tied for third place, two games behind the leader. Next in order, with one game to play, are DeFord Austin and Dale Shirt Company. That is, the sixth-place team in the Businessmen's league is just two games out of first place.

The Commercial loop is one in which the "fur" flies each Wednesday evening. Barrett Foods and John Foreman Company are in a deadlock for first place, with Robert A. Col and Foreman Dairies one game out of first place.

Federal Hardware & Implement Mutual is just two games out of the lead, in fifth place.

Leave it to the bankers to tie things up and let the title hang in the balance. Decker and Bankers are tied for second place for the lead in the First National Bank league.

Tellers No. 1 and Trust Department are tied for second place, a single game out of the lead.

Westminster Presbyterian has a substantial lead in the Sunday School Ladies' league.

The Capitoline and John Lake Club are tied for first place in the Sunday School (Men's) league.

Furnace holds a one-game lead in the Gulf Refining Company circuit, with Good Oil and No-No tied for second place.

The competition gets keener each Friday in the Georgia league as the College boys build up their averages with high games. They hold a two-game lead over the second-place Lane Drugs.

L. R. (Louis) Outley is burning up the maple lanes in the Federal duckpin league with an average of 120 for 30 games, though his Opposition team is still in the lead.

Operation teams hold the four-game lead over Finance and Operations, second-place teams. Procurement has the best three games record for the league, 1.50, while Finance tops the teams with a single game score of 2.50.

Heathers has an average of 100 to top the District No. 3 Administration fire. Ray Hutchins, 100, is high for District No. 3. Construction: Barnett leads with 100; Charlie Ross 107; Fred Jones 105; Ray Hutchins 104; and all are struggling.

Finance: Marchie has 101 for Treasury; Armstrong; Keweenaw and Brown 100; each holds the high point in the Procurement fire, while Lovette leads Office Management with 90.

Pleanty of fast competition and friendly rivalry holds sway each Thursday as this loop hogs its regular games.

PERFECT RECORD. Auburn, Ala., Dec. 5.—(UP)—Alabama Polytechnic Institute's freshman football team finished with a perfect record this year for the fifth successive season. Wins were recorded this fall by Auburn's players, who are coached by Ralph Jordan, over Birmingham Southern and Georgia Tech.

MEN PAST 40
Many men at 40, in perfect health, without an ache or pain, wonder why they aren't as strong and as vigorous as they were 3 or 10 years ago. Mental and physical fatigue is the cause in the majority of cases. Fortunately this condition can be helped by the use of a recently discovered remedy. This remedy stimulates the glandular system to greater activity—helps build up weakened vitality.

This remedy is now available, together with other valuable ingredients, in 25-cent Tablets (Blue Box for men—Orange Box for women) and are sold and recommended by Jacobs Pharmacy, 747 Broadway, New York, and all drug stores. A booklet entitled "The Men Past 40" is a copy of which will be sent to a name and address by 25-cent check.

W. 45th St., N. Y.

California's Berkeley Bears Battle Georgia Tech Here December 26

Three Purples Listed On G.I.A.A. Eleven

Riverside Leads With Four; Poets Get Three Places; Smithies Land Culpepper.

POSITION	PLAYER, SCHOOL	VOTES	HOME
End	Hond, Boys' High	25	Atlanta
Tackle	Komisar, Riverside	58	Nashville, Tenn.
Guard	Culpepper, Tech High	36	Atlanta
Center	Herrin, Savannah High	50	Savannah
Guard	Pittman, Lanier	75	Macon
End	Peterson, Boys' High	52	Atlanta
Tackle	Pothro, Riverside	61	Memphis, Tenn.
Quarterback	Thompson, Riverside	51	Jackson, Tenn.
Halfback	Gore, Boys' High	41	Atlanta
Halfback	Hennis, Riverside	43	Mount Airy, N. C.
Fullback	Green, Lanier	61	Macon
SECOND TEAM		POSITION	THIRD TEAM
Burt, Lanier (18)	End	McDermott, G. M. A. (17)
Wallace, Commercial (27)	Tackle	Cole, Lanier (17)
H. Durant, Savannah (31)	Guard	Krause, Monroe (10)
Brown, Monroe (16)	Center	Brantley, Riverside (11)
McFreese, Boys' High (21)	Guard	Palmer, Monroe (8)
J. Jhirie, Monroe (19)	Tackle	Blair, Savannah (16)
Stoughton, Benedictine (24)	End	Wiley, Boys' High (15)
Matthews, Lanier (18)	End	Ellis, Tech High (14)
Green, Monroe (31)	H'b'ck	Wich, Lanier (14)
Orsteinen, Boys' High (36)	H'b'ck	Bosch, G. M. A. (12)
Bragg, Savannah (29)	F'b'ck	Taylor, Riverside (9)

SECOND TEAM
Burt, Lanier (18)
Wallace, Commercial (27)
H. Durant, Savannah (31)
Brown, Monroe (14)
DeFreese, Boys' High (21)
Lathrie, Monroe (18)
Stoughton, Benedictine (24)
Matthews, Lanier (18)
Kavette, Monroe (24)
Orenstein, Boys' High (36)
Bragg, Savannah (29)

THIRD TEAM
McDermott, G. M. A. (12)
Cole, Lanier (12)
Krause, Monroe (16)
Brantley, Riverside (11)
DeFreese, Monroe (8)
Blair, Savannah (16)
Wiley, Boys' High (15)
Ellis, Tech High (14)
H'back, Lanier (18)
Boech, G. M. A. (12)
Taylor, Riverside (9)

By Roy White.

Riverside, Boys' High and Lanier High, three of the outstanding teams in the Georgia Interscholastic Athletic Association, led the way in placing players on the All-G. I. A. A. team, selected by the coaches and sports-writers of the state.

Riverside, undefeated and untied, landed four places, with Boys' High three, Lanier High two and Tech High and Savannah High one each.

Doc Prothro, son of the former Southern League baseball manager, at end for Riverside, Green, fullback, of Lanier, and Pittman, Lanier High guard, came nearest to being unanimously selected.

Flip Hond, Boys' High, all-city fullback last year, proved his football ability by being named G. I. A. A. end this year, a position he did not care for particularly. He was outstanding as a defensive end and carried his part of the burden in catching passes and running with the ball on an end around play.

Bond, at end, Roy Gore, halfback, and Louie Peterson, tackle, were named from Boys' High. Culpepper, Tech High center, played a grand position, alongside of Pittman, Lanier, who received the largest number of votes, 75, out of a possible 80.

Van Thompson, quarterback, and Komisar, tackle, both of Riverside, were repeaters from the all-star selection of last year.

And with almost every coach and prep sports writer in the state voting, this all-star team can be called the official G. I. A. A. for 1936.

Voting in the poll were coaches of Lanier, Monroe, Boys' High, Richmond, Savannah, Benedictine, Riverside, G. M. A. and Commercial, and the following sports writers: Jay Downs, Savannah Press; W. W. McMillen, Savannah News; John Martin, Atlanta Journal; Roy White, Atlanta Constitution; Albert Genders, Macon Evening News, and Ben Chaffield, Macon Telegraph.

G. M. A. Cage Teams Divide Twin Bill

G. M. A.'s basketball team divided a double-header Saturday night on the College Park court. The first team defeated Mableton High, 27 to 14, while the reserves lost to the Oakland City Y. M. C. A., 33 to 24.

Roy Rowlett, with 10 points, led the scoring against Mableton. Wright and McDermott also played well at forward for the Cadets. Davis, with eight points, led the scoring for Mableton. Every candidate for the G. M. A. team, was used in the games.

THE SCHEDULE.
December 14—Rakite at Due West.
December 17—Duke here.
January 8—North Carolina State at Raleigh.
January 12—Presbyterian here.
January 15—Rakite here.
January 16—Virginia at Charlottesville.
January 18—Y. M. C. A. at Lexington.
January 19—Roanoke at Roanoke.
January 20—Davidson at Davidson.
February 2—Cittied here.
February 3—Clemson at Clemson.
February 6—North Carolina State here.
February 11—Presbyterian at Clinton.
February 16—Mexico City here.
February 17—Furman at Greenville.
February 18—Davidson here.
February 20—Georgia Tech here.
February 25—Clemson here.
February 27—Cittied at Charleston.
March 2—Georgia Tech at Atlanta.

Scout Compasses, Knives
79 Alabama St.
DUCKETT'S ARMORY STORE

Arkansas Pins Texas; Wins Title

Continued From First Sports Page.

again ran with the ball, slashing seven yards through the mud to the Texas six.

On the next play he shot a hard, fast one across the two Texas backs to fold in the forward and stumble on his face, safe with the winning touchdown. B. A. Owens' attempted placement for the extra point was blocked.

First downs were evenly divided six each but Texas netted 70 yards rushing compared to 30 for Arkansas and outplayed Arkansas by an average of four yards per kick. The two lines were evenly matched for the most part. Lallman, Van Sickle and Gilmore were outstanding for Arkansas, while Launey, Keeling, Naiser and Peterson held up the Texas defense.

More than 10,000 clubs will compete in the United States series, Dumont predicted.

TEXANS DEFEAT MANHATTAN, 13-6

TYLER, Texas, Dec. 5.—(UP)—The flying feet of Dick Todd and Bob Nesrsta scored the Manhattan College Jasper, of New York, into a 13-6 defeat before a crowd of 5,000 football fans here today.

The Texas Aggies scored twice in the third period. Nesrsta leading a one-man drive from the Manhattan 38-yard line, and Todd a little later racing 76 yards around the Jasper left end. Byrne scored for Manhattan on a plunge from the 1-yard line.

The game was played on a muddy field, but the Aggies, a substitute back, gave the Jaspers the ball on the Aggie 1-yard stripe.

A. and M. gained the ball on the Manhattan 38 on a fine punt return by the Wilson Manning. Todd, who made one and a pass from Shockey to Seago, carried to the Manhattan 1. Nesrsta circled right end for the touchdown. Morrow added the point.

The first half was colorless with most of the play between the 20-yard lines.

Things picked up in the third when Nesrsta led the smash surge over the Jasper line. The Aggie back was injured but remained in the game long enough to score.

Todd's long, run was sensational. Shaking off several Manhattan tacklers, he outran the field for a touchdown that brought the crowd to its feet.

Score by periods:
Texas A. and M. 0 6 13 6-13
Manhattan 6 0 0 0-6
Texas A. and M. scoring: Touchdowns, Nesrsta, Todd. Point after touchdown, Morrow (Nesrsta kick).
Manhattan scoring: Touchdown, Byrne.

IRISH TROJANS BATTLE TO TIE

Continued From First Sports Page.

reaching the 9-yard line and first down. Landry, a substitute back, speared an Irish pass on the goal line and, tearing down the sidelines, ran the length of the field for the score on a 60-yard dash.

Scoring by periods:
Irish 0 0 0 0-0
Trojans 0 0 0 0-0
Irish scoring: Touchdown, Landry. Point after touchdown, Landry (kick).
Trojans scoring: Touchdown, Landry. Point after touchdown, Landry (kick).

88 YARDS IN 12 PLAYS.
In the third, Notre Dame mixed a lateral from Fullback Lawrence Darnham to McCormick, good for 39 yards and marched 88 yards in 12 plays and scored on a 15-yard pass from Wilke to McCormick.

That ended the scoring.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—Statistics of the Notre Dame-Southern California football game:

First downs 22
Yards gained rushing 138
Forward passes attempted 14
Forward passes completed 7
Forward passes intercepted by 1
Yards by forward passing 138
Yards by rushing 22
Lateral passes attempted 2
Lateral passes completed 1
Yards by lateral passes 39
Punting average (from scrimmage) 30
Total yards, kicks returned 157
Opponents' fumbles recovered 0
Yards lost by punting 10
Kicks—Inclodes punts and kickoffs.

U. S., Canada Prep Teams Start Semi-Pros To Clash

Continued From First Sports Page.

MONTREAL, Dec. 5.—(UP)—An international series between Canada and the United States to decide the semi-pro baseball championship will be established in 1937, it was announced by Raymond Dumont, president of the National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress.

Louis Duchesnay, Montreal, has been appointed Canadian commissioner to supervise the 1937 Canadian tournament which will take place at Montreal.

The Canadian and United States champions will meet in a seven-game series starting September 1.

The first three games will be played in the city of the team winning the United States championship, which will be settled in Wichita, Kan. August 13 to 26 with winners of 48 state tournaments being eligible to contest for the title and a minimum cash prize of $5,000.

More than 10,000 clubs will compete in the United States series, Dumont predicted.

VALDOSTA WIN BRINGS PROTEST

Continued From First Sports Page.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Dec. 5.—(UP)—J. K. Harper, president of the South Georgia Football Association, said today he is calling a meeting of the officers and executive committee of the S. G. F. A. at Thomasville next Wednesday night at 8 o'clock to consider Albany's protest of Glynn Academy's 7-2 victory in the championship game.

The officials who handled the tie-fair, but the protest, which was made by the Glynn Academy, was based on the officials' rules interpretation that gave Glynn Academy a touchdown on a blocked punt.

In announcing the meeting, Harper said, "I will personally welcome anything that will tend to keep a fine spirit among all concerned."

Harper said that he has received no formal written protest of the game but that Coach Harold McNabb, of Albany, made a verbal protest yesterday, the protest being based on the officials' rules interpretation that gave Glynn Academy a touchdown on a blocked punt.

In announcing the meeting, Harper said, "I will personally welcome anything that will tend to keep a fine spirit among all concerned."

MARYLAND BOWS TO RIVAL, 12 TO 0

Continued From First Sports Page.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5.—(UP)—The touchdown drive of the period enabled Western Maryland to upset a favored University of Maryland eleven 12-0 before 20,000 fans today in Municipal stadium. The triumph gave Western Maryland the state championship.

A 70-yard drive resulted in the first score with the Lathrop going over from the two-yard line after Lassahn had made two 15-yard smashes at the line. Lathrop missed the try for point.

A few minutes later Campbell passed to Lassahn. A gain of 40 yards to the Maryland two-yard stripe. Lassahn missed the ball but the officials ruled it complete because of interference by Ellinger, defending Maryland back. Sadowski hit the line for touchdown on the next play.

Score by periods:
Western Maryland 0 12 0 0-12
Maryland 0 0 0 0-0
Touchdowns, Lathrop, Sadowski.
Extra points, Sadowski.
Scoring by periods:
Western Maryland 0 12 0 0-12
Maryland 0 0 0 0-0
Western Maryland scoring: Touchdown, Sadowski. Point after touchdown, Sadowski (kick).
Maryland scoring: Touchdown, Sadowski. Point after touchdown, Sadowski (kick).

Auburn's Grid Stars 60-Minute Performers

Continued From First Sports Page.

AUBURN, Ala., Dec. 5.—All save two of the starting members of Alabama Polytechnic Institute's 1936 football squad saw action for the entire four quarters in one or more of the 10 games on the Tigers regular season.

Schwartz, the foremost "iron" man is Captain Walter Gilbert, the No. 1 center, who played in all 10 games, and many others who played in all 10 games. Captain Gilbert has a half-dozen 60-minute feats to his credit for this fall and this season.

Other 60-minute performers were: Earl Burdett, center, and Jimmie Rodgers, halfback.

BOLD VENTURE HEADS ENTRIES IN WIDENER CUP

79 Horses Named for Second Running of $50,000 Classic Event.

MIAMI, Nov. 5.—(UP)—Headed by Bold Venture, Morton L. Schwartz's Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner, 79 nominations were announced today for the second running of the $50,000 added Widener challenge cup, winter classic for three-year-olds and upward, to be run at Hialeah park Saturday, March 6.

If Bold Venture goes to the post in the mile and a quarter classic he will probably match strides with Brevity, Joseph E. Widener's colt which was runner-up in the Derby, and Hialeah, winner of the Widener.

Mrs. Emil Denemark and Dewitt Page led in the number of nominations, each having named four horses for the Hialeah feature to be decided on the closing day of the meeting which runs from January 13 to March 6. A total of $400,000 will be distributed to horsemen in stakes and overnight purses at the meeting.

Colonel E. R. Bradley, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greenleaf stable, Milldale stable and F. A. Carrese, each named three candidates, and Mrs. John D. Hertz, Mrs. Ethel Jacobs, E. D. Shaffer, Mrs. W. Plunkett Stewart, the Wheeler stable, John Hay Whitney and Mrs. Charles S. Bromley, two.

Other nominators include the Belair stud of William Woodward, Warren Wright's Calumet farm, Marshall Field, Hal Price Headley, Orden Phipps, F. M. Alger Jr. and Mrs. Walter Jeffords.

The "Y" wrestling team will journey to Young Harris Saturday to meet the Mountain Lions of Young Harris College. The Mountain Lions will return the match on January 22.

Y Boxers, Wrestlers Clash Wednesday

The Y. M. C. A. boxing and wrestling teams will go into action Wednesday night in a twin bill at the "Y" gym. The "B" wrestling team will meet the Tech High "B" team and the "C" boxing team will meet North Fulton High fighters.

The matches will begin promptly at 8 p. m.

The "Y" wrestling team will journey to Young Harris Saturday to meet the Mountain Lions of Young Harris College. The Mountain Lions will return the match on January 22.

Skeet Shoot Slated At West End Today

Local skeet shooters will compete for hams at the West End Gun Club today. Club officials announce that the December ham shoot will get underway at 8 p. m. Hams will be offered as prizes in Class A, B and C.

New classifications will be posted at the club on the basis of last month's shooting.

A special invitation is extended to visitors and spectators.

Good-looking hair is a Social Asset

Use VITALIS and the "60-Second Workout"

1. 50 SECONDS to rub-hair-nourishing oils are replenished. Circulation quickens. Your hair takes on new life.

2. 10 SECONDS to comb and brush—your hair looks rich and lustrous, but with no "patent-leather" shine.

GOOD-LOOKING HAIR alone won't carry you to fame and social success. But well-kept hair is a definite asset in a man's business and social life. Yet many men never think of it as a "plus" never give their hair even the little time it needs for health and grooming.

Tight, dry scalp is often to blame for dull, lifeless, unkempt hair. And to waken your scalp—to bring your hair back to life and lustre—there is nothing like Vitalis and the stimulating "60-Second Workout."

Full time duty was assigned both to the hairdressers, when the hair was in first-class condition. Several practice games may be arranged within the next two weeks.

Joel Eaves and Fullback Wilton Kilgore, both of whom also have received considerable all-star recognition.

Full time duty was assigned both to the hairdressers, when the hair was in first-class condition. Several practice games may be arranged within the next two weeks.

Joel Eaves and Fullback Wilton Kilgore, both of whom also have received considerable all-star recognition.

Full time duty was assigned both to the hairdressers, when the hair was in first-class condition. Several practice games may be arranged within the next two weeks.

ASK YOUR BARBER

Leading Elevens of 1936 Will Suffer Losses of Stars

'BAMA, GOPHERS, L.S.U., FORDHAM HIT THE HARDEST

Pitt Only Loses Three Stars, Northwestern to Miss 12 Aces.

By Henry Super.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(UP)—Graduation will cut heavily into the ranks of practically all the top-flight football teams of 1936, and in every section of the country "name" players will end their gridiron careers.

Among the top-ranking stars who retire this season are Ace Parker, Duke, Garryn Tinsley, Louisiana State; All-American end, Max Starnes, Washington State; Ed Goddard, Washington State quarterback; Larry Kelley, Yale end; Frank Maute, Fordham halfback; Davis Lewis, Southern California quarterback; Ed Wideth, Minnesota's All-American tackle; Steve Toth, Northwestern fullback; and Sammy Baum, Texas Christian halfback, who was an All-American star last year. All the 1936 mighty elevens except Pittsburgh and Arkansas will be hard hit.

L. S. U. LOSSES SEVERE.

Louisiana State and Alabama, both unbeaten but tied, suffer severe losses. Ten top-notch players graduate from L. S. U.—foremost of which are Tinsley, Marvin (Moose) Stewart, center; Bill Criss, halfback; and Marvin Baldwin, guard. Alabama loses its signal caller, Joe Riley; Captain "Bub" Nisbet, fullback; Lamar Moore, center; Tarzan White, guard, and five other stars.

Texas Christian, tied with Arkansas for the lead in the Southwest conference, will miss 13 regulars. Arkansas is fortunate, losing only three first-stringers. T. C. U.'s chief loss is "Slinging" Sammy Baum, one of the most brilliant passers of all time. Arkansas loses Ken Landry, center; Cliff Van Sickle, tackle, and Bobbie Martin, halfback.

Northwestern, Big Ten champion, Minnesota and Marquette—the giants of the Midwest—all will be badly hurt by graduation. Minnesota loses 11, Marquette 9 and Northwestern 12. The outstanding absentees will be Ray Antil, Ted Wideth, Earl Stevens and Jules Alfonsi, Minnesota; Art Guene, Raymond Buivid and Art Guene, Marquette, and Steve Reid, Steve Toth and Don Geyer, Northwestern.

RAMS LOSE SIX.

Fordham loses six men—three backfielders and three linemen—from its first team, and seven reserves. Duke loses five first-stringers including Ace Parker and Joe Cardwell.

From Pittsburgh go three first-stringers—Bill Glassford, Bobby Laine and Averell Daniels—and eight reserves players. Washington and Washington State suffer heavy losses—that are almost certain to result in a California school winning the title next year.

The Huskies lose eight players—the main one being Chuck Rold, Max Starnes, John Wink, Elmer Long, Jim Cain, Byron Haines and Ed Novogroski. From State go Floyd Terry, Stan Smith, Ed Goddard and Roger Dougherty, with six others.

California, Stanford and Southern California are well off. California loses only Floyd Bower and Bill Archer, halfbacks, but this shouldn't hurt, for the Golden Bears are rich in backfield material. Stanford loses Earl Hoos, quarterback, Cal Callaway, tackle, and Center Tsourouvas. Southern California loses Captain Gil Kuhn, center, and Quarterback Davis Davis.

Grid Meetings Set Monday and Tuesday

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 5.—(AP) The south's oldest and newest college athletic groups—the S. I. A. A. and the Dixie conference—will hold their annual meeting here Monday and Tuesday.

Dr. J. W. Province, of Mississippi College, president of the S. I. A. A., will preside at that group's meeting. He is scheduled for the principal address Monday night at the annual banquet.

Dixie conference representatives will meet Tuesday afternoon, after adjournment of the S. I. A. A. session, and expect to conclude their business sessions Tuesday night.

Dr. J. W. Edwards, of the University of Chattanooga, in honor of the Dixie group, Conference officials here said there had been no talk of an application for the tenth place in Dixie ranks. The organization's constitution limits membership to 10.

Neither membership nor development outside routine business.

Tarheel Jack Takes Puppy Stake Laurels

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 5.—(AP) The Pointe Club of America concluded its first week of field trials today with the puppy stake, in which Bobbie's Tarheel Jack, a pointer owned by J. F. Carlisle, of New York, and handled by George Crangle, of Waynesboro, Ga., won the laurels.

Rusty, pointer owned and handled by Marvin Yount, of Newton, was second and Bobbie's Tarheel Dog, first sister of the winner and owned by Louis M. Bobbitt, of Winston-Salem, N. C., was third.

The club will start its largest stake of the season Monday, with the open for which drawings will be made tomorrow night. Officials said preliminary entrances forecast the largest field in many years.

Thunder of Boos For Bowl Tickets

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The announcer at the Notre Dame-Southern California football game today told the crowd of 70,000 that tickets were on sale for the Washington-Ton-Pittsburgh battle in the Rose Bowl New Year's day.

A tremendous thunder of boos greeted the announcement.

WRESTLING
Spring St. Arena Monday Night
Location Spring, Peters & Garrett Sts.

COUNT
Pedro Rossi vs. Miller
Two other matches
Roby MA. 2539 Bettis

Time Out! By Chet Smith

"All right—Mr. Raines and Mr. Davis, look unpleasant, please!"

Granville Is Ranked Best Colt During 1936

Discovery Captures Second Place by Performance; Apogee Classed As Best Filly.

By Jack Cuddy.

(Copyright, 1936, by the United Press.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(UP)—As we gallop down the stretch of a banner racing year, it is comparatively easy to stand up in the stirrups and yell "Granville is the outstanding racehorse of 1936!"

The fleet son of Gallant Fox overshadows other contenders so definitely that he wins the "best horse" nomination going away. This title includes thoroughbreds of all ages, as well as those in Granville's 3-year-old division.

Granville's record for the year is noteworthy indeed. The Belair stud colt finished first or second every time he crossed the wire with a rider on his back. His only out-of-the-money attempt was in the Kentucky Derby last May, when Jockey Jimmy Stout was unseated in the "rodeo" start.

Granville's greatest victory was in the Saratoga cup on August 29 when he beat the great handicap champion, Discovery, by six lengths over a mile and three-quarter course that was ankle deep in mud. Although not exactly a match race, they were the only starters. And Discovery, a 5-year-old, had not been beaten in a weight-for-age race in two seasons. Moreover, Discovery was considered a great miler. It was a stunning upset, because Granville was rated only a fair 3-year-old champion at that time.

In the Saratoga cup, Granville won by a margin of 11 times this year, winning seven races and finishing second in three. Bold Venture beat him twice, including the Kentucky Derby. Teufeldrumpf, a 4-year-old, defeated him once, and Firethorn, an older horse, once. Granville's victories included Belmont's Lawrence realization, Belmont stakes, Arlington's classic stakes and at Saratoga the Kenner stakes, Traversa stakes and Saratoga cup. His total winnings for 1936 were $110,235.

GREATEST SECOND.

Meanwhile, Discovery must be ranked second among the all-age horses, winning six times and placing twice in 12 starts. His most notable victory was the second running of the $50,000 added Widener challenge cup at Hialeah Park, Fla., March 6. Brevity made the third best showing among 3-year-olds this year, making six starts, winning three and finishing second in two.

I rate Pomponio the outstanding 2-year-old colt of the year. Loughie's boy, but won six of his eight starts and finished second in the other two. The son of Pompey set a new track record in the Belmont futurity, a 1 1/4 mile, 2-year-old colts race, by winning the Illinois Derby at Aurora on Dec. 11, setting a new track record for five-furlongs of a mile in winning the Old Colony stakes at Narragansett, Mrs. Walter Jefford's bay filly, Wand, should be ranked second. This daughter of Man o' War developed slowly and showed speed late in the season. She won three of four starts and displayed exceptional class in winning Belmont's matron stakes, beating Dawn Play and Apogee.

Returning to the 3-year-olds, it must be remembered that another promising mount was thrown out of training in September. I refer to A. G. Tarn's colt black gelding, Rushaway. Rushaway was ranked second in the 1936 season, but by winning the Illinois Derby at Aurora on Dec. 11, setting a new track record for five-furlongs of a mile in winning the Old Colony stakes at Narragansett, Mrs. Walter Jefford's bay filly, Wand, should be ranked second. This daughter of Man o' War developed slowly and showed speed late in the season. She won three of four starts and displayed exceptional class in winning Belmont's matron stakes, beating Dawn Play and Apogee.

BEST FILLY.

Hal Price's headliner is an outstanding among the 2-year-old fillies, having finished in the money eleven times in nine starts during the year. She won three races, placed twice and had two shows. The bay daughter of Pharamond 111 Summit set a new track record for five-furlongs of a mile in winning the Old Colony stakes at Narragansett, Mrs. Walter Jefford's bay filly, Wand, should be ranked second. This daughter of Man o' War developed slowly and showed speed late in the season. She won three of four starts and displayed exceptional class in winning Belmont's matron stakes, beating Dawn Play and Apogee.

Y Vollyball Team Enters Smoky Meet

The Y. M. C. A. volleyball team will enter the Smoky Mountain invitational volleyball tournament, scheduled in Chattanooga, next Saturday. Besides the Atlanta and Chattanooga teams, Knoxville and Nashville will be entered.

Athletic Director Ray Eckmann of the University of Washington Huskies, the host team of the event, remained confident that the Panthers and Huskies would sellout the huge bowl.

Close observers in Pasadena and Los Angeles were not so confident, and dissatisfaction over the fact that undefeated Louisiana State or Alabama was not invited to the contest.

Aside from Turley the Atlanta team will be composed of Manager Cliff Lowry, Tom Bryan, Harlan Dorman, H. M. Gammage, E. D. Hutchinson, Dick Lange, Roy Owen, Frank Richards, R. K. Teaney, Marcus Yoon, Carl Samberg and Urb Wilkinson.

Kelley Will Play With East's Eleven

HAMILTON, N. Y., Dec. 5.—(UP)—Coach Andy Kerr, of Colgate, announced today that Larry Kelley, Yale's All-American end, and Carl (Mutt) Ray, center, and John Han-drahan, fullback, both from Dartmouth, have accepted invitations to play with the all-east team on the coast this winter against the All-West eleven.

Annually Kerr picks 11 players from the eastern and southern section and Dick Hanley, former Northwestern coach, selects 11 from the middle west. The game is played in San Francisco, Cal., on New Year's Day as a benefit for the Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children.

ELECTED CAPTAIN.

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—(UP)—Anthony J. (Tony) Dinatelli, of Belmont, star quarterback and hero of the upset victory over Holy Cross, today was elected captain of the 1937 Boston College football team.

Mrs. Warrington Sets World Bowling Mark

453 Is Ten Pins Better Than Old Mark Made by Ida Simmons.

By Morris Siegel.

A new world's record for three games and a new local women's record for one game were established last night as Carl Tidwell, crack Atlanta bowler, and Mrs. Estelle Warrington captured the fourth annual Southern Individual Duckpin Championships staged at the downtown alleys.

The two new records both belonged to the new southern women's champion. Mrs. Warrington, winner of The Constitution's annual bowling tourney last year, collected a total of 453 to record the new world's mark for the three games. The record previously was held by Miss Ida Simmons, of Norfolk, Va., with a total of 443. The old local record of 172 also was held by Miss Simmons, Mrs. Warrington topping the mark by ten pins.

In amassing her new local record, the new southern champion, wife of the foreman of The Constitution mailing room, collected four successive strikes.

Eight Pins Better.

Tidwell, one of the city's better duckpin artists, registered a 15-game total of 1,835 to win the men's event. This mark was eight pins better than that held by Carl McKee, who last year, Dennis, last year's titleholder, finished seventh.

Mrs. Warrington's total for the 15-game block was 1,180. Second to her was Helen Randlett, of Richmond, with 1,111. Belle Bangert was next with 1,103.

Second of the men's event was A. J. Sossong, also of Atlanta, with 1,821. Walter Lawson was third with 1,801. Bill McAdams, Atlanta, fourth with 1,780. Carl McKee was fifth with 1,797. McKee finished in a tie with George French for fifth place, and won the roll-off.

McGill's record for the 15-game block was 1,180. Second to her was Helen Randlett, of Richmond, with 1,111. Belle Bangert was next with 1,103.

The winners were presented their prizes by Ralph McGill, sports editor of The Constitution, at a special radio broadcast. A one-day affair, was a huge success with 74 bowlers from all over the south participating.

Fourteen women bowlers from out-of-town were entered while 11 out-of-town men bowlers were registered for the event.

The complete list of winners and their prizes:

WOMEN

1. Carl Tidwell, gold award plus $100.
2. Carl Tidwell, $50.00.
3. Carl Tidwell, $20.00.
4. Carl Tidwell, $10.00.
5. Carl Tidwell, $5.00.

WOMEN

1. Mrs. Estelle Warrington, gold medal plus $50.00.
2. Helen Randlett, $20.00.
3. Belle Bangert, $10.00.

ROSSI, MILLER CLASH MONDAY

Count Pedro Rossi, the roughest wrestler to appear in the south in a long time and his little negro valet, have been matched with Sammy Miller, Asryanin, in the main match at the Capitol City Country Club course.

R. M. Hubert, Candler Park pro, and Cliff Eley, and his amateur partners, won the first monthly amateur tournament early in November at the Capitol City Country Club course.

The Coosa Country Club, at Rome, and the Idle Hour Club, at Macon, Ga., invited the tourney for December, but Fort Benning was accepted. Rome and Macon are next on the list for early 1937.

JUDY KING WINS CHICAGO HONORS

Continued From First Page.

Highland Park, Ill. The close of the show tonight found it with eight new blue ribbons to hang in its shelves. Sinkie winner summaries included: $1,000 champion harness pony stake: First, Miss Judy King, Atlanta, Ga., on La La Success.

Cowan tries any of his rough tactics he will meet like opposition. The opening match should be one of the fastest bouts on the program. John Dameron, Atlanta, and Garnett Starnes, Reserve team, will be secured in advance by calling Main 2539.

The Spring Street arena is located at the junction of Spring, Park and Garnett streets. Reserve seats may be secured in advance by calling Main 2539.

Rose Bowl Sellout Seen by Officials

Day's Mail Brings Ticket Requests, But Criticism of Pitt Selection Continues.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Rose Bowl football office opened the day's mail and sighed with relief. Bombed for 24 hours by a cross-fire of criticism over the selection of Pittsburgh as the opponent for the annual New Year's Day game, they had reason to welcome the mail.

It contained checks and requests for tickets to the game.

Athletic Director Ray Eckmann of the University of Washington Huskies, the host team of the event, remained confident that the Panthers and Huskies would sellout the huge bowl.

Close observers in Pasadena and Los Angeles were not so confident, and dissatisfaction over the fact that undefeated Louisiana State or Alabama was not invited to the contest.

Aside from Turley the Atlanta team will be composed of Manager Cliff Lowry, Tom Bryan, Harlan Dorman, H. M. Gammage, E. D. Hutchinson, Dick Lange, Roy Owen, Frank Richards, R. K. Teaney, Marcus Yoon, Carl Samberg and Urb Wilkinson.

Kelley Will Play With East's Eleven

HAMILTON, N. Y., Dec. 5.—(UP)—Coach Andy Kerr, of Colgate, announced today that Larry Kelley, Yale's All-American end, and Carl (Mutt) Ray, center, and John Han-drahan, fullback, both from Dartmouth, have accepted invitations to play with the all-east team on the coast this winter against the All-West eleven.

Annually Kerr picks 11 players from the eastern and southern section and Dick Hanley, former Northwestern coach, selects 11 from the middle west. The game is played in San Francisco, Cal., on New Year's Day as a benefit for the Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children.

Rose Bowl Sellout Seen by Officials

Day's Mail Brings Ticket Requests, But Criticism of Pitt Selection Continues.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Rose Bowl football office opened the day's mail and sighed with relief. Bombed for 24 hours by a cross-fire of criticism over the selection of Pittsburgh as the opponent for the annual New Year's Day game, they had reason to welcome the mail.

It contained checks and requests for tickets to the game.

Athletic Director Ray Eckmann of the University of Washington Huskies, the host team of the event, remained confident that the Panthers and Huskies would sellout the huge bowl.

Cowan tries any of his rough tactics he will meet like opposition. The opening match should be one of the fastest bouts on the program. John Dameron, Atlanta, and Garnett Starnes, Reserve team, will be secured in advance by calling Main 2539.

The Spring Street arena is located at the junction of Spring, Park and Garnett streets. Reserve seats may be secured in advance by calling Main 2539.

Basketball

Y-CITY LEAGUE.

Pulmon Bag and Cotton Mills five leads 8:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 8:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 9:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 9:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 10:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 10:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 11:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 11:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 12:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 12:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 1:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 1:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 2:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 2:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 3:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 3:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 4:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 4:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 5:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 5:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 6:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 6:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 7:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 7:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 8:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 8:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 9:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 9:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 10:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 10:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 11:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 11:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 12:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 12:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 1:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 1:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 2:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 2:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 3:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 3:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 4:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 4:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 5:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 5:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 6:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 6:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 7:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 7:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 8:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 8:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 9:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 9:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 10:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 10:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 11:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 11:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 12:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 12:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 1:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 1:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 2:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 2:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 3:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 3:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 4:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 4:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 5:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 5:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 6:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 6:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 7:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 7:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 8:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 8:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 9:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 9:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 10:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 10:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 11:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 11:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 12:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 12:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 1:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 1:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 2:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 2:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 3:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 3:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 4:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 4:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 5:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 5:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 6:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 6:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 7:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 7:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 8:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 8:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 9:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 9:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 10:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 10:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 11:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 11:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 12:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 12:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 1:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 1:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 2:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 2:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 3:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 3:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 4:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 4:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 5:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 5:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 6:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 6:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 7:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 7:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 8:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 8:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 9:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 9:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 10:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 10:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 11:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 11:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 12:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 12:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 1:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 1:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 2:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 2:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 3:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 3:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 4:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 4:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 5:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 5:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 6:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 6:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 7:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 7:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 8:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 8:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 9:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 9:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 10:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 10:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 11:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 11:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 12:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 12:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 1:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 1:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 2:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 2:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 3:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 3:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 4:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 4:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 5:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 5:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 6:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 6:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 7:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 7:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 8:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 8:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 9:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 9:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 10:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 10:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 11:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 11:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 12:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 12:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 1:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 1:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 2:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 2:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 3:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 3:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 4:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 4:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 5:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 5:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 6:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 6:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 7:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 7:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 8:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 8:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 9:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 9:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 10:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 10:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 11:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 11:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 12:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 12:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 1:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 1:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 2:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 2:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 3:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 3:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 4:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 4:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 5:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 5:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 6:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 6:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 7:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 7:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 8:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 8:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 9:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 9:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 10:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 10:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 11:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 11:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 12:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 12:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 1:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 1:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 2:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 2:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 3:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 3:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 4:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 4:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 5:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 5:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 6:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 6:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 7:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 7:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 8:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 8:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 9:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 9:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 10:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 10:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 11:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 11:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 12:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 12:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 1:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 1:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 2:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 2:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 3:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 3:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 4:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 4:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 5:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 5:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 6:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 6:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 7:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 7:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 8:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 8:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 9:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 9:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 10:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 10:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 11:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 11:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 12:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 12:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 1:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 1:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 2:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia Power. 2:30 p. m.—Cotton Mills vs. Georgia Power. 3:00 p. m.—Pulmon Bag vs. Georgia

SPECIAL STOCKS RISE DURING LIGHT SELLING

N. Y. Stock Exchange Dealings

Commodity Prices at 1930 Levels

Bond Dealings on N. Y. Stock Exchange

Less Worry Over Foreign Events Tends to Brace Sentiment on Exchange.

Daily Stock Summary. Table with columns: Date, High, Low, Close, Net, and various stock indices.

Dow-Jones Averages. Table with columns: Index, High, Low, Close, Net, and various market averages.

By G. A. PHILLIPS. NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(P)—Specialists ran the gauntlet of light selling in today's stock market for gains of fractions to 2 or more points, but most recent leaders were unable to get far out in front.

Encouraging business news and less worry over foreign happenings tended to brace market sentiment, but many traders seemed to find their positions on the sidelines fairly comfortable.

An assortment of low-priced issues was again quite lively. A few oils, aircrafts and rail equipments pushed up briskly for a time. Offerings in most cases, however, were sufficient to keep the so-called "blue chips" in the Association's Press average of 60 stocks unchanged at 70.4. Transfers for the two-hour session totaled 1,454,280 shares against 1,434,280 last Saturday.

More shares appeared for petroleum favorites following the lifting of crude oil prices and expectations heavy consumption demand would offset any possible surplus in production.

War preparations abroad and defensive measures at home produced carrier equipment orders continued to expand orders from transportation systems.

Quiet, although a few substantial gains were recorded here and there. Cottonseed oil, raw hide and rubber futures scored new highs. The latter reaching the 10-cent level for the first time since November, 1929.

Wheat at Chicago, November, unchanged at 58.50 a bushel. Corn, unchanged at 35.00 a bushel. Cotton, unchanged at 14.00 a bale. Foreign currencies were down a shade in terms of the dollar.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Following is the official list of today's stock transactions on the New York Stock Exchange.

Table with columns: Stock Name, High, Low, Close, Net, and various market averages.

Table with columns: Stock Name, High, Low, Close, Net, and various market averages.

Table with columns: Stock Name, High, Low, Close, Net, and various market averages.

Table with columns: Stock Name, High, Low, Close, Net, and various market averages.

Table with columns: Stock Name, High, Low, Close, Net, and various market averages.

Table with columns: Stock Name, High, Low, Close, Net, and various market averages.

Table with columns: Stock Name, High, Low, Close, Net, and various market averages.

Table with columns: Stock Name, High, Low, Close, Net, and various market averages.

Advance Is Laid to Short Requirements of Certain Raw Materials, Plus Speculative Buying on Cots of Future Materials.

By CHARLES F. SPEARE. NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(P)—The advance in the price of commodities is of vital importance to the highest level since 1930. The whole sale food price index rose 1.2 points, and the index of raw materials rose 1.1 points.

From these facts it is clear that the cost of living must rise, and that the economic situation must be adjusted to the new conditions.

The means to this end are variously described by representatives of labor and capital. One extreme is the demand for a 40-hour week, and the other is the demand for a 40-hour week.

Bank Clearings. NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Bank clearings in the United States during the week ended December 3, 1930, totaled $1,454,280,000.

Weather Outlook. South Atlantic States: Rain at beginning of week, clearing at end of week.

Weather Outlook. North and Middle Atlantic States: Snow at beginning of week, clearing at end of week.

Weather Outlook. Ohio Valley and Tennessee: Clear and cold at beginning of week, followed by rising temperatures.

Weather Outlook. Southern Plains and West Gulf States: Generally fair, except for early part of week.

Market Is Dominated by Series of Sweeping Gains for Certain Issues.

Daily Bond Averages. Table with columns: Bond Name, High, Low, Close, Net, and various market averages.

Table with columns: Bond Name, High, Low, Close, Net, and various market averages.

Table with columns: Bond Name, High, Low, Close, Net, and various market averages.

Table with columns: Bond Name, High, Low, Close, Net, and various market averages.

Table with columns: Bond Name, High, Low, Close, Net, and various market averages.

Table with columns: Bond Name, High, Low, Close, Net, and various market averages.

Table with columns: Bond Name, High, Low, Close, Net, and various market averages.

Table with columns: Bond Name, High, Low, Close, Net, and various market averages.

Atlanta Stocks. CLEMENT A. EVANS & CO. 1017 First National Bank Bldg. 80 BROAD ST. N. W.

MERCHANDISE

Household Goods 77

GIVE CEDAR CHEST FOR CHRISTMAS COME TO ZABAN'S

132 WHITEHALL

WHERE YOU CAN FIND A LARGE ASSORTMENT

PRICES AS LOW AS $12.50 TO $45.00

G. E. refrigerator, bedroom suite, dining room suite, general warehouse & storage Co. 272 Marietta St. JA. 2296

SPECIALS

70T nice dresser, hotel or restaurant gas range, Simmons Ave. springs, oak china cabinet, Ward refrigerator, 306 Marietta St.

Classified Display

Beauty Aids

Holiday Waves

are the style

Oil Croquignole

$2 complete

Shampoo, Finger Wave $1.00 and Manicure

We guarantee not to dry or burn your hair.

Hollywood Beauty Salon

414 Grand Thea. Bldg., JA. 5880

Let Us Solve

Your Holiday Beauty Problems

Add to Your Beauty and Charm With Our New

Machineless Permanent Wave, complete $5.50

Other Waves $3 Up

Shampoo, Finger Wave, dried, 50c

Hair Cuts 35c

JEAN'S BEAUTY SHOP

873 WHITEHALL ST. MA. 2910

Davison's Basement

The Beauty Parlor Features a Gift Every Woman Will Adore Getting!

Give Her a Grand

New Styled Permanent

2.95

Give her what she wants—and it's a tip for you ladies who want to be lovely for the Christmas parties—and long after! Styled to suit your individual type—and given by trained experts! Shampoo and wave set included.

GIFT CARDS... just select the price you want to give—and we'll issue you a gift card—to hang on HER Christmas tree!

Other Permanents $4 to $6

Call Walnut 7612 and make your appointment.

Extension 229

DAVISON-PAXON CO.

101 Edgewood Ave. Atlanta, Ga.

MERCHANDISE

Musical Merchandise 76

CONN BAND INSTRUMENTS, GIBSON GUITARS, SOPRANO ACCORDIONS, LEEDY DRUMS, EVERYTHING MUSICAL, LOWEST PRICES

BITTER MUSIC CO. INC.

144 AUBURN AVENUE

LEAVING city, will sacrifice combination Radio-Victrola-Marmophone and bungalow piano. Call HE. 3174.

Typewriters, Office Equipment 80

SPECIAL rental rates for home use. All makes, used and repaired. Rent the KERNER typewriter. Call HE. 3174.

ATTENTION, STUDENTS

Special rental rates for home use. All makes, used and repaired. Rent the KERNER typewriter. Call HE. 3174.

AMERICAN Writing Machine Co. 41 Forsyth St. N. W. Phone WA. 3876

TYEWEITER BARGAINS

ALL makes standard and portable. Special rental rates. Buy, sell, repair. Special SERVICE TYEWEITER CO. 14 Peachtree Avenue. WA. 1084

Wanted To Buy 81

USED TIRES, ALL SIZES, ALL MAKES. HIGHEST CASH PRICES PAID. BIRMINGHAM RETREADERS, INC. 212 MARILYN ST. WA. 8274

212 MARILYN ST. WA. 8274

PERFECT or to be repaired. Must be complete or in part; describe fully. Cash sale. Write Box F-3006, Constitution.

SILVERWARE and old gold, any condition. New high cash prices. GOLD SHOP, 806 PEACHTREE ST.

CASH FOR USED CLOTHING—Bring in, receive 25¢ more L. B. Adams, MA. 7057. 258 N. W. 10th St., 4th Fl.

CASH for used furniture and household goods. Central Auction Co., 145 Mitchell Ave. W. 1219

GAS HEATER—I WILL PAY REASONABLE PRICE, ANY CONDITION. DE. 145-W.

BASS FURNITURE CO. 4123 RLYS. HOUSEHOLD GOODS IMMEDIATE SERVICE. WE PAY MOST.

WE PAY cash for used furniture. New Deal Furn. Co., 255 Peters, WA. 4380.

GOOD furniture wanted. We pay more. Hutchins Co., 105 Whitehall St. 4213

Will pay best cash price for used furniture. Hurd Winkler Furniture Co. 1377

Will pay cash for good used fresh water system pump. WA. 8707.

WILL PAY HIGHEST CASH PRICES FOR USED PIANOS. HE. 9053.

HIGHEST CASH PRICES FOR GOOD USED FURNITURE. HURD WINKLER FURNITURE CO. HE. 4213

WANTED—KOLCIG CIGARETTE COUPONS. CALL MRS. N. B. BROWN, RA. 0363

WA. 1310—MONEY—WA. 1310.

FOR used furniture and sewing machines. WANTED—USED BREAKFAST ROOM SUITE. MA. 7265.

ROOM FOR RENT

Rooms With Board 85

1303 W. PEACHTREE—ATTR. ROOM IN PRIVATE HOME. PLEASANT HEAT, HOT WATER, HOME COOKING. HE. 4352-W.

Classified Display

Beauty Aids

ANY STYLE

For Xmas

$200

$3.00 and $5.00 Complete

We still give the old time Spiral Wave for $3.50 to $5.00 complete.

FINGER WAVE

(Dried) 25c

Ryckley's

1115 WHITEHALL JA. 7037

Classified Display

Beauty Aids

LISTEN TO MACKEY'S

Saving a few cents on a product may cost me many dollars in reputation and patronage. I have consistently refused to "fall" for bargains and cut-rate merchandise to be used in any one of my shops. I have refused to be a "sucker" for racketeers because my shops are not "research laboratories," and I do not propose to experiment on my patrons. I appreciate their confidence and give them the best in workmanship and merchandise.

Visit any one of our three shops and see for yourself. You'll be convinced of... quality above everything plus the service of well-trained operators working in modern, sanitary facilities.

OL CROQUIGNOLE

WAVE complete $2.50

Including shampoo and set

XMAS GIFT SUGGESTION

Surprise your friends with a Permanent Wave Gift Certificate, good at any time before or after Xmas.

Phone one of Mackey's three conveniently located shops.

MACKEY'S BEAUTY SHOPS

66 1/2 WHITEHALL ST.—WA. 0073—JA. 7089

1037 PEACHTREE STREET 32 ROSWELL ROAD

At 11th Street. HE. 3550 Theater Bldg. CH. 2012

Beauty Culture Beauty Culture

GIRLS!

LEARN BEAUTY CULTURE

It's Pleasant and Profitable

New Year Class

NOW FORMING WITH SPECIAL RATES

Booklet upon request. Write or see Mr. Rich

Artistic Beauty Institute

101 Edgewood Ave. Atlanta, Ga.

ROOM FOR RENT

Rooms With Board 85

609 PIEDMONT, cor. 4th, large room, twin beds, adjoining bath. 2 or 3 excellent meals. Sunday supper; garage. WA. 0933

888-892 PONCE DE LEON—Extra nice room, meals, steam heat, continuous hot water. Rates $5 up. VE. 1704

1720 PEACHTREE RD. VACANCY YOUNG LADY; ALSO, AC. YOUNG MAN, OUT-LOOKER. REAR. HE. 3906

MARMORY HILL, 180 14th—Refined home atmosphere, delicious meals, comfortable room, private or conn. bath. HE. 1781

1303 PEACHTREE, LARGE, ATTRACTIVE ROOMS, PRIVATE OR CONN. BATH. TWIN BEDS, STEAM HEAT. HE. 2135-W

ROOM AND BOARD FOR TWO BUSINESS GIRLS. VAC. DEC. 15. DE. 1941-W

BOARD in Druid Hills, 1255 Ponce de Leon, rates reasonable. DE. 2140

1246 PONCE DE LEON—Attractive vacancies, refined home, excel. meals. DE. 2297

482 REMINOLE, N. E.—Front room, semi-private bath, excellent meals. RA. 0891

1129 W. PEACHTREE—Attractive private bath; gentlemen: $5. HE. 0918

MODERN, large room, closet, att. sep. enl. bath, excel. meals. RA. 0921

1000 PINE—GENTLEMAN, RMATE, ATT. RM., PRIV. BATH. HE. 1784-W

BEAUTIFUL S. Gordon, priv. home, all conv. Bus. people. Call HE. 0976

25 11TH, N. E.—Large, vacancies, att. bath, shower, del. meals. HE. 0976

913-909 PONCE DE LEON, COR. LINWOOD, ATT. VACANCIES. HE. 0906

DR. RONALD E. H. N. E. Home, apt. 10, 11th St., priv. bath, home. HE. 1784-W

LOVELY FURN. RM., EXCEL. MEALS, REAR. 400 PARK AVE. MA. 1017

624 1/2 ST. N. E.—Room, private bath, twin beds, also corner front room.

MEN, COMFORTABLE VACANCY, TWIN BEDS, EXCEL. MEALS. HE. 4440-J

194 1/2 ST. N. E.—Room, private bath, also vacancy lady. HE. 2008

608 MYRTLE—Large, refined, att. bath; home cooking. $5.50 each. VE. 2207

WEST END—450 Highgate Rd., Refrm., living rm., kitchen. Private bath. RA. 0691

306 8TH, N. E. 2 attractive rooms, private bath, meals optional. VE. 2200

PRIV. HOME, ATT. BUNGLE, DOUBLE RM., GENTLEMAN, REF. WA. 7879

BUSINESS COUPLE, STRICTLY PRIVATE, N. S. HOME WITH COUPLE. HE. 3017-W

EXCLUSIVE N. S. private home, 2 rooms, private bath, excel. meals. HE. 0913-J

705 PEACHTREE, RM. MATE, GENTLEMAN, TWIN BEDS, ALL CONV. JA. 3377

15MAN PK., priv. home, excel. meals, new furn. 3 rooms. $5.50 each. HE. 4110

44-14th N. E. corner room, twin beds, Gentlemen preferred. REAR. HE. 4110

NEW HOME, steam heat, shower, excellent meals. Gentlemen. WA. 0853

724 PIEDMONT, Lge. lovely front rm. New furniture, twin beds. JA. 3634

DRUID HILLS HOME—Lovely rm., priv. or conn. bath. DE. 3366

NICE ROOM, TWIN BEDS, STEAM HEAT, GOOD MEALS. HE. 8838

Rooms—Furnished 89

HOTEL CANDLER

SINGLE ROOMS and 2-room suites. Attractive rates for permanent guests. DE. 2115

ON The Prado, N. E., near car line, excellent corner room with use of connect. ing bath, $17.50 per month. WA. 8237, be tween 5 and 6 p. m.

510 EIGHTH ST., N. E.—Strictly private home, lovely double room, large closet, Virginia Ave. has passes door. Breakfasts and Sunday dinner optional. VE. 1493

WEST END—Nice room, twin or double beds, gentlemen. Priv. home of adults. Reasonable. RA. 4080

N. S. ROOM, HOUSEKEEPING PRIV. LIVES OR BOARD, ON CAR LINE. HE. 3068-J

REFINED GENTLEMAN DESIRES ROOM, MATE, PRI. N. S. HOME, ADJ. BATH. CH. 1908

PRIV. HOME, ATTR. ROOM, SEMI-PRIV. BATH, GOOD HEAT, GAR. HE. 6827-J

600 W. PINE—Large room, all conv., good heat, refined bus. people. HE. 1123-J

EXCEPTIONAL bachelor apartment, private enl., beautiful N. S. Home. HE. 6831-J

DESIRABLE room, conn. bath, private home. HE. 8403

ROOM and bath $15 to $20 mo. Hotel service, 614 N. Highland N. E. HE. 9211

NORTH SIDE, PRIV. HOME, ATT. RM., ADJ. BATH, GOOD HEAT. VE. 1962

971 PIEDMONT, N. E.—Attr. single room, conv. bath, heat, hot water. VE. 2155

N. S. HOME, Comfortable heated rm., twin beds, priv. bath. RA. 2130-J

LARGE comfortable front room, adj. bath, for gentlemen, pri. home. WA. 1415

Classified Display

Beauty Aids

ROOM FOR RENT

Rooms—Furnished 89

1354 LUCILE, FRI. HOME, ATT. BTH. ROOM, TWIN BEDS, REAR. RA. 0902

508 WEST END AVE.—Furnished bedroom, heat, water, phone. Telephone RA. 0886

1177 87—Nicely furnished bedroom, also room for lady. HE. 3073-J

SINGLE rm., all conv., adj. bath, priv. home. 575 Capitol Ave. N. W. MA. 2065

ROOMMATE, YOUNG LADY 15 STEAM-HEATED APT. WA. 0913

M'OSIDE, Desirable room, pri. bath; garage. Gentlemen or bus. couple. HE. 5834-W

AND HOMEKIE, HE. 8472

WEST END—LOVELY STEAM-HEATED ROOM, ADJ. BATH. RA. 4383

312 W. Peachtree, priv. family all conveniences; gentlemen. $12 week. WA. 0233

Rooms—Unfurnished 90

N. S. Lovely large corner heated room, large closet, att. bath. HE. 1210-J

Housekeeping Rooms

Furnished 94

INMAN PARK, 99 Spruce, large, beautiful room, private bath, excellent meals. HE. 4117

1177 87—Nicely furnished bedroom, also room for lady. HE. 3073-J

311 W. PEACHTREE—Large attractive room with kitchenette. Adults. References. HE. 4197-J

WEST END—450 Highgate Rd., Refrm., living rm., kitchen. Private bath. RA. 0691

DRUID HILLS SEC. RM., KITCHEN, GAR., EVERYTHING FURN. $5.00. HE. 0942-J

312 W. Peachtree, priv. family all conveniences; gentlemen. $12 week. WA. 0233

311 W. PEACHTREE—Large attractive room with kitchenette. Adults. References. HE. 4197-J

WEST END—450 Highgate Rd., Refrm., living rm., kitchen. Private bath. RA. 0691

DRUID HILLS SEC. RM., KITCHEN, GAR., EVERYTHING FURN. $5.00. HE. 0942-J

312 W. Peachtree, priv. family all conveniences; gentlemen. $12 week. WA. 0233

311 W. PEACHTREE—Large attractive room with kitchenette. Adults. References. HE. 4197-J

WEST END—450 Highgate Rd., Refrm., living rm., kitchen. Private bath. RA. 0691

DRUID HILLS SEC. RM., KITCHEN, GAR., EVERYTHING FURN. $5.00. HE. 0942-J

312 W. Peachtree, priv. family all conveniences; gentlemen. $12 week. WA. 0233

311 W. PEACHTREE—Large attractive room with kitchenette. Adults. References. HE. 4197-J

WEST END—450 Highgate Rd., Refrm., living rm., kitchen. Private bath. RA. 0691

DRUID HILLS SEC. RM., KITCHEN, GAR., EVERYTHING FURN. $5.00. HE. 0942-J

312 W. Peachtree, priv. family all conveniences; gentlemen. $12 week. WA. 0233

311 W. PEACHTREE—Large attractive room with kitchenette. Adults. References. HE. 4197-J

WEST END—450 Highgate Rd., Refrm., living rm., kitchen. Private bath. RA. 0691

DRUID HILLS SEC. RM., KITCHEN, GAR., EVERYTHING FURN. $5.00. HE. 0942-J

312 W. Peachtree, priv. family all conveniences; gentlemen. $12 week. WA. 0233

311 W. PEACHTREE—Large attractive room with kitchenette. Adults. References. HE. 4197-J

WEST END—450 Highgate Rd., Refrm., living rm., kitchen. Private bath. RA. 0691

DRUID HILLS SEC. RM., KITCHEN, GAR., EVERYTHING FURN. $5.00. HE. 0942-J

312 W. Peachtree, priv. family all conveniences; gentlemen. $12 week. WA. 0233

311 W. PEACHTREE—Large attractive room with kitchenette. Adults. References. HE. 4197-J

WEST END—450 Highgate Rd., Refrm., living rm., kitchen. Private bath. RA. 0691

DRUID HILLS SEC. RM., KITCHEN, GAR., EVERYTHING FURN. $5.00. HE. 0942-J

312 W. Peachtree, priv. family all conveniences; gentlemen. $12 week. WA. 0233

311 W. PEACHTREE—Large attractive room with kitchenette. Adults. References. HE. 4197-J

WEST END—450 Highgate Rd., Refrm., living rm., kitchen. Private bath. RA. 0691

DRUID HILLS SEC. RM., KITCHEN, GAR., EVERYTHING FURN. $5.00. HE. 0942-J

312 W. Peachtree, priv. family all conveniences; gentlemen. $12 week. WA. 0233

311 W. PEACHTREE—Large attractive room with kitchenette. Adults. References. HE. 4197-J

WEST END—450 Highgate Rd., Refrm., living rm., kitchen. Private bath. RA. 0691

DRUID HILLS SEC. RM., KITCHEN, GAR., EVERYTHING FURN. $5.00. HE. 0942-J

312 W. Peachtree, priv. family all conveniences; gentlemen. $12 week. WA. 0233

311 W. PEACHTREE—Large attractive room with kitchenette. Adults. References. HE. 4197-J

WEST END—450 Highgate Rd., Refrm., living rm., kitchen. Private bath. RA. 0691

DRUID HILLS SEC. RM., KITCHEN, GAR., EVERYTHING FURN. $5.00. HE. 0942-J

312 W. Peachtree, priv. family all conveniences; gentlemen. $12 week. WA. 0233

311 W. PEACHTREE—Large attractive room with kitchenette. Adults. References. HE. 4197-J

REAL ESTATE—SALE

Houses For Sale 120

North Side.

OPEN—HEATED
GOING TO SELL GARDEN HILLS
3 BEDROOMS, 2 1/2 BATHS.
Near Peachtree
125 Bolling Rd.
125 Bolling Rd.
MR. CRAIG, CH. 1766. MR.
GEORGE, CH. 2202. MR.
RANKIN-WHITTEN
Realty Co. WA. 0636. Realtors.

Peachtree's Newest Section
Near Car and Schools

THIS new and attractive 2-story colonial home is being offered at a price considerably below its reproduction value. Right large rooms, plaster walls, master bedroom, automatic air conditioning heat, large shady lot. See this home before you decide. H. J. Anderson, HE.
2814, or WA. 3111.

HAAS HOWELL & DODD

2-STORY DUPLEX

7 ROOMS EACH
NEAR PEACHTREE. In Brookwood
Hills section, has two steam plumbing, laundry tubs. If you want a home and income in a good section of Atlanta, see this place at once. 12-year 56 house year, including principal and interest, $25 per month; you can't find a better value. Call Mr. Woodward, HE.
6246-W.

RANKIN-WHITTEN

Realty Co. WA. 0636. Realtors.

ANSLEY PARK

AN EXCEPTIONALLY ADEPT home going on the market; the lot is 130 x 200 x 18 feet; the house was designed by an architect, carefully built, and is very pleasing; there are 4 bedrooms and a large living room; the roof is insulated and the state-of-the-entire property has been well maintained. Call Mr. Weidling,
MA. 2797, today.

ADAMS-CATES CO.

2nd Floor Hurt Bldg. WA. 5477

109 Peachtree Circle

(Ansley Park)
UNUSUALLY fine 1-story solid brick home, 4 bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, slate roof,
8-inch rock wool insulation, steam heat.
Beautiful lot, 130x200. A real bargain.
Shown by appointment only. Call
L. L. Adams, CH. 1000, Healey building.

Classified Display

Real Estate for Sale

353 Argonne Drive

Judge This Exceptional
Value for Yourself!

SUBSTANTIALLY built home—in the most exclusive residential section. Completely redecorated by one of our finest decorators.

LARGE living room, library, etc.; 4 bedrooms,
2 bathrooms, recreation room in basement.
Gas heat; 3-car garage with overhead doors.
Servants' rooms over garage. Lot 100x800; grounds completely landscaped.

$22,500. Available on easy terms.
Can place loan of $15,000 at 5 per cent interest, repayable in 15 or 20 years.

Samuel Rothberg

1112 HEALEY BLDG. WA. 2253

Financial

Financial

ARE YOU SURE? INSURE

Has the title to your home been GUARANTEED and INSURED by Atlanta Title & Trust Company?

This is the only Company qualified to insure titles to lands in Georgia which has on DEPOSIT, under STATE SUPERVISION, securities for the protection of its POLICYHOLDERS, AS RE-QUIRED BY LAW.

CAPITAL $1,000,000.00

Why Take a Chance?

ATLANTA TITLE & TRUST COMPANY

TITLE BUILDING, ATLANTA, GEORGIA

TITLE INSURANCE

Auction—Real Estate

Auction—Real Estate

REAL ESTATE AUCTIONS

REAL ESTATE

WED., OCT. 9th, 10 A. M., on the premises
CARROLLTON, GA.

Fri., Dec. 11, 10:30 A. M., in front of Courthouse
AT WINDER, GA.

80 BUSINESS and residential lots fronting on Atlanta-Athens Highway and Athens Street, some of the best property in Winder, Ga., selling for division of owners. Terms, Cash. R. L. Carberry and Hargrave, heirs, owners.

JOHNSON LAND CO., Selling Agents

Haas-Howell Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

List your property with us for quick sale. Main 1033.

REAL ESTATE—SALE

Houses For Sale 120

North Side.

EAST LAKE SECTION
BEAUTIFUL 6-room brick bungalows in first-class condition, near school, church and car line. Owner making change, says he will sacrifice for $3,500. Terms reasonable.
After making small cash payment balance will be less than rent. Don't miss this bargain. Call Mr. R. B.
Williams, DE. 4134; Monday, WA.
1511.

J. H. Ewing & Sons

Realtors.

85 Forsyth St., N. W.

PARKWAY DRIVE

$3,750

TWO BATHS

$375 CASH payment, notes $37.50 month, including interest, will buy a nice nine-room two-story brick and slate house. Interior just been redecorated. Steam heat. Boy Holmes,
WA. 9511, HE. 3680.

DRAPER-OWENS CO.

Realtors.

321 Grant Bldg. WA. 9511.

Morningside Drive

$9,000

LOCATED in the best section of Morningside. A newly reconditioned 2-story brick home, 4 bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, large living room, dandy breakfast, slate roof, 3-car garage. Lot 70x230. This is a real value. Call John Moore, CH.
1706.

NATIONAL

REALTY MANAGEMENT CO., INC.

Candler Bldg. WA. 2224.

OPEN TODAY

772 San Antonio

HAIR block off Center drive, between Courtland and Amsterdam Ave. Most unusual and very attractive New England colonial home;
extra large living room, 3 bedrooms, 2 baths. A real value on terms less than rent. Call Mr. Brown today, MA. 7419, or WA. 3111.

HAAS HOWELL & DODD

431 Callan Cr.

NICE 6-room white brick bungalows, perfect condition, convenient to schools, stores, transportation and other attractions; price, cash or terms. Mr. Dennis.

C. D. LeBay & Co.

WA. 0880 or CH. 1105

5-ROOM FRAME bungalow, fine condition, near Georgia Tech, corner lot, $1,900.
Mr. Hambro, MA. 1133.

Classified Display

Real Estate for Sale

REAL ESTATE—SALE

Houses For Sale 120

North Side.

MARTINA DR., $5,500
$300 CASH—One block of Peachtree. Owner transferring and must sell before 20th.
Save $1,000 for Christmas on this home.
One on the street. Extra large brick bungalow located on beautiful elevated corner lot 140x180. Well improved; at least $1500 saved. Let me show you a bargain today. Call Mr. W. M. Williams,
DE. 4134; Monday, WA. 1511.

Here's Your Chance

VERY desirable, handsome home, quiet
near Pointe de Leon, one of the best Druid Hills roads, which the owner no longer needs. Let me show you much less than value. Large lot with beautiful garden. No loan. HE. 1087, WA. 0156. J. R.
Nutting & Co.

Brookwood Hills Opportunity

MOST attractive 2-story brick home, 4 bedrooms, large heated sleeping porch, 2 1/2 baths and a beautiful landscaped lot.
Large lot with large swimming pool.
Near Park. Call Mr. N. J. Nutting & Co.,
WA. 0156. J. R. Nutting & Co.

OPEN TODAY FOR THE FIRST TIME

ONE of the finest medium priced homes in
Fulton county. Look at No. 2413 Shenandoah
Dr. Peachtree Terrace subdivision, near
Lindbergh drive. Price will surprise you.
Don't fail to see this one today; owner on premises. WA. 1508.

$3,850—BEST YET

MODERN seven-room bungalow in perfect condition. Near 2413 Shenandoah
Dr., near school and stores. Very attractive terms. Call C. Wheeler, HE. 1211;
Monday, WA. 3036.

OPEN TODAY

2333 DELWOOD DR., Hargrave Manor—6
rooms, 3 bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths; tile kitchen;
large lot, 100x150. Call Mr. N. J. Nutting &
Co., WA. 0156. J. R. Nutting & Co.

HAYES MAJOR

YOU are invited to see a white brick home with every convenience at 3333 Manor
Dr. Will be open, lighted and heated Sunday after 2 p. m. Call Mr. N. J. Nutting &
Co., WA. 0156. J. R. Nutting & Co.

622 HARBORVIEW AVE., N. E., at convenience, $1,200 on terms. Call Mr.

Hutchinson, CH. 1000.

Screws Realty Co. WA. 5668

5-ROOM COLONIAL BRICK

NEAR Peachtree, 125 Crestview
Dr., N. E. (near Samuel Johnson school).
Call Mr. N. J. Nutting & Co., WA. 0156. J. R. Nutting & Co.

NEAR Center and Ivy road

small livable home on large, beautiful
lot. 100x150. Call Mr. N. J. Nutting & Co.,
WA. 0156. J. R. Nutting & Co.

NEAR Peachtree Ave., 6-room brick

All round excellent cond. $20 down, $20
mo. WA. 4270.

PETES PARK—Attractive livable duplex apartment, 2 1/2 baths, 2 bedrooms, 2 baths, steam heat, central air conditioning,

call Mr. N. J. Nutting & Co., WA. 0156. J. R. Nutting & Co.

1036 KENTUCKY N. E.—New 6-room brick

Home, 2 1/2 baths, 2 bedrooms, 2 baths, steam heat, central air conditioning,
call Mr. N. J. Nutting & Co., WA. 0156. J. R. Nutting & Co.

ADAMS-CATES CO.

2nd Floor Hurt Bldg. WA. 5477

ONLY $5,000

On Morningside Drive

TWO blocks off Highland Ave. Spacious six-room brick bungalow and extra large lot. Call Mr. N. J. Nutting & Co.,
WA. 0156. J. R. Nutting & Co.

RANKIN-WHITTEN

Realty Co. WA. 0636. Realtors.

730 Third Avenue

(Decatur)

ATTRACTIVE brick bungalow, convenient to car school and shopping.
Large lot, 100x150. Call Mr. N. J. Nutting &
Co., WA. 0156. J. R. Nutting & Co.

Druid Hills Bargain

THREE bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, large lot in best section of Druid Hills.
For quick sale $6,200. Unusually low cash payment. Balance including principle, interest, taxes and ins., approximately $15 per month. Rental
$20 per month. Call Mr. N. J. Nutting &
Co., WA. 0156. J. R. Nutting & Co.

Burdett Realty Co. WA. 1011

$2,250—NO LOAN—Imman Park.

Newly painted, 6-room and breakfast room bungalow, furnace heat, $450 cash, monthly note $22.50. A real buy. Call Mr. Brown, MA. 7419 today or WA. 3111.

HAAS HOWELL & DODD

BRICK bungalow, 6 rms., breakfast rm., cont. Morningside section, HE. 6257.

Classified Display

Real Estate for Sale

SELECTED GEORGIA FARMS

The following tracts are offered for immediate sale on terms of cash and the balance over a period of 20 years with interest at 5%. These are well located in good middle Georgia counties.

Suitable for Cattle

Raising

MONROE COUNTY, 1,200 acres, main dwelling, 13 tenant houses, large barn, 800 acres under fence, excellent pasture, approximately 1,000 feet timber. Located 5 miles west of Smarts.
Call Mr. N. J. Nutting & Co., WA. 0156. J. R. Nutting & Co.

HEARD COUNTY, 472 acres, 8 miles from Hokesville. Plenty of pasture land, stream running through farm, 100 acres highly suitable for growing peaches. A very low price on this.

FRUIT COUNTY, 600 acres, 5 miles northeast Abbeville. 200 acres of river and creek bottoms, main dwelling and three tenant houses, large barn.

Good cattle farm.

General Farming

HEARD COUNTY, 248 acres, 10 miles west of Franklin, large dwelling and extra large barn; 100 acres in cultivation; good bottom lands and excellent pasture. Approximately 75,000 feet commercial timber.

PIKE COUNTY, 261 acres, 1 mile east of Hollandsville, good 10-room house, good condition; 175 acres in high state of cultivation, 45 in woods.

PIKE COUNTY, 400 acres, good dwelling, good barn, three tenant houses,

100 acres in cultivation, balance in woods,
6 miles south of Griffin. 1 mile off paved road.

HEARD COUNTY, 348 acres, 16 miles northwest of LaGrange, large good house, two tenant houses, plenty of barns and out-buildings; 200 acres in cultivation, large pasture, plenty of wood.

A proposed paved highway routed through this farm.

SPALDING COUNTY, 87 acres, 5 miles from Griffin, large dwelling, paved road, all in cultivation, two good dwellings, large barn and other out-buildings.

SPALDING COUNTY, 154 acres, 3 miles southeast of Griffin, just off Macon highway. Good buildings and land, lake also.

ONE of our sales representatives will be glad to meet you at LaGrange, Griffin, Franklin, Forsyth or at a convenient point to show you any of the above farms. Take advantage of this opportunity to see a good, well located farm while the price is still right. Write for our list. "Farms 100 Miles of Atlanta," P. O. Box 1, Atlanta, Ga.

Jefferson Mortgage Co.

1110 Standard Bldg. WA. 0814.

NEW AND PRETTY

1487 Sylvan Road, S. W.

Open 2 to 5 P. M.

IDEAL floor plan. Red brick bungalows with modern kitchen, large living room, screened-in front porch, large daylight basement, concrete all tile bath, weatherstripped throughout. $38.61 monthly will cover taxes, insurance, principal and interest on F.H.A. loan after subin-terest on F.H.A. loan. W. D. Billie, DE. 1278.

Jefferson Mortgage Co.

1110 Standard Bldg. WA. 0814.

Grant Park.

7-ROOMS, new plumbing, new roof, new paint, walls papered, $1,800. Terms flexible, 408 Title Bldg., MA. 6038, RA.
6074.

$3,750, 6-rm. bungalow, for $2,750. Your own terms. K. L. Harling, HE. 3743.

Carey Park.

14 ST. JAMES PL. Nice suburban residential section, 6-room brick, nice large lot 20x130. Real buy. Easy terms. Call
McMurry, WA. 8041.

Federal Land Bank

Walnut 3130 95 Marietta St.

REAL ESTATE—SALE

Houses For Sale 120

North Side.

MARTINA DR., $5,500
$300 CASH—One block of Peachtree. Owner
transferring and must sell before 20th.
Save $1,000 for Christmas on this home.
One on the street. Extra large brick bungalow located on beautiful elevated corner lot 140x180. Well improved; at least $1500 saved. Let me show you a bargain today. Call Mr. W. M. Williams,
DE. 4134; Monday, WA. 1511.

Here's Your Chance

VERY desirable, handsome home, quiet
near Pointe de Leon, one of the best Druid Hills roads, which the owner no longer needs. Let me show you much less than value. Large lot with beautiful garden. No loan. HE. 1087, WA. 0156. J. R.
Nutting & Co.

Brookwood Hills Opportunity

MOST attractive 2-story brick home, 4 bedrooms, large heated sleeping porch, 2 1/2 baths and a beautiful landscaped lot.
Large lot with large swimming pool.
Near Park. Call Mr. N. J. Nutting & Co.,
WA. 0156. J. R. Nutting & Co.

OPEN TODAY FOR THE FIRST TIME

ONE of the finest medium priced homes in
Fulton county. Look at No. 2413 Shenandoah
Dr. Peachtree Terrace subdivision, near
Lindbergh drive. Price will surprise you.
Don't fail to see this one today; owner on premises. WA. 1508.

$3,850—BEST YET

MODERN seven-room bungalow in perfect condition. Near 2413 Shenandoah
Dr., near school and stores. Very attractive terms. Call C. Wheeler, HE. 1211;
Monday, WA. 3036.

OPEN TODAY

2333 DELWOOD DR., Hargrave Manor—6
rooms, 3 bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths; tile kitchen;
large lot, 100x150. Call Mr. N. J. Nutting &
Co., WA. 0156. J. R. Nutting & Co.

HAYES MAJOR

YOU are invited to see a white brick home with every convenience at 3333 Manor
Dr. Will be open, lighted and heated Sunday after 2 p. m. Call Mr. N. J. Nutting &
Co., WA. 0156. J. R. Nutting & Co.

622 HARBORVIEW AVE., N. E., at convenience, $1,200 on terms. Call Mr.

Hutchinson, CH. 1000.

Screws Realty Co. WA. 5668

5-ROOM COLONIAL BRICK

NEAR Peachtree, 125 Crestview
Dr., N. E. (near Samuel Johnson school).
Call Mr. N. J. Nutting & Co., WA. 0156. J. R. Nutting & Co.

NEAR Center and Ivy road

small livable home on large, beautiful
lot. 100x150. Call Mr. N. J. Nutting & Co.,
WA. 0156. J. R. Nutting & Co.

NEAR Peachtree Ave., 6-room brick

All round excellent cond. $20 down, $20
mo. WA. 42

CITY Building Permits Gain $260,785 in November Over the Month of October; Real Estate Bonds Show Good Gains

SEVEN BUILDING LOTS BRING PRICE OF $17,500

Sharp-Boylston Company Announce Purchasers Will Build Homes in Spring.

As an indication of the rapid development taking place in a section of North Fulton county in close proximity to Wesley avenue, Parkway drive and Edgewood road, Sharp-Boylston Company, realtors, announce that sales of vacant lots aggregating some $17,500 have recently been made in that section. It is understood that in practically every instance buyers have declared their intention to build homes in the early spring. Those who have bought lots are:

Harlow Branch Jr., 275 feet on Parkway drive.
Dr. Calvin Sanderson, 500 feet on Parkway drive.
Dr. Francis Parker, 150 feet on Wesley avenue.
Chester Blakeman, 500 feet located at the corner of Wesley avenue and Edgewood road.
J. T. Rose, 400 feet on Parkway drive.

Some 30 days ago Sharp-Boylston Company announced the sale of a large acreage tract on Wesley avenue and other adjoining roads and drives, as mentioned, to a group of Atlanta business men who intended to subdivide the property and place it on the market in the spring of 1937. However, home-seekers have not waited for the property to be split, but have been buying home sites since the realtors took charge of the acreage.

In this rapidly developing section, city lights, water, telephone service and the like are available. It is also in this general section that the Fritz Ore School for Boys has operated for some time, and recently the Lovett school erected its new and modern building on Wesley avenue.

$100,000 ANNOUNCED IN SALES AND LEASES

Adair Realty & Loan Company Report Four Important Transactions.

Sales and leases of homes and business property amounting to between $75,000 and $100,000 were announced Saturday by the Adair Realty & Loan Company, realtors.

The largest sale was a three-story brick building at 109 Whitehall street. W. sold to the Lockport Operating Company for $12,000; the seller being the McMillan estate. The building measures 30x105 feet and is under lease to a furniture concern. In the deal the seller received as part payment a store building at the north-west corner of Highland avenue and Simpson street, with a house in the rear, valued at approximately $3,000.

A grocery concern occupies the store. Another sale was a North Side residence at 1123 Briarcliff road, N. E., bought by R. E. McGill from Bickelstaff & Sims. It is a two-story brick house on a lot 5x300 feet, and the purchase price was $8,000.

A five-year lease was negotiated by Harry Conner, of the Adair company, to the Armstrong Cork Products Company, of Lancaster, Pa., for a large building at 421 21st street, Peachtree street, the aggregate amount of the lease to run between $10,000 and $50,000. The Armstrong company is now located at 107 Cone street, but as soon as certain alterations are made in the newly leased building, for which about $10,000 will be spent, it will move into the larger quarters, using it as a showroom, offices and warehouse. The lease is effective April 1.

The building has three floors and contains about 4,000 square feet of floor space. Owners of the property are John W. Grant Jr. and his two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Grant Wilmer and Mrs. Anne Grant Owens.

A lease was also negotiated by Mr. Conner and Jack Adair for the lot on which the Kiser building has stood for many years, at the corner of Peachtree and Hunter streets, and which is now being razed. An adjoining lot on Pryor street was also included in the two-year lease. It will be used by the Gunby & Whitson company, for the lease being effective May 20. This lease will aggregate between $5,000 and $10,000. The property belongs to W. H. and John F. Kiser.

PAINT SALES REVEAL EMPLOYMENT GAINS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Employment statistics gathered from the United States Department of Labor show that in the paint, varnish, and lacquer manufacturing industry the number of workers employed during September, 1936, shows a gain of 1.8 per cent over August and a gain of 6.2 per cent over September, 1935. Pay rolls for September of this year showed a gain of 0.4 per cent over the previous month and a gain of 12.3 per cent over September, 1935. Sales in the industry, reported by 579 establishments show an increase of 13.5 per cent for the first nine months of this year over the same period a year ago and a gain of 17.2 per cent for September, 1936, over 1935.

NON-GRIEF COAL OR GAS HEATING
PHONE HE-1281

BUILDING and REAL ESTATE NEWS

Three Northside Residences Bought by Seekers of Modern Homes; Tenth Street Apartment Sold for $25,000

$50,000 TO BE SPENT TO CHANGE BUILDING

Old Ku Klux Plant at Buckhead To Be Made Into Apartment.

Handsome new brick home at 145 Brighton road, Brookwood Hills, with eight rooms and two baths, sold to Thomas Marion Smith, from the Burdett Realty Company, Lawton A. Burdett handling the deal. It is in the $15,000 class.

Bids are being asked for the remodeling of a large brick structure at Roswell road and 17th street, Buckhead, formerly used as a manufacturing plant by the Ku Klux Klan. It will be transformed into a 24-unit apartment. Units will be of three and four rooms.

Plans have been drawn by A. F. N. Everett, local architect, in which the remodeling cost will be about $50,000. The firsting of the association will attend from Atlanta. A number are making their plans to attend.

Atlanta again will make an effort to secure the Otis trophy, which is awarded the Georgia board reporting activities for the year which have benefited most their city, county and state. Atlanta has won the trophy two years in succession, and the local board is "preparing a report which it anticipates will again bring the prize to this city."

After announcing the Waverly hotel as headquarters in Columbus, and that the meetings will be held at the Columbus County Club, the chairman announces the speakers as follows:

LaFayette McLaws, Savannah, subject, "Real Estate and the Lawyer."
Parker Webb, Raleigh, subject, "Preparing the Sales Plan for a Retail Business Property."
Walter W. Rose, Orlando, national president, subject, "Stimulating the Real Estate Market."
Charles P. Glover, Tampa, subject, "Three Approaches to the Value Estimate."

V. Stanton, chief underwriter, F.H.A. Atlanta, subject, "FHA Insured Mortgage Loans."
Vicent P. Bradley, Trenton, N. J., subject, "Preparation for Better Business Is Imperative."

Conferences to be held Thursday afternoon on sales, rentals, homebuilding and underwriting.

Speeches banquet will be held Thursday night, followed by a dance.

SUBURBAN ACRES SOLD FOR $20,000

Industrial Site at Murphy and Lakewood Avenues Changes Hands.

A 25-acre industrial site at Murphy and Lakewood avenues has been purchased by the Southern Co-operative Realty Corporation from George W. McEltheron, of Miami, at a price understood to be $20,000.

The property measures 568 feet on Murphy avenue and more than 2,000 on Lakewood avenue, and adjoins several large industrial plants in that section. It has convenient trucking on the Atlanta & West Point railroad, Jack J. Chambers, of the Adair Realty & Loan Company, realtors, handled the deal.

It is understood the property was purchased as an investment, it being the plan of the purchasers to hold it until such time as industrial plants seek location in that section. It will be used later for such purposes.

BUILDING, LOAN BODIES HOLDING MANY LIENS

Savings, building and loan associations hold 15.3 per cent to 17.1 per cent of the grand total of mortgages accepted for insurance by the Federal Housing Administration, Administrator Stewart McDonald has announced from Washington.

These groups have increased their use of the insured mortgage system 210.2 per cent since the first of the year. This compares with a gain of 187.5 per cent for all participating institutions during the same period.

At the beginning of the year 1,630 savings, building and loan associations had been approved as mortgagees by the Federal Housing Administration. This number had been increased to 2,126 by the first of September. These are exclusive of branches and represent 22.8 per cent of the total number of approved mortgagees.

IMPROVING ELEVATOR SERVICE.
The Trust Company of Georgia, in making building changes have also included a contract to the Otis Elevator company for changing over the "finger-tip" automatic control, passenger elevator in its banking quarters increasing the travel two floors.

A pretty cottage on Ivy road, at Stratford road, sold for approximately $8,500 to Russell M. Dodson for a home. The seller was Duros Stouse. The negotiations were handled by L. A. Burdett, of the Burdett Realty Company.

Substantial apartment of 15 units at 160 Tenth street, N. E., alongside Tenth Street school, sold by Sirrow Investment Company to J. C. Rainey and associates. It is fully occupied, and on a lot 62x200. The sale was handled by Gordon J. McNabb, salesmanager of Real Estate Service Company. The price was approximately $25,000 cash.

425,000 New Homes Seen for '37; 'Hidden' Market Lends Great Aid

That 425,000 new homes may be built in the United States during 1937, an increase of perhaps 60 to 65 per cent over 1936, is the prediction of William C. Bober, head of the Joll-Mann statistical research department, which will appear in the January statistical issue of American Builder, it has been announced.

American Builder emphasizes that for the first time in history, a building estimate shows the entire potential of residential construction in this country. This was accomplished by giving proper recognition to building activity in small towns and rural areas constituting a large percentage of the total United States volume—activity which is largely hidden.

Mr. Bober, a keen analyst of the building situation, says in this article: "We can probably take for granted that 1937 will be a year of continuing recovery, the home shortage is a fact, mortgage money exists in a superabundance for safe prospects at a rate of interest that is lower than in our great building boom days of the past, rents are rising and so are incomes, as to building costs—they will work higher and underestimated."

He shows, on the other hand, that much new light has been thrown on a previously dark section of the building picture by the division of construction for the first time this year began collecting building statistics for population of 10,000 population. Previously, only towns of more than 10,000 were included.

In concluding his article, Mr. Bober argues that a very considerable extension of data is necessary especially in towns of less than 2,500 people, and the entire rural area in this country, which is still wholly unreported. Because of our inadequate building statistics, he says, no business conditions—their complete number of homes built during 1936.

Information Is Constantly Sought By Prospective Atlanta Citizens

From Maine to California come inquiries, from time to time, asking the Atlanta Real Estate Board about Atlanta—about business conditions, climate, rents, cost of living, etc. In practically every instance the writer states he or she has heard so much about this city, and is thinking of coming here to live, and wants advance information about the city. Later there have been more inquiries than usual. In some instances these same types of letters are received by the Chamber of Commerce, and where information is sought about real estate or rentals, they are referred to the real estate board for reply.

Mrs. J. W. Peacock, executive secretary of the board, has a large file of such letters. They are always promptly and courteously answered. He gives all the information possible. Here are just a few extracts from letters received lately:

"A man living in Atlantic, Maine, writes that he wants general information about rents, hotel rates, etc. 'I think I should like to spend the winter in Atlanta,' he writes."

"From New York a woman writes: 'I am interested in locating near your city. I would like to purchase a small farm, but at present, I am particularly interested in the house, as I am looking for a southern colonial in preference to any other kind.'"

"From Fort Snelling, Minn., comes a letter from a man stating he expects to move to this city soon. He has a wife and two young daughters. He wants information about rents for a four-bedroom house, schools, cost of living, etc. He states he is employed in a government department and probably will be here several years. He is very anxious to know about the city."

Similar letters are on file from Walden, N. Y., from Kendallville, Ind., from Morgantown, W. Va., and many other cities, all seeking information about Atlanta, and all stating that they have heard so much about the city, they wanted to come here. They

An attractive home at 430 East Wesley avenue, sold by First Realty Service, Incorporated, to James G. and Bessie M. Kyle. The price was not given, but it is in the $11,000 class. Sold through Rankin-Whitten Company, Jack Salmon handling the deal.

ADAMS-CATES' SALES $70,000 IN NOVEMBER

Nineteen Realty Transfers Represent Various Types of Property.

In checking its property sales for the month of November, Adams-Cates company reports a total of $70,000 was involved in 19 diversified transactions.

Five of the sales reported were on business parcels, three were for investments, eight were of vacant lots in different sections of the city, two represented the purchase of handsome homes, and one acreage tract completely for the purpose of building.

Henry Robinson, sales manager, speaks in optimistic terms about the future, and is well pleased at the manner in which gains are being shown by a large number of buyers. We believe there will be a considerably increased buying movement after the holidays are over."

FIVE SALES BRING REALTORS $31,200

Rankin-Whitten Company Reports Transactions Recently Made.

Rankin-Whitten Realty company, realtors, announce, through Gene Craig, sales manager, the following sales, amounting to $31,200:

First Realty Service corporation to James G. and Bessie M. Kyle, 430 East Wesley avenue, brick bungalow.

A. E. Jordan to R. G. Bachman, 179 Bolling road, one-story and half, brick home.

Salemen were Jack Salmon, P. W. Woodward and J. F. Wilson.

BOARD TO SELECT ITS NEW OFFICERS

Realtors Will Hold Annual Business Meeting December 15.

The year's last luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Real Estate Board was held Wednesday, at which a number of realtors made short talks on their impressions of the recent meeting of the national association, held in New Orleans.

Following a meeting Friday afternoon of the board of directors, it was announced the annual business meeting of the board will be held Tuesday night, December 16, at 6:30 p. m., at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Reports will be submitted by the various committees, showing their activity for the year, in which will be included the report of the committee announcing the election of three directors by ballot a few weeks ago.

The nominating committee also will report on its recommendation of a list of officers for the coming year. The election will follow immediately. The new officers to take active charge on the first of the year.

BIG MEMPHIS HOTEL IS SOLD FOR $100,000

A. S. Thompson, of the Southern Hotel Brokers, of this city, has negotiated the sale of the Ambassador hotel, located on Main street in Memphis, Tenn., the property and equipment bringing $100,000.

The property was sold for the Fidelity & Columbia Trust company, of Louisville, Ky., to F. A. Hartman of Parkersburg, W. Va.

The Ambassador is a modern hotel, containing 140 rooms. Mr. Hartman, the purchaser, has been in the hotel business a number of years in West Virginia and Ohio.

are given full information as promptly as possible, and in several instances the writers have notified the board secretary that they would be coming along soon to add to the city's population.

DIXIE ELECTRIC CO. Contractors
MA. 7925 189 Spring St., N. W.

SPEAKERS selected for Meeting of Georgia Real Estate Association in Columbus; $44,250 Listed in Realty Transfers.

REAL ESTATE BONDS SHOW GAIN IN VALUE

Eastern Markets Reveal Increase of $41 in First 11 Months of Year.

Average prices of eastern real estate bonds have risen $41 in the first 11 months of the year, Amott, Baker & Company announced yesterday.

With issues in the five major cities in the east contributing gains, realty bonds maintained the steady upward climb of the previous months with an average gain of $6 per $1,000 of face value in November. Prices have advanced from $389 per $1,000 of face value on January 1 to $430 on December 1.

The Amott-Baker averages, based on the market action of 200 typical issues, disclosed a November gain of 1.4 per cent and a rise of 10.5 per cent for the first 11 months. The same advance was recorded for October.

New York city issues gained 1.2 per cent in November and 8.6 per cent for the 11-month period. The average price has increased from $383 on January 1 to $418 on December 1. Other November increases were: Boston, 1.2 per cent; Pittsburgh, 1.2 per cent; Philadelphia, 0.8 per cent, and Buffalo, 4.7 per cent.

Prices on December 1 included: Boston, $398; New York, $418; Buffalo, $425; Philadelphia, $393, and Pittsburgh, $314.

The largest gain among classes of issues for the first 11 months was made by hotels, which advanced 20.1 to an average price of $376. Other December 1 prices included: Theaters, $670; office buildings, $477; apartment houses, $391, and apartment hotels, $594.

$44,250 IN TRANSFERS ARE LISTED FOR WEEK

Only Twenty Transactions Referred to Title Company for Examination.

Only 20 realty transfers were handled during the past week by the Atlanta Title & Trust Company, but they involved a total of $44,250. They were as follows:

Georgia Savings Bank & Trust Company to Mrs. Annie B. Jackson, 548 Sunset avenue, N. W., $500; Frank Ellington Jr. to J. A. Wilks, Nos. 382A and B, 388-388-392 Gensum street, $1,600; August E. Jordan and Edith E. Jordan to Ray George Bachman, 179 Bolling road, $7,250; National Bondholders Corporation to Mrs. Pearl Barrett, 788 Rosedale avenue, S. E., $1,350; William A. Simons, secretary, to Olga M. Berlinger, lot on Antonio drive, $650; Mrs. Lea Rose to H. L. DeGree, 352-354-358 Green street, N. W., $1,000; J. Morgan estate to Rivers L. McLendon and J. Henry Gair to S. E. 250; National Bondholders Corporation to Louis C. Ingram, 1435 Highland avenue, N. E., $7,000; Long Realty Company to J. J. Pearson, 596 Means street, N. W.; National Bondholders Corporation to Anderson L. Smith, 244 Matthews avenue, N. E., $2,250; R. M. Gannon to S. W. Crawford, 1226 Floyd avenue, S. E., $1,000; M. H. Screws to Thomas L. Lewis, 289 Ashby street, S. W.; Mrs. Martha O. Adams to M. H. Screws, 221 Fulton street, $200; Mrs. Ivy T. Davis to F. W. Beazley Jr., 224 Brookwood drive, $4,200; Pauline Furschman to Mrs. Mary Upchurch, six acres on Wiener road, National Bondholders Corporation to J. E. Varner, 1012 Woodland avenue, S. E., $2,250; Mrs. Marie Malbrie to R. M. Foster, 12 Springer avenue, $1,400; E. M. Kay to Roy T. Adams and Mrs. Ruth Adams, 20 acres in Fulton county, $1,000; R. H. Echols to Grady Bullock and Adol Bullock, 952 Fair street, S. W., $900; Warwick Realty Company to Charles R. Darsey, 305 Central avenue, S. W.

WAREHOUSE IS SOLD FOR PRICE OF $10,000

A one-story brick warehouse at 504-6 Means street, N. W., has been purchased by J. P. Persons, H. W. Persons and S. J. Hayles, from the Associated Mortgage companies, at a price approximating $10,000. The sale was announced by Harry M. Paschal Jr., of the Draper-Owens company, realtors.

The building, one-story and part basement structure measures 50x100 feet, and contains 10,000 square feet. It is on W. & A. Railroad tracks. It is occupied now by the Head Candy company. Title was examined and insured by the Atlanta Title & Trust company. It was bought as an investment.

MION GETS CONTRACT FOR HOSPITAL PROJECT

Announcement has been made in Washington that the contract for building an addition to United States Hospital No. 48, on Peachtree road, has been awarded to Charles Mion, of Atlanta, at $146,500.

The addition will afford 80 additional beds, and it is expected to be completed for use by mid-summer.

"The purpose of the addition," said John M. Sinton Jr., manager of the United States Veterans Administration facility, "is to give the government hospital better facilities for treating tumor and cancer cases. With the completion of this addition the base hospital will handle all such government cases in the southeast."

Your HOME

—Paid for Conveniently—Out of Income. Plans to Suit Your Individual Requirements. Either new Construction or Refinancing.

● Easy Monthly Payments
● Low Cost
● Prompt Service

We Solicit Your Inquiry

Jefferson Mortgage Co.
1110 Standard Bldg. WA. 0814

U.S. GOVERNMENT NETS BILLION IN LIQUOR TAX

Anti-Saloon Leader Urges Plan for "Social Safeguards."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Clinking glasses of post-repeal drinkers, legally filled with tax-paid liquor, have put $1,400,000,000 into the federal purse.

On the third anniversary of repeal, treasury statistics showed today the pre-prohibition high in liquor revenue already has been passed, with a further increase anticipated this year. Liquor tax receipts last year aggregated $505,464,000, a total of $947,445,000 more than the previous year and $22,000,000 above the pre-prohibition peak of 1918-19.

Receipts since July 1 total about $225,000,000. Revenue for the entire 1936-37 fiscal period is expected to aggregate $550,200,000.

Social Safeguards.

In an anniversary statement Edward B. Dunford, attorney for the Anti-Saloon League, charged that emphasis has been placed on revenue rather than on "social safeguards" since repeal.

"One of the immediate needs," he said, "is a system for collection of uniform governmental statistics relating to the effects of liquor, its relation to drink-caused crime, accidents, poverty and dependence."

"Such statistics as are available show that consumption of alcoholic beverages under the pressure of advertising and social convention has increased, while bootlegging is prevalent and crime increases."

J. M. Doran, executive director of the Distilled Spirits Institute, Inc., said 1,000,000 workers have received jobs because of repeal, that racketeering has been virtually eliminated, and that per capita consumption of liquor has decreased from 1.62 gallons in 1917 to .56 gallons in 1936.

A recent Anti-Saloon League estimate placed the per capita consumption of distilled spirits in the United States at .67 gallon in the 1935 fiscal year.

Free From Smugglers.

Intensifying its drive against alcohol smugglers, the coast guard reported last summer that for the first time in 16 years the Atlantic coast was entirely free of "hoveing" foreign craft engaged in smuggling.

Four hundred stills located by coast guard planes were destroyed in the last fiscal year. In addition, 20,721 persons were convicted of alcohol tax violations and $4,065,000 in fines was collected. This compared with $15,108 convictions and $5,013,000 in fines the previous year.

Totalling 365,000,000 gallons, stocks of whisky, gin and other spirits now are the largest in the country's history.

CITY, COUNTY TO CONFER ON RELIEF CASH CRISIS

Fulton Ultimatum Hurdled; Problem Will Face Atlanta on January 1.

Atlanta and Fulton county face a shortage in relief funds for their needy January 1 if a satisfactory agreement cannot be reached between city and county officials. County Commissioner George Longino declared yesterday.

"The Fulton county commissioners are perfectly willing to continue to appropriate their $25,000 per month for relief in Fulton county, but we do not intend to make up the deficit created by the city's failure to meet its monthly appropriation to the needy—in fact, we are in a position to assume this added burden," Longino said.

During the regular meeting of the county commissioners Wednesday, notice was served on the city council that the commissioners expect the city to meet its full $40,000 relief appropriation each month if the county was to fulfill its appropriations.

Commissioner Longino said Chairman Charles Adams was to confer with city authorities immediately in an effort to work out a suitable agreement on relief problems, and said that a joint meeting of the commissioners and representatives of the new city government would be held shortly after the first of the year to map a joint relief program for the county and city.

At present there are approximately 10,000 persons on relief in the city and county who are being cared for by the board of public welfare, which is supported by both city and county.

Under the 1936 agreement of the two governments, the county was to provide $25,000 monthly for relief and the city $40,000. It was brought out in the commissioners meeting Wednesday that the city has not paid its full amount since March, the payments being only $29,100.

A meeting of the commissioners will be held the latter part of this week or next week to discuss legislative problems affecting Fulton county scheduled to come up at the next session of the Georgia legislature.

STEEL PRODUCTION IN BIRMINGHAM UP

Industry Dominates Picture in Weekly Business Report for District.

The steel and iron industry at Birmingham, where optimism is measured by the number of blast furnaces in operation, dominated the business picture last week in the sixth federal reserve district.

Production of steel continued at 74 per cent of capacity. Coke production, for the first time since January, 1930, was at 100 per cent. Pig iron output went up with 15 or 18 blast furnaces in operation. Another furnace is scheduled to be blown in January 15, which will bring the production level the highest it has been since 1929.

Despite some bad weather, Christmas shoppers turned out in large numbers, cheering retail and department store proprietors who said the early shopping volume "was holding up." Bank clearings declined from $60,500,000 the previous week, the Federal Reserve Bank reported, to $47,800,000 last week.

As usual, Rich's is prepared to cash Scrip for City of Atlanta employees.

8 Great Pages of Gifts from Rich's

Save enough on these GIFTS for HIM to buy an EXTRA ONE CATHEDRAL DESIGNS in hand-made Silk Ties. Ray Wells reproductions of Old World cathedrals.

1.00

MANHATTAN SHORTS and Shirts, clean-cut stripes in broadcloth shorts with non-binding pyramid seat.
3 for 1.00 Ea. 39c

"LIKE OLD FRIENDS," Meyer's Gloves, pliable capeskin with stitched backs. Grey, brown, black.
1.95

SYLKLYKE SHIRTS of all-white broadcloth, smooth and silky, is one of the nicest gifts you can give him.
1.39

YOU'LL ALWAYS FIND attention-getting patterns in Jansons. Smooth broadcloth, comfortable latex belt.
1.69

6,000 to Choose From!
Shirtcraft Shirts
1.65

Here's a medium-priced shirt that gives you a choice of dozens of patterns and all-white in a smooth, fine broadcloth. "Everfit Shrink" makes them perfectly fitting. Non-Wilt collar attached. 13½-18.

Rich's Men's Shop
Street Floor

YOU CAN TELL it's a McGregor before you see the label. Coat and slip-on styles. Live all-wool.
2.95

MEYERS KNIT these Gloves in such a way to make them trimly fitting. Warm all-wool in dark colors.
Pr. 1.00

DON'T FORGET his Muffler. White is always good, also blue, grey, tan, black. Silk, double ply.
1.00

PLAIDS and CLOCKS, bold and conservative in list and silk mixed socks with a "perfect-fit" foot.
3 prs. for 1.00 Pr. 35c

PLENTY OF BLUES in hand-tailored Silk Ties. Dozens of patterns and colors. Shape-holding.
59c

10 Trained
Penelope Penn
Gift Shoppers

★
30 Trained
Gift Wrappers

Glamorous Gifts from Rich's

From Far Cathay Chinese Handmade Silk Lingerie

If you would give beauty, let it be this . . . Such exquisite charm could come only from a land where loveliness is treasured—even worshipped. It seems incredible that anything so fine could be wrought by human fingers, that anything so rare could be sold at price so low . . . Chinese pure dye silk, faintly brocaded in ancient designs, every garment enriched with intricate handwork.

Pajamas 10.95

Frog trim. Blue, tearose or white. Sizes from 32 to 40.

Gowns 5.95

Delicate shades of blue, tearose, flesh. White. 32 to 40.

Slips 3.98

Dainty tearose, flesh or pure white. All sizes, 32 up to 44.

Japanese Robe Imports 10.95

Companions in exotic elegance . . . Print silk in an elaboration of design, cut typical Oriental style. Lined in China silk. Rust, dark blue or green, grey.

Chinese Embroidered Satin Slippers . . . 2.50

Lingerie Shop

Fashion Third Floor

Order by Mail!

Rich's, Atlanta, Georgia

Please send me*

Name _____

Address _____

Charge () Cash () *State color, size in lingerie

Coty Sets for a Luxurious Shave . . .

2.50

To make home shaving a pleasure, Coty sets containing bowl, after-shaving lotion and talc.

Street
Floor

A Toileware Set that is Different

4.98

Blue mirror backs, 22-kt. gold plated handles make this a beauty. Oval or round.

Comb Brush

Mirror

Street
Floor

"Golden Hours" Sets

6.25

A modern HARRIET HUBBARD AYER SET. Brushed gold, double vanity and lipstick. Cigarette Case to match 5.00.

Street
Floor

Dorothy Gray Kits

5.00

A neat colored box, containing a complete treatment of these exquisite cosmetics.

Street
Floor

Small Editions Ciro Perfume

5.00

Reproductions in new smaller sizes of the popular Surrender and Reflexions odours.

Street
Floor

Quinlan Bath Sets

2.25

Flowers of Rain cologne and Mist of Dawn bath powder will make her bath a joyous event!

Street
Floor

Rubinstein Bath Sets

2.50

A few drops of Enchanted cologne and a dusting of body sachet . . . a bath for a queen!

Other Sets
3.75 to 10.50.

Street
Floor

Denny Treatment Kits

10.00

Black fabricoid box with washable lining containing complete Denny treatments.

Street
Floor

Hudnut Sets

5.00

Beautifully boxed. Perfume, toilet water, face powder, rouge and lipstick.

Street
Floor

Evening in Paris Sets

6.50

Famous blue and silver star box containing perfume, face and sachet powder, cologne, compact, and lipstick.

Street
Floor

HIGH COURT WILL RULE ON 5 NEW DEAL CASES

Case Involving PWA Allocation of Funds for Electric Works Included.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Five disputes involving New Deal legislation—a record number for any one time—may be decided Monday by the supreme court.

The controversies involve:

1. Whether PWA can provide money for publicly owned hydroelectric projects. The Duke Power Company is attempting to halt a project at Buzzard Roost, S. C.

2. The right of congress to authorize President Roosevelt to impose an embargo on sale of munitions for the recent Chaco war between Bolivia and Paraguay. The government contends its neutrality legislation is at stake.

3. Whether the government can postpone decisions of lower courts on constitutionality of the public utility holding company act until the supreme court rules on a test case it has brought against the Electric Bond & Share Company.

4. Constitutionality of the Ashurst-Sumners act forbidding transportation of prison-made goods into states that prohibit their sale and requiring that the products be labeled as convict-manufactured.

5. Constitutionality of the 50 per cent tax on profits made by silver dealers during passage of the 1934 silver purchase act.

Should the decisions of lower courts be affirmed by tie-votes—as was done November 23 in upholding the New York unemployment insurance act, the government would win the PWA and prison goods cases, lose the others.

The evenly divided decisions in the New York case was due to the illness of Justice Stone, who has been confined to his home with dysentery since October 13. He will be unable to attend court this month but can participate in deciding any of the cases if he so desires.

28 Cases Argued.

Twenty-eight cases, including the five New Deal disputes, have been argued. Decisions in most of them are expected Monday. Some undoubtedly will be deferred, however, to a later date.

Among the pending cases is a controversy over whether the Associated Press is entitled to enjoin radio station KVOB, of Bellingham, Wash., from broadcasting the press association's news until 18 hours after publication.

Another involves constitutionality of the California and Illinois "fair trades" acts which prohibit sale of standard products for less than a price fixed by producers and dealers.

The court also will announce whether it will review 30 cases appealed from lower courts. These include two by members of the Chicago Board of Trade and the Chicago Mercantile Exchange challenging constitutionality of the 1936 act broadening the regulation of commodity exchanges. A similar case filed by the Kansas City Board of Trade probably will be acted on the next Monday.

Gold Payments Case.

After handing down decisions and orders the justices will start listening to another two weeks of arguments. One case to be heard late next week involves whether the 1933 resolution abrogating payments of obligations in gold applies to rental contracts.

The Holyoke, Mass., Water Power Company is seeking to collect in gold, or its equivalent in devalued currency, on a contract leasing water power rights in the Connecticut river to the American Writing Paper Company of Massachusetts.

A brief filed by the paper company contended its obligation was only to "deliver the value of gold and that the power company had not proved any damage and hence should not recover more than the face value in present day money."

In its brief filed recently, the water power company contended it should receive more than the face value because the purpose of the gold contract was "to provide against the effect of an appreciation or depreciation of the currency."

FOUR HELD FOR TRIAL ON LIQUOR CHARGES

Two white men and two negroes were arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith on charges of violation of the liquor taxing act and operating illicit distilleries.

Charlie Bornea and Frank Dickerson, of Clayton county, were arrested near Hapeville yesterday morning. Thirty-six gallons of liquor were seized. Fulton county officers said. They were held under $500 bond.

Henry Kilgore Jr., of Decatur, Ga., admitted operating an illicit 30-gallon still on his property in Gwinnett county, federal officers said. He was released under $500 bond.

G. John Berry, alias John H. Williams, of Rockdale, was arrested in Rockdale county for operating a still and for violation of the liquor taxing act, officers said. He is being held under $500 bond.

TWO MEN, ONE WOMAN
ADMITTED TO U. S. BAR

Three Atlantans, one a woman, were admitted to practice before federal courts by Judge E. Marvin Underwood yesterday.

They were Hubert Elsas, son of the late Louis Elsas, Atlanta philanthropist and capitalist; Randolph W. Throver, former resident of Tampa, and Miss Courtney Latham, 41 Fourth street.

Elsas is a graduate of Harvard and Throver was graduated from Emory University.

Miss Latham is the daughter of Mrs. J. E. Allenmon. She has served as court reporter of Fulton county criminal court, secretary to Judge John D. Humphries and Jesse M. Wood, of Fulton criminal court, and during the past summer handled office details in Senator Russell's campaign office.

County Police Launch
Drive on Local Oases

County police last night began an intensive campaign destined to bring grief to the hearts of "wet" Atlantans around Christmas time. Early yesterday morning, county police arrested five persons on liquor charges, confiscated one car and seized nearly 400 pints of fine liquors.

The raiding squad seized a parked car on Williams street containing 275 pints of liquor and gin and arrested a man listed as E. B. Blackwell. At a newly-opened taproom on Spring street, the officers arrested the bartender, who gave his name as Clarence Lamber, and seized 80 pints of whisky and gin. Five pints of liquor were confiscated at a Houston street taproom and a man listed as W. C. Holland of Roswell, was arrested. At still another taproom the raiding squad arrested Ed Smith and Paul Jacobs, and charged them with possessing 40 pints of gin.

The men arrested made bonds ranging from $200 to $300.

ABERCROMBIE LAUDS COBB MALARIA WORK

State Health Director Outlines Methods Utilized in County Drive.

Expressing gratification and approval of the drastic measures adopted by the Cobb County Board of Health in their program for controlling spread and alarming prevalence of malaria in the county, Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, director of the state department of public health, related the methods being used and the progress being made in malaria eradication in this area of the state, citing the example as one to be followed by other malaria infected sections of the state.

"Malaria being more prevalent in the southern and southwestern sections of the county it was decided to put on a malaria prevention program in this area first," Dr. Abercrombie stated.

With the help of federal funds an extensive malaria prevention program of this sort has been undertaken, he continued. A meeting was called of property owners along and adjacent to this area, with the result that right-of-way releases were cheerfully granted and J. M. Hamby, county commissioner, purchased a drag-line at a cost of approximately $7,500. The property owners along and adjacent to Ollie creek raised approximately $800 for the purchase of tools, gasoline and incidentals.

With these local contributions the project was submitted to the local WPA authorities for the approval of federal funds for labor to clear right-of-way and to cut lateral ditches where necessary. Federal funds were allotted, and the county purchased a new drag-line. About 200 men were assigned by the local WPA officials for the clearing of the right-of-way and the incidental work. Clearing of the right-of-way was begun on November 18 in preparation for the drag-line which began work on November 21.

As of December 4, 2,200 linear feet of right-of-way has been cleared and 900 linear feet of channel completed. The work began at Perkersons bridge where the drag-line removed an old bridge pier and two islands caused by this pier and embedded logs. Bedrock was encountered in the first few hundred feet and was removed by the machine after being dynamited. No further rock has been encountered nor is there any difficulty in keeping well ahead of the right-of-way. Surveys are being made on other streams in the county.

LAW PARTNERSHIP ANNOUNCED HERE

King, Hitz and Partridge Is Name of Newly Formed Firm.

Announcement was made yesterday of the formation of the law firm of King, Hitz and Partridge. Members of the partnership are Alex C. King, Alex M. Hitz and Croom Partridge. The new firm succeeds King and Partridge, which itself succeeded King, Caldwell and Partridge. Harmon W. Caldwell, former partner, is now president of the University of Georgia.

Offices of King, Hitz and Partridge will be in the Citizens and Southern Bank building and Charles T. Winship will be associated with the firm. King is a graduate of the University of Georgia and of the Lamar School of Law of Emory University. Hitz, a native of Washington, D. C., attended Washington and Lee University and the University of Michigan Law School. He was associated with the Atlanta Trust Company for a number of years.

Partridge, a native of Charleston, S. C., was educated at Emory University and the Lamar School of Law. Winship was educated at Emory.

C. B. CHASTAIN, 52, DIES AT RESIDENCE

Member of Pioneer Atlanta Family Lived Here Most of Life.

C. B. Chastain, 52, member of a pioneer Atlanta family and son of the founder of the section of Atlanta known as Chastain Town, died yesterday at his residence, 1050 Pulliam street.

Mr. Chastain, a native of Atlanta, had resided here all his life with the exception of several years in early childhood. For the last several years he had been engaged in managing his family real estate holdings.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Laurie C. Temple, Atlanta, and Miss Lilla Chastain, Tampa, Fla., and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Mamie Lee Chastain.

Funeral services will be in charge of H. M. Patterson & Son.

CHAMBER HONORS HOWELL MEMORY

Resolutions Express Appreciation for 'Fine Public Service' by Editor.

Appreciation for the "fine public service" of the late Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution, was expressed in a resolution adopted by the board of directors of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, it was announced yesterday.

The resolution follows: "Whereas, Mr. Clark Howell, for many years a member of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, and one of our leading citizens, departed this life on November 14, 1936, and

"Whereas, he endeared himself to this body, to his friends, to his business associates and to the people of our city, state, section and nation, and

"Whereas, his advocacy and active support of important civic movements and local, national, business and political activities was an important factor in the growth and forward movement of our city, state and region, and

"Whereas, he was a pioneer in the newspaper field in the South and an important part of the fabric of modern life, therefore, be it

"Resolved, that we express to his family and to his former associates of The Atlanta Constitution, in this permanent form, our appreciation of his fine business and public service, and

"Be it further resolved, that these resolutions be spread on our minutes, and that a copy be sent in testimony of our admiration for his life and work.

CANDIDATE WINS 27 WAYS.

Not only was E. O. Smith re-elected to the Connecticut general assembly, but through an error in the make-up of the ballot it was found that there were 27 different ways of voting for him. Inasmuch as he was the only candidate in the field, his election was not challenged, however.

Timely Sale Fur Coats!

Now! Right at Christmas—this special purchase!
THE PERFECT GIFT at spectacular savings!

NOW the time of times to fulfill her long-cherished desire for a fine fur coat... an opportunity of staggering import in the face of daily notices concerning growing scarcity of furs, steady increases in price... an achievement in luxury and value managed only because we laid our plans months and months ago... Count it an excellent investment of your bonus and dividend money—count it a chance to SAVE that may not come again!

Just 7 Eastern Mink Coats

Regular $1495 Swagger$1175
Regular $1695 Casual Coat.....$1395
Regular $1800 Swagger (2).....$1495
Regular $1995 Long Casual.....$1595
Regular $1995 Swagger$1695
Regular $2500 Long Casual$1895

Superb Makers' Samples

$595 Black Persian Swagger Coat.....$498
$595 Black Caracul Swagger, silver fox...$498
$595 Grey Caracul Coat$498
$495 Manchurian Ermine Swagger.....$398
$495 Safari Seal Swagger$398
$495 Kolinsky Swagger$388
$495 Jap Weasel Swagger$378
$450 Black Persian Lamb Swagger.....$368
$495 Grey Caracul Coat$358
$398 Blk. Broadtail; silver fox.....$328
$350 Brown Caracul Princess Coat.....$278
$350 Brown Caracul Swagger.....$278
$350 Blk. Caracul with silver fox.....$278
$350 Grey Lamb Swagger$278
$350 Hudson Seal Fitted Coat$278
$350 Hudson Seal Swagger$278
$350 Jap Weasel Swagger$268
$398 Natural Squirrel Swagger$258
$298 Grey Caracul Stroller$248
$350 June Ermine Swagger$248
$350 Brown Ermine Princess$248
$298 Grey Broadtail, platinum fox.....$248
$298 Bombay Lamb Swagger.....$238
$298 Natural Squirrel Swagger$218
$250 Black Caracul Swagger$198
$250 Dyed Fitch Swagger$198
$225 Dyed Squirrel Swagger.....$178
$225 Ombre Muskrat Coat.....$178
$225 Krimmer Lamb$168
$198 Natural Fitch Stroller$158

Ridiculous Values— Just Six Coats!

Come early. Don't be disappointed!

$49 Lapin Stroller (3).....$12
$79 Leopard Lapin Coat$21
$89 Brown Kid Coat$29
$189 Hudson Seal Swagger.....$78

Specialty and Fur Shops, Third Floor

Rich's

Sketched:

A. $498 Jap Mink Swagger.....$398
B. $1695 Eastern Mink Casual.....$1495
C. $395 Black Caracul Fitted.....$325
D. $347.50 Natural Squirrel$248
E. $387.50 Black Persian$298
F. $325 Jap Mink Swagger.....$268

Ten Penelope Penns
to shop
with you or for you

BROADER AUTHORITY EXPECTED FOR MAYOR

Council Will Probably Vote Increased Power to Hart-field Tomorrow.

Wide power is expected to be voted Mayor-elect Hartfield by city council at its meeting tomorrow, according to forecasts.

Predictions are that an ordinance allowing the mayor-elect to designate the number of members on 15 of 18 council committees for 1937 and to serve as an ex-officio member of each, will be passed in council, but not without a battle led by Councilman J. Allen Couch.

The broader power for the mayor in administering the city's affairs was favored by the ordinance committee at its session last week after Hartfield's plea to be "put on the firing line" as he attempts to carry out his campaign promises.

Only Couch, ordinance committee chairman, dissented from the ordinance committee vote, holding council should designate the number of committee members and the mayor should serve as ex-officio member only of the hospital board and the board of firemasters. He said he will fight the favored proposed ordinance on council floor.

Councilmen predicted, however, that Hartfield's supporters will stage another victory in adoption of the ordinance.

Among other matters scheduled to be considered by council is the election of the municipal revenue collector; the report and recommendations of the board of firemasters, and the request of the county commission for the city to share in the expense of a fire department in Lakewood Heights.

It was predicted that Riley Elder, who has held the post of municipal revenue collector for the last four years, will be re-elected without opposition. It was rumored that Robert F. Pennington, who was defeated for a councilmanic post in the city primary, would seek Elder's position but this was not confirmed.

The unanimous recommendation of the tax committee, of which Councilman Max Cuba is chairman, will go to council in Elder's behalf. A resolution commending Elder's excellent work and efficiency was adopted at the last meeting of the tax committee.

ATLANTA ARTISTS OPEN SHOW TODAY

Exhibit by Local Guild To Remain at High Museum to December 20.

By BARBARA BAKER.
An exhibition of oil paintings, pastels, etchings and water colors by members of the Atlanta Artists Guild opens officially this afternoon at the High Museum of Art. The show is an annual affair and is one of the most interesting local exhibitions seen here in some months.

Outstanding among the 70 pieces on display is a group of three water colors by Harold Sheffield, including: a decorative still life, a portrait of his wife with flowers and a picture of the Christian Scientist church. In contrast to Mr. Sheffield's subtle shading in the water color group are several pictures of brilliant tone and bold composition by Irwin McKoy, the "Clay Bank" being especially interesting in this series.

Notably representing the pastels are a ballet dancer after the style of De-gas by Robert S. Rogers, instructor in the High Museum school, and "Nora," a portrait by Dorothy Perkins. Two etchings by H. K. Mitchell are also of interest.

In the group of oil paintings, Mr. Rogers' portrait of Paul Benson in Spanish costume and "Dr. Frank Bel-yeu" by Benjamin Shute are worthy of notice. An unusually interesting picture in the same group is Emerine Jackson's "Fisherman's Toys."

Directors of the Guild include Frank Russo, chairman; James Battle, James M. Springer, H. K. Mitchell and Harold Sheffield.

The exhibit will remain up until December 20.

COLONEL MEADOR RITES SET TODAY

Retired Army Officer Was Descendant of Prominent Atlanta Family.

Funeral services for Colonel Robert Lowry Meador, U. S. A., retired, nephew of the late Colonel Robert Lowry, founder of the Lowry National bank, and son of the late Thomas Meador, vice president of the bank, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Spring Hill chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son with Chaplain E. O. Fisher, of Fort McPherson, officiating.

Colonel Meador, who died Friday at the government hospital at St. Petersburg, Fla., was a veteran of the Spanish-American and the World wars and had served with the American army of occupation on the German Rhine. He returned to the United States and was retired in 1920.

He had been at the hospital for the last several months.

Funeralbearers will be J. H. Porter, Sam Stocking, Turner Fitten, Walter Maude, Lowry Porter and Thomas Arnold.

Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

U. S. EXPERTS SEEK MANGANESE ORE

Geologists Surveying Northwest Georgia To Determine Mineral Deposits.

Richard Smith, state geologist, said Friday government experts were studying mineral deposits in northwest Georgia to determine the extent of deposits of manganese—a metal valuable in making alloy steel.

The United States Geological Service began the survey at the suggestion of Smith.

Smith said manganese is in great demand in time of war for manufacture of steel for guns.

"At present there is a deficiency of this metal in the United States," he said.

While making the survey, the geologists, headed by T. L. Kesler, will prepare a map of all mineral deposits in this area.

Smith said the Cartersville area is one of the richest in the state in mineral deposits. Barite, ochre, iron ore, limestone and gold have all been mined in the hills nearby.

ARMY ORDERS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Army orders: Captain Wilbur E. Ellis, quartermaster corps, to Baltimore.
First Lieutenant Jacob S. Bauer, infantry, to Fort Howard.
Second Lieutenant Clair B. Mitchell, infantry, to Panama; Second Lieutenant Mitchell F. Byrd, air reserve, to Langley field.

30 Trained
Gift Wrappers

10 Trained
Penelope Penn
Gift Shoppers

Something for Herself

Special Christmas Purchase!
Grand Collection of Fine
7.50 and 10.00 Calf BAGS
6.98

Calf soft as fabric with fittings to thrill any woman, styles new, smartly simple . . . these are the bags you may choose from. Bought specially (for they'd be 7.50 to 10.00 in the straight market)—so that you may make her bag a really fine one.

Bag Shop

Rich's Street Floor

Order by mail, we'll gift wrap them and fix them up for a Merry Christmas.

It's the Perfect Gift
Idea... Gaily Wrapped
GLOVES From Rich's
3.98 and 4.98

We're stocked to the rafters with the loveliest gloves in years . . . soft suedes or kids, suede backs with leather palms, suedes with kid or alligator trims, with handstitching for sweet young things, for smart young women, for mothers, aunts, grannies.

Glove Shop

Rich's Street Floor

Order by mail, we'll gift wrap them and fix them
up for a Merry Christmas.

RICH'S

SEARCY WILL DECIDE JUDGES' PAY PETITION

Mandamus on Back Salaries
To Be Heard Here Next Wednesday.

Whether or not Fulton superior court judges can force the county to pay back salaries claimed due them for the years 1931-32, is scheduled to be aired before Judge W. E. H. Searcy Jr., of the Griffin circuit, here Wednesday.

Last week a petition for a mandamus forcing the county treasurer to pay a total of $3,166.65 back salary was filed in superior court by Judge G. H. Howard, who retires January 1. Contention of the suit is based on a recent supreme court decision which ruled the salary of a judge cannot be reduced or increased during the term of office to which he was elected. The salaries of all Fulton superior judges were reduced during an elected term when they agreed to cut their salaries from $12,000 to $9,000, but holding the right to demand this difference later.

As all judges of the Fulton circuit are affected by the Howard suit, they disqualified themselves and the order for hearing was signed by Judge Searcy.

Leoles Case Scheduled.
Among other petitions to be heard in the motion division of superior court this week is one seeking to force the Atlanta board of education and Superintendent Willis Sutton to reinstate Dorothy Leoles, 12-year-old schoolgirl, who was suspended October 13 for failure to salute the flag. This case is scheduled for hearing Friday before Judge E. D. Thomas.

Dorothy, through her father, claims her suspension was in violation of the federal and state constitutional rights of freedom of speech and religious worship.

Bank Charter Case.
A hearing on the granting of a charter to the Farmers' Bank of Tifton is scheduled for this week, the date to be set later. This suit alleges Governor Talmadge did not have authority to remove former Superintendent of Banks R. E. Gormley and replace him with Acting Superintendent R. R. Tipples, and further contends that removal is legal only when the incumbent is adjudged insane, has absconded or is grossly neglecting his duties.

The controversy revolves around the efforts of a group of Tifton citizens to establish a new bank in Tift county and the petitions was brought by Ralph Puckett, who contends there are ample banking facilities within Tift county at present.

FOUR AUTHORS' STONES TO BE PLACED IN WALK

Ceremony at Wren's Nest on Wednesday Honors Harris' Birthday.

The Uncle Remus Memorial Association will celebrate the birthday of Joel Chandler Harris at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday at the Wren's Nest, with the placing of four additional stones in the Southern Authors' Walk, with Mrs. H. G. Hastings, vice president and chairman of the Southern Authors' Walk, in charge of the exercises.

The first stone will be dedicated to Davis C. Barrow, who was chancellor of the Georgia University System, scholar and poet. Sponsors will be the Carnegie Library Association, with Jessie Hopkins, librarian, in charge. Eleanor Harrison, librarian of the Uncle Remus branch of the Carnegie library in West End, will be the speaker.

The second stone will be in honor of Charles C. Jones Jr., the historian called "The Macaulay of the South." This mark will be sponsored by the Georgia Historical Association, of which Walter McElreath is chairman of the board of directors. John Ashley Jones, a direct descendant, will be the speaker.

The third stone will be dedicated to Joseph LeConte, geologist, who was nationally known, and will be sponsored by the Georgia Academy of Science. Dr. J. S. Guy, of Emory University, will be the speaker.

The fourth stone is for Lawton Bryan Evans, historian and well-known educator, and will be sponsored by the Atlanta Woman's Club. Mrs. W. F. Melton, president, will be the speaker.

Following the exercises, the Uncle Remus Memorial Association will hold open house, with Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, president for life, presiding. All members and friends of the association and members and friends of organizations sponsoring the stones, are invited.

TAHITIAN AUTHOR RAPS CIVILIZATION

Hall, of 'Bounty' Fame, Says Present Conditions Cannot Last.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—(AP)—James Norman Hall, co-author with Charles Nordhoff of "Mutiny on the Bounty," is yearning for Tahiti, his home for 17 years, and bemoaning the approaching "collapse of our present civilization."

Hall, after eight months in San Francisco, was in a particularly dour mood today because the maritime strike is delaying departure for his island haven.

"This civilization can't last because it just doesn't make sense," he commented.

"Better civilizations than this one have collapsed. A person must live for a time as Nordhoff and I have in Tahiti, at the crossroads of the Pacific, with a grandstand seat to view the workings of a mad machine age, to observe the beginnings of such a collapse."

Hall brought his 10-year-old son, Conrad, here last spring for medical treatment. The boy's condition has so improved that the writer feels he can return home. He wants to get back to work with Nordhoff.

CLASSES PROPOSED ON NATURALIZATION

Plan to establish classes for aliens to aid and encourage them in becoming United States citizens through a study of necessary steps required by the government, was announced yesterday by William A. Reilly, immigration and naturalization inspector, in charge of the Atlanta office.

Instructions on the constitution and the federal government and a more thorough knowledge of the English speech will be open to aliens, Reilly said, and formation of the classes will depend on the response given. Information may be obtained from Reilly at 327 New Postoffice building.

Store Hours
9 to 5:30

Use Rich's
Special Christmas
Club Plan

Gift Linens

Luxurious Down Puffs

With exquisite trapunto and pin-tuck designs. Taffeta in turquoise, wine, royal, rust, brown, peach, sahara, green, rose, gold. 72x84.

14.85

Jacquard Monument Spreads

3.49

So durable! Rayon and cotton. Rose, blue, gold, green, orchid. 72x108 and 86x108 in.

Embroidered Sheet Sets

2.98

Daintily embroidered 81x99 sheet and pair of cases. Hemstitched hems. Boxed.

Pillow Cases with Initials

Pr. 1.00

"Her very own" with embroidered white initials. Hemstitched hems. Gift-boxed.

English Plaid Motor Robes

6.98

Fine imported wool robes. Solid colors with reverse side in Scotch plaids. 52x72 in.

New Matched Gift Towels

Bath 59c Guest 29c

Copen, jade, gold, orchid, beige. Swank new rope border in contrasting colors.

Gay Bordered Breakfast Cloth

49c

Peasant style. Red, blue, gold, green. Rayon and cotton. 52x52. 58x78-in. size, 79c.

Satin Damask Dinner Sets

13.85

Fine rayon ivory damask. 72x90-in. cloth, eight napkins. Imported. Hand hemmed.

Linens, Bedding

Colored Border Sheet Sets

1.98

Hemstitched rose, blue, gold, orchid, green hems. 81x99-in. sheet and pair of cases.

Rich's Second Floor

Gifts

For the Home
Are Gifts
From the Heart

Rich's

Make it a SILVER CHRISTMAS with Oneida Ltd's. COMMUNITY PLATE

26-Pc.
Service for 6

24.75

Three Beautiful New Patterns: A. Coronation (Photographed in Chest); B. Berkeley Square; C. Lady Hamilton.

A Silver Christmas is a Merry Christmas, and here's a real opportunity! A guarantee of satisfaction with each set of Oneida Ltd's Durable Community Plate. The tarnish-proof Chest is approved by Good Housekeeping.

6 Dinner Forks 6 Teaspoons 1 Butter Knife
6 Dinner Knives 6 Dessert Spoons 1 Sugar Shell

32-piece service for 6, including 6 salad forks 29.75
34-piece service for 8 32.50

Silverware

Rich's Street Floor

-and all through the House..

Choose Your Piano at Rich's

New Piano Shown, 234.50

99.50 to 745.00

Select from a most comprehensive collection: Knabe, Pianette, Crown, Winter & Co., Huntington, Musette and Mendelssohn. Grands, uprights, verticals—all so new in design. In mahogany, walnut or maple.

Good pianos cannot be made overnight and we strongly urge that you choose your piano for Christmas NOW. A small down payment will hold your piano. We will deliver when you wish. Use our special Christmas Club Plan.

Pianos

Sixth Floor

Say "Merry Christmas" to Mother with a New

FRIGIDAIRE

90.50 to 537.50

Including 5-Year Protection Plan on Sealed-In Mechanical Unit

THE electric refrigerator that meets all 5 standards for refrigerator buying. We've a size for every family... at a price for every budget. Each with new Meter-Miser that slashes operating costs (Dad will appreciate this point especially).

$5 DOWN on Rich's Club Plan.

Electric Refrigerators

Sixth Floor

Merry Christmas
by PHILCO

$5 DOWN
on Rich's Club Plan

★
Liberal Trade-In Allowance

Compact Model With Two Tuning Ranges
Model 60B 39.95

Most popular of all table models! With 5 tubes—wide vision dial—and 2 tuning ranges covering American broadcasts, police, aviation and amateur calls. Matched walnut cabinet.

Philco's Lowest Priced Console
Model 60F 56.95

A walnut console you'll be proud to own! With 5 tubes—speech and music control—wide vision dial—and two tuning ranges.

RADIOS NEW SIXTH FLOOR

Rich's

Three Tuning Ranges, Shadow Tuning, Foreign Tuning System

All 3 in Model 630X* 89.95

An "X" model—which insures far-above-ordinary performance and enjoyment! 6-tube superheterodyne with inclined sounding board and other exclusive features.

*Complete and Installed with Philco High-Efficiency Aerial.

"LIVE WIRES" in Our Gift Electrical Shop

Ingraham Electric Clock

5.95

Sillex Coffee Maker Set

4.95

Mantel (photographed) and modern desk styles. Various designs. Guaranteed!

Heat-proof, 8-cup size. With electric unit and complete with red or black tray.

5.50 Universal Waffle Iron

4.95

3.50 Universal Electric Toaster

2.98

Chromium plated. Full size grids. A grand gift for hostesses on your list!

Toasts two slices at once. Chromium-plated. Certain of a big "welcome."

5.50 Universal Percolators

4.95

New Proctor Electric Roaster

25.00

Up to the minute in modern design. Popular 6-cup size. GOOD coffee in a jiffy!

BROILS, roasts and bakes. Automatic heat control. Top and bottom heat elements.

See Proctor roaster demonstrated this week by Miss Morehead, special representative. Broils, bakes or roasts meal at one time!

Give the "Him" on your list this new

Sparklet
4.95

Newly designed metal case that's certain-safe! Ivory, blue or black finish. Charges water in a flash! Complete with five charged bulbs.

Rich's Sixth Floor

Mail Order Blank

RICH'S, INC., ATLANTA, GA. Please send me:
() GE clock, 5.95 () Electric toaster, 2.98
() Sillex set, 4.95 () Percolator, 4.95
() Waffle iron, 4.95 () Proctor roaster, 25.00
() Sparklet, 4.95

Name

Address

City State Charge () Cash ()

Use Rich's Special Christmas Club Plan

For Your Favorite Host and Hostess Choose Gift Furniture

Something new . . . something fine . . . that you know is the delight of friends who take pride in their home! Furniture is such a lasting tribute to what they hold near and dear . . . and shows that you, too, are interested in their home. Remember—you're assured of QUALITY furniture at Rich's!

He'll need a chair for his desk! This Duncan Phyfe, with lyre back, in SOLID

MAHOGANY.

8.75

"At home"

In any living room, this kneehole desk in mahogany. So very graceful

39.75

If they're card sharks

Give this complete 5-pc.
set in mahogany and white leatherette. With three CHROMIUM INI-TIALS. Table, 4 chairs.

14.98

Has she said
"Yes?"

She'll be thrilled with this walnut cedar chest for her linen trousseau.
There's a tray for smaller things. Extra cedar liner.

32.50

Cocktail Time

calls for this all mahogany table with separate glass tray top.

12.50

A Man's Idea of perfect comfort, this leather

chair in red, blue,
green or brown.

59.50

Rich's Fifth Floor

Gifts

for the Home are Gifts from the Heart

Rich's

There's a certain distinctive air about

Windows dressed in DAMASK

5.98 value!

Pr. 4.98

Lustrous brocaded damask in natural floral design.
Extra wide (each side 50-in.) and long (2½ yds.)
to sweep to the floor in generous folds. Green, rust, red, blue. Sateen lined.

8.95 value!

Pr. 6.95

Brocaded damask (top) in rosewood, blue, green, red, gold. Each side 50-in. wide. 2½ yds. long.
Ready to hang. Sateen lined. (2.98 Shadow-net curtains shown, pair 1.98.)

Fourth Floor

Imagine! These 37.50

Oriental Gift Scatter Rugs

for only

19.95

Thrilling gift news, indeed, for you who appreciate the fine and genuine!
Hand-woven by Persian master weavers. About 30x48-in. Gem-like colorings on red, rose, blue ground.

Chinese Sarouks

2x3 ft. . . . 16.95	2x4 ft. . . . 29.75
2x4 ft. . . . 19.95	3x5 ft. . . . 55.00
3x5 ft. . . . 39.95	4x6 ft. . . . 89.50

12 Semi-Antique Persians, 3½x5 ft.
45.00

Fourth Floor

You're certain to please with a Chinese Lamp

And know it's right, whether their living room is 18th Century or modern. You'll find our collection truly dramatic and so varied, priced at $10 to $75.

Antique "Chinese Horseman" of temple roof tile in age-soft colors. Gold shade.
Two light. 75.00

Chinese porcelain—
Hawthorne on rust or blue. Octagonal shape.
Silk shade. Two light.
15.00

Lamp Department,
Fourth Floor

What's Finer Than Really Fine BOOKS

A gift that never grows old, never loses its momentary charm . . . Even when the leaves are yellow you'll prize it higher than ever . . . Heritage Press books, books with extraordinary illustrations
. . . they're all here, the very best to give the special reading friends.

Song of Songs, which is Solo-man's Illustrated and Illuminated with pure gold by Valenti Angelo . . . 5.00

Mother Goose, edited by William Rose Benet and illustrated by Roger Duvoisin . . . 3.75

The Compleat Angler, or Contemplative Man's Recreation by Izaak Walton . . . 3.50

Leaves of Grass, by Walt Whitman, and illustrated by Rockwell Kent . . . 3.75

Book Shop
Sixth Floor

RICH'S

CONSTITUTION PASSED BY SOVIET CONGRESS

Adopted After Amended To Provide for Commissar of Military Industry.

MOSCOW, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The congress of Soviets today approved the new Russian constitution after amending it to create a commissariat of military industry and empowering the government to declare war "in case of necessity."

The clause empowering the government to declare war was believed inserted to bolster the Soviet union's defensive alliances with France and other nations.

Under the original draft war could have been declared only in case of "an armed attack against the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics."

The constitution as amended grants the government power to wage war "in case of necessity to fulfill international obligations arising out of mutual assistance pacts."

The congress accepted the constitution by a unanimous show of red voting cards after Joseph Stalin, secretary general of the Communist party, spoke for 10 minutes in a low voice explaining the changes which had been made by the electoral commission.

Forty-three amendments, most of which were of slight importance, were made to the original document. Many of the changes were merely rewording for clarification.

Among the more important revisions was one establishing two houses of parliament of equal numbers to be elected by the direct vote of the people.

Another granted ownership of private property acquired by inheritance and made grants of land to peasants for their use forever free of charge.

Diplomats who attended the historic—and almost the last—session of the all union congress pointed to the establishment of the ministry of munitions and the broadening of the war declaring power as having greatest significance.

The diplomats considered the war amendment was an answer to their French allies, criticism the constitution would not allow the Soviet to back up the Franco-Soviet pact.

Some informed quarters also confessed it to be a pointed reply to the new German-Japanese anti-Communism alliance.

The congress was expected to adjourn tonight after fixing a date for the constitution to go into effect.

Russian officials predict the new constitution will be a basis for creating "red democracy," which they assert will be the finest political and social system the world has ever had.

Some observers question whether the new document shows that the U. S. S. R. is turning away from its professed goal of Communism; they hold the opinion Stalin now believes that socialism or socialistic democracy is the most the Russian revolution can achieve.

Others side with the government in its expressed view that the Soviet Union is progressing along the lines laid down by Karl Marx and Nikolai Lenin—toward true communism.

One of the major subjects involved in this debate is the fact the new constitution protects private property.

In the early days of the Soviet Union the state seized the bulk of the people's real estate, though it did permit private ownership of some small houses and then encouraged private construction of small homes.

Owners always held the apprehension, however, that this property would be confiscated sooner or later.

The new constitution, in effect, guarantees that private homes will remain in the possession of their individual owners.

Private ownership of industry still is not permitted, except where several persons are joined in a co-operative or where one man does all the work in a business.

Under the new charter, equal suffrage is granted to all, including the clergy and the old nobility. Secret voting instead of a display of hands is provided for.

Freedom of speech, the press, religious practices and public assembly are guaranteed.

The constitution declares every able-bodied and loyal citizen has not only the right but the obligation to work.

Large-scale unemployment, the government says, is impossible; it asserts there are not enough people for the available jobs.

Under the new charter the all union central executive committee and the congress of Soviets, the highest organs of government, cease to exist.

They are to be replaced by the supreme council, a two-chamber body which is to elect a supreme council presidium of 37 members to function between chamber sessions.

The chairman of the presidium will hold a post equivalent to that of president in other countries.

EIGHT LOSE LIVES WHEN HOME BURNS
Mother and Seven Children
Burn to Death in Canada.

CHICOUTIMI, Quebec, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The story of the deaths of seven sleeping children and their mother in an explosion and fire which destroyed their home in isolated St. Ambrose was told in messages reaching here tonight.

The explosion occurred last night when one member of the family lit a match to investigate the noise made by a dog in a small kitchen. The dog had knocked over a can of gasoline.

Louis Brassard, father of the children, hurried to the barn in an unsuccessful search for a horse blanket to smother the flames. When he ran back to the blazing house he found his wife overcome, holding their youngest child, only 15 days old, in her arms.

Apparently she had tried to warn the seven children sleeping upstairs. Brassard tossed the babe from a window into a deep snowbank. Weak from near-suffocation, he tried to carry his wife to safety but his clothes caught fire and he fled.

An 18-year-old daughter, Cuprienne, made her escape and rescued the baby from the snow, but the seven other children were burned to death in their beds.

LIVESTOCK EXPOSITION CLOSES AT CHICAGO
CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The 37th International Livestock Exposition closed its doors tonight and sent farmers away with bulging purses and swelled chests.

Exhibitors, scattering to many parts of the continent, took home nearly enough money to buy the vast exposition building and enough ribbons to decorate it.

Livestock men left behind, in exchange for almost a million and a quarter dollars and 4,000 ribbons, 11,000 animals to be slaughtered for the Christmas trade.

Grain growers gathered a thousand ribbons and pocketed thousands of dollars in prizes at the 18th International Grain and Hay Show.

HEADQUARTERS for a THRIFTY CHRISTMAS!

RICH'S BASEMENT Christmas Sales!

SPORT COATS

Warmly Interlined
Fleece and Tweed!

7.44

Swagger, fitted—single and double-breasted! Wine, black, brown, oxford, and green—plains and plaids! Sizes 14 to 44.

Colorful RAINCOATS

2.98

Waterproof, plain colors, polka-dots! 14-20, 38-44.

Reg. 5.98 Dresses

Misses! Women's! and Half Sizes!

3.00

IMAGINE finding such a complete size range in brand-new dresses for $3.00! In GAMZA and novelty crepes—Grey, blue, green, black!

Sizes: 14 to 20, 38 to 48, 16½ to 26½.

Kate Greenaway

DRESSES for GIRLS!

1.98

Favorite of all little girls. Vat-dye prints, plaids, SIZES 3 to 6, and 7 to 16.

Dressy
Crepe Frocks

1.98

Taffeta and acetate-crepe, pastel shades. 3-6, 7-14.

Boys' JACKETS and COATS

2.98

Furry "PILE" JACKETS: Brown leatherette—trimmed. Slash pockets. Sizes 6-18.

SHEEPLINED COATS: Leatherette, black, brown. 4-20. With four pockets.

WOOL MELTON JACKETS Navy blue, all-wool. 3-18. With two muff-pockets!

THE DOLL

Your little girl wants!

She walks!
She cries!
She goes to sleep!

1.98

Exactly 4 Times
Size of Picture!

Fully Dressed!

Adorable complete outfit—cap, dress, shoes, socks and pantie! Lace-trimmed organdy—pink, blue and yellow!

25 INCHES HIGH!

Big as a baby! Cuddly-soft body, with legs and arms that move about—she really walks!

SILK UNDIES

All Silk Crepe Slips
Satin, Crepe Undies

1.00 ea.

Imported lace, medallion, embroidery—trimmed—or tailored! All women's sizes.

GLOVE SILK PANTIES

59c

Lace, medallion—trimmed, tailored. Tearose. 4 to 7.

ALL-SILK HOSE

First Quality
Chiffons! All Full-Fashioned!

49c pr.

Chiffon and service weight, new warm shades for winter. Reinforced toe. 8½ to 10½.

New FABRIC GLOVES

59c pr.

Polo cloth, Suedettes—in slip-on styles. Sizes 6 to 8.

Wool Sweaters

Bright Colors
Crew and V-Necks

1.00

Part wool, grand for sports, business or school. 34 to 44. ALL WOOL SKIRTS... 26 to 32.

Bright-color SCARFS

59c ea.

Ascot Scarfs. Double tubes! Gay printed silk crepes.

CURTAINS

Tailored Drapenets
full 2½ yards long!

49c pr.

PERFECT for all informal rooms! In rust, sun-tan, green and French ecru.

Sateen-cover COMFORTS

1.98

Cotton-filled, cleverly stitched for warmth. 66x78.

5000 "Silverdale"

MEN'S SHIRTS
1.00

6 for 5.75!

- All Pre-shrunk BROADCLOTH!
- Fused, "Duke-of-Kent" collars!
- Expertly tailored and full-cut!
- Form-fitting, with full tails!
- Hand-picked colors, patterns!
- 1st quality Ocean-Pearl Buttons!

Give him a shirt you know he'll be proud to wear! Choose white, blue dusty-tones, stripes, checks, dots, plaids—light, medium and dark backgrounds! Sizes 13½-17. Sleeves 32-35.

Men's Blanket Robes
Cord-piped. Small, medium and large. 2.98

Men's Lined Gloves
Leather, Pig-text, Also unlined. 1.19 pr.

Broadcloth Pajamas
Also in flannelette. 1.59-1.79 value. 1.39 pr.

HOME GIFTS are Best

● Gift Wrapping Service
Experts in charge—MAIN FLOOR

Charm for the Home---Jumbo Ruffled Curtains

● Regularly $1.98 pair
● Fluffy Ruffles, Extra Wide
● Full Lengths—2½ Yards

$1.47

● White and Ivory Curtains
● Dainty Boudoir Colors

Soon you'll be getting ready for the holiday festivities, and you'll want your house in order! Here are lovely new curtains to add their charm and freshness to your windows... big, generously sized curtains of the sheerest, prettiest marquisettes. In soft pastels for your bedrooms! In ecru or ivory for your other rooms! A value feature at $1.47 pair!

Venetian BLINDS

$1.89
Each

Have Venetian blinds installed in your home, and give the whole family cause for joy! Sizes 32, 34, 35 and 36 inches wide, 65 inches long, complete with fixtures—ready to hang.

CURTAINS—HIGH'S STREET FLOOR

Windows Will Radiate Christmas Cheer!

Lined Damask Drapes

Take some of your Christmas savings and invest it in new drapes for your home! These are rich, handsome damask, fully lined, so they hang in deep supple folds! Pinch-pleat, headed tops, with hooks and tie-backs. Harmonizing colors of blue, gold, rust, red and green. Each side curtain 38 inches wide, 2½ yards long.

$2.98
Pair

DRAPERIES—HIGH'S STREET FLOOR

● Let Us Re-Upholster
Your Furniture!

Two Pieces—
Davenport and Chair
Handsomely Upholstered

Custom Made! $32.50
and up

Dull, drab living room suites take on new life and beauty when re-upholstered from the many new and charming patterns we have for your selection. Let us figure on yours! Custom-made, to fit your individual pieces—expert workmanship in every detail.

HIGH'S STREET FLOOR

Grand Gifts! PART WOOL BLANKETS

$4.49 Pair

Fond mothers will give them to their daughters, and vice versa! The blanket gift shows real thought and consideration, and these are lovely in themselves, not forgetting the warmth they spread! Full 25% pure wool and finest cotton, in soft, pretty plaids, size 70x80 inches.

BLANKETS—HIGH'S STREET FLOOR

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Make it an

Electrical Christmas

Electrical gifts please every home lover by bringing comfort, economy and convenience into the home.

4-Piece Electric Coffee Urn Set

$11.98 - $14.98

Urn, tray, cream and sugar—chromium plated inside and out... guaranteed! Urn is the new patented 8-in-1 full cold water type pump style. Non-tarnishable! A marvelous gift!

Electric Grills

Double electric grills, non-tarnishing, and guaranteed. Very gift! $1.59

Waffle Irons

Electric irons, non-tarnishing chrome plate, black trimmings. Only $1.00

ELECTRIC GOODS—HIGH'S STREET FLOOR

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Alexander Smith & Sons and Mohawk. 9x12 Room Size—
Regularly $37.50

Axminster RUGS $29.97

● Seamless Rugs in Rich Deep Nap
● Oriental and All-Over Designs

Rugs are gifts that contribute to the enjoyment of the entire family. These rugs are of unusual beauty, from dependable makers, and come in the colors that tone in with any furnishings.

Reg. $8 Felt Base Rugs

Size 9x12 rugs made by the Congoleum Company in smart crescent patterns. $5.77

RUGS—HIGH'S STREET FLOOR

... See the Generous Variety at

HIGH'S

Monogramming Free

On Linens, Towels, Bed Linens...
Order Now in Time for Christmas!

$10.98 Linen Banquet Set

A beauty! Gleaming white cloth 66x108 inches, and 12 matching napkins. Make yourself a present of one so that you may entertain in gracious style during the holidays! Very special!

$8.98

$6.98 Linen Set

Hemstitched heavy quality pure linen cloth 60x90, and 12 napkins to match.

$4.78

Lace Table Cloths

$2.58

Values to $3.98! Natural color in many beautiful designs, $1.88 and $2.58.

LINENS—HIGH'S STREET FLOOR

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Reflecting Good Taste in Home Gifts!

I. E. S. Reflector Floor Lamps

● Graceful bronze or ivory standards, gold trimmed, topped with parchment shades in many styles and colors.

Exceptional Values at—$7.95

MOGUL SOCKET to accommodate 100, 200 and 300-watt lamps.

3 CANDLELIGHTS, with or without glass reflector.

Lamps are gifts that husbands will give their wives and wives will give their husbands for mutual enjoyment in the home, yet withal, gifts that are entirely personal. These lamps are more than gifts... they're a genuine service to protect your family's eyes with correct lighting... lamps approved by I. E. S.

Other Reflector Lamps
Silk Shaded, $11.95 to $14.95

Gift-Right!

Table Lamps

$2.50 to $5.00

Lamps with loads of charm! Metal stands and gleaming alabasters, charming styles in variety.

LAMPS—HIGH'S FOURTH FLOOR

'Christmas Greens' Featured Today By State Junior Garden Chairman

Miss Katherine Anderson, of Macon, chairman of Junior Gardens for the Georgia Club of Georgia, writes on "Christmas Greens," which is timely and appropriate to the season.

"Long, long ago, before there was any Christmas in northern Europe, the Teutons hung evergreens in their dwellings so that the spirits of the forest would come inside during the cold weather, and even before our English forefathers came to America they decorated their houses at Yuletide with holly, mistletoe and ivy. The early settlers in America found holly growing in the woods and cut and used it at Christmas time.

"The cities grew, but even city-dwellers want evergreens at Christmas, and because generations of Christmas cutters have scoured the woods for holly to sell on the streets, the wild holly tree is now almost unknown north of southern New Jersey and southern Delaware. Even in Georgia holly is less abundant than it used to be because so much has been gathered and shipped to the cities for Christmas decoration, and unless the wanton destruction of holly trees is stopped and the cultivation of holly encouraged this much-loved tree will disappear.

"It would be possible, if holly were properly gathered, to use holly for Christmas decoration without injuring the tree, but until we have more holly growing, the school children of Georgia can help by planning Christmas wreaths of evergreens more abundant in our woods, wreaths of pine or hemlock, with cones brown or sparkling with silver or gold paint, wreaths of cedar, magnolia or ivy, or wreaths made of autumn leaves preserved by shellac or by having been given a mixture of glycerine and water to drink, wreaths simple or ornamented with dried seed-pods and grasses.

"School children can, also, help by making protected plantings of holly trees, from which the birds will scatter seed in the woods. Pine trees with three or four leaves can be transplanted in the late spring or early fall, from where birds have dropped seed and they are coming up too thickly, or small trees can be bought from nurseries, or they can be grown from cuttings made during July and August, of half-ripe wood with a slight heel of old wood.

"School children can after Christmas collect the berries from such holly as is used, place them in a bowl or tub of water for two or three days in a warm place, then mash and rub them into a pulp, when the good seed will sink to the bottom of the bowl—this washing is a substitute for the bird's digestion. Rinse the seed until the pulp is gone and do not let the seed get dry, but sow them at once. Either scatter the seed in likely parts of near-by woods, damp spots preferred but not swamp.

"Or, if you want to grow the seedlings yourself mix seed with damp sand or peat moss and pack this mixture in a flower pot or box in a slightly moist place where they will sink to the bottom of the bowl as much of the time as possible. There they should remain until late spring, when they can be sown in shady beds. And these seedlings need for a year. Holly seed will not germinate for one, two or sometimes three years. For the first two years the seedlings should be in partial shade and water supplied during any long dry spell. Growth will be slow for the first few years, and they will not flower until five to 12 years old."

AIRMEN MEET HERE FOR FLIGHT SOUTH

Aerial Caravan To Leave Tomorrow for Races at Miami.

Airplanes from various sections of the east and middle west will converge on Atlanta today to form an aerial caravan to Miami and the All-American air races, which will get under way Thursday.

One group took off from Pittsburgh yesterday and will be joined at Candler field by pilots from other points for the flight south. The aviators will spend tonight here and about 35 planes are scheduled to take off from Candler field between 1 and 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, weather permitting. Other planes will join the convoy on the route to Miami, the first arrivals being made at Americus. A total of 63 planes are on the roster for the Atlanta-to-Miami flight.

Another aerial caravan from Cincinnati is scheduled to make short refueling stop at Candler field today before continuing to Jacksonville to spend the night there.

LARGE TURNIPS.

McDONOUGH, Ga., Dec. 5.—G. W. Pritchett, of the sixth district of Henry county, is displaying two purple top turnips that weigh 12 pounds. One of them weighs 12 pounds and 1 ounce and measured 22 inches in circumference. The other was only a fraction smaller, 5 pounds 15 ounces in weight.

Miss Helen Smart Will Wed Millard Rewis Jr. On Dec. 30

MISS HELEN AIKEN SMART.

Cordial interest centers in the approaching marriage of Miss Helen Aiken Smart and Millard Rewis Jr., whose engagement is announced today. The wedding will take place on December 30, at 8 o'clock, in the theological chapel on the Emory campus. The ceremony will be performed by the bride's father, Dr. W. Aiken Smart, who has been for 22 years a member of the faculty of the theological school of Emory.

The charming bride-elect is the only child of her parents. She is descended on both sides from prominent southern families long outstanding in the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. She was graduated cum laude from Wesleyan College in '35 and was prominent there in many of the college activities. She was later a graduate student at Emory University, where she was especially successful in the field of dramatics, taking important roles in two plays presented by the Emory Players. For the past six months she has been a regional supervisor for the National Youth Administration with headquarters in Thomasville.

Mr. Rewis is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Millard Rewis, of Swarthmore, Pa., formerly of Atlanta, Ga. He is a recent graduate of Emory University. During his college career he was tenor soloist of the Emory Glee Club and was also a soloist in the choir of St. Mark's Methodist church and later in the choir of the Glenn Memorial church and Peachtree Christian church. Mr. Rewis is now connected with the First Presbyterian church of the New York Life Insurance Company.

The young couple will reside in Swarthmore, Pa.

Currants Need Pruning

By W. ELBRIDGE FREEBORN

This week we received a letter from Luthersville, Ga., which said, "There are clumps of currant bushes in this place that are a perfect tangle of canes and no one I know can tell me about pruning them. There is no library here to go to for books. If you will give me the directions in The Constitution I shall be very grateful."

Our usual procedure in answering inquiries of this kind is to answer them by mail, without any later reference to this column, but when we discovered not only did we not know what to do about pruning currants, and after asking several other people who did not know either, we decided it might be well to find out and answer the correspondent through this column.

It really came as a little surprise to find currants growing so well in Luthersville, Ga., since most of the currants are grown from Atlanta north, but from this letter they must be growing well, since our correspondent says, "the clumps are a perfect tangle of canes."

We wandered around in several books and from the old standby, "Bailey's Cyclopedia of Horticulture," from which we want to quote, we found not only interesting information about currants generally, but specific information as to pruning. Before quoting, it might be well to remind you that the red and white currants are the ones most commonly planted and most desirable. The red currant makes excellent jelly, and its wide popularity is largely due to this fact. It also is used to a large extent for pies, jams and is sometimes eaten raw. Most people prefer the addition of sugar since it has a rather tart taste.

Pruning. "The black and red currants bear most of their fruit on wood of different ages; hence the pruning of one is a little different from the other. The black currant bears most of its fruit on wood of the previous seasons growth, and it is important always to have a plentiful supply of one-year-old heavy wood. The red and white currants produce their fruits on spurs which develop from the wood two or more years of age, and it is important in pruning red and white currants to have a liberal supply of wood two years old and older; but, as the fruit on the very old wood is not so good as that on the younger, it is best to depend largely on two- and three-year-old wood to bear the fruit. A little pruning may be necessary at the end of the first season after planting, in order to get the bush in shape.

From six to eight main stems, or even less, with the side branches, will when properly distributed, bear a good crop of fruit. Future pruning should be done with the aim of having from six to eight main stems, each bearing a few branches more than three years of age, since when kept down to this limit the wood will be healthier, stronger growth will be made, and the fruit will be better."

Propagation. "The usual method of propagating currants is by means of cuttings. These root very readily, and good plants are secured after one season's growth. The best time to make the cuttings is in the autumn, as currants begin to grow very early in the spring, and once the buds have swollen they cannot be rooted successfully. Wood of the current seasons growth is used. This may be cut early in the autumn as soon as the wood has ripened, from the end of August to the middle of September being the usual time. It should be cut in as long pieces as possible to save time in the field, and put in a cold moist cellar or buried in sand.

If the cuttings can be made at once, it is best to do so. These may be by cutting the wood into pieces, each about eight to 10 inches long, although an inch or two more or less is not of much consequence. The base of the cutting should be made with a square cut just below the last bud. There should be at least 12 inch of wood left above the top bud of each cutting, as there should be a strong growth from the upper bud, and if the wood is cut too close it is liable to be weakened. A sloping cut is best for the upper cut, as it will shed rain better, but this is not important. When made, the cuttings should be planted at once, which is usually the best plan, or heeled in. If heeled in, they should be tied in bundles and buried upside down in warm well-drained soil, with about three inches of soil over them. The object of burying them upside down in that by this method the leaves of the cuttings will be nearer the surface, where the soil is warmer and there is more air, and will callus more quickly than if they were further down.

"The cuttings should callus well in a few weeks, and may then be planted outside, if thought advisable. Cuttings may be kept in good condition over winter by heeling-in or burying in sand in a cool cellar, or after calusing under a few inches of soil outside, they may be left there over winter if covered with about 4 to 5 inches of soil to prevent their drying out. Good results are secured with the least trouble by planting the cuttings in nursery rows as soon as they are made.

"The soil should be well prepared and should be selected where water will not lie. Furrows are opened three feet apart and deep enough so that the top bud, or at most two buds, will be above ground. The cuttings are placed about six inches apart on the straight side of the furrows and soil thrown in and tramped well about them. When only a smaller number are to be planted, a trench may be opened with a spade. It is important to have a large proportion of the cuttings below ground, as more roots will be made and the plants will be stronger. There would also be danger of the cuttings drying up before rooting if too much of the wood is exposed.

If the season is favorable, the cuttings should callus well, and even throw out a few roots by winter. Where there is little snow in winter, it is a good practice to cover the tops of the cuttings with about two inches of soil, which will be a good protection for them. This soil should be raked off in the spring. In the spring cultivation should be begun early and kept up regularly during the summer to conserve moisture and favor rooting and the development of the bushes. By autumn they should be large enough to transplant to the field.

In Great Britain and Europe, currants are often grown in tree form, and are prevented from throwing up shoots from below ground by removing all the buds of the cuttings except the top one, before planting in the nursery. This system is not recommended for most parts of America as it has been found by experience that snow breaks down readily from trees, and it is easy to get new varieties in this way. The seeds are washed out of the ripe fruit, and after drying, may either be sown at once or mixed with sand and kept over winter in a cool dry place and sown very early in the spring. The best plan is to sow them in the autumn in a shallow, well-prepared and well-drained soil, since when this is done they will germinate very early in the spring, while if sown in the spring the seed may be all summer without sprouting.

"The seed should not be sown deep, from 1-4 to 1-2 inch being quite sufficient. If sown very deep they will not germinate. The young plants may be transplanted from the seed bed to the open in the autumn of the first year if large enough, but if the plants are very small they may then grow another season, when they should be planted out at least 4 by 5 feet apart, so as to give them room enough to fruit for several seasons, in order that their relative merits may be learned.

"If intended to remain permanently, the plants should be at least 6 by 6 feet apart. The bushes should begin to bear fruit the second or third year after planting out. Each bush will be a new variety, as cultivated fruits do not come true from seed. If a seedling is considered promising it may be propagated or increased by cuttings, as already described."

National Attention Is Centered Upon Peachtree Road

Now that Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind" is attracting such attention all over the United States and abroad, Atlantans should realize that most of the scenes are laid on the famous Peachtree road. People who come from other cities to see Atlanta and the scene of this illustrious book will be a little surprised to see the condition of the road. The Peachtree Garden Club has realized that this is only one reason why this famous thoroughfare should be cleaned up and beautified.

The ugly red clay out on the corner of Memorial drive and Peachtree road is receiving the attention of the Peachtree Garden Club at the present. Mrs. Jackson Dick and Mrs. Jesse Draper may be seen any day now directing a group of convicts on this spot as they shape and grade the high bank. When this is finished the 12 loads of honyesuckle donated by Mrs. John Grant will be planted to form a lovely green bank.

The grading and planting of ugly spots such as this can be accomplished by the Peachtree Garden Club. This work will all be for nothing, however, if the people who frequent this section will not co-operate with the club by helping to clean up.

Two of the worst sources of trash are the outside wrappers of newspapers left by newsboys which they promise to rectify, and the wrappers and paper cups given away at drug and grocery stores. If any person who receives such a cup or wrapper would wait to throw it away until he found a suitable trash can, the road would be returned to its former beauty.

Questions, Answers On Garden Subjects

By Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crown.

Question: Is it time to plant tulips?

Answer: Yes, I would not be afraid to plant tulips now. The best time for the new idea of planting them about nine inches deep. One of my friends experimented with them last year and had so much more success with this deep planting.

Question: Would you advise me to move my boxwood now? My plants are about 12 inches tall.

Answer: This is a good time of year to move boxwood. Plants as small as yours can be dug with soil much as they need never know that they have been disturbed. Be sure to have the soil well prepared to receive them. Then mulch with leaf mold or even unrotted leaves. In the spring you can fertilize them with cottonseed meal.

Question: I have some old rose bushes that I want to prune. Do you think this is the best time of the year to do so?

Answer: When you say old rose bushes I do not know whether you mean old bushes that have never been pruned or whether you mean roses that have been pruned for two or three years. At any rate I would not prune them severely at this time of year. I always prune excessive growth off at this time to prevent any danger of hard wind during the winter. For bushes that have been kept reasonably pruned I would cut them back to about 20 inches, then in early spring I would prune down to six or eight inches. For old bushes that have not been pruned at all I would not cut so severely as this at either season.

I promised to tell more about what I am doing in my garden now. I have begun to rearrange some shrubs. Even with all my planning I often find that a certain shrub would either look better or do better in another spot. Remember all that I have said about big holes for these shrubs. Well prepared soil, mellow, well drained, enriched with well decayed manure or bonemeal or acid phosphate. Also prune your shrub to assist it in withstanding the shock of the move.

FLETCHER PEARSON CROWN.
December 6, 1936.

CLARWATER WORKERS DECIDE TO END STRIKE

CLARWATER, S. C., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Strike of 200 print and color workers at the Clearwater bleaching works was settled today.

Workers agreed, they said, to return to their jobs Monday, and the management agreed in turn to recommend a 10 per cent increase in wages.

The workers had walked out spontaneously Friday when a 5 per cent notice was posted.

No workers will be discharged because of striking, a committee announced after conferencing with N. M. Bulford, vice president of the plant. Bulford declined comment.

gifts that bring beauty from the new salon of helena rubinstein town and country perfume—two original perfumes. Town, exotic. For jewels, furs. Country, for tweeds. Set, 15.00. Singly, 7.50.

town and country eau de toilette—pungent, exhilarating. In sparkling candle-stick bottles. Town, 3.75. Country, 3.75.

town and country body sachet—concentrated perfumed flesh-toned body powder. Swansdown puff. Town, 2.50. Country, 2.50.

town and country vanity—thin, light, large mirror. Holds more powder than any vanity its size. Golden-stripped enamel; white or colors. Loose powder single, 3.00. Double, 4.00. With lipstick, 4.50, 5.50.

stowaway beauty case—practical and luxurious. Contains ten Helena Rubinstein preparations, including make-up. Black or brown simulated Alligator; large mirror. Light, stows easily in larger luggage. 10.50. Other cases, 18.50, 35.00, 75.00, 125.00.

"715" lipstick—new, striking in its golden obelisk case. A lipstick of ravishing color, youthful lustre. A beauty treatment for chapped lips. Red Coral, Chinese Red, Red Raspberry, Red Velvet. 2.00.

Helena Rubinstein Gifts of Beauty available at all smart stores.

Helena Rubinstein
715 Fifth Avenue, New York

ONE... 8x10 Oil Colored PHOTOGRAPH

WITH THIS AD

MRS. H. A. EASTERLING

TRIMBLE PHOTO STUDIO

847 1/2 GORDON ST.

(WEST END)

RA. 6711

It Costs Little To Buy Christmas Gifts From HIGH'S BARGAIN BASEMENT The Economy Center of Atlanta

Bias-Cut Pure Dye

Satin
Slips
$1.00

Hurry right down for your slip gifts while you can get such well-fitting ones at $1.11
V-neck styles, lacey or tailored, in luscious tulle—
size 34 to 44.
HIGH'S BASEMENT

Regular $10.95 Fur-Trimmed

Coats

$9.00

- French Beaver
- Black Sealine
- Manchurian Wolf

How we can sell such good-looking coats for $9.00?
... that's best answered with the statement "HIGH'S SELLS FOR LESS"! New styles of all-wool fabrics, full lined and warmly interlined. Black, brown, green.
Sizes 14 to 46.

HIGH'S BASEMENT

Advance 1937 Styles!

Spring
Silk Dresses
$2.00

- Brand-New Dresses
- New Advanced Styles
- All Sizes—14 to 52

Gay, swinging styles in the vibrant colors in keeping with the holiday spirit, with new ways of charm... embroidery, sheer sleeves, velvet and contrast trims. You won't be able to resist buying at least two... maybe three!

HIGH'S BASEMENT

Men's Fine Warm

Blanket Robes
$1.98

He'll be delighted with one!
Big, generously cut robes in solid colors and patterned silk cord trimmed. Small, medium and large.
HIGH'S BASEMENT

Men's Socks
4 Pairs
69c

Rayon plaids! Heather mixtures with clocks! Sizes 10 to 12. In Christmas boxes!
HIGH'S BASEMENT

Women's Blanket Robes
$1.98

All enveloping robes in solid colors with blending collar and cuffs—silk cord tie and trim. Also plaids and stripes.
Regular and extra sizes.
HIGH'S BASEMENT

Men's Dress
Shirts
$1.00

White mercerized broadcloth!
Woven pattern madras! Plaids, stripes, checks! Duke of Kent and fused collars—14
to 17.

Men's Ties
Big assortment—kinds men like! Buy now! 49c
HIGH'S BASEMENT

DAUGHTERS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION

Mrs. John A. Adams, of Dublin, state D. A. R. regent; first vice regent, Mrs. Thomas J. Sappington, of Eastman; second vice regent, Mrs. J. Thomas Wood, of Savannah; chaplain, Miss Anna Crawford, of Atlanta; recording secretary, Mrs. E. B. Freeman, of Dublin; treasurer, Mrs. E. B. Freeman, of Dublin; auditor, Mrs. Thomas J. Sappington, of Eastman; organizing secretary, Mrs. John M. Simmons, of Bainbridge; librarian, Mrs. E. B. Freeman, of Dublin; historian, Mrs. J. Thomas Wood, of Savannah; registrar, Mrs. Young Harris Farthing, of Milledgeville; reporter to Smithsonian Institution, Mrs. D. Ingram, of Valdosta; curator, Mrs. A. N. Murray, of Columbus; genealogist, Mrs. J. B. Nicholson, of Madison; editor, Mrs. J. L. Mims, of Lawtonville; assistant editor, Mrs. T. J. Sappington, of Eastman.

Proposed Amendments to By-Laws Recommended by D. A. R. Board

By Mrs. Thomas J. Sappington, of Eastman, State D. A. R. Assistant Editor.

Mrs. Julius Talmadge, state parliamentarian and chairman of revision of by-laws, issues the following amendments to by-laws recommended by state board of management on November 4, and submitted through the official D. A. R. column more than 60 days prior to the conference (when they will be voted on) as required by by-laws:

No. 1.—It is proposed to amend Article 3 Section 1, by adding: Except in the event that only one candidate is offered for any office, when by a majority vote of the conference, the election may be viva-voce. And by striking out the following words: "genealogist, curator, reporter to Smithsonian Institution, assistant editor." The article, when amended, to read: "Officers of the state conference shall be the state regent, state vice president, a second vice president, a chaplain, recording secretary, corresponding secretary, treasurer, auditor, consulting organizing secretary, consulting registrar, historian, librarian, editor." These officers shall be elected biennially by ballot, except in the event that only one candidate is offered for any office, when by a majority vote of the conference, the election may be viva-voce. A majority of the votes shall elect. Vacancies shall be filled by appointment made by the state regent, and unexpired term of officers so appointed shall be filled by election at the next annual meeting.

No. 2.—To amend Article 8, by striking out the words, "20 cents" and substituting "40 cents" which, when amended will read: "The annual dues of state conference shall be 40 cents for each member of the chapter, to be paid to state treasurer of the conference at least 30 days before the annual meeting." (In explanation of this amendment, it should be understood that this increase of 20 cents is state dues, will in fact be but a transfer of 20 cents from honor roll requirements to state dues, and will not affect the amount each individual member is paying at the present time.)

Armistice Day was observed by John Houston Chapter in Thomaston. The guest speaker, Mark Smith, delivered an appropriate address. Mrs. Roy Stephens reported on resolutions and activities of executive state board in Bainbridge. The regent, Mrs. Harrison Hightower, urged 100 per cent membership enrolled in Red Cross.

Governor John Milledge Chapter met in the home of Miss Carrie Green with Mrs. R. D. Higgins assisting. A feature of the program was a letter concerning a table, originally owned by Nathan Hale. The table is in the home of Mrs. M. E. Judd, who also owns a straw basket which was used to serve potatoes by four generations of an Indian family. The life of Silas Houdinot was given by Mrs. C. M. Hollingsworth. The sketch was written by his granddaughter, Mary B. Church, and was first given by the Woman's Club, Washington, Conn., in 1913.

Stone Castle Chapter, of Dawson, met with Mrs. D. M. Dismuke, with Mesdames A. H. Thomas and J. D. Weaver as cohostesses. The real daughter, Mrs. Mary Poole Newcome, had been remembered by the chapter. Mrs. Dismuke reported $8 spent for books for the "Becker Girl." Mrs. J. R. Webb presented the program, which included talks on Armistice Day, national defense and Yorktown Day by Miss Viva Sanders and Mesdames Marion Cronin and T. K. Cobb.

The regent, Mrs. C. J. Reilly, presided over meeting of Thomaston chapter in Mrs. P. I. Dixon's home. Yearbooks were distributed and new scrapbook presented to chapter by Mrs. Dixon. Mrs. E. L. McKinnon was elected custodian of scrapbook. Mrs. Joseph Cook was elected a member. The regent appointed Mesdames John Turner, F. B. Harris, and E. S. McKinnon to see to planting more trees in courthouse yard and to select and have planted some particular tree in memory of Miss Mamie Merrill, past regent of chapter. Mrs. J. M. Spence, of Camilla, was guest of chapter. The hostesses were Mesdames P. I. Dixon, John Turner, and W. S. Anderson.

Bainbridge Chapter met at the home of Mrs. C. W. King with Mrs. T. H. Hamey assisting. Plans for the entertainment of state executive board were completed. Mrs. J. M. Simmons recommended organization of a junior chapter D. A. R. Mrs. Suber announced a number of good pictures to be shown at local theater in near future. Mrs. Morrison Shingler gave article on since and capture of Savannah, and Mrs. Simmons spoke on Lafayette and his efforts in behalf of colonists during the Revolution. Mrs. Donald Davis, of Quitman, was hostess to the Hannah Clarke Chapter, which met at the library. Mrs. H. T. Brice reported a bronze plate ordered, which would be placed on marker to be erected after deed is secured to ground on which to place marker. Generous contributions of vases and jellies has been presented to new hospital. Three new members welcomed into chapter. Mesdames Walton Hunter, J. G. Cobb, and Miss Evelyn Walker. Mrs. J. B. Davis was reinstated. Mrs. J. B. Tillman spoke on historic spots at Lexington.

MOTHER, 7 CHILDREN ARE BURNED TO DEATH

CHICOUTIMI, Quebec, Dec. 5.—(AP)—(Canadian Press)—Mrs. Louise Brassard, of St. Ambrose, and seven of her children were burned to death last night when fire destroyed their frame home, said reports reaching here today.

A villager who made his way here over the snow-bound roads, with the scant details of the tragedy, said only the father and elder daughter escaped the blaze started by a gasoline explosion.

Author's Hose, Garters Presented to Museum

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—A pair of stockings and garters once worn by the woman who wrote "Rattle Hyman of the Republic" were presented to the National Museum today by her 88-year-old daughter, Mrs. John Elliott, of Miami, Fla. Julia Ward Howe, a New York author and philanthropist, wrote the poem during the Civil War.

Group of Attractive Wedding Principals

MRS. JOSEPH KELLY McCUTCHEN, OF DALTON.

MRS. JOE E. JOHNSON JR.

MISS HELEN VEACH, OF CALHOUN.

MISS STELLA MOORE.

MISS SARA VIVIAN LIGHT.

MRS. JAMES A. LEARY.

Mrs. McCutchen is the former Miss Christine Bandy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burl Judson Bandy, of Dalton. Mrs. Johnson was before her marriage Miss Frances Nell Stead, daughter of Mrs. L. Stead. Miss Veach's betrothal is announced to James Madison Burke. Miss Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Moore, will wed Ira Raulston Abernathy at an early date. Miss Light, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. G. C. Light, will become the bride of Nelson Avery Chastain on December 25. Mrs. Leary was before her marriage Miss Billie Kelley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Kelley.

TEN ALLEGED KILLERS FACE TRIAL THIS WEEK

Fulton Superior Court Docket Lists Unusual Number of Capital Cases.

With 10 murder cases scheduled for trial, prosecutors have made this "murder week" in Fulton superior court. All defendants are negroes.

James Worthy, alias James Tyson, alias John Mann, will face trial Thursday in Judge John D. Humphries' court for the alleged murder of Berry C. Dodson, street car motor-man, who was mysteriously slain at the end of the Magnolia street car line on the night of October 10.

Solicitor General John Boykin will direct the prosecution of this case, and Herman Talmadge, son of the Governor, has been appointed chief counsel to represent Worthy by Judge Humphries.

Dodson was found dead on the floor of his car at the end of the line. When police arrived the car doors were closed, the trolley had been changed and the car was ready for its return run into town. First examinations failed to reveal bullet wounds, but later at the undertakers, it was discovered Dodson had been shot through the left arm by a small caliber pistol, the bullet piercing his heart.

While the jail population at Fulton tower is the lowest in some time, there are still 24 murder cases held pending trial. The only white man among the number is Harry Lancaster, who is charged with the murder of W. L. Dupree in a Houston street fight.

Forty-four jail cases are scheduled for trial Monday in the criminal court before Judge Jesse Woods. Of this number 14 face charges of livery.

SPEAKERS TO GIVE U. S. SECURITY DATA

Series of Meetings on New Act Arranged in Cities of Georgia.

Representatives of the Social Security Board will leave Tuesday for a series of 16 public meetings throughout the state to furnish information regarding the federal social security act. Eric Coker, state director of the National Emergency Council, announced yesterday.

The meetings, arranged through the co-operation of local Chambers of Commerce and civic clubs in each city, will be held in Augusta, Dublin, Macon, Athens, Americus, Columbus, LaGrange, Griffin, Rome, Brunswick, Waycross, Valdosta and Bainbridge during the week.

Representatives of the internal revenue office will also appear on the programs to discuss tax matters pertaining to this act.

Speakers to be included on the program are Morzan Baker, of Birmingham; R. C. Haines, Atlanta; Henry E. Bray, Savannah, and Karl Thompson, Atlanta. Tax representatives and speakers are Frank E. Boyce, J. D. Seaborn, R. E. Rivers, J. L. H. Parks and W. J. Boswell.

Miss Kelley Weds James A. Leary.

A marriage of interest was that of Miss Billie Kelley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Kelley, to James A. Leary, which was solemnized November 21 at Haygood Memorial Methodist church. Rev. Frank B. Pim performed the ceremony in the presence of only the immediate family and a small group of friends.

The bride wore a blue velvet dress with matching accessories. A shoulder spray of yellow orchids and valley lilies completed her costume. The couple will make their home in Atlanta.

SECURITY ACT FORUM.

ROME, Ga., Dec. 5.—Representatives of the National Emergency Council and the Internal Revenue Department are planning to hold an open forum in Rome Friday night, December 11, at the city auditorium to acquaint all citizens with the provisions of the social security act.

All misunderstandings regarding the pay roll taxes as well as deductions

KIWANIAN OFFICERS CONVENE AT EATONTON

EATONTON, Ga., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Newly elected officers in the ninth Kiwanis district met here yesterday under the leadership of J. Hamilton Holt, of Macon, lieutenant governor of this division.

The guest of honor for the occasion was Franklin Keen, Washington, D. C., representative of Kiwanis International.

Holt and Reginald Trice, Macon, instructed the newly elected officers. At noon the visitors were entertained at a luncheon by the Eatonton club. In the afternoon the group met again.

W. W. Walker, George M. Scherer and C. S. Fincher Jr. are the newly elected officers of the Eatonton club.

W. F. Leverette, retiring president, and those eligible to benefit under the act will be cleared up. The forum has been arranged by the Chamber of Commerce and Eric Coker, state director of the National Emergency Council, will send a speaker here.

STOCKINGS ARE THE EVER-WELCOME CHRISTMAS GIFT

Give Hosiery "AS YOU LIKE IT" and "you'll bring 'sheer' joy to every feminine name on your list!

Beautiful Practical Economical

GIVE A BOX OF 3 PAIRS.
PRICES ARE 79¢ to $1.35 A PAIR.

hosiery "As You Like It"

HOSIERY DEPT.—STREET FLOOR

HIGH'S

HIGH'S.....

is all set to play Santa Claus to Atlanta—to solve all gift problems with a —

... this is Atlanta's MAJOR liberal type of credit—which

GIVES FIVE MONTHS TO PAY

Smooth out that wrinkled brow—take advantage of this sure-fire way of having the merriest, happiest Christmas of your whole life. The thousands who have enjoyed this privilege can't be too enthusiastic. Here is a type of credit that's welcomed—is used—by people in all walks of life—from the family with a comfortable income to those who must count their pennies. Read—what a "Letter of Credit" means:

LETTER OF CREDIT

- ... is planned to help you solve your personal gift problems.
- ... enables you to buy everything you want to make your Christmas merry.
- ... affords you the opportunity of buying in every department of the store.
- ... can be spent as CASH in every department.
- ... makes it possible for you to buy on deferred payments and pay NO MORE THAN OUR LOW CASH PRICES.

Profit by the experience of satisfied thousands—Make Arrangements Monday to buy your

"Letter of Credit"

(Inquire at Credit Office, Fourth Floor)

50 Christmas cards for $1.00
IMPRINTED WITH YOUR NAME

STATIONERY SHOP

HIGH'S

STREET FLOOR

A Promise of Greater Beauty...

Foundations by

Bien Jolie

If an ingenious face mask were invented that would idealize your features yet would look entirely natural, you'd rush to get one. Then hurry here, for Bien Jolie has such a mask for your figure—a foundation that actually enhances the beauty of your silhouette. We promise you. The model shown here is priced $5.00

Other Bien Jolie Foundations for every type figure $3.50 to $10.00

HIGH'S

CORSET DEPT.

SECOND FLOOR

Sale of Gift Stationery

All New Fall Stock One Day Only, Dec. 7

59¢

Regularly 75¢—$1.00—$1.25
Quality Paper! Letter, Business and Note Size.

AND

Regularly $1.50—$1.75—$2.00
De Luxe Paper! Beautifully Boxed for Gifts!

$1.29

BOOK AND STATIONERY SHOP

HIGH'S

MAIN FLOOR BOOTH

MAIN FLOOR REAR

LUTHER KING TO SING
HERE ON WEDNESDAY

Luther King, well-known young American negro tenor, will make his first Atlanta appearance when he will give a concert at Sisters chapel, Spelman College, Wednesday night.

King is a native Georgian. He studied music at Cleveland, New York and later at Fisk College. In his program here he will be accompanied by his wife.

PRE-HOLIDAY
Clearance*FUR-TRIMMED COATS

Your choice any Fur-Trimmed Coat in the Basement. None reserved. By all means come early for yours.

$14.90

Sizes
14 to 20
38 to 44

SPORT COATS AND SUITS

Your unrestricted choice of any Sport Coat or Swagger Suit in the Basement while they last! These coats and suits will go fast. We advise early choosing.

$8.90

Good Range
Sizes

240 SILK DRESSES• TWO FOR*$5.00

A real value thrill! Buy for immediate wear! Buy for Christmas Presents!

Sizes
14 to 20

ONLY 65 SILK DRESSES$1.00

You will have to be here promptly at 9 if you want one of these dresses! While they last—

Limit one to a customer.

MIRROR BARGAIN BASEMENT

76 Whitehall St.

LOSES 98 LBS.!!
Cheno Reduces Waistline 22 Inches

Hundreds of Testimonials
On File.

CHENO is the pathway to a slender waistline! Cheno supplies the lacking elements for reducing fatty tissues. Cheno does what your sluggish glands refuse to do. Cheno contains no drugs, nor are there any gland products in it. It does not upset the stomach or affect the heart.

100 FAT WOMEN REDUCED BY TEST
Some months ago special tests were made on a group of 100 fat women, under medical supervision, reduced through the use of Cheno. Results were extremely satisfactory. Every woman, without exception, reduced through the waistline and hips first. The tested and proved product used was Cheno.

FREE BOOKLET
Mrs. F. A. Glendale, Calif., states: "I have lost 42 pounds in weight, 11 inches in hips, 7 inches in waist, 11 inches in upper arm, and feel you know, I can now wear the dress I bought."

USE CHENO
—A quick and successful Method of Reducing.

ALBERTY Natural FOODS

PEDIATRIC COMMITTEE TO MEET ON THURSDAY

Distinguished Specialists on Diseases of Children To Address Group Here.

Doctors whose skill in that field of medicine dealing with the hygiene and diseases of children has won them national reputations, will be speakers before the meeting of the scientific committee of the Georgia Pediatric Society, which opens Thursday morning at the Biltmore hotel and concludes that evening at the Academy of Medicine.

This yearly gathering attracts specialists in the ailments of children from all points of the south and the fame of several of the speakers at this year's session has attracted reservations from Alabama, Florida, Tennessee, North Carolina and South Carolina, according to Dr. Joseph Kampolsky, chairman of the committee.

One of the outstanding speakers will be Dr. Julius H. Hess, of Chicago. Dr. Hess is professor and head of the department of pediatrics, University of Illinois college of medicine. He has written many books on the feeding of premature babies. He is one of the outstanding pediatricists of the west. His papers will deal with "Problems in the Care of the Premature Infant," and "The Present Status of Serum Therapy."

There will also appear on this same program Dr. John Augustus Toomey, of Cleveland. Dr. Toomey is associate professor of pediatrics at Western Reserve University school of medicine. He is a member of outstanding research societies in America, such as the Society for Experimental Biology in Medicine, American Society of Bacteriologists, American Association for Advancement of Science, and American Public Health Association. Dr. Toomey's outstanding research has been in poliomyelitis and contagious diseases of childhood. He will discuss, "Newer Aspects of the Whooping Cough Problem," and "Fundamental Unknowns in Infectious Diseases."

The Mayo Clinic will be represented by Dr. Henry F. Helmholz, head of the department of pediatrics, Mayo Clinic. He is the author of numerous papers and is especially known throughout the world for his study of urinary infections in children. At this meeting he will present papers on "The Use of Mandelic Acid in Urinary Infections in Children," and "Disturbances of the Thyroid Gland in Infancy and Childhood."

Georgian On Program.
The State of Georgia will be represented by Dr. W. A. Mulherin, who was for years professor of pediatrics at the University of Georgia School of Medicine, and is now president emeritus of the Georgia Pediatric Society. Dr. Mulherin will speak on "Observations on Southern Pediatrics."

Among other speakers will be Dr. Alfred A. Walker, of Birmingham, past chairman of section on pediatrics of American Medical Association; Dr. Leese Smith, of Spartanburg, S. C., past chairman of section on pediatrics of Southern Medical Association; Dr. Grady Clay, president of Fulton County Medical Society; Dr. Lewis D. Hoppe, president of Georgia County Pediatric Society; Dr. Charles E. Boynton; Dr. T. F. Davenport of Atlanta; Dr. William C. Cook of Columbus; and Dr. Benjamin J. Bashinski of Macon.

Officers of the Georgia Pediatric Society are: president, Dr. Mercer Blanchard; president-elect, Dr. Roger W. Dickson; vice president, Dr. Francis B. Schley; secretary and treasurer, Dr. Don F. Cathcart. Scientific committee: Dr. W. W. Anderson, Dr. W. L. Funkhouser, Dr. M. Hines Roberts, Dr. Joseph Kampolsky, chairman.

SINGERS TO MEET.
McDONOUGH, Ga., Dec. 5.—A joint session of the Henry and Clayton county singing conventions will be held at the Henry county courthouse tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Special music will be given by members of a quartet of Atlanta and a McDonough quartet. Song leaders from a number of communities and counties will attend.

Specialists To Speak on Child Diseases

DR. J. H. HESS.

Hundreds of Dolls Contributed To Women's Group for Christmas

Dolls by the hundreds are pouring into the women's division of the Chamber of Commerce as a result of a drive on the part of this organization to spread Christmas cheer and happiness through thousands of homes at Christmas-time.

One of the most energetic members of the doll committee, Mrs. Howard Pattillo, has been personally responsible for securing 130 dolls. She began as a member of the committee by bringing the project to the attention of the various groups and securing their co-operation. A tea was given by Mrs. Pattillo last Friday afternoon and was attended by a large number of interested givers. There were dolls of all sizes and elaborate, large and small. The place was filled with them.

Jane Withers Sends Two.
Two outstanding dolls were sent by Jane Withers from her own collection. One has been dressed in a costume like Jane wears in her latest picture, "Can This Be Dixie?" The other doll which attracted attention was the Scarlett O'Hara doll. Dressed by the woman's division, this doll is the heroine of "Gone With the Wind," even to her green eyes.

Mrs. David G. Gaut, of Memphis, southern and western woman golf champion, sent a doll.

Many organizations are contributing dolls to the Christmas Toy Shop, sponsored by the women's division of the Atlanta Council of Jewish Women. The Woodcrest Women's Club has sent a dozen dolls. The New Era Study Club has sent in a box of dolls. The Grant Park Woman's Club is sending a large number. The Pilot Club has given 48 dolls. Atlanta Women's Club had a doll dressing day and sent in the result. The woman's division is giving 100 per cent. The Girl Scouts at the Y. W. C. are dressing dolls. The Cherokee Study Club is also dressing dolls for the shop. The Auxiliary of Railroad Conductors has contributed a box of dolls. A big doll show will be held next Friday and Saturday at 53 Peachtree. The dolls competing for prizes must be dressed in Georgia cotton and will be judged on workmanship, color scheme and artistic effect. The public is invited to visit the doll show on these two dates.

Show at Studio Arts.
One of the most notable events will be held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Studio Arts building. The program will be given by the Junior Music Clubs of the fifth district, sponsored by Miss Elizabeth Tillman, chairman of the juniors for the district. The first part of the program will be doll music from the best composers played by little children dressed as dolls. This will be followed by a doll fashion show in which the dolls will be dressed to represent the current fashions. There will also be a dramatization of "A Funeral March of a Marionette." The children have dressed the dolls themselves and the admission fee is a doll.

JUDGMENT IS UPHOLD IN HIT-AND-RUN SUIT

Action Sustained as Punishment for Driver's Wrongdoing.

Hit-and-run drivers may be sued for damages as a punishment for their wrongdoing, in addition to suits that may be filed against them for actual damages for personal or property injury, it was announced in a decision yesterday by the Georgia court of appeals.

The court's decision came in the case of Mrs. W. B. Kilcrease, who obtained a verdict in the Sylvester city court awarding her damages of $750 from J. N. Battle Sr., owner of a car which she alleged struck her automobile and failed to stop at the scene of the accident.

Mrs. Kilcrease showed actual damages to her car of $100, but in upholding the lower court, the appellate court ruled that the hit-and-run driver, when considered in connection with all other circumstances, may authorize recovery of damages "either to deter wrongdoers from repeating their action, or as compensation for the wounded feelings of the person injured."

The court, in another case, gave State Police, policemen, on misdemeanor charges for allegedly chasing or harassing an automobile driver 12 miles out of their jurisdiction and shooting at him. Alton McCorkel, Bulloch county resident, was the driver involved. The officers were sentenced by Bulloch superior court to serve 12 months or pay fines of $125 each.

In the long superior court decision of the day, that tribunal ruled employment of a qualified optometrist by a corporation is not against the "public policy" of the state and Friedman's Jewelers, Inc., of Augusta, had a right to engage in that business. The Georgia Board of Examiners in Optometry had been denied an injunction in Richmond superior court to halt Friedman's from engaging an optometrist. The court upheld the action, ruling that such employment was not against public policy, although "a corporation as such cannot itself qualify or be licensed to practice optometry."

CATTLE TERMED KEY TO FARMERS' INCOME

Assistant County Agent Advocates Stock Raising as Revenue Aid.

Fatter pocketbooks await Fulton county and Georgia farmers if they will raise more beef cattle and livestock in future, C. B. Gladin, assistant county farm agent, declared yesterday.

"If all Georgia farmers would make the raising of cattle their money crop, they still would be unable to supply even the demand of Atlanta meat packing plants, which constantly must send to adjoining states to secure cattle," he declared.

Commenting on the statement of Dr. William Jay Hale, noted Michigan chemist who addressed an Emory centennial celebration audience Friday night, in which he said the utilization of decaying waste matter or southern farms was the basis of an industry that will solve the economic problems of the future, Gladin said:

Alcohol From Waste.
"While I have long thought alcohol would be the automobile fuel of the future, I do not see that this coming industry in itself offers much financial comfort to Fulton farmers. Alcohol, made from starchy farm waste products, as described by Dr. Hale, would be manufactured in such small quantities in Fulton that no Atlanta benefit could be visualized. The only waste matter found in the county today is perhaps a few sweet potatoes that cannot be sold because of their large size."

Gladin said Fulton farmers had a "fortune in their own backyards" if they would devote the bottom lands to raising instead of trying to raise crops on their only to see their labor nullified when sudden rains send the streamers over their banks, "sanding" the bottom lands.

"Of course," said Gladin, "when the demand for fuel alcohol becomes acute, Fulton farmers could so arrange their crop rotation that fertile soil for growing starches, such as potatoes, cane, and root crops in large quantities, will be available, but it will be years before this prospect will bring financial returns."

Stock Key to Income.
The immediate stocking of Fulton farms with cattle which can be sold to Atlanta packing plants for good prices was urged by the agent as a means of providing extra money for the farmer.

"You know, the thing we have been trying to do for a long time is to get the farmer to grow enough of everything to make him self-sustaining," he said. "When he refuses to do this, there is no surplus of decaying waste starch matter lying around the Fulton farms to be converted into fuel alcohol. For Fulton farmers, I would say their best money crop is the raising of beef cattle to meet the ready market."

DROUTH RELIEF END IN STATE ORDERED

Miss Shepperson Says Emergency No Longer Exists on Georgia Farms.

Termination of WPA drouth relief in Georgia was announced yesterday by Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state administrator.

There were 2,218 "drouth workers" on WPA projects on November 23, she stated.

"The WPA is reviewing the cases of farmers who were given emergency jobs on WPA projects and closing cases where it is found the need no longer exists because of improved conditions on farms and in private work conditions and opportunities in the communities," Miss Shepperson said.

Those found to be still in need of assistance will be referred to the farm supervisors of the Resettlement Administration, she explained.

Gifts...
the largest selection for every occasion.

- Xmas Cards
- Picture Frames
- Art-a-Brac
- Metal Novelties
- Picture
- Boudoir Lamps
- Art Pottery
- Book-Ends

ART & FRAME SHOP
99 Pryor St. Near Loew's Grand

This Year.. Make Them GIFTS for the HOME

And select your gifts for the home here at Freeman & Jacobs. Stocks are complete in the newest creations, embracing a wide range of prices—in whole suites as well as odd pieces—you'll find it a real pleasure to shop through this big new assortment of things for the home!

Knee-Hole Desks
This is something the whole family can enjoy—A good selection

Card Tables
A useful gift and always appreciated—No one has too many

For Inspiration —for the sort of letters you'll want to write—you couldn't select anything better.

For the Family
Give this to the Home—all the family uses it—Replace that "old set" this Christmas.

Reflector Lamps
A gift that any woman would be proud of—A fine assortment for you to choose from.

The Palmer Quilted Mattress
GUARANTEED BY Good Housekeeping AS ADVERTISED THEREIN

For Him—
A Smoker with all conveniences—you can't miss on a gift like this for a man.

Mirrors
This is another Gift that should go to the home—more than to any particular member. Give yours one this Christmas.

Cocktail Tables
So convenient for serving—A gift that's bound to be appreciated.

An Ideal Gift—
Red Cross, Palmer Quilted MATTRESS

Useful, Decorative
A beautiful Secretary—Not only does its duty in looks—but is useful as well. A fine Gift for the home.

Give This to Mother
She always enjoys a new table—always finds a use for it—Give her one this Christmas.

Occasional Chairs
Friend wife would be glad to receive such a Gift as this at Christmas time—Give her one.

Other Gifts
For the Home

To Flatter Him
Give the "Old Man" a break—Give him this chair—he's very own—and then give him a chance to sit in it.

For Wife, Sister or Sweetheart —either would like to own one of these—Give her one this Christmas.

The Entire Family Can Enjoy This—
Keep your magazines in this Rack and you never have to hunt for them—A useful Gift!

Convenient Terms
Arranged on Any Purchase. Deliveries Now or Later

Sleepy Hollow Rockers

Give
This to Mother

Atlanta Jacksonville Miami
HEALTH FOOD SHOP
114 PEACHTREE ARCADE

Phone Walnut 7797

Freeman & Jacobs
FURNITURE CO.
82-84 ALABAMA STREET, S. W.
PHONE MA. 3830

BOOKS and Their AUTHORS

Story of 'Black Gold.'

RUBBER. A Story of Glory and Greed. By Howard and Ralph Wolf. Covici-Friede, New York. 533 pp. $4.25.

There have been many books written on the subject of rubber, but this growing bibliography attests, but this publication sets a high standard that more mediocre treatises will be discouraged for a long time.

The history of this product, rubber, goes way back into the sixteenth century when European explorers first saw it used as playthings by the natives. Because of the unusual physical properties of the plant in its wild state, it might be called "Nature's own toy." It rolls down the side of the Hevea Brasiliensis and collects at the base in the form of a ball. The natives only had to gather it—clear the field—and the game was ready.

This innocent pastime—like many of the other native sports—was seen to possess possibilities to the alert European eye. Prospectors began to investigate the practicability of such an investment and in a short time were convinced that rubber meant money. Inroads were made into South America surely and steadily, and the increasing output testifies to the success of this new venture.

"Rubber," however, has a subtitle—"The Story of Glory and Greed"—and it is this particular phase of the book that distinguishes it from all others on the subject, and makes it, despite its great length, one of sustained interest.

Our polished and highly civilized investors, upon their entrance into the South American countries, perpetrated every crime the devil could invent in their mad rush for the product. No considerations halted the craving, head first rush of the exploiters to monopolize the market and extract huge profits, torn from the bleeding flesh of the innocent natives.

Both authors, Howard and Ralph Wolf were born in Akron, Ohio, the "rubber city." Both are unusually adapted because of their individual abilities (the one being a chemist, the other a journalist) to write a book of this kind. They have done a wonderful job of it and because of the easy flowing idiomatic style of writing, one is not even conscious of the barrier of the printed page, and this vital absorbing story of human activity unfolds itself to the reader.

Glamorous Personality

THE MAGNIFICENT. By Horace Wyndham. Hillman Curl, Inc., New York. 288 pp. $3.

One of the greatest actresses of a few generations ago was Lola Montez, a pauper courtesan and the indirect ruler of a kingdom. The glamorous career of this woman began as an unnoticed ballet dancer, continued as the sweetheart of royalty, and ended as an ascetic.

Many have been the fables, and much the fancy that has been woven around the daily life of this wonderful woman. It has been often imagined, but never before has the truth been told of her conquests for recognition and power. In one of such beauty, intelligence, fascination and charm, many loves were a matter of course accompanied with as many liaisons on two hemispheres.

Men died for her sake, others lived only for the gleam of her smile or a small token of her esteem, while she alternately rose and fell from the pinnacles of success to the abyss of failure, from poverty to riches.

She sang in the opera and danced in the gutters, feeling equally at home in a palace or a shack. Princes and poets, politicians and diplomats were her friends and acquaintances. It has been over 70 years since the death of Lola Montez, her body already returned to the dust from whence it sprang, yet her memory lingers on in history as one of the most colorful characters who lived life to its utmost, never regretting mistake but always facing tomorrow with the same degree of serenity in which her days were spent.

"The Magnificent Montez" is a wonderful account of the life and times of this actress, clearly written and adequately portrayed by its writer. OLIN SNEED.

LUGGAGE FROM TURNER'S is identified immediately as it has individuality others lack. W. Z. Turner Luggage Co. 219 PEACHTREE ST.

For Children.

A NURSERY GARLAND, woven by Kitty Cheatham, and pictured in gay colors by Graham Robertson. G. Schirmer, Inc. $3.

"Nursery Garland," which is the latest children's book by this gifted writer, has received acclaim from artists of fame and individuals of most discriminating taste in literature and music. What a few of them have to say about this delightful book will carry more weight than the opinion of this commentator.

"I adore all these little songs . . . and am looking through them for some I can use in my cradle," Lily Pons.

"The idea of bringing the classical music nearer to the children in adapting words to those beautiful melodies is really excellent. You accomplished something very useful and beautiful in arranging this collection."—Walter Gieseking.

"You have an undeniable talent for expressing sentiments which appeal not only to children but to grownups as well."—Frederick Z. Stock, conductor Chicago Symphony orchestra.

"One of the enchantments of my upper years has been to see and hear my little granddaughter of 8½ playing something from your 'Garland'—your beautiful 'Garland'."—John C. Finley, musical editor New York Times.

The Untamed West.

"BLACK RANGE TALES," by James A. McKenna. Wilson-Erickson Company, New York; 300 pp. $3.50.

"Black Range Tales" are a chronicle of over 60 years written by one who knew the old west and participated in many of the stirring adventures that occurred in the section during its heyday.

James A. McKenna arrived in the great southwest while yet in his teens. This strange new country at once injected in him the desire for adventure. He knew intimately all of the famous characters that made the west's history, the cowboys, the desperadoes, the keepers, dance hall girls and gamblers who followed the camps and the great trail drives before the coming of the railroad. Danger lurked on every hand in this wild, untamed region; the sudden death of a companion at the hands of a gunman was all in the day's work.

He followed many callings in the course of his lifetime in the west, however the role of prospector best suited his tastes and he wandered in quest of elusive gold from the arid circle down into the arid deserts of old Mexico, lucky and luckless by turns.

"Black Range Tales" is a book that thoroughly covers the period of the west in the colorful days of its transformation from a wild and barren land to the great industrial and agricultural region that we of a later generation are acquainted with.

OLIN SNEED.

A Great Book.

"TAIN'T RIGHT," by Westbrook Pegler. Doubleday-Doran, New York. 298 pp. $2.50.

Westbrook Pegler, the newspaper columnist, needs no introduction to American readers. His column appears daily in The Atlanta Constitution and other news mediums throughout the nation.

In the course of many years writing the author has uncovered many traits that are peculiar to the human race in general, some amusing, some sad, and others just plain provoking. Pegler's wit has transformed these many differences into readable copy that is relished by thousands of his readers.

"Tain't Right" is a series of interesting sketches that have appeared from time to time in his column, relating Europe's frantic antics and our own quaint concepts in life, business and politics, written to satisfy a rising crescendo of popular demand.

The book will in turn inspire, inflame, delight and annoy the reader, leaving him enriched by an experience in, and with a vital view of, modern American journalism. Pegler's book should be read if for no other reason than to be acquainted with the American panorama, from Tex Rickard to Joe Louis, Minsky to the Metropolitan, Lindy to Longchamp. A great book by a great newspaperman. OLIN SNEED.

War's Horrors.

MAN'S FATE. By Andre Malraux. The Modern Library; Random House, New York. 360 pp. 95 cents.

This printing of "Man's Fate" is a pocket-size edition of the popular Malraux novel published originally in France as "La Condition Humaine."

Noted Commentator

WESTBROOK PEGLER, Author of "Tain't Right."

and first translated into English in 1934. It is written by the author of the recent best-seller, "Days of Wrath," which deals with life and politics in Nazi Germany.

The story of "Man's Fate" is built around the events in Shanghai concurrent with the Chinese insurrection of 1927-28. Few novelists since then have made full use of his descriptive powers in "Man's Fate." His pictures of war, destruction, treachery and savage betrayal are almost instantaneous.

Identified as a revolutionist since the outset of his career as a writer, Malraux met with almost instantaneous success and favor both in Europe and in America upon the publication of "The Royal Way" and "Man's Fate." Born in Paris in 1891, he went to Indo-China in 1921 and later to Cambodia and Siam with an archeological expedition. During the insurrection of which he writes he held the position of commissioner of propaganda with the revolutionary government of southern China. Since his return to France he has been allied with the forces of the Extreme Left movement.

KENNETH C. CRABBE.

WESTBROOK PEGLER, Author of "Tain't Right."

and first translated into English in 1934. It is written by the author of the recent best-seller, "Days of Wrath," which deals with life and politics in Nazi Germany.

The story of "Man's Fate" is built around the events in Shanghai concurrent with the Chinese insurrection of 1927-28. Few novelists since then have made full use of his descriptive powers in "Man's Fate." His pictures of war, destruction, treachery and savage betrayal are almost instantaneous.

Identified as a revolutionist since the outset of his career as a writer, Malraux met with almost instantaneous success and favor both in Europe and in America upon the publication of "The Royal Way" and "Man's Fate." Born in Paris in 1891, he went to Indo-China in 1921 and later to Cambodia and Siam with an archeological expedition. During the insurrection of which he writes he held the position of commissioner of propaganda with the revolutionary government of southern China. Since his return to France he has been allied with the forces of the Extreme Left movement.

KENNETH C. CRABBE.

and first translated into English in 1934. It is written by the author of the recent best-seller, "Days of Wrath," which deals with life and politics in Nazi Germany.

The story of "Man's Fate" is built around the events in Shanghai concurrent with the Chinese insurrection of 1927-28. Few novelists since then have made full use of his descriptive powers in "Man's Fate." His pictures of war, destruction, treachery and savage betrayal are almost instantaneous.

Identified as a revolutionist since the outset of his career as a writer, Malraux met with almost instantaneous success and favor both in Europe and in America upon the publication of "The Royal Way" and "Man's Fate." Born in Paris in 1891, he went to Indo-China in 1921 and later to Cambodia and Siam with an archeological expedition. During the insurrection of which he writes he held the position of commissioner of propaganda with the revolutionary government of southern China. Since his return to France he has been allied with the forces of the Extreme Left movement.

KENNETH C. CRABBE.

and first translated into English in 1934. It is written by the author of the recent best-seller, "Days of Wrath," which deals with life and politics in Nazi Germany.

The story of "Man's Fate" is built around the events in Shanghai concurrent with the Chinese insurrection of 1927-28. Few novelists since then have made full use of his descriptive powers in "Man's Fate." His pictures of war, destruction, treachery and savage betrayal are almost instantaneous.

Identified as a revolutionist since the outset of his career as a writer, Malraux met with almost instantaneous success and favor both in Europe and in America upon the publication of "The Royal Way" and "Man's Fate." Born in Paris in 1891, he went to Indo-China in 1921 and later to Cambodia and Siam with an archeological expedition. During the insurrection of which he writes he held the position of commissioner of propaganda with the revolutionary government of southern China. Since his return to France he has been allied with the forces of the Extreme Left movement.

KENNETH C. CRABBE.

and first translated into English in 1934. It is written by the author of the recent best-seller, "Days of Wrath," which deals with life and politics in Nazi Germany.

The story of "Man's Fate" is built around the events in Shanghai concurrent with the Chinese insurrection of 1927-28. Few novelists since then have made full use of his descriptive powers in "Man's Fate." His pictures of war, destruction, treachery and savage betrayal are almost instantaneous.

Identified as a revolutionist since the outset of his career as a writer, Malraux met with almost instantaneous success and favor both in Europe and in America upon the publication of "The Royal Way" and "Man's Fate." Born in Paris in 1891, he went to Indo-China in 1921 and later to Cambodia and Siam with an archeological expedition. During the insurrection of which he writes he held the position of commissioner of propaganda with the revolutionary government of southern China. Since his return to France he has been allied with the forces of the Extreme Left movement.

KENNETH C. CRABBE.

and first translated into English in 1934. It is written by the author of the recent best-seller, "Days of Wrath," which deals with life and politics in Nazi Germany.

The story of "Man's Fate" is built around the events in Shanghai concurrent with the Chinese insurrection of 1927-28. Few novelists since then have made full use of his descriptive powers in "Man's Fate." His pictures of war, destruction, treachery and savage betrayal are almost instantaneous.

Identified as a revolutionist since the outset of his career as a writer, Malraux met with almost instantaneous success and favor both in Europe and in America upon the publication of "The Royal Way" and "Man's Fate." Born in Paris in 1891, he went to Indo-China in 1921 and later to Cambodia and Siam with an archeological expedition. During the insurrection of which he writes he held the position of commissioner of propaganda with the revolutionary government of southern China. Since his return to France he has been allied with the forces of the Extreme Left movement.

KENNETH C. CRABBE.

and first translated into English in 1934. It is written by the author of the recent best-seller, "Days of Wrath," which deals with life and politics in Nazi Germany.

The story of "Man's Fate" is built around the events in Shanghai concurrent with the Chinese insurrection of 1927-28. Few novelists since then have made full use of his descriptive powers in "Man's Fate." His pictures of war, destruction, treachery and savage betrayal are almost instantaneous.

Identified as a revolutionist since the outset of his career as a writer, Malraux met with almost instantaneous success and favor both in Europe and in America upon the publication of "The Royal Way" and "Man's Fate." Born in Paris in 1891, he went to Indo-China in 1921 and later to Cambodia and Siam with an archeological expedition. During the insurrection of which he writes he held the position of commissioner of propaganda with the revolutionary government of southern China. Since his return to France he has been allied with the forces of the Extreme Left movement.

KENNETH C. CRABBE.

and first translated into English in 1934. It is written by the author of the recent best-seller, "Days of Wrath," which deals with life and politics in Nazi Germany.

The story of "Man's Fate" is built around the events in Shanghai concurrent with the Chinese insurrection of 1927-28. Few novelists since then have made full use of his descriptive powers in "Man's Fate." His pictures of war, destruction, treachery and savage betrayal are almost instantaneous.

Identified as a revolutionist since the outset of his career as a writer, Malraux met with almost instantaneous success and favor both in Europe and in America upon the publication of "The Royal Way" and "Man's Fate." Born in Paris in 1891, he went to Indo-China in 1921 and later to Cambodia and Siam with an archeological expedition. During the insurrection of which he writes he held the position of commissioner of propaganda with the revolutionary government of southern China. Since his return to France he has been allied with the forces of the Extreme Left movement.

KENNETH C. CRABBE.

and first translated into English in 1934. It is written by the author of the recent best-seller, "Days of Wrath," which deals with life and politics in Nazi Germany.

The story of "Man's Fate" is built around the events in Shanghai concurrent with the Chinese insurrection of 1927-28. Few novelists since then have made full use of his descriptive powers in "Man's Fate." His pictures of war, destruction, treachery and savage betrayal are almost instantaneous.

Identified as a revolutionist since the outset of his career as a writer, Malraux met with almost instantaneous success and favor both in Europe and in America upon the publication of "The Royal Way" and "Man's Fate." Born in Paris in 1891, he went to Indo-China in 1921 and later to Cambodia and Siam with an archeological expedition. During the insurrection of which he writes he held the position of commissioner of propaganda with the revolutionary government of southern China. Since his return to France he has been allied with the forces of the Extreme Left movement.

KENNETH C. CRABBE.

and first translated into English in 1934. It is written by the author of the recent best-seller, "Days of Wrath," which deals with life and politics in Nazi Germany.

The story of "Man's Fate" is built around the events in Shanghai concurrent with the Chinese insurrection of 1927-28. Few novelists since then have made full use of his descriptive powers in "Man's Fate." His pictures of war, destruction, treachery and savage betrayal are almost instantaneous.

Identified as a revolutionist since the outset of his career as a writer, Malraux met with almost instantaneous success and favor both in Europe and in America upon the publication of "The Royal Way" and "Man's Fate." Born in Paris in 1891, he went to Indo-China in 1921 and later to Cambodia and Siam with an archeological expedition. During the insurrection of which he writes he held the position of commissioner of propaganda with the revolutionary government of southern China. Since his return to France he has been allied with the forces of the Extreme Left movement.

KENNETH C. CRABBE.

and first translated into English in 1934. It is written by the author of the recent best-seller, "Days of Wrath," which deals with life and politics in Nazi Germany.

The story of "Man's Fate" is built around the events in Shanghai concurrent with the Chinese insurrection of 1927-28. Few novelists since then have made full use of his descriptive powers in "Man's Fate." His pictures of war, destruction, treachery and savage betrayal are almost instantaneous.

Identified as a revolutionist since the outset of his career as a writer, Malraux met with almost instantaneous success and favor both in Europe and in America upon the publication of "The Royal Way" and "Man's Fate." Born in Paris in 1891, he went to Indo-China in 1921 and later to Cambodia and Siam with an archeological expedition. During the insurrection of which he writes he held the position of commissioner of propaganda with the revolutionary government of southern China. Since his return to France he has been allied with the forces of the Extreme Left movement.

KENNETH C. CRABBE.

and first translated into English in 1934. It is written by the author of the recent best-seller, "Days of Wrath," which deals with life and politics in Nazi Germany.

The story of "Man's Fate" is built around the events in Shanghai concurrent with the Chinese insurrection of 1927-28. Few novelists since then have made full use of his descriptive powers in "Man's Fate." His pictures of war, destruction, treachery and savage betrayal are almost instantaneous.

Identified as a revolutionist since the outset of his career as a writer, Malraux met with almost instantaneous success and favor both in Europe and in America upon the publication of "The Royal Way" and "Man's Fate." Born in Paris in 1891, he went to Indo-China in 1921 and later to Cambodia and Siam with an archeological expedition. During the insurrection of which he writes he held the position of commissioner of propaganda with the revolutionary government of southern China. Since his return to France he has been allied with the forces of the Extreme Left movement.

KENNETH C. CRABBE.

and first translated into English in 1934. It is written by the author of the recent best-seller, "Days of Wrath," which deals with life and politics in Nazi Germany.

The story of "Man's Fate" is built around the events in Shanghai concurrent with the Chinese insurrection of 1927-28. Few novelists since then have made full use of his descriptive powers in "Man's Fate." His pictures of war, destruction, treachery and savage betrayal are almost instantaneous.

Identified as a revolutionist since the outset of his career as a writer, Malraux met with almost instantaneous success and favor both in Europe and in America upon the publication of "The Royal Way" and "Man's Fate." Born in Paris in 1891, he went to Indo-China in 1921 and later to Cambodia and Siam with an archeological expedition. During the insurrection of which he writes he held the position of commissioner of propaganda with the revolutionary government of southern China. Since his return to France he has been allied with the forces of the Extreme Left movement.

KENNETH C. CRABBE.

and first translated into English in 1934. It is written by the author of the recent best-seller, "Days of Wrath," which deals with life and politics in Nazi Germany.

The story of "Man's Fate" is built around the events in Shanghai concurrent with the Chinese insurrection of 1927-28. Few novelists since then have made full use of his descriptive powers in "Man's Fate." His pictures of war, destruction, treachery and savage betrayal are almost instantaneous.

Identified as a revolutionist since the outset of his career as a writer, Malraux met with almost instantaneous success and favor both in Europe and in America upon the publication of "The Royal Way" and "Man's Fate." Born in Paris in 1891, he went to Indo-China in 1921 and later to Cambodia and Siam with an archeological expedition. During the insurrection of which he writes he held the position of commissioner of propaganda with the revolutionary government of southern China. Since his return to France he has been allied with the forces of the Extreme Left movement.

KENNETH C. CRABBE.

The World Conflict.

WHY WE WENT TO WAR. By Newton Baker. Harper & Bros., New York. 192 pp. $1.50.

The author of this book, who was secretary of war from 1916 to 1921, as a member of the cabinet in the administration of President Woodrow Wilson, published an astounding book, with remarkable sincerity, honesty and reliable facts. According to this, there is no wonder about the happenings of the World War. In this book can be found the philosophies of the present European nations and particularly Germany. There is no doubt that the German previous war attitudes and policies are still in existence. By reading this book carefully, one can predict future European history.

This volume proves conclusively that the war was not caused by individual and selfish gain, by bankers, by capitalists, nor by labor, nor by any political or other groups. In reading the book, one becomes impatient with President Wilson's patience. One of the strongest reasons for the United States entering into the World War was the resumption of submarine warfare and attacking any and all ships which they pleased.

President Wilson said: "We are glad to fight for the ultimate peace of the world and the liberation of its peoples who are crushed by the tyrants." The author also stresses how ridiculously America was prepared for war, and he shows how ruthlessly Germany established propaganda in America and in Mexico to create trouble for the United States.

The propaganda principles which were employed during the World War have never been crushed. The book ends up with the proof that the United States had no tainted selfish considerations whatsoever for entering into the war, and that the Americans fought for idealism only. SAMUEL KAHN, M. D.

Some of the most typical pictures and stories of the Mexican people, but it depicts with considerable detail, the customs, resources, geography, climate, manners, the agricultural, sociological, and psychological aspects of our neighbors. Mr. Wallace thinks that Mexico is a country which every traveler will enjoy visiting more than once. He describes in an interesting manner the life of the people of Mexico, and that many of the inhabitants are not only Americans but come from various countries of the world. He shows many close relationships between Mexico and the state of Texas. SAMUEL KAHN, M. D.

Unusual Institution. THE ROMANCE OF LLOYD'S. By Frank Worsley and Glyn Griffith. Hillman Curl, Inc., New York. 292 pp. $3.

The great insurance firm of Lloyd's, of London, began its career as a small coffee house in Tower street about 1687. From this humble beginning the name of Lloyd's has become a household word bringing to the mind the sea and ships protected from loss by the centuries-old firm of maritime insurers. Today this company carries on other forms of insurance from betting you will not give birth to triplets, to that Mussolini will be assassinated.

Much of the history of England is reflected in that of this great enterprise. In the days of the clipper ships Lloyd's took a chance on whether or not a founder in a gale off the Cape of Good Hope, or sail safely into port of destination. Carriages of spices from the orient, slaves from the Dark Continent, and cotton and tobacco from the Americas were insured against fire, storms and freebooters. Only a few years ago Lloyd's took a chance and insured a cargo of gold that was being transferred from one country to another through submarine-infested waters and won!

The novel presents seriousness without the added touch of humor. WINBURN T. ROGERS.

Writer and Thinker. PLOENIX: the posthumous papers of D. H. Lawrence. The Viking press, New York. $22 pp. $3.75.

To Edward McDonald, American bibliographer for D. H. Lawrence, has fallen the not unenviable task of arranging and selecting such works of the famous English author as have not heretofore been collected. He has done it well and in this large volume there is a catholicity of interest that illustrates Lawrence's qualities as a writer and thinker.

From time to time during his life Lawrence published collections of essays, sketches, and critical studies, but despite this fact much of his material remained unpublished in book form. Now many of his best things are included in this volume. His study of Hardy is a particularly fine piece of critical work. His outspoken comment on his contemporaries, his personal articles of faith, his views on education, love, sex, philosophy, literature, countries and art are all here.

Without doubt this volume will be an important addition to the Lawrence bibliography. RICHARD LANMAN.

"Knows Her China." YANG AND YIN. By Alice Tisdale Hobart. Bobbs-Merrill Co., Indianapolis. 366 pp. $2.50.

"Yang and Yin" is another dramatic story of China's struggle with western civilization by the same author who wrote the huge success of "Oil for the Lamps of China," which was shown as a motion picture in Atlanta last fall.

This is not only the story of the struggle of two great civilizations, but the story of the finding of a man and his wife, and their happiness with complete understanding. Peter Frazer is a young scientist, a doctor who wishes to serve humanity in the greatest way possible. He leaves America for China to practice his profession accompanied by his wife, neither aware of the changes that were to take place between them for the sake of elevating China's masses.

First in his laboratory of a mission hospital, later in America, the doctor experiments with the germs responsible for the deaths of thousands of coolies each year in the great delta region of China.

"Yang and Yin" is one of the finest stories of human nature and sacrifice ever written by an author who knows her China and the inner thoughts and workings of human mind. OLIN SNEED.

Plummer Children. JUDY AND CHRIS. By Christine Noble. Houghton-Mifflin Co., Boston. 210 pp. Illustrated by Alice Caddy. $2.00.

This book contains the further adventures of the five Plummer children, who with their colored friends get into many troubles in this new story of Judy and Chris. The twin colored boys, Sears and Roebuck, with the Plummer children, have many unusual experiences of amusing and humorous nature that will appeal to young readers. "Judy and Chris" is especially written for boys and girls of the ages 9 to 14, but is enjoyable reading for any age.

The way these white children and their colored playmates live in friendship and share their playtime experiences together makes a good picture of any small southern town in which white and colored children live and play together. JESSE R. PETTY.

Swift, Modern Novel. LOST MORNING, by Dabuse Heyward. Farrar & Rinehart, Inc., New York. 271 pp. $2.50.

Written in an easy readable, concise style and at a swift pace throughout, "Lost Morning" has a modern background and a southern setting. It is the story of a man who wakes up suddenly to find that the morning of his life has been wasted. The bright creative dreams of his young manhood have been converted into a solid commercial success by a wife who has made him rich and let him spiritually and physically hungry.

He finds his allegiance to her waning under the impact of his growing love for a girl who embodies all the idealism he has jettisoned for the sake of material prosperity. The de-rebment of this conflict provides a theme fundamental to every one profoundly moving and real.

The novel presents seriousness without the added touch of humor. WINBURN T. ROGERS.

Writer and Thinker. PLOENIX: the posthumous papers of D. H. Lawrence. The Viking press, New York. $22 pp. $3.75.

To Edward McDonald, American bibliographer for D. H. Lawrence, has fallen the not unenviable task of arranging and selecting such works of the famous English author as have not heretofore been collected. He has done it well and in this large volume there is a catholicity of interest that illustrates Lawrence's qualities as a writer and thinker.

From time to time during his life Lawrence published collections of essays, sketches, and critical studies, but despite this fact much of his material remained unpublished in book form. Now many of his best things are included in this volume. His study of Hardy is a particularly fine piece of critical work. His outspoken comment on his contemporaries, his personal articles of faith, his views on education, love, sex, philosophy, literature, countries and art are all here.

Without doubt this volume will be an important addition to the Lawrence bibliography. RICHARD LANMAN.

"Knows Her China." YANG AND YIN. By Alice Tisdale Hobart. Bobbs-Merrill Co., Indianapolis. 366 pp. $2.50.

"Yang and Yin" is another dramatic story of China's struggle with western civilization by the same author who wrote the huge success of "Oil for the Lamps of China," which was shown as a motion picture in Atlanta last fall.

This is not only the story of the struggle of two great civilizations, but the story of the finding of a man and his wife, and their happiness with complete understanding. Peter Frazer is a young scientist, a doctor who wishes to serve humanity in the greatest way possible. He leaves America for China to practice his profession accompanied by his wife, neither aware of the changes that were to take place between them for the sake of elevating China's masses.

First in his laboratory of a mission hospital, later in America, the doctor experiments with the germs responsible for the deaths of thousands of coolies each year in the great delta region of China.

Authority on China

ALICE TISDALE HOBART, Author of "Yang and Yin."

ALICE TISDALE HOBART, Author of "Yang and Yin."

shown as a motion picture in Atlanta last fall.

News of Stage and Screen

LAST OF MOHICANS THE FINAL HOUR AT HILAN THEATER

Randolph Scott and Binnie Barnes in Adventure Story Film.

Today and tomorrow at the Hilan theater, Randolph Scott, Binnie Barnes and Henry Wilcoxon, head one of the greatest casts of stars ever assembled in "The Last of the Mohicans," the film version of the immortal James Fenimore Cooper classic. Also featured in important roles are Bruce Cabot, Heather Angel, Phillip Reed, Robert Barrat and Hugh Buckner. Tuesday brings "Palm Springs," romantic comedy set in the playset of West Coast millionaires and movie stars, with an outstanding cast including Frances Langford, Sir Guy Standing and Smith Bailey. Wednesday, Mary Boland and Charles Ruggles marry after an engagement of 20 years, then set out for a honeymoon at a sanitarium in their latest farce, "Early to Bed." Thursday and Friday "Girls' Dormitory" is offered with Simone Simon, Herbert Marshall and Ruth Chatterton, with an exceptional cast that features Constance Collier, J. Edwards and Dixie Dunbar. Saturday offers "Border Flight," the story is built around the battle of the West Coast unit of the United States coast guard as it goes to put down the activities of fur smugglers. The cast includes Frances Farmer, John Howard, Robert Cummings and Roscoe Karns.

YOURS FOR ASKING AT PONCE DE LEON

George Raft Starred in Feature Billed To Show for Two Days.

Today and tomorrow the Ponce de Leon theater presents "Yours for the Asking," starring George Raft and Dolores Costello. George Raft, proprietor of a gambling house, decides to open a swanky establishment in the mansion formerly owned by Miss Barrymore's father, a banker. Miss Barrymore aids him in getting the place in operation and giving it the society "air." On Tuesday "Fatal Lady" stars Mary Ellis and Norman Foster in the story of death that strikes each of the men who fall in love with a beautiful opera star. Wednesday brings "Poppy," starring W. C. Fields and Rochelle Hudson. Story of a comedian patent medicine vendor, who moves from carnival to carnival in the days of the 1880's. With him travels Rochelle Hudson, a girl who spends all her life in the glitter of the show business. On Thursday and Friday, "Devil's Squadron" stars Richard Dix and Karen Morley. Richard falls in love with Karen, who is the friend of a Navy hero. He tries to keep as far away as possible. Saturday, "Silly Billies" stars Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey and Dorothy Lee. The two comedy clowns use the picturesque covered wagon as the setting for their riotous nonsense.

CAPITOL FILM IS THE LAST OUTLAW

Continued From First Theater Page.

bringing together some great western stars and placing them in a picture that offered a combination of action, thrills, romance, and the old west days of the new era of machine-gun bandits. It is announced by the Capitol that house of a special stage show book for Christmas week, the usual yearly Christmas program put on by the Reese School of Personality will be offered starting next week. This year's presentation is titled "Jule-tille Capers" and will feature 40 juvenile stars. The program, which will run approximately 10 minutes, will be offered in addition to the Capitol's regular stage and screen program. These Christmas programs featuring the students of the Reese school are looked forward to with great pleasure by all Capitol patrons, especially the children of Atlanta who visit the Capitol most every week. This year's offering is said to be the best to date.

ELEANOR POWELL IS HIT AT GRAND

Continued From First Theater Page.

Virginia Bruce as a temperamental prima donna, that deliciously funny comedy team, Tina Turner and Sid Silvers; the silver-voiced Frances Langford; Raymond Walburn, Alan Dinehart and the long-legged Buddy Ebsen, whose eccentric bandaging is one of the production's highlights. Cole Porter has contributed a lulling score with such songs as "Easy to Love," "I Got You Under My Skin," "Swinging the Jinx Away" and "Hey, Babe, Hey." A travelogue, "Quaint Quebec," Robert Benchley in oddity, "Holla To Be a Detective," and a double-length news complete the program.

PIGSKIN PARADE PLAYS AT DEKALB TWO DAYS

Half-backs, lurch-backs, tune-backs, co-ed cuties, Boala-Boala boys and gradious heroes crown the campus swing on the football field, dance on the sidelines and in the stands in "Pigskin Parade," booked for the DeKalb theater, tomorrow and Tuesday. Featuring a cast hand-picked for entertainment, including Stuart Erwin, Johnny Downs, Artie Judge, Betty Grable, Betty Kelly, Jack Haley, the yacht club boys and Dixie Dunbar, the film is a flip, fast moving football frolic, punctuated with torch songs and highlighted with campus romance. "Love Begins at Twenty" one of the liveliest romances of the year, will be shown Wednesday. The rollicking antics of Hugh Herbert, Robert Cavanaugh and other comedians in the cast are extremely funny, while Warren Hall and Patricia Ellis furnish the romantic episodes. A fine cast of stage and screen stars, a neatly designed screen play, and expert direction make "My American Wife" top-grade entertainment, starring Francis Lederer and Ann Southern in the leading roles. This feature will be shown Thursday and Friday. On Saturday, ten songs, delivered in the inimitable manner that made him so well liked over the radio and on records, will be sung by Gene Autry, in his newest musical western, "The Sagebrush Trail."

BOWMAN OFFICERS NAMED.

HOWMAN, Ga., Dec. 5.—The annual city election held here resulted in the naming of T. A. Hall, mayor, and J. A. Rice, J. E. Booth and William Berryman as new councilmen. A. E. Denny and Raymond Hendrick are holdover councilmen. The election was quiet.

Tricycles, Scooters, Dolls
79 Alabama St.
DUCKETT'S ARMY STORE

Stories Sports, Games

THE BOYS' and GIRLS' PAGE Easily Made Silhouettes Will Be Welcome Christmas Gifts

Black Show-Card Color Is Used To Copy Simple Design on Glass

Background of Tinfoil And Tape Binding Complete Job.

By MARJORY TYLER.

Have you ever thought, with Christmas coming on, and maybe not having as much money as you'd like, that you can make some of your presents yourself? Many of your friends and relatives would prefer a gift that you had taken the time, trouble and thought to make, rather than just something you had bought and wrapped.

Every home uses pictures, which means you can give a picture to almost anyone on your list. The kind of pictures I am going to tell you how to make are simple and easy to make, and are so easy to make that you can turn out a good looking job with very little time and not much expense.

First, let's get all the material together to make some silhouettes. You will need a piece of glass the size you want the finished product to be; about six by eight inches is the best size to handle. Get your father to cut a piece the size you want, or if he doesn't have a glass cutter, some carpenter will do it for you. If you can't get the glass anywhere else, buy a cheap picture frame at the ten-cent store and use the glass from that.

Tin Foil Is Needed. Next get some good sized pieces of tin foil. You can get good pieces out of a pound can of tobacco or from candy bars. A bottle of chowchow oil (black) will do, or a small bottle of inch-wide black tape gummed on one side, can all be bought in the ten-cent store. With a piece of card-board just the size of the glass, which you can find most anywhere around the house, the materials are all gathered.

The next step is to decide what design you want your picture to be. A silhouette, you know, shows only the outline of an object, so don't choose anything that has a lot of detail. If you want to bring it out properly, look through a magazine, we find pictures of a ship, an old-fashioned girl, and a dog standing in a way that shows him up well.

Choose the picture you think the person you plan to give it to would like best, and cut it out. You don't have to trim close, just so you can lay it flat on the table, with the glass over it. Place the picture so it is just about the middle of the glass. Next, hold the glass very still while you trace the outline of the picture on it with your brush and showcard color. Trace only the part you want to show.

With the PUZZLE EDITOR

Today we have a mortar and pestle, which your druggist uses in mixing medicines. There are some good words in this puzzle.

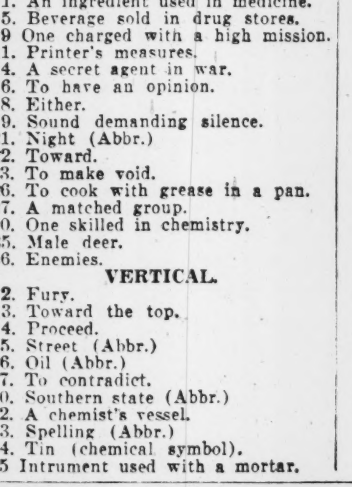

MORTAR AND PESTLE

Remove the middle letter from shore and get expense. Remove the middle letter from a dairy product and get to stuff.

Bought at the Drug Store

See answers next Sunday.

THE ADVENTURES OF PETER PEN

Poor little Princess Lip has been captured by Old King Snarl and is held prisoner on the planet Mars, which the bad king now controls. Prince Pickle is trying to coax her to tell him what she wrote on the message which the pigeon is carrying.

In the finished product—never mind about the rest. This is quite easy, as you simply copy the outline carefully, and fill in the middle solidly with your showcard color. In other words, in the picture of the dog, merely trace the dog himself, and don't bother about the automobile, or the package of dog biscuits, or whatever else happens to be in the picture with him. With the dog or girl, you might put a few strokes up and down, very short, to represent grass. With a ship, a few strokes sideways under it will make it appear to be on water.

Preparing the Background. The color will take about 15 minutes to dry, and while it is drying you can get the background ready. Take the tinfoil and crumple it a little by squeezing it carefully with your hands. It is rather brittle, so be careful not to break it any more than you can help. It doesn't matter if you break it a little, or if the piece isn't quite big enough to cover the whole picture, with the creases that are crumpling gives it a pull a tear together or add a small piece on one side without its ever being noticed.

It is easy to hold the tinfoil in place by your work by turning the edge of it over the edge of the glass. A little bit of tape will be useful to hold the tinfoil in place. The tinfoil which is folded over a quarter of an inch wide. When the background is prepared, make sure the figure on the back of 17. A device for pressing clothes.

18. Upon.
19. Exclamation.
20. Eastern state (Abbr.).
21. You and me.
22. An admitted truth.
23. To carry.
24. Part of verb "to be."
25. Noise made in laughing.
26. For example (Abbr.).
27. On condition that.
28. Therefore.

Pet Editor Gives Valuable Tips on Various Subjects

By HORACE MITCHELL, Pet Editor.

enough, but a boy or girl without one is a tragedy.

If a dog has never had candy he'll never want any!

Just because you've given your pet a bad food once without their becoming sick, don't think you can do it again.

Kill fleas now and keep them off your dog. Otherwise your winter will be one of itching.

Time to think of Christmas presents. How about a pet?

If you plan to raise puppies it is better to have them arrive in time to be three months old in the spring. The demand for pups at that season is better than in the fall.

Don't bathe your dog in winter unless you can keep him in a warm place for 24 to 48 hours afterward. He may catch cold.

Pigeons ought to have some salt now and then.

Buy a book about the breed to which your dog belongs. It will help you tremendously. If he's just a "mutt" get a general dog book.

If you have not had considerable experience and success, with treating the diseases of pets, you'd better find out now where a reliable veterinarian is located in your vicinity, so you can call him quickly if anything serious develops.

No substitute for cleanliness in pet's quarters has ever been found.

Boric acid in proper dilution is a good eye wash.

Trying to teach a dog a trick in an hour is like trying to break a wild horse in a day. Take your time.

If you see a snake swallow its young, I'd like to know about it.

Time to make ready your bird feeding stations. You'll be using them very soon now.

Let me know how your pets are getting along.

Marjory Wilmer has spent six months at Laurel Mountain Inn to recover her health, but now she plans to leave the next week to spend Christmas with her family. One day she is out for a brisk ride on Cap, a big bay horse. At the end of the road which connects the inn with the highway, she meets Simon Smith, man of all work at the inn, returning from provisions from the market. She is a nice looking girl, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car misses her, but hits the culvert and goes into the ditch. When the driver climbs out, Marjory sees that he is a nice looking fellow, with a big far coat. She is riding a little horse when a small roadster rounds a turn on the wrong side of the road. The car

Under the Cherokee Rose
By Rose Marie

Georgia clubwomen may well be proud of Mrs. A. B. Conger, president of the state federation for the graceful and creditable speech made at the Women's Press Club dinner last week in Atlanta. She covered the subject with glory and confined her speech to few words, in which she paid homage to Mrs. John K. Otley, the toastmaster. Edith Baldwin, the author, and Mabel Search, the fiction editor of a well-known magazine.

Mrs. Agnes Howard White was elected president of the Athens Tallulah Falls Circle at a recent meeting. Other officers include Mrs. E. R. Hodgson, president; Mrs. J. W. Johnson, secretary; Mrs. Mary Cobb Erwin, treasurer. Early in January members meet to formulate plans for the coming year, with the names of nominees will be announced and active

The ninth district, Ga. F. W. C. project committee met in Atlanta Tuesday night to plan for the district club year. Members: Mrs. H. P. de la Perriere, Hoschton, chairman; Mrs. H. A. Carithers, Atlanta; Mrs. W. G. Wingate, Elberton; Mrs. W. G. Bingle, Ellijay.

and Mrs. J. B. Farham, Canton, it was decided to first put the district on the honor roll by paying the F. White obligation in full. Further district goals will be "A Club in Every Town" and "A Constitution Held Before the State Meeting." "Forums on public affairs sponsored by each club."

As a compliment to the president, Members of the Windsor Junior Woman's club wish to thank a who have been so co-operative in helping to collect material for the special club edition of the paper planned for December. The club will be glad to assist in the collection of material for this issue cannot be published before the Christmas holidays, but it will not be long before the plans will materialize.

Mrs. E. Stewart, the Kenessa: Home and Garden Club of Atlanta made application for membership in the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs and has been accepted with pleasure. The late group of 39 members organized in October, 1935, and the officers are E. Stewart, president; Mrs. A. E. Anderson, secretary; Mrs. J. J. Betts, treasurer.

At a recent meeting Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, of Athens, spoke to members of the Washington Woman's Club, of their husbands and friends on "Citizenship and Legislation." For six weeks for the Salvation Army Christmas toy shop, opening December 15. During the week of December 7 there will be a "doll show" and prizes will be given for the best dolls.

By MRS. E. M. BAILEY, of Acworth, Citizenship Chairman.

Following the recommendation of the new Citizenship Generation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. A. B. Long, of the departments of citizenship and education are working to develop an informed public opinion on questions of public affairs and government through the medium of public affairs. The primary object of the program is the development of the University System of Georgia is offering to assist women's clubs and other organizations in the plan. In addition, attention is called to the new forum demonstration centers announced by John W. Studebaker, Director of the Division of Education and administrator of "public affairs" in the University System of Georgia. The program is determined by those whom it is the primary object of the public forum to assist in the plan and to provide a record of experience, and to suggest successful patterns of organization.

Club leaders should assume the responsibility of supplying subject matter for forums and teaching the correct method of conducting them on such subjects to their club groups and to the people in their community. The first demonstration is scheduled for the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs has advocated public forums for two years and the chairman will be glad to discuss the subject. The Division of Extension of the University System of Georgia is sponsoring the project and will be reached through the director, Dr. J. C. Wardlaw, 223 Walton street, Atlanta.

Rose Garden Club Will Plant Trees At Hillside Cottage	Alpharetta Club Holds Meeting. Alpharetta Garden Club held the November meeting at the home of Mrs. R. A. Waters, with Mrs. R. E. Phillips, co-hostess. The president, Mrs. Walter Adams, presided during the
--	---

Rose Garden Clumet recently at the home of Mrs. Frank Berry, with Mrs. H. W. Beers and Mrs. Harrison Hines. The latter is a member of the Law, president, presided. Mrs. Harrison Hines, chairman of planting, announced plans completed for replacing the old Cottage of several trees damaged by the ice storm last winter.

Mrs. J. W. McInerney, chairman of the board, presided at the Garden Club week blue ribbon at the table judging contest at Miss Alice Morgan Carson's lecture on table arrangement and the dinner was served by Mrs. J. W. Spang and Mrs. I. J. Sheffield Jr. across the table. The Rose Garden Club received a national award for its monthly flower arrangement at the garden.

The calendar for the month was given by Mrs. Charles Evans, suggesting the planting in December of holly, hollyhocks, holly leaves, bulbs, shrubs and dogwood trees. "Now is the time to destroy chickweed by broadcasting grass cuttings over the lawn."

Mr. Coshy Swanson, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Bartow Morgan, who gave an instructive talk on the use of insecticides with sprays from the many beautiful shrubs now in full berry.

Arrangements using these borried shrubs were directed by Mesdames John Ballard, William Dunn and J. H. Speas.

The United States uses about 50,000,000,000 board feet of water in a year, which is enough to make a boardwalk 50 feet wide and an inch thick from earth to moon.

Mr. Fleming La gave a short talk on Christmas decorations for the home. The Rose Garden Club voted to increase its Community Chest contribution to $25. After the meeting luncheon was served.

The library of the American Entomological Society, consisting of some 100 volumes, was inspected by the oldest Try "HOMESTIC" (Finished) Laundry 4^c 1b.

11 Pickup Stations—Phone HE 2121 for Wearing Apparel

location is one nearest you.

7c 1b. Additional (Minimum: Handle 1)

Miss Lucile Thomas
Weds Mr. Luckett
At Rectory Rites

Of interest to a wide circle of friends was the marriage of Miss Lucile Thomas to Mr. Halsey Harlow Luckett, of Washington and Atlanta, the event being solemnized in a quiet ceremony at Sacred Heart rectory on Saturday, the Reverend Fr. John F. Emmert officiating in the presence of relatives and a few close friends.

The beautiful bride wore a navy blue suit, trimmed in blue fox, with heavy accessories. Her corsage was of orchids and lilies of the valley.

Out-of-town guests were: Mrs. Gertrude Harlow Coffin and Miss Mary Harlow, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Ross Elliott, of Riverton, N. J.; Mr. John B. Luckett, of New York City; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bell and Mrs. Bob Bromberg, of Birmingham, Ala.; Miss Martha Gaudin Thomas, Miss Virginia McRae and Miss Alice McCraw, of Milledgeville; Mrs. L. Stewart Jennings, of Sumter, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. F. Drayton Thomas, of Waynesboro; Mrs. Souther Smith, of Birmingham, Ala.; Miss Laura C. Harlow, of Washington, D. C.; and Mrs. J. W. Oglesby Jr., of Quitman.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Thomas, of Decatur, and granddaughter of the late Major and Mrs. John G. Thomas, of Milledgeville. Major Thomas served on the staff of General Bragg in the Army of Tennessee during the War Between the States. She is the great-granddaughter of Colonel John S. Thomas, a member of the first board of directors of the Central of Georgia Railway and marshal of the day and master of ceremonies in the parade and the banquet given in honor of General Lafayette when he visited Milledgeville, then the state capital, in 1825.

She is the great granddaughter of General Thomas F. Drayton, C. S. A., of Charleston, S. C., a classmate at West Point and lifelong friend of Jefferson Davis, graduating in 1828, and builder and first president of the Charleston & Savannah Railroad, and whose ancestor, William Henry Drayton, original owner and designer of Magnolia Gardens, was in 1778 president of the Continental congress.

General Drayton's brother, Commodore Percival Drayton, U. S. N., has had a distinguished record in the naval service, being on the opposite side in the conflict and serving as flag-officer of the Union Fleet, and, after the war, was chief of the Bureau of Navigation, U. S. N. On her maternal side she is descended from the Bullards, of North Carolina, and the Hopkins family, of Virginia and Maryland, which founded Johns Hopkins University. She received the degree of bachelor of arts from the Georgia State College for Women, and, since graduation, has been connected with the Atlanta Journal.

Mr. Luckett is a descendant of families long prominent in England and the United States, being the son of Mrs. Gertrude Harlow Coffin, of Washington, D. C., and the late Raleigh Luckett, who was a representative of pioneer Virginia families prominent in the history of that state, and is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Harlow, of Alexandria. He was educated at Mr. St. Mary's college, Emmitsburg, Md. After a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Luckett will reside at 212 Twelfth street, N. E.

Griffin Marriages Are Announced

GRIFIN, Ga., Dec. 5.—Mrs. C. L. Condit, of Griffin, announces the marriage of her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Riley Wadkins, to J. P. Wadkins Jr., of Lakeland, Fla., the ceremony having been performed in Orlando, Fla., on November 1. The Rev. Dr. J. Dean Adcock, pastor of the First Baptist church of Orlando, officiated. The bride wore an ensemble of navy blue woolen with matching accessories and a shoulder corsage of orchids and valley lilies. After the wedding trip to Miami and Cuba the couple will reside at the Queen Mary apartments in Apopka, Fla. Mrs. Wadkins is the attractive daughter of Mrs. C. L. Condit and the late George Riley, of Griffin, and is a young woman of beauty and charm. Mr. Wadkins is the son of Mrs. Jessie Ida Lott and the late J. D. Wadkins of Orlando, and is an inspector for the department of agriculture.

Miss Bonnelle Morgan and Edward Brown were married on Friday at the home of Judge Steve Wallace, who officiated in the presence of a few friends. The bride wore a costume suit of brown wool with a brown felt hat. Following their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Brown will reside in Griffin. Mrs. Brown is the daughter of Edgar Morgan and the late Mrs. Morgan, of Griffin. She attended schools in Thomaston. Mr. Brown is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brown, of Griffin. He was graduated from the Spalding High school, since which time he has been connected with a large local concern.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Jones, of Griffin, announce the marriage of their daughter, Doris Ruth, to Joseph P. Foster, also of Griffin, who was solemnized on November 28 in Atlanta. The Rev. A. D. Echols, the bride's former pastor, officiated at the Henry Tremble hotel. The bride wore lovely in a woolen suit of navy blue with an ashen of roses satin blouse and navy accessories. She wore a shoulder cluster of sweetheart roses. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Adnes Foster, of Griffin. At present he is residing in Spartanburg, S. C., where he is attending school and working.

Gordy-Perkins
Wedding Announced.

THOMASTON, Ga., Dec. 5.—An announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Marjorie Frances Gordy to Marion Capers Perkins, of Thomaston, formerly of Augusta, the ceremony having taken place at 9 o'clock Sunday morning at the Baptist parsonage in Thomaston, Ga., with the Reverend Ralph D. Dodd officiating in the presence of a few close friends and relatives.

The bride wore coronation blue crepe with neutral gray accessories, wearing a shoulder corsage of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Perkins is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Gordy, of Columbus, and has made her home in Thomaston for several years. The groom is the eldest son of Mrs. C. D. Perkins and the late Dr. Perkins, of Augusta. He received his education at Georgia Military College, Milledgeville, and is connected with the Thomaston Bleachery.

The couple left for a wedding trip, the bride wearing a lovely two-piece gray wool suit trimmed with Persian lace and black accessories and on their return are at home to their many friends in Thomaston, Ga.

Brimful OF FAMOUS BEAUTY PREPARATIONS

ESSENTIAL CREAM THROAT CREAM
FRESHENER LOTIONNOURISHING OIL
FACE POWDER
CLEANSING TISSUES

This charming Kit costs you absolutely nothing. It is your Surprise Gift from Marie Earle given free with every $3.00 jar of Marie Earle Essential Cream, or with $3.00 purchase of any other Marie Earle Beauty Preparations.

This offer is for one week only while Mrs. Clara Larkin, special Marie Earle representative, is in our cosmetic department.

J.P. ALLEN & CO.
The Store All Women KnowSale of SPORT FROCKS

1/2 price

Were $10.98 to $25.00

Now $5.49 to $12.50

A group of sport frocks in silk and light-weight wools. Broken range of sizes to be on sale Monday reduced to half price.

Sport Shop
Street FloorJ.P. ALLEN & CO.
The Store All Women KnowSample Sale of UNDERWEAR

at exactly manufacturer's cost!

Gowns! Pajamas!
Slips! Panties!
Bed Sacques!

We have been able to secure for tomorrow's sale the sample line of one of our best underwear manufacturers. Tailored and lace-trimmed styles in satin crepe de chine and printed satin.

Third Floor

J.P. ALLEN & CO.
The Store All Women KnowAn "Allen" Box Adds a World of Prestige to Any GIFT!J.P. ALLEN & CO.
The Store All Women KnowWe Have In Stock
what they want
In Their Stocking!1—"Soldier Boy" 22 inches tall of washable oil-cloth$2.002—Celluloid Roly-Poly with painted face $1.003—Celluloid Rattles $1.00
Others priced 25c to $2.00.4—Scottie Doggies, made of washable plaid oil-cloth$1.005—Military Brush and Comb Set for the
"boss" of the house,
$2.00. Brush and Comb
Sets for the wee miss $1.00 to $5.006—Hot plates in three sections like the one
sketched$2.00
Other hot plates priced from ...$1.50 to $3.507—Celluloid Carriage Balls, in pink, blue and white. Hand-painted$1.008—Snap-Shot Books $1.00 Baby record books in pink, white, blue
$1.00 to $7.50.9—Wooden Beads, with pink and blue glazed ivory finish75c
Others ...50c to $1.0010—Cellophane bag containing a doll, a dog-gie and a string of beads$2.0011—A great big smiling, soft, snuggle Teddy Bear that may be had in white, blue or yellow$2.0012—A baby rubber doll, dressed in Pique coat,
bonnet and leggings in either pink or blue$1.0013—Unbreakable dolls, with painted cloth
faces, dressed in knitted sweater suits.
Pink or blue trimmed with white$2.0014—Infants' kid carriage boots in light blue or pink, trimmed with white fur tops. Infant size only$1.2515—Floater sets, with rubber man riding cellu-loid fish, with wash cloths for saddle bags$1.00
Others ...25c to 75c16—Chambers in boxes, in pink, blue and ivory with painted dog motif, $1.00. In ivory with rosebud trim
$1.5017—Jar sets consisting of wooden trays with wicker edge and handles$4.00
Others $1.50 to $15.0018—Glass Cereal Sets, consisting of hand-painted plate, bowl, and mug at$1.50
Others $1.00 to $3.5019—Unbreakable dolls, with painted cloth
faces, real hair and dresses in pink, blue or yellow organdy
$3.98

Infants' and Children's Shop---Third floor

J.P. ALLEN & CO.
The Store All Women Know

ENGAGEMENTS ANNOUNCED

HAMBRIGHT—WILLIAMSON.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Black Hambright announce the engagement of their daughter, Betty Morris, to Woodford Dunlap Williamson, son of Mrs. Clarence Williamson and the late Mr. Williamson, the marriage to take place on December 26 at All Saints Episcopal church.

McMURDO—BERNIER.

Lieutenant Colonel Hew Bernard McMurdo, U. S. A. and Mrs. McMurdo, of Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., formerly of Atlanta, announce the engagement of their daughter, Dahlis, to Lieutenant Donald William Bernier, infantry, U. S. A., of Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., the marriage to take place in the spring.

Miss Park Will Wed James H. Johnston In New York City

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—James H. Johnston III, well-known Atlanta socialite, of 939 Piedmont avenue, N. E., Atlanta, and Miss Mildred Park, of 325 Westside terrace, in Ridgewood, N. Y., obtained a license to wed here this morning.

The couple said they would be married here December 7 in the Little Church Around the Corner. Mr. Johnston was born in Charlottesville, Va., the son of James H. and Delia Page Johnston. Miss Park was born in Atlanta, the daughter of Chester F. and Ethel McG. Park.

Miss Claxton To Wed Alfred B. Eubanks.

DUBLIN, Ga., Dec. 5.—Centering social interest is the announcement made by Dr. and Mrs. Edward Burton Claxton, of Dublin, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Charlotte Iris Claxton, to Alfred Benjamin Eubanks, of Macon, formerly of Dublin. A brilliant church ceremony at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, December 27, the anniversary of the bride-elect's parents, in the First Baptist church, will unite the young couple.

The bride-elect possesses personal charm, and is one of the most popular and beloved young girls of this city. She was graduated from Shorter College in Rome, and was a member of the Polytechnic and Kid societies. She is a charter member and past president of the Cotillion Club, exclusive local social club. For the past several years Miss Claxton has been a member of the Calhoun and Junior High school faculties and it was with regret that her associates in educational work accepted her resignation. Her sisters are Misses Ellen and Irene Claxton, and her brother is Edward B. Claxton Jr. She is a niece of Mrs. Charlotte Turner Brigham and Dr. M. Z. Claxton, of Dublin.

Mr. Eubanks is the eldest son of Mrs. Fannie Wood Eubanks, of Macon, and the late Arthur Beard Eubanks. With his family he resided in Dublin for a number of years and they were numbered among this city's most prominent families. He was educated at Georgia School of Technology and is a member of the Phi Delta fraternity. He is now located in Macon as division manager of the American Tobacco Company. Mr. Eubanks is the nephew of Mrs. S. T. Hall and Henry Wood, of Dublin. His sister is Miss Lucy Quinn Eubanks, of Macon, and his brother is William Arthur Eubanks, of Milledgeville.

Lovely December Bride-Elect

Miss Helen Knight, of Mansfield, is betrothed to W. E. McGuire, of Covington, formerly of Carrollton, and their marriage takes place in December. The lovely bride-elect is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Knight.

SMART—REWIS.

Dr. and Mrs. W. Aiken Smart, of Emory University, announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen Aiken, to Millard Lewis Jr., of Swarthmore, Pa., the wedding to take place December 30 at 6 o'clock in the Theological Chapel on the Emory campus.

CAMPBELL—ATKINSON.

Mrs. James Parker Campbell announces the engagement of her daughter, Catherine, to Herbert Warren Atkinson, of Valdosta, formerly of Atlanta, the marriage to be solemnized in the early spring.

VAN D'ELDEN—DUPREE.

Mrs. Lucile Freeman Van D'Elden, of Griffin and Atlanta, announces the engagement of her daughter, Frances Claire, of Griffin, to James C. Dupree, the marriage to be solemnized in December.

WRIGHT—WILKERSON.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Wright, of Athens, Ga., announce the engagement of their daughter, Mildred Frances, to John Chalfort Wilkerson, of Fulton, Mo., and Atlanta, the wedding to be solemnized January 1.

ARNOLD—GRADY.

R. H. Arnold, of Decatur, announces the engagement of his daughter, Helen Thorne, to John D. Grady, of Jacksonville and Atlanta, the marriage to be solemnized during the holiday season.

MONCRIEF—MOORE.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Moncrief announce the engagement of their daughter, Frances Elsie, to Fritz K. Moore, of Norfolk, Va., formerly of Atlanta, the marriage to be solemnized in January.

MOORE—ABERNATHY.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Moore announce the engagement of their daughter, Stella, to Ira Raulston Abernathy, the marriage to be solemnized at an early date.

LIGHT—CHASTAIN.

Rev. and Mrs. G. C. Light announce the engagement of their daughter, Sara Vivian, to Nelson Avery Chastain, of this city, the marriage to be solemnized December 25.

BAKER—DORTCH.

Mrs. J. R. Helms announces the engagement of her daughter, Louise Baker, to Dudley L. Dortch Jr., the marriage to be solemnized in December.

Miss Evelyn Block Is Honored at Dance.

Mrs. Hamilton Block entertained at a fancy dress ball last evening in honor of her daughter, Miss Evelyn Block, who is a popular member of the younger high school set. The dance was given in celebration of her 13th birthday, and assembled 120 members of the young social contingent.

The ballroom where the dance was held, at Margaret Bryan's studio, was decorated in green and gold streamers, which were draped about the columns and suspended between them in cascade effect. The punch tables were adorned with gold chrysanthemums and amaranths.

Assisting Mrs. Block in entertaining the young guests were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bancker, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wellborn, Mr. and Mrs. Felix de Golan and Mrs. Hinton Longino.

If it's a question of a Handbag, this model in Black, Brown or Navy Crushed Calf with Gold-hued Bars in the Edwardian manner, is most apropos! And a real discovery at $4.95.

CHRISTMAS PROBLEMS Solved by HANAN
NEW YORK PARIS NICE LONDON
170 PEACHTREE ST., N. W.

Gift
Suggestions
From Stevens

we pack and ship for you

J. P. STEVENS ENGRAVING COMPANY
103 PEACHTREE STREET
ATLANTA, GEORGIA

Monogrammed Stationery
Special Christmas Boxes
Prompt Service
Engraved Visiting Cards
The latest "Naturel" shade
Personal Stationery
for Men
Engraved Name and Address
Imported Bridge Cards
Leather Novelties
Desk Sets
Pens and Pencils
McClelland Barclay
Art Products
Hand Hammered
Souvenir Card Trays
Made from Wedding Plates
Christmas Note Paper
Christmas Cards

Miss Converse Weds Joseph N. Bright In Valdosta, Ga.

VALDOSTA, Ga., Dec. 5.—The marriage of Miss Marion Peoples Converse and Joseph Newton Bright was a brilliant event of Saturday evening, taking place at 8 o'clock at the First Baptist church, in the presence of a fashionable assemblage of friends and relatives. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. Haron Wilson, pastor of the church. James Stump, Miss Adelaide Mockford and Rob Stump, Harry Stump, Emory Bass, Curtis Jackson and Harris Dukes sang the bridal chorus.

A chorus composed of Mesdames Henry Rhodes, W. M. Oliver, S. M. Varnedoe Jr., James Stump, Miss Adelaide Mockford and Rob Stump, Harry Stump, Emory Bass, Curtis Jackson and Harris Dukes sang the bridal chorus.

Ushers were Billy Lastinger and Ed Farrell. Bridesmaids and groomsmen were Miss Susan Hardy, of Rome, with Henry Maddox, Atlanta; Miss Frances Copeland, Charles Thomas, Louisville; Miss Mary Elizabeth Bunn, Waycross; Elbert Bell, Louisville; Miss Eulalie Harris and King McClure, Louisville. Mrs. Maxwell Oliver, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor.

The bride entered with her father, T. B. Converse, who gave her in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Wilson Oster, of Baltimore.

The bride was radiantly lovely in her wedding dress of ivory satin, fashioned on princess lines. The veil of bridal tulle, fell gracefully from a cap of rose point lace, which formed a halo around the face. She carried a bouquet of orchids and valley lilies, tied with wide white ribbon and showered with valley lilies.

After the wedding a reception was held at the hotel. Guests were met at the door by Mrs. Paul Walker. In the receiving line were Horace Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Converse Jr., Mrs. Newton Bright, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bright and others of the wedding party.

Punch was served by Misses Margaret Baker, Adeline Dalton, Meta Shaw and Billie Ham. Others serving were Misses Louie and Eliza Peoples, Mand Dukes, Rosemary Baker, Beverly Dougherty, Celeste Stump, Henrietta Walker, Frances Bird, Susie McKee, Minnie Roberts, Martha Ashley, Margaret Pardee. Assisting in entertaining were Mesdames George Tamm, George Simpson, John Sineath and Richard Stevens.

Mr. and Mrs. Bright departed for their wedding trip to Charlotte Harbor, Fla., upon their return they will make their home in Mayville, Ky.

McNULTY—MALLINSON.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. McNulty announce the engagement of their daughter, Eileen Mary, to Charles Joseph Mallinson, the marriage to be solemnized December 26 at St. Anthony's church.

KNIGHT—McGUIRE.

Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Knight, of Mansfield, announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen Etolia, to W. E. McGuire, of Covington, formerly of Carrollton, the marriage to be solemnized in December.

Miss Emily Worley Honored at Shower.

Miss Emily Worley, popular bride-elect of this month, was the honor guest yesterday at the shower given by Mrs. E. F. Cox and Mrs. Edna Turner, at their home on Fifth street.

Mrs. J. W. Berry presided at the tea table, which was beautifully decorated with an artistic arrangement of yellow and white roses. A lace cloth was used and the appointments were of silver.

Present were Misses Emily Worley, Christine DuBois, Miriam Woodall, Helen Fennell, Martha Patillo, Mesdames W. O. Jaudon, Sam Worley, Price Smith, D. C. Fennell, A. W. Berry, A. L. Henson, John S. Turner and Betty Garner.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Perry Seville, Asheville, N. C.; Mrs. Bradford McFadden and Mrs. Baxter Rains, Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. Descombe Wells and Miss B. Lane, Savannah; Miss Lilla Keller and Mr. Clifford Payne, Jacksonville, Fla.; Mrs. Newton Bright and Ted Bates, Louisville, Ky.; Wilson Oster, Baltimore, Md.; King McClure, Elbert Bell and Charles Thomas, Louisville; Henry Maddox, Atlanta; Miss Mary Elizabeth Bunn, Waycross; Miss Susan Hardy, Rome.

A Really Distinctive GIFT

$3.00

Sterling Silver Mounted
MONOGRAMMED

Gear Shift Ball

Fits any car. Specify make and year. Choice of black, blue, green or brown. Engraved free.

Mail Orders Add 10c

Myron E. Freeman & Bro.

103 Peachtree Street

Some Discontinued Numbers In

CORSELETTES AND GIRDLES

Former Values to $10.00. Now... $1.50

EAGER & SIMPSON

24 CAIN STREET

For The Perfect Christmas Gift

SEE FREEMAN'S DISPLAY OF FINE

WATCHES

$12.50 up

You Will Like Freeman's

- Large Selection
- Wide Price Range
- Dependable Service
- Unexcelled Values

There's added pleasure, there's extra satisfaction in a watch from Freeman's. Yet Freeman quality and prestige add nothing to the cost of your purchase. Our great Christmas display of fine watches is one of the largest ever assembled in the South, and includes in addition to our own exclusive creations the latest presentations from

ELGIN · GRUEN · HAMILTON

And Other Leading Makes

All Fully Guaranteed

SHOWN AT RIGHT: (1) Freeman's "PARK AVENUE" tiny baguette watch with 2 diamonds, $25.00. (2) Freeman's "SYLVIA" round 17-jewel white gold watch set with 18 diamonds, $55.00. (3) GRUEN man's wrist watch, white or yellow gold filled, $27.50.

DEPENDABLE WATCHES ONLY

Mail Order Service

Freeman's will assist out-of-town customers in making a selection by mail. Illustrated booklets of our most popular models will be sent on request, and we are glad to submit watches on approval if you like, without any obligation. Your satisfaction is guaranteed.

From the Lowest Priced Worth Buying to the Very Finest Made

CHARGE ACCOUNTS—TERMS IF DESIRED

Myron E. Freeman & Bro.

JEWELERS

103 Peachtree Street

OLD ENGLISH SILVER —and authentic reproductions

Solid Silver
English Service

Vine Border

WEDGWOOD . . .
The China With a Tradition . . . You Will Find a Full Line of Patterns at

SUSAN SPALDING'S
759 PEACHTREE STREET

Express the—Season's Greetings with CHRISTMAS CARDS bearing personal greeting and signature

Smart designs in all price ranges.

Large stocks on hand to choose from.

The KEELIN PRESS

153 SPRING ST., N. W.—WA. 3869

MAIER & BERKELE

Presents Christmas Gifts for all your Moods . . .

If You're Feeling:

The Gift Is:

EXTRAVAGANT . . .

By all means, a Diamond Bracelet, $2,000 . . . or the superb thirty-carat Star Sapphire illustrated, $1,650.

SENTIMENTAL . . .

A piquant yellow gold Bandeau ring set with multi-colored stones whose first letters spell "Dearest." $60

BROTHERLY . . .

A charming little sport ascot pin, composed of a row of tiny, golden, prancing horses, $6.00.

FESTIVE . . .

A brilliant, scintillating party bag—frivolous and soignée. And it holds everything she needs for a festive evening! $15.

SOPHISTICATED . . .

One of the perfectly mad golden charm bracelets, with a separate bangle for each of her hobbies. Charms from $3 each.

IN LOVE . . .

First, yourself— isn't Christmas the exact right time to "pop the question"? And then, a platinum engagement ring set with diamonds, $285.

CONVENIENT TERMS
MAY BE ARRANGED

Each gift beautifully wrapped—without charge.

Maier & Berkele

JEWELERS TO THE SOUTH SINCE 1887

Atlanta - Savannah

ENGAGEMENTS ANNOUNCED

UPSHAW—DAY.

Mrs. A. B. Upshaw announces the engagement of her daughter, Lucile, to Theodore Earl Day, the marriage to take place in December.

SIMPSON—WHITEHEAD.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Claude Simpson announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Claude, to Jones Hampton Whitehead, of Rockmart, formerly of Cedartown, the marriage to be solemnized in late December.

WHATLEY—REDMOND.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Guy Acree announce the engagement of their sister, Miss Jewel Thaxton Whatley, to James Bond Redmond, of East Point, the marriage to be solemnized at an early date. No cards.

MARLOW—HARDY.

Mrs. G. W. Marlow announces the engagement of her daughter, Glenie Beulah, to Ralph Woodrow Hardy, of Athens, Ga., and Winston-Salem, N. C., the marriage to take place December 23.

MOSS—GIBSON.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore P. Moss, of Waleska, announce the engagement of their daughter, Rachel, to Rev. J. Douglas Gibson, of Emory University, the marriage to take place at an early date.

ROBERTS—EDGE.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lambdin Roberts, of Doerun, Ga., announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathrine Ellen, to Edna Edge, the marriage to be solemnized in February.

ROBERTS—HAMRICK.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Roberts, of Dallas, Ga., announce the engagement of their daughter, Eva Mae, to Claude Hamrick, of Villa Rica, Ga., the marriage to take place at an early date.

CALLAWAY—PETERSON.

Mrs. William Robert Callaway, of Clarksville, Ga., announces the engagement of her daughter, Ellen, to Robert Wayland Peterson, of Alley, Ga., the marriage to be solemnized at an early date.

HEYWOOD—GOULD.

Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Heywood, of Athens, Ga., announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Wilson, to Nelson Jerome Gould, of Athens, formerly of Alton, Ill., the wedding to be solemnized in January. No cards.

WHEATLEY—RABORN.

Mrs. Myra J. Wheatley, of Tignall, announces the engagement of her daughter, Viola Wheatley, of Augusta, to James Roston Raborn, of Hephzibah, the marriage to take place at an early date.

KNIGHTON—SWEAT.

Mrs. Ora L. Knighton, of Smithville, announces the engagement of her granddaughter, Miss Effie Gene Knighton, of Albany, to Jesse P. Sweat, of Americus, the marriage to be solemnized during the holidays.

BRUCE—BRAKE.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Bruce, of Toccoa, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sara Mae, to Walda C. Brake, of Monticello and Savannah, the marriage to be solemnized at an early date.

FOREHAND—MINICK.

Mr. and Mrs. John Forehand, of Graymont, announce the engagement of their daughter, Wauwelle, to Von Minick, of Savannah, the marriage to be solemnized in December.

SUDDETH—ESTES.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Suddeth, of Red Oak, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sue Corinne, to Joe Henry Estes, of Union City, the marriage to be solemnized in December.

PLAYER—HALL.

Mr. and Mrs. George Carlton Player, of Greenwood, S. C., announce the engagement of their daughter, Elsie, to Lindsey Hall, of Batesburg, the marriage to take place Christmas Day at the Greenwood Presbyterian church.

TAGGART—EDWARDS.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron B. Taggart, of Watertown, N. Y., and Augusta, announce the engagement of their daughter, Josephine Brown, to A. Stapley Edwards, of Sydney, Australia, the marriage date to be announced later.

CHAMLEE—TAYLOR.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Keith Chamlee, of Sparta, Ga., announce the engagement of their daughter, Benita, to Malcolm Taylor, of Fort Valley and Forsyth, the marriage to be solemnized at an early date.

COCHRAN—MORRIS.

Mr. and Mrs. Chap Cochran, of Douglasville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Era Maude, to William Howard Morris, of Douglasville, the marriage to take place during December.

STYLES—SPRADLIN.

Dr. and Mrs. O. R. Styles, of Bowden, announce the engagement of their daughter, Nellie Mae, to Fred B. Spradlin, of Centralia, the marriage to be solemnized during the Christmas holidays.

CROWLEY—HENSLEE.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Crowley, of Villa Rica, announce the engagement of their daughter, Velma Ann, to James Milton Henslee, the marriage to be solemnized in December.

FLANDERS—MOSELEY.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Flanders, of Macon, announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen Mary, to Clement C. Moseley Jr., of Macon, formerly of Lyons, the marriage to be solemnized December 25.

WILSON—MASHBURN.

Dale Wilson, of East Point, Ga., announces the engagement of his sister, Callie Dee, to Robert Thomas Mashburn, of Roanoke, Ala., and Kalamazoo, Mich., the marriage to be solemnized in December.

WISE—CORNWELL.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wise, of Sumter, announce the engagement of their daughter, Allie Mae, to Joel Hardy Cornwell, of Covington, the marriage to take place during the Christmas season.

HALE—VAN HORN.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hale, of Summerville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sara Allen, to James Thomas Van Horn, of Cusseta, the marriage to be solemnized at an early date.

MANSILLE—COCHRAN.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Mansille, of Roswell, announce the engagement of their daughter, Edith, to Vernon S. Cochran, of Alpharetta, the marriage to be solemnized at an early date.

JACKSON—FRANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben. C. Jackson, of Rome, announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia, to J. Williams Franks Jr., of Rome, the marriage to be solemnized the latter part of December.

SKELTON—CARPENTER.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Stephens Skelton, of Hartwell, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Sinclair, to Richard Leon Carpenter, of Elberton, the marriage to be solemnized on December 30.

EVANS—HALL.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin R. Evans, of Moreland, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sadie Mae, to Ralph Sylvester Hall, of Birmingham, Ala., the marriage to be solemnized at an early date.

RICHARDS—WARREN.

Mrs. W. D. Richards, of Gainesville, announces the engagement of her daughter, Willie Marguerite, to Lewis Freeland Warren Jr., of Atlanta, the marriage to be solemnized at an early date.

SANDERS—LABEE.

Mrs. M. M. Holly, of Barnwell, S. C., announces the engagement of her sister, Ida Kate Sanders, to Francis James LaBee, of St. Louis, Mo., the marriage to take place at an early date. No cards.

See the largest and most complete stock
Hamilton
AND Elgin Watches
in the South!
AT CLAUDE S. BENNETT'S

Give dependable timepieces from the store where confidence can be placed without hesitancy.

Hamilton Morley.....$40.00

Elgin 7-Jewel.....$27.50

ONLY 3 SUNDAYS BEFORE CHRISTMAS!

Buy Now!

PAYMENTS START IN JANUARY

Claude S. Bennett
INC.

DIAMOND MERCHANTS

270 Peachtree

Atlanta

Miss Dorothy Grove Given Tea-Dance

Dr. and Mrs. Lon Grove entertained at a tea-dance yesterday at Margaret Bryan's Studio in compliment to their lovely schoolgirl daughter, Miss Dorothy Grove, the occasion celebrating her thirteenth birthday. The party assembled the members of the young honor guest's Monday afternoon dancing class.

The ballroom presented a festive scene with its gay Christmas decorations. Streamers of bright red and green crepe paper were festooned from the ceiling to form a colorful and intricate pattern. Christmas foliage massed in the corners of the ballroom contributed a festive note.

An interesting and attractive feature of entertainment was the series of contest dances, with books awarded as prizes to the boys, and hair ornaments and perfume to the girls.

Miss Grove received her guests wearing a dainty frock of pale blue silk organza.

Frances Grove, young sister of the honor guest; Clara Jones and Dorothy Spradlin served punch.

St. Charles Club Hears Mrs. Crown.

Instructions for the preparation of soil and the pruning of shrubs for spring flowers was discussed by Mrs. Fletcher Crown at the meeting of St. Charles Garden club last Thursday. Mrs. H. C. Jones, president, welcomed the visitors. Mrs. Duff Sutton, chairman of the Junior club, reported that Juniors will plant pansies at Osgood Landers' nursery rock-garden, this being the club project. Mrs. Raymond Sneads' committee was congratulated on the exhibit of bronze chrysanthemums, dahlias and autumn leaves at the Garden Center. Mrs. Sanford Landers' Thanksgiving cactus in full bloom was the trophy for the month. The club gave a substantial donation to assure a happy Christmas to a worthy but unfortunate family. The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. C. Jones.

Allen's Annual December SALE of FURS

You do not gamble

When you buy your fur coat at Allen's, because an Allen label guarantees satisfaction . . . yet you pay no more. An Allen fur at its regular price is always a safe investment . . . at a reduced price it becomes a bargain you cannot overlook. Listed here are some of the wonderful values.

Black Caraculs . . . Were $110.00, Now $ 74.00
Hollender Lapins . . . Were $119.50, Now $ 84.00
Imperial Seals . . . Were $110.00, Now $ 84.00
Broadtails Were $110.00, Now $ 84.00
Nubian Seals Were $125.00, Now $104.00
Krimmer Lambs Were $175.00, Now $104.00
Black Persians Were $175.00, Now $124.00
Leopard Cats Were $195.00, Now $144.00
Chinese Kidskins Were $198.00, Now $144.00
Bombay Lambs Were $275.00, Now $194.00
Gray Persians Were $275.00, Now $194.00
Hudson Seals Were $235.00, Now $194.00
Japanese Weasels Were $298.75, Now $244.00

There are many other higher priced furs
not listed . . .

1 Eastern Mink . . . was $ 795, now $594
1 Eastern Mink . . . was $1,295, now $994
1 White Ermine . . . was $ 495, now $324
1 Silver Fox Cape . was $ 795, now $644

Second Floor

J. R. ALLEN & CO.

"The Store All Women Know"

DIAMOND RINGS FROM $25

—to the amount you wish to spend

Where full value is given for each dollar you spend . . . where confidence can be placed without hesitancy—and where quality is just as represented.

There is genuine satisfaction when you give Claude S. Bennett diamonds—for there are none finer and yet so moderately priced they are in the reach of everyone.

Claude S. Bennett Quality. Fine, Blue-White and Perfect . . . $150

Claude S. Bennett Quality. Fine, Blue-White and Perfect . . . $125

Claude S. Bennett Quality. Fine, Blue-White and Perfect . . . $235

Claude S. Bennett Quality. Fine, Blue-White and Perfect . . . $485

Claude S. Bennett Quality. Fine, Blue-White and Perfect . . . $50

BUY NOW
for Christmas

PAYMENTS START IN JANUARY

Only 3 Sundays Before Christmas

We Specialize in Diamond Remounting
BRING YOUR DIAMOND TO US FOR NEW SETTINGS

We Invite Your Account

Claude S. Bennett
INC.

207 Peachtree

DIAMOND MERCHANTS

Payments
Start in January

Atlanta

Christmas Season Is Heralded In Red and Silver Decorations

By Sally Forth.

THE CHRISTMAS season was heralded in the sparkling decorations on the table when Mr. and Mrs. Preston Arkwright Jr. entertained at dinner last evening. The important social function was given at the Piedmont Driving Club as a complimentary gesture to Julia Colquitt, the dark-haired and dark-eyed debutante daughter of Judge and Mrs. Walter Colquitt, who has provided the inspiration for so many parties.

A glistening ball made of cellophane straws, tipped with red and silver and tied with red cellophane ribbon, adorned the center of the festive board. The ball rested upon a mirror outlined with red and silver leaves, and red candles gleamed from miniature balls made exactly like the centerpiece. Cellophane place cards introducing the same colorful motif, were edged with silver and the name of each guest was lettered in red upon the card. The exquisitely decorated table, which created a veritable sensation because of its beauty and originality, was made more effective in that mirrors designated the guests' places, and added to the effective decorations.

ROBERTA Sutherland Crew, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lee Crew Jr., made her advent upon this mundane sphere on November 27, in Willmette, Ill. The child is the namesake of prominent Atlantians including her paternal great-grandmother, the late Mrs. B. B. Crew; her paternal great aunt, the late Mrs. Henry A. Inman, and her paternal aunt, Roberta Sutherland Crew, one of the most attractive members of last season's debutante contingent. The baby is the fourth generation of her family to be named Roberta.

The baby's mother is the former Betty Blain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Blain, who live in Miami, Fla., and are identified with foremost civic and social circles there. Betty and Ben Lee have resided in Willmette ever since their marriage a year ago, and own their home on the north shore of Lake Michigan. They have made warm friends since going there and move in exclusive social circles in their adopted home. Their little daughter has reddish-brown hair and brown eyes, inherited from her mother, who is acclaimed a real beauty.

MRS. THOMAS Kenan has just returned from Washington, D. C., where Anne, her cute daughter, is a student at National Cathedral school. You know how much fun it is to be with Mrs. Kenan, she's so vivacious—and she proved to be a great favorite with Anne's friends. Mother took a group of girls to luncheon one day at a fashionable hotel, and after the merry meal, everybody begged their hostess to take them to a fortune teller. There's quite a famous one there who was chosen by the group. She told the girls many interesting things, especially about matters of the heart, of course. After she had finished her predictions for the sweet young things, they urged Mrs. Kenan to have her fortune told, too. Finally she was persuaded, and this was the reason for their insistence. They wanted her to ask the woman of mystery several little things that they had been embarrassed to ask themselves. You know—does he really care?—Is he stringing me?—and the like.

Mrs. Kenan stayed in the private room longer than anybody, but little of the fortune concerned her. Except that he is NOT going to have a Christmas tree at her home this Christmas. She was told that somebody would set it on fire, and that was that. Much to Anne's distress, who arrives home December 18 to spend the holidays.

WEDDING bells and Christmas bells will chime in tuneless melody within a few weeks for an attractive young widow about town and a handsome young man serving Uncle Sam, if rumors reaching Sally Forth's ears are true. He will be on leave during the forthcoming holidays and at that time he and the young bridegroom will say "I do." He attended the United States Naval Academy and she was a student at one of the Atlanta schools, but her first marriage interrupted her studies. Dame Rumor has it that after the wedding during the Yuletide season, she and her new husband will reside in a well-known southern city until Uncle Sam orders him elsewhere for duty.

IN A telegram sent to an Atlanta friend, the news was conveyed that little Virginia Lanier arrived on December 3 to Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Lanier in Albany, Ga. The telegram read: "Little Virginia arrived today. All three of us feeling fine." Mr. and Mrs. Lanier have hosts of friends in Atlanta and in Georgia who will congratulate them upon the birth of their first child.

GLIMPSED here and there: Charlotte Woolford, looking very lovely in black velvet as she started out to a sub-deb dance with her first orchid on her shoulder. . . . Joel and Mary Daves giving their children, Joel Jr. and Bill, a treat as they took them to see their first football game. . . . Eugenia Cogswell, attractive visitor from Greenville, S. C., looking stunning in a silver lame cocktail gown at the apéritif party at which her hosts, Ed and Mary Wright, entertained in her honor. . . . Marguerite Blakely Mangham and her son, Sam Jr., enjoying a walk together. . . . The John Duncans and the Walter Holmes' forming a party motoring to Athens for the Tech-Georgia football game. . . . Jessie Pearl Rice, of Moultrie, stopping by Atlanta to see friends on her way home from the Yale-Harvard football game.

Moore—Manley.

Mrs. Herbert B. Moore Jr. announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth Moore, to James Stuart Manley, on October 3. Mr. and Mrs. Manley are residing at 670 Maryland avenue, S. W.

Miss Helen Taulman Hostess at Luncheon

Miss Helen Taulman, attractive schoolgirl daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Taulman, entertained a group of her classmates at luncheon yesterday at the Capital City Club.

Luncheon was served in one of the private dining rooms of the club and the beautiful table was decorated in the bright holiday colors and formed an artistic decorative motif. The hostess was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. Chapman, and Misses Margie Ward and Julia Chapman.

Present were Misses Emmelyn Carter, Margie Ward, Elizabeth Colley, Julia Chapman, Joyce Estes, Eleanor Troutman, Margie Troutman, Martha Anne Logan, Margaret Crumshaw, Irene Wincoff, Margaret Winship, Frances Pearce, Elsie McCall, Harriett Zahner, Marie Pappenheimer, Harriett Callaway, Julia Fleet, Anna Lane, Carolyn Yundt, Martha Blalock, Alice Johnson, Manney Sampson, Mary Louise Gottschalk, Eleanor Clay, Peggy Crosswell, Emily Anderson, Patricia Stewart, Elizabeth Groves, Helen Jones, Laura Palmer, Corbell Mason, Mary Jane Campbell, Katharine Whitney, Virginia Dulaney, Isabel Vreeman, Foster Adair, Georgia Rauschenberg, Barbara Indell, Jane Lawless, Betty Hodges, Nancy Johnson.

Miss Woolsey Weds Mr. Pearce At Impressive Ceremony in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 5.—Miss Anne Beck Woolsey, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ross A. Woolsey, 6350 Waterman avenue, became the bride this afternoon of Eugene L. Pearce Jr., of Atlanta, Ga. The ceremony was performed at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon by the Rev. Karl Morgan Block at the Church of St. Michael and St. George. Dr. Block was assisted at the service by Dr. L. O. Bricker, stepfather of the groom. The center aisle of the church was lighted by candles which were placed at every other pew. Light was furnished similarly in the chancel where a profusion of candles were set among huckleberry foliage, ferns and white chrysanthemums. The same scheme of decoration covered the choir stalls, the pulpit and the lectern, and vases filled with lilies were placed on the altar.

Beautiful Bride.

The beautiful bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown made with a high neckline where a small collar turned back, and was held by two diamond clips, the gift of the bridegroom. The sleeves were quilted with seed pearls at the shoulder and were long and tight at the wrist. The full skirt of the empire gown extended into a full train. Her hair was encircled with a flat band of seed pearls, from which a all of Atlanta; James E. Wall of Tampa, Fla.; Dr. Duncan Owen, of Miami Beach, and Ross Woolsey Jr., brother of the bride, and George Henson, both of St. Louis.

Following the ceremony there was a reception at the Woolsey home, where a marquee was built for the occasion. The guests were received in the living room before an embankment of ferns and white chrysanthemums. The staircase was covered with greenery and the same flowers, and wild amaranth decorated the marquee. A wedding supper was served to members of the bridal party in the dining room. The table was ornate with garlands, lilies of the valley and white chrysanthemums arranged in china containers. Candlelight was shed from white tapers, standing in silver candelabra. After the wedding supper, Mr. and Mrs. Pearce Jr. departed for their honeymoon. They will make their home in Atlanta.

The bride is a graduate of Mary Institute, and spent the following year traveling Europe. She entered Smith College the next fall. She made her debut in 1934 at a reception at the home of her parents, and was maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball that season.

Mr. Pearce, who is the son of Mrs. L. O. Bricker, of Miami Beach, Fla., and of Eugene Pearce, of Clearwater, Fla., is a graduate of the Asheville school and of Yale University. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Out-of-Town Guests. Among the out-of-town guests, not in the wedding party, who attended the wedding were Mrs. Bricker, the mother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. William S. Walker, of Ottawa, Ill., uncle and aunt of the bride; her cousin, Miss Catharine Beck Jones, of Chestertown, Md.; Mrs. Roche Hogeboom, Mrs. Allen Mack, both of Springfield, Mo.; Mrs. Rhodes Perdue, of Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. Knowles Davis, Mrs. James D. Robinson Jr., James Lewis, brother of Mrs. Perdue; Cam Dorsey, father of one of the groomsmen, and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Strupper, uncle and aunt of the groom, all of Atlanta.

Chi Omegas To Meet Today.

Group one of Chi Omega Alumnae will entertain Atlanta alumnae at the Colonial Terrace hotel on Peachtree road December 6 at 3 o'clock. In charge of program and social hour are Miss Ann Redding, chairman of group one and Mrs. Lee J. Loeb, vice chairman.

Members are urged to attend as there will be discussion of plans to form a new group to meet on week-day afternoons. There are many interested and loyal alumnae who find it impossible to attend the regular Sunday afternoon meetings of the association but who wish to continue contacts with other Chi Omega alumnae in the city.

Assisting the chairman and vice chairman at this meeting will be other members of group one including: Mesdames W. K. Meadow, O. C. Jensen, H. R. Smith, Harry Dunwoody,

Miss Charlotte Sage Is Honor Guest

Parties continue to be planned for Miss Charlotte Sage, debutante daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Dan E. Sage. Miss Sage shared honors yesterday afternoon with Misses Dorothy Shivers and Nancy Jones at the luncheon given by Mrs. Robert Mitchell. On Monday afternoon she will be honor guest at the tea at which Mrs. Olin Adcock and Miss Margaret Adcock will be hostesses at the Druid Hills Golf Club.

On December 12 Miss Sage will share honors with Misses Sara Jenkins and Beverly Bailey at an apéritif party to be given by Mrs. H. L. Morris and Miss Mary Morris at their home on Peachtree road. Dr. and Mrs. S. D. Gausemel will be hosts at a dinner party on December 12 at the Brookhaven Country Club for Miss Sage and Miss Nancy Jones.

Miss Sage will make her formal bow at a reception at which her mother entertains on December 21 at their home in Ansley Park.

Sidney Jewett, Sam Worley, S. E. Mellon, Clive Folger, C. D. Clarke, Harvie Hunter, W. A. Speer, Ed Sims, C. E. Gregory, W. D. Brewer Jr., Everett Thomas, Amy Chappell, Misses Louise Holst, Elizabeth Camp, Reia Randall, Elizabeth Randall and Eloise Tankley.

Plan Now To Buy a Beautiful Tea Service For Christmas at Claude S. Bennett's

Don't Miss Seeing This GORGEOUS DISPLAY of SILVER at The GIFTWAY of the South

207 Peachtree Street

A collection of beautiful silver in sterling and finest silverplate never yet equaled in this city—by

GORHAM. REED & BARTON and other leading silversmiths

The "Gadroon and Shell"

Gorham Silverplate

Complete 7-Pc. Service $215.00
5-Pc. Service 95.00

Coffee $27.00, Tea $26.00, Sugar $16.00, Cream $15.00,
Waste $11.00, Kettle and Stand $60.00, Oval Waiter
$60.00, Oblong Waiter $65.00.

The "Plymouth"

Gorham Sterling

Complete 7-Pc. Service $470.00
5-Pc. Service 250.00

Coffee $80.00, Tea $72.00, Sugar $40.00, Cream $30.00, Waste $28.00, Kettle and Stand $160.00, Gorham Silver-plated Tray $60.00, Sterling Waiters, 20-in. $130.00, 25-in. $260.00.

The "Regent"

Reed & Barton Silverplate

Complete 7-Pc. Service $160.00
5-Pc. Service 85.00

Coffee $16.00, Tea $15.00, Sugar $9.00, Cream $8.00,
Waste $7.00, Kettle and Stand $55.00, Waiter $55.00.

The "Queen Caroline"

Reed & Barton Silverplate

Complete 7-Pc. Service $145.00
5-Pc. Service 60.00

Coffee $16.50, Tea $16.00, Sugar $11.00, Cream $9.00,
Waste $7.50, Kettle and Stand $50.00, Waiter $33.00.

Mail Orders Prompt Attention.
Order by Pattern.

The "Fantasy"

Reed & Barton Silverplate

Complete 7-Pc. Service $145.00
5-Pc. Service $72.00

Coffee $19.00, Tea $16.50, Sugar $13.25, Cream
$13.25, Waste $10.00, Kettle and Stand $40.00, Tray
$33.00.

We Invite Your Account—Divide the Payments

Claude S. Bennett INC.

DIAMOND MERCHANTS

207 Peachtree

Atlanta

Atlanta's Leading Distributors for America's Finest Silversmiths

The "Shamrock"

Gorham Sterling

Complete 7-Pc. Service $840.00
5-Pc. Service 350.00

Coffee $120.00, Tea $95.00, Sugar $65.00, Cream
$40.00, Waste $30.00, Kettle and Stand $190.00, Waiter,
26-in. $300.00.

The "Fontainebleau"

Gorham Silverplate

Complete 7-Pc. Service $195.00
5-Pc. Service $90.00

Coffee $23.00, Tea $23.00, Sugar $16.00, Cream
$16.00, Waste $12.00, Kettle and Stand $50.00,
Waiter $55.00.

The "Winthrop"

Reed & Barton Silverplate

Complete 7-Pc. Service $218.00
5-Pc. Service 83.00

Coffee $25.00, Tea $21.00, Sugar $15.00, Cream $12.00,
Waste $9.00, Kettle and Stand $75.00, Waiter $60.00.

The Finest Gifts Money Can Buy!

We feature Hamilton and Elgin Watches and other standard merchandise.

W. H. DODSON
JEWELER
127 Peachtree Arcade

This Year . . . Give Men Wheary's "AVIATOR" Case

The modernized travel-luggage which packs suits without wrinkling them—

In black or brown—cowhide, seals—fabrics in stripes. Genuine rawhide and all wanted and durable materials.

$20.00

Others to $75.00

AVIATOR is one wardrobe case which truly keeps pace with the faster, lighter, more luxurious travel of today. Truly amazing capacity and convenience.

Each of two suits is carried on a separate suit-holder which keeps it smooth and fresh enroute.
Both suit-holders are removable thus Aviator may be used for plain bulk-packing on "outings," hunting trips, etc.
All men who travel need this modern travel case.

W. Z. Turner Luggage Co.

219 Peachtree St.

Decatur Parties Are of Interest

Miss Virginia Randolph will be hostess at a linen shower this afternoon in compliment to Miss Sarah Katherine Terrell, bride-elect, at her home in Decatur. Contests will be enjoyed. Invited to meet Miss Terrell are Misses Helen Barnes, Doris Everett, Jacqueline Howard, Louise Trotter, Mary Sortore, Elizabeth Thomson, Charlotte Johnson, Nell Scott Earlsman, Betty Stans, Marjorie Rainey, Lillian Brooks, Helen Peck, Grace McKinley, Doris Dunn, Adeline Hall, Katherine Pattillo, Josephine Davis, Kathleen Timmer, Jean Kirkland, Mrs. Keap Harrison and Mrs. Fred Spruell.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. J. M. Royall entertained in compliment to Miss Terrell and the guests included: Mesdames Edward Terrell, S. G. Stokes, C. W. Diekmann, Scott Caudler, A. E. Hendee, Milton Caudler, Jack Jervis, Lawrence Mansfield, Henry Newton, Lewis Johnson, Walter Rountree, Jack Rutland, Searcy Shack, Curtis Thomson, G. W. Glauzier, Joe Tidmore, Bruce Hall, Clarence Glass, W. A. Leake, George Gibbs, B. J. Woodward, Harold Bixler and L. W. Traylor.

Sunday evening Misses Leila, Alma and Ida Gilbert entertained at a dinner party at their home in Smyrna honoring Miss Terrell and her fiancé, Lucy Gilbert Jr.

Others entertaining for Miss Terrell and Mr. Gilbert will be Mrs. A. E. Hendee, Mrs. G. W. Glauzier and Mrs. W. A. Leake, Mrs. Curtis Thomson and Miss Elizabeth Thomson, Miss Jacqueline Howard and Miss Helen Barnes, Mrs. Bruce Hall and Miss Adeline Hall, Miss Doris Everett and others.

Miss Hicks Weds La Ban Keith Wood.

Of interest is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Eleanor Lee Hicks to La Ban Keith Wood, of San Antonio, Texas, and Atlanta, which took place October 21, at 301 Gordon avenue, Kirkwood, the home of Mrs. T. G. Cameron, a close friend. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a few intimate friends and the bride's mother, Mrs. Ruby Hicks.

The bride wore a wine crepe model with wine suede accessories. She wore a beige fox cape, and her flowers were wine roses and white carnations. The bride is a graduate of Girls' High school in Atlanta, and she attended Oglethorpe University, where she was instructor of dancing. Since that time she has continued teaching dancing, having classes in Calhoun and Cartersville.

The bridegroom received his education in Texas and is at present connected with the Alenite Company, Mr. and Mrs. Wood are residing at 553 St. Charles avenue, Atlanta, Ga.

HARTMANN LUGGAGE

for 'Him' A leather Travel Set for shaving articles. $1.95 to $25.00. Leather Goods Sold in Gold Free.

THE Luggage Shop
80 N. FORSYTH ST.
Next to BIALTO THEATRE

Will Make Bow to Society at Reception

Pictured above is Miss Virginia Toombs, lovely member of the 1936-37 Debutante Club, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Butler Toombs. Miss Toombs will make her formal entry into Atlanta society at a brilliant reception to be given Tuesday by her mother at her Palisades road home. The charming deb is a descendant of distinguished Georgia forerunners and is a great-niece of General Robert Toombs. She is a petite blonde and possesses a vivacious personality and a delightful and charming manner which have won for her countless friends. She attended Washington Seminary, where she took a leading part in scholastic activities, and later attended Oglethorpe University, where she was a member of the Chi Omega national sorority. Her debut year has been marked by a whirl of social affairs given in her honor. The sketch of Miss Toombs was made by Grace Scarborough from a photograph by Assano, Japanese photographer.

Montgomery-Hardman
ROME, Ga., Dec. 5.—The marriage of Miss Margaret Montgomery to Thom Hardman was solemnized at an impressive home ceremony Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Dr. J. W. O. McKibbin performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate members of the family and a few friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Hardman left after the ceremony on a motor trip. On their return to Rome they will reside at their apartment on Forrest street.

American Legion Auxiliary Officers

President, Mrs. J. W. Ogleby Jr., Quitman; first vice president, Mrs. Edgar Pullen, Cordle; second vice president, Mrs. W. B. Darison, Baldwin; secretary, Mrs. J. R. McMichael, Quitman; chaplain, Mrs. T. R. Egan, Baldwin; historian, Mrs. Myrtle A. Young, Quitman; national executive committee woman, Mrs. Helen Tate, Gainesville; alternate national committee woman, Mrs. Joseph M. Toomey, Decatur; publicity chairman, Mrs. C. B. McCallar, Milledgeville.

Prominent State Legion Members Appointed Chairmen of Welfare Work

By MRS. C. B. McCULLAR, Of Milledgeville, State Editor.

The appointment of Pat Kelly, of Valdosta, as Area C child welfare chairman of the national organization practically centers leadership of this work in the south in Georgia. Miss Helen Estes, of Gainesville, a past department president of the auxiliary, was recently appointed Area C child welfare chairman by the national president, Mrs. Lorena Hahn. The two area officials from Georgia will preside at the joint conference on this important work to be held in the spring.

Mr. Kelly, who spoke to the Legion and Auxiliary at their recent meeting in Macon on the work being done in this state in this child welfare work, stressed the major importance of the child welfare program of the Legion. He also gave to the auxiliary members and Legionnaires a number of checks to be taken back into their communities for the benefit of the children of veterans. A vast amount of financial relief for veterans' children has been brought into the state through Mr. Kelly's efforts, and his appointment to the high national office is gratifying to all those who have watched his work for veterans' children since he has been state chairman of that important committee.

Judge Bertie Stembrecht, of Milledgeville, Ga., state chairman of the Auxiliary's child welfare committee, said this week that with two area chairmen in Georgia, the work of her committee in this state would be given a decided impetus, and that she especially wanted Georgia to make a record in this work this year not only because of the importance of the work itself but as an appreciative gesture to national for the appointment of two Georgians to these important offices.

Mrs. J. R. McMichael, of Quitman, department secretary, urges the completion of the rehabilitation fund from the poppy sales. Ten per cent of this fund must be sent in to state headquarters to be used for rehabilitation work. December is rehabilitation month, and special stress is being laid upon this work now. Unit treasures are reminded to get this in immediately.

This month's issue of the National News Bulletin contains important messages to local chairmen or committees from national chairmen. All members of local units should subscribe to the National News Bulletin. Mrs. H. W. Rhodes, of Clarksville, is chairman of the National Bulletin committee in the Georgia department.

Mrs. Al Henson, 68 Alden avenue, Atlanta, Ga., reminds all unit presidents to see that their units join in the poppy lady movement, and suggests that statuettes for Christmas gifts will be an appropriate way for units to sell their quota.

Mrs. W. S. Davidson, of Baldwin, second vice president and chairman of membership, reminds unit membership chairmen that Mrs. J. W. Ogleby Jr., of Quitman, department president, is again offering her $25 membership award to the unit having the greatest percentage gain in membership. Your unit has a fine chance to win it.

Mrs. Myrtle A. Young, of Eatonton, state historian, is especially anxious that unit historians get in touch with her about the compilation of the World War history and data relative to the Legion and Auxiliary personnel records. This material is being compiled in 10 volumes: World War Records, World War Dead, Unit Charts, Distinguished Heroes, Unit History, Scrapbook, World War Songs, Membership Application Blanks, Letters From the Front, Georgia Patriots of Non-Military Service, and World War Veterans' Children.

Mayor George Carpenter, of Milledgeville, spoke to the Morris-Little unit Tuesday at their December meeting at the home of Miss Florida Allen. Mrs. Jere Moore is unit president.

Sunday movies in Milledgeville, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, is providing hot lunch for school children in several schools of the county this year.

Maiden Form gives you perfect evening Brassieres and Girdles

"Over-Ture" Brassiere

Beautifully uplifting—firmly supporting. Brassiere in choice of materials and lace. Made completely backless with wrap-around front fastening. White, tearose.

1.00 — 1.50

"Cartsy" Pantie Girdle

A real cure for bulges-at-the-thighs is this latest pantie girdle, with real pantie legs, so fashioned that the pressure tapers to nothing at the lower edges. Gives one unbroken line from hip to knee.

3.50

Youthful Lastex Panties

Little lastex panties that do an amazing job of moulding. Overwhelmingly preferred by smart women who require a light support.

1.50 foundations

second floor

Regenstein's
Peachtree Store
Atlanta

Hostesses at Garden Center This Week

Hostesses at the Garden Center this week will be: Monday, Linwood Garden Club and the garden division of the West End Woman's Club; Tuesday, Rosemary and Axtell Park Garden Clubs, and Lullwater and Brookhaven Garden Clubs; Wednesday, Whiteford and Boxwood Garden Clubs; Thursday, Neighborhood and Dogwood Garden Clubs, and Adair Park and Amariyis Garden Clubs; Friday, Iris and Perennial Garden Clubs.

Last Friday the Cascade Garden Club did a niche arrangement and received 84 points. The garden division of the 84th district, G. E. W. C. arranged a niche and received 80 points. Monday the garden division of the College Park Woman's Club created a color scheme in their niche and were awarded 80 points.

On Tuesday the Azalea Garden Club arranged a Christmas greens arrangement. The simplicity of this design justified the high percentage of 80, which it received. The Cherokee Garden Club made a rope design of pine, sumac, firethorn and tangerines to hang around the Garden Center doorway. This received 74 points.

On Wednesday the Druis Hills Garden Club did a Della Robbia wreath and received 96 points, and was made by Mrs. Carl Lewis. The East Lake Garden Club entered a large arrangement and received 74 points.

Out-of-town guests have been Mrs. A. N. Brittain, of Palmetto, Ga.; Mrs. J. F. McLendon, of Clarkston, Ga.; Mrs. J. E. Brown, of Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. H. A. Jones and Mrs. Foreman, of Tallapoosa, Ga.; Mrs. C. I. Cowden, of Montgomery, Ala.; Miss Anna Floyd, of Birmingham, Ala.; Mr. William A. Walker, of Quitman, Ga.; Mrs. Rae Lessem, of Gillespie, Ill.; Mrs. Carrie Jay, of Fitzgerald, Ga.; and Mrs. Claude H. Hutcheson, of Jonesboro, Ga.

Miss Chapman Weds Mr. Cowart, of Claxton

CLAXTON, Ga., Dec. 5.—A wedding of interest was that of Miss Myrtle Ruth Chapman and Robert Cowart, of Claxton, both members of prominent families. The marriage took place on November 29, at the Methodist parsonage at Claxton, with only witnesses present. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Holloway, pastor.

Mrs. Cowart is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Chapman and a granddaughter of the late John H. and Martha Lanier Watson. Her paternal grandparents were a Mr. and Mrs. John Samuel Chapman, of Tallapoosa county.

She is a graduate of Alexander Stephens Institute and is a lovely brunette who possesses a charming personality and has endeared herself to a host of friends.

Mrs. Cowart wore a Bagdad blue dress with rhinestone trimmings and navy accessories. She wore a smart hat of navy with Bagdad blue trimmings.

The groom is a well-known farmer and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cowart, of Claxton.

After the ceremony the young couple left for a wedding trip through Georgia. The bride wore a suit of navy tweed with navy accessories. They will reside near Claxton, where Mr. Cowart is engaged in farming.

Celebrates Birthday.

Miss Dolores Ruth Sewell was entertained at her home with a birthday party on December 3. The favors and color scheme were carried out with the Christmas colors, little Santa and horns and place cards as souvenirs were carrying out the Christmas season. The table in the dining room was attractively decorated with lace cloth and red candles and an artistic birthday cake.

Guests were Katherine McKinzie, Mary Anne Crews, Peggy Crews, Elizabeth Yost, Christina Riley, Mary McManera, Helen McManera, Anne Howington, Alice Jeanne Caswell, Bruce Charlton, Nadia Marie Moore, Jerald Deane Bush and Evelyn Foster.

Miss Nichols Weds Mr. Judge At Impressive Home Ceremony

Miss Sarah Catherine Nichols became the bride of Thomas Jackson Judge at an impressive ceremony solemnized yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. John M. Nichols Sr., on Euclid avenue. Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, pastor of the First Baptist church, performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and close friends.

A musical program was presented by Miss Irene Leftwich, pianist, and Mr. Hutchinson, violinist. The ceremony was performed in the living room before an improvised altar. The mantle was screened by palms before which were arranged floor baskets of madonna lilies interspersed with Canadabra holding gleaming white tapers. The wedding party walked down an aisle formed by white satin ribbons.

Ushers were Charles Nichols, brother of the bride, and Thomas J. Seiger, Miss Jean Hicks was the maid of honor, and the bride's only attendant. She was gowning in a lovely model of blue satin made on empire lines, the long train being built into the flowing skirt. A collar of real lace outlined the high neckline of the bodice, which buttoned down the back with tiny satin-covered buttons. Her tulle veil fell in graceful folds from a close-fitting cape of lace, which was worn by her grandmother at her wedding, and it was showered with orange blossoms. She carried a cascade bouquet of valley lilies.

Following the ceremony, Mrs. Nichols entertained at a reception honoring her daughter and Mr. Judge. In the receiving line were Mrs. Nichols, Richard Lee Judge, father of the groom, and the bride and groom. The home was decorated with palms, roses and chrysanthemums. The table in the dining room was covered with a real lace cloth and was centered by a three-tiered wedding cake.

Mrs. Nichols chose for the occasion a handsome gown of self-trimmed blue velvet and her flowers were gardenias. Assisting the hostess in entertaining were Mesdames William M. Nichols, John M. Nichols, D. P. Nelson, T. P. Hicks, Homer McDaniel, T. J. Chesbire, Paul D. MacQuiston, Misses Mary Snow, Elaine Ables, Meriel Things she likes... and would choose for herself. An invaluable list for men who wish to remember some lovely lady with a gift gala, gay and highly useful. With the Regenstein label assuring good style... shopping is simple with this glamorous collection awaiting you at Regenstein's.

Christmas gifts from Regenstein's wrapped without charge.

- a. Bouquets of Violets to adorn her coat. Purple, red, green. 1.00
- b. Bouquet of Violets. 59c
- c. Opening Night Perfume, by Lucien LeLong, a glamorous scent, beautifully packaged. 5.00
- d. Van Raalte's Myth Hose, exquisite chiffons in happitone and merrigold. 1.15 3 prs. 3.30
- e. Kid Gloves of fine French kid, pique sewn. Chaudron, black, green, wine, navy and brown. 2.98
- f. Satin Scarf, square neckerchief with bright designs. 1.00
- g. Square Satin Scarf, in bright Paisley print. 1.00
- h. Evening Bag of beautiful brocade on smart metal frame. 2.98
- i. *Pearl Bag for evening, on metal frame with chain handle. 2.98
- j. Evening Handkerchiefs, black or colored chiffon sparkling with rhinestones. 1.00
- k. Costume Jewelry in crystal, bright colors with black. Matching sets of clips, bracelets and belt buckles. ca. 1.00
- l. Evening Handkerchiefs of chiffon with wide hemstitching and corner lace applique. Pastels, black and white. 1.00

*Simulated.

accessory shops street floor

Regenstein's
Peachtree Store
Atlanta

PRE-HOLIDAY CLEARANCE

Sale!
FURS

This sale—our greatest in 20 years—makes possible the giving of fine furs for Christmas.

30% OFF

Every item in our store—every fur coat, scarf and cape—reduce to move. Quality unexcelled. Choose from—

SWAGGERS TROTTEURS FITTED COATS

Russian Sables, Baum Martens, Hudson Bay Sables, Jag Sables, Stone Martens, Kamchatka Cherry Red Fox and many others.

WILLNER'S
the Symbol of Safety
FURS

CHARGE ACCOUNTS CLUB ACCOUNTS

Willners
THE SYMBOL OF SAFETY IN FURS
218 Peachtree St. W. 8918

LOVELY BRIDES-ELECT, RECENT BRIDES AND WEDDING PERSONNEL

Asano Studio Photo.
The engagement of Miss Betty Hambricht to Woodford Dunlap Williamson is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Black Hambricht, the marriage to take place on December 28 at All Saints.

Miss Mary Large And Mr. Moore Will Wed Jan. 1

Social importance is centered today in the announcement of the wedding plans of Miss Mary Large and Berrian Moore Jr., whose engagement was recently announced. The ceremony will be among outstanding social events of the midwinter season and takes place on January 1 at 6 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church. Dr. William V. Gardner, the pastor, will perform the ceremony and Mrs. Roy M. Fowles will render a program of nuptial music prior to and during the ceremony.

Edwin K. Large will give his daughter in marriage, and Hugh D. Carter Jr. will be best man for Mr. Moore. Miss Josephine Large, sister of the bride-elect, will be maid of honor, and Mrs. Hugh Carter Jr., sister of the groom-elect, will be matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Frances Adams and Mesdames Ivan Allen Jr., Bobby Dodd and Scott Hudson Jr.

Acting as groomsmen and ushers will be Bobby Dodd, Frank Ridley, John Ridley, Charles Yates, Scott Hudson Jr., E. K. Large Jr., Stanley Holditch and William Carver.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Large will be hosts at an informal reception at their home on North avenue for their daughter and Mr. Moore, the guests to be limited to members of the wedding party and families.

Prior to their marriage Miss Large and Mr. Moore will be central figures at a series of delightful social affairs, the first to be the supper-dance to be given on December 8 by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Carter at the Capital City Club. On December 11, Mrs. Nason Lowance entertains at a bride-tea for Miss Large.

Other parties planned to honor the bride-elect include the breakfast to be given on December 9 by Mrs. George Suggs and her mother, Mrs. Clyde Langford, and the bride party to be given on December 12 by Mrs. Stephen Hale and Mrs. John Graves at the home of the latter on Pine Tree drive.

Miss Frances Adams will be hostess on December 13 at a cocktail party at her home, and on December 15 Mrs. Arthur Burdett and Mrs. Robert Taylor

Asano Studio Photo.
Miss Dahlis McMurdo, of Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., formerly of Atlanta, whose engagement is announced to Lieutenant Donald W. Bernier, U. S. A., of Fort Benjamin Harrison, the marriage to be solemnized at a spring ceremony.

Asano Studio Photo.
Mrs. Robert D. O'Callaghan, of New York, is the former Mrs. Aileen Lonsdale Ramsey, and her marriage took place on Thanksgiving Day in Baltimore, Md. She is a member of the Atlanta Junior League.

Miss McMurdo, Lieut. Bernier Are Betrothed

FORT BENJAMIN HARRISON, Ind., Dec. 5.—Of social interest in military and civilian circles due to the prominence of the two families is the announcement made today by Lieutenant Colonel Hew Bernard McMurdo, U. S. A., and Mrs. McMurdo of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dahlis McMurdo, to Lieutenant Donald William Bernier, infantry, U. S. A., of this post, their marriage to take place in the early spring.

Miss McMurdo is a representative of a long line of distinguished forebears in America and England. Her mother was before her marriage Miss Dahlis Playfair, of Sydney, Australia, formerly of England. Colonel McMurdo, father of the bride-elect, is descended from families prominent in military circles for many generations and is a native of Charlottesville, Va.

Although never having made a formal debut, the beautiful bride-elect has been an acknowledged belle, and during the four years her father was stationed at Fort McPherson, Ga., she took a prominent part in social activities and was one of the most popular members of the military contingent. She was graduated from Girls' High school in Atlanta and attended the University of Georgia, where she was a member of the Chi Omega national social sorority and the Theta Sigma Phi, honorary scholastic sorority. She is a beautiful blonde and possesses a distinct charm and sweetness of manner.

The bride-elect is the only daughter of her parents and is the sister of Hew Bernard McMurdo Jr. and Strathmore McMurdo.

Lieutenant Bernier is a native of Chicago, Ill., and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Bernier, of Chicago. He is a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., in the class of '35, and since that time he has been stationed at Fort Benjamin Harrison with the infantry.

Burns-Spruill.
Mr. and Mrs. Paul Burns announce the marriage of their daughter, Laura, to W. T. Spruill, of Decatur, on November 14, 1936. They will reside with the bride's parents for the present in Atlanta.

Asano Studio Photo.
When Miss Louise MacIntyre became the bride of Dr. Julius Hughes at the First Presbyterian church last week she was attended by a bevy of attractive bridesmaids. From left to right, seated, are Mrs. McCrea Floyd and Mrs. Dan Hanks, of Rome. Second row, standing, are Mrs. Abner Calhoun, Miss Margaret Hughes, Miss Louisa Robert; the bride, Mrs. Julius Hughes; Mrs. Frank Mitchell and Mrs. J. Gaston Gay. Miss Josephine Meador and Mrs. Nathan Brandon are on the back row.

Miss Manning Weds Steven T. Butler

Miss Virginia Manning became the bride of Steven T. Butler at a quiet ceremony solemnized November 26 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Haston, on Piedmont road, N. E.

The vows were taken before an improvised altar in the living room, formed of a background of palms and ferns interspersed with floor baskets filled with chrysanthemums. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Marvin M. Maxwell, pastor of the First Methodist church, in Griffin.

The bridegroom had as his best man, Gordon Haston. The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Waureta Manning, who wore an attractive green crepe gown trimmed with black tulle and black accessories. Her flowers were sweet peas and roses.

The bride wore green velvet made along Empire lines, finished with shades of rust, her accessories being rust and brown. Her flowers were talisman roses and lily of the valley.

An out-of-town guest was Mrs. H. L. Keller, of Charlotte, N. C., the sister of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony the bride and groom were honored by Mrs. B. H. Manning, assisted by Mrs. Gordon Haston, at an informal reception and wedding breakfast.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler left on a wedding trip to interesting points in Tennessee and the Carolinas, and upon their return will reside at 1474 Beecher street, S. W.

Miss Bradwell Weds William W. Howell

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 5.—The marriage of Miss Julia Bradwell, daughter of Judge and Mrs. James D. Bradwell, to William Howell, son of Mr. and Mrs. McBride Howell, took place here at high noon today at the First Methodist church.

The Rev. Walter Robison, of College Park, uncle of the groom, performed the ceremony, assisted by the pastor, the Rev. George Acree. Music was rendered by Mrs. Katie Jester Griffith, organist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of hunter's green crepe, becoming to her blonde beauty. The skirt was made tunic style and the blouse fashioned of green lace with long sleeves. Her hat was an off-the-face model of French felt. A bouquet of Talisman roses completed the costume. For traveling the bride donned a handsome green wool coat with fox collar.

Mrs. Katharine Mercke, the bride's sister, was matron of honor and her only attendant. Dr. Walker Jernigan, of Atlanta, was best man.

Mrs. Howell, a petit blonde, is a beautiful young woman, an admired and popular figure in Athens society. She is a member of the Junior Assembly and of the Phi Mu Sorority. She holds a B.S. degree in fine and applied arts from the University of Georgia. Mr. Howell is a member of the Athens Country Club and of the Chi Phi Fraternity. He was graduated from the University of Georgia in the class of 1929. Mr. Howell holds a splendid position with the Athens office of the Georgia Public Utilities Corporation.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Howell left for a trip through Florida. After December 15 they will reside on Milledge avenue.

Interesting Talks Are Heard At Parent-Teacher Meetings

"Safety Teaching in the School" was the subject of the program given by teachers and children of the Tenth Street school at the P-T-A. meeting on Tuesday. Rules of safety in the home, school and community were depicted by the children in unique ways. E. L. Anderson spoke on safety and read safety resolutions consisting of highway patrol, drivers license and various others which were adopted by the P-T-A. Mrs. T. E. Ruskin, president, presided. Mrs. W. H. Major gave the devotionals and a Christmas poem. Mrs. DeFord Smith talked on benefits derived from reading the National Parent-Teacher magazine.

Mrs. D. E. Kahn spoke on motion pictures and the importance of sponsoring various movements for better pictures. Mrs. W. K. Andrew reported that the articles of food and clothing given the Red Cross at Thanksgiving were most generous. Mrs. H. B. Whitworth, principal, announced the approaching Christmas holiday and urged the parents to guard well the health of their children so that they may be able to return to school promptly. Mrs. W. P. Kennedy, music chairman, rendered piano selections.

Luckie Street P-T-A.
Luckie Street P-T-A. met on Tuesday with Mrs. J. P. Scarborough, president, presiding. The school chorus sang several beautiful Christmas carols. Dr. Willis A. Sutton talked on "The Five American Imperatives," pointing out five things Americans must have to live, love of soil, love of home, love of public schools, love of God and love of government. It was announced that an article in the December number of the American Childhood was written by one of the teachers, Miss Thresher. Miss Bradshaw and Miss Wyon won the grade count prize for the higher grades, and Miss Thresher for the lower grades.

Annie E. West P-T-A.
Annie E. West P-T-A. held a daddies' night meeting on Tuesday with R. A. Fant, vice president, presiding. R. A. Fant was treasurer and H. F. Strong, secretary. J. R. Wilson, of Woodland Hills Baptist church, gave the invocation after which M. W. Ball talked on organizing a Scout Union to be held at the school.

Mrs. J. W. Doster introduced Rev. W. E. Crane, who talked on "Spiritual Training of Today."

Low 3. Mrs. Grenade, teacher, won the count prize. A social hour was held with the hospitality committee, Mrs. Harley Strong, chairman, in charge.

Pryor St. School P-T-A.
Pryor Street School P-T-A. met with Mrs. H. F. Boston, who presided. Miss Vera Milner led the devotionals. A group of Christmas carols was rendered by the fourth, fifth and sixth grades. Miss Kathleen Nabors, assisted by Mesdames T. P. Lyons, C. D. Clowers, C. J. Pruett, J. C. Vining, Dewey Chyers, W. B. Honea, gave interesting discussions on the subject of "The Moral Spiritual Training in the Home and School."

Miss Dorothy Orr announced the Thanksgiving offering was successful.

Pre-School Group.
In the pre-school study course of "Basic Principles in Education," Dr. G. Brinkley delivered the second lecture, "Character Education," at Inman school on Wednesday. Dr. Brinkley brought forward many interesting and valuable points. The kindergarten orchestra gave musical selections and rhythm work.

Mrs. C. J. De Silva, of Morningside P-T-A. led the discussion. Books selected by Miss Cox, of children's department of Carnegie library, were displayed.

Mrs. Carter Talks to O'Keefe P-T-A.
In her talk to the O'Keefe P-T-A. board on Wednesday, Mrs. Ruth Hinman Carter brought out the importance of reading good books in character building. Mrs. Carter gave reviews of outstanding books and outlined some of the best in current books for adolescent children and held a forum for answering questions and discussing problems concerning reading with the mothers.

Historical Operetta.

A historical operetta, "The Inn of the Golden Cheese," will be put presented by the primary grades of S. R. Young school in conjunction with a music appreciation class on Tuesday at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium. Leading parts will be taken by Henry Dixon, Alfred Wall, Emily Dorsey, Sonny Padgett, Russell Dunn, Evelyn Croley, Charles Harkey, Joan Anderson, E. B. Martin, Grace McGee, Wilson Ewing, Bebe Hayne, Mary Vinworth, John Ferguson, Virginia Warren, Julian Brown and Ely Dodson.

Crew Street P-T-A.
Crew Street P-T-A. sponsors evening of entertainment on Thursday at 8 o'clock.

Cooking School.
J. Allen Couch P-T-A. and faculty will sponsor a cooking school on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in the cafeteria. Prizes will be awarded each day.

Forrest Avenue Organizes Chorus.

The newly-organized Mothers' Chorus of Forrest Avenue P-T-A. under direction of Mrs. Heidt, will meet for practice in the school auditorium, at 9 o'clock Tuesday. All mothers interested are invited to attend.

At 10 o'clock on that date, Rev. Arthur Allen will address the parent-education group in the second of a series of meetings, on the subject, "What Society Expects of Our Children." Executive board meets at 11 o'clock in the auditorium.

Magazine Chairmen Requested To Send In Subscriptions

Mrs. J. H. Cheatham, chairman of the National Parent-Teacher magazine of the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers, requests local magazine chairmen to send in subscriptions promptly. In accordance with the national plan the state branches are divided into six classes on a local unit basis for purpose of registration of local magazine chairmen, and awards as follows are offered: $50 to the state in each class which has registered by December 1, 1936, the highest per cent of local chairmen in proportion to the number of local units, and $20 to the state in each class which is second.

Up to October 31, 1936, only 223 National Parent-Teacher magazine chairmen from Georgia have been registered in the national office, and Mrs. Cheatham urges all local associations who have not already registered the name of their magazine chairman in the national office to do so immediately.

Highlights appearing in the January issue include "Helps with the Parent-Teacher Program," "The Key to Safety" and other helpful articles. The National Parent-Teacher magazine advocates the newest and soundest methods of handling the many questions which present themselves in dealing with children.

P-T-A. Meetings

Parent education group of S. M. Inman school meets on Tuesday at 7:30 o'clock with Mrs. M. M. O'Sullivan, 337 Boulevard circle, the subject being "How our Different Agencies Can Best Co-operate in a Better Community." Mrs. Harry Jones, chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Effie Albrecht, principal; L. A. Weekly, M. E. O'Sullivan, W. E. Coleman, Harry Jones, Frank Wilson, C. E. Stein, John Crenshaw and Harrison Taylor.

Parents of Bass Junior High P-T-A. hold open house at the school on Thursday from 7 to 9 o'clock. Parents will register and follow the regular school program. Each room holds a different program.

O'Keefe Junior High P-T-A. meets on Wednesday at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium, the Rev. Dr. Herman L. Turner speaking. Captain Jack Stanton of the Atlanta police department, talks on "Safety," and Stanley M. Hastings, principal, answers all questions in the Question Box.

East Lake P-T-A. meets on Tuesday at 2:30 o'clock in the auditorium, the subject being "Participation in the Religious Life of the Home, School and Community." The Rev. Russell F. Johnson speaks and a board meeting will be held at 10 o'clock Monday.

The Rev. Dr. G. W. Gagne speaks at the daddies' meeting of Church Street P-T-A. on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Taking part in the program will be Grace Maguire, Miriam Ward, the Fickett sisters and Bernice Ruan.

Perkinson's P-T-A. meets on Friday at 2:30 o'clock in the school auditorium, with Miss Estelle King, librarian at Carnegie library, speaking on "Home Library and Book-Giving at Christmas."

Fulton County Presidents' Club meets in Rich's restaurant on Tuesday at 12:30 o'clock.

Fulton County Council meets on Wednesday at 2:30 o'clock at the courthouse, members of the executive committee meeting at 2 o'clock.

Formwalt P-T-A. meets on Tuesday at 2:45 o'clock in the school auditorium.

Executive board of J. Allen Couch P-T-A. meets on Tuesday in the school auditorium.

Moreland Pre-School Association meets in the kindergarten room of the school at 2:30 o'clock on Friday.

Daddies' meeting of Oakhurst P-T-A. scheduled for Thursday, has been postponed until January.

Frank L. Stanton P-T-A. meets on Tuesday at 2:30 o'clock, the Rev. M. A. Cooper speaking.

Executive board of the S. M. Inman P-T-A. meets on Tuesday at 9:30 o'clock in the school library.

Kirkwood P-T-A. meets on Tuesday at the auditorium.

Ponce deLeon P-T-A. Officials Honored

Mrs. Stanley Hastings, president, Mrs. Roy Brown, vice president, Mrs. Candler Murphy, recording secretary, and Mrs. Frank Thomas, treasurer of the Ponce de Leon P-T-A., will entertain at tea Wednesday at 4 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Hastings in Decatur. The guests will include members of the executive board, teachers and class mothers of the Ponce de Leon school.

The study group of the Decatur Girls' High school will entertain at Mrs. Stanley Hastings Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock. All mothers are invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hastings were hosts to members of their bridge dinner club Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Brice have returned from a trip to Chester, S. C.

Mrs. George S. Watts was hostess to members of her bridge club Thursday.

Mrs. R. B. Hunt, of Owenton, Ky., is visiting her niece, Mrs. W. S. Elkin.

Mrs. E. B. Branch entertained members of the Nifty Nine Bridge Luncheon Club Wednesday.

Mrs. E. B. Branch Jr., has returned from a trip to Jacksonville and St. Augustine.

W. S. Williams, who has been ill with pneumonia at Wesley hospital is much improved.

Miss Alice Walker was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Walker this week.

Mrs. James Gurren and Mrs. Warren Sherman have returned from a trip to Tampa and Dade City, Fla.

Dr. D. P. McGeachy is improving from an illness of several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Bryson have returned from a visit to relatives at Siloam, Ga.

Mrs. Alfred Branch Jr., was hostess Thursday to members of her bridge club.

Mrs. John Glenn entertained members of her Luncheon Bridge Club Thursday.

Mrs. R. L. Paine was hostess Tuesday at luncheon. Covers were placed for Mesdames Scott Candler, Searcy Slack, Henry Newton, Hamilton Anley and Miss Frances Burgess.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Heaton are spending a week visiting points in Florida.

Mrs. Hamff Fetes Miss Anne Babington

Miss Anne Babington, popular bride-elect, whose marriage to Harvey Hamff takes place on December 22, was the central figure Saturday at the beautiful tea given by Mrs. C. F. Hamff at her home on Emory circle. Forming a receiving line with the hostess were Miss Babington, Mrs. R. K. Babington and Mrs. Henry Newton.

Throughout the home quantities of chrysanthemums and snapdragons in pastel shades were used in artistic arrangement as the decorations. The table in the dining room was covered with an imported Madeira cloth and was offset by silver candlesticks holding green burning tapers. All the appointments were of silver and at either end of the table were antique silver coffee and tea services.

Assisting the hostess in entertaining the 200 guests were Mrs. Lavinia Johns, Miss Elizabeth Hamff and Miss June Harvey. Serving were Miss Babington's bridesmaids, including Misses Rae Miller, Doris Dunn, Mary Malone and Hilda Reed.

2:30 o'clock, Dr. K. Owen speaking on "Home as a Moral and Spiritual Center."

Lakewood Heights P-T-A. executive board meets on Thursday at 2:15 o'clock.

Morningside P-T-A. executive board meets on Tuesday at 10:30 o'clock in the school library.

Bolton School P-T-A. meets on Friday at the auditorium.

Dr. Sutton Speaks To Atlanta Council On Timely Subject

Dr. Willis A. Sutton spoke to Atlanta Council of Parent-Teacher Associations Thursday on the five objectives of the Atlanta public schools this year. He gave the five things for children to learn as: a love of the soil that Georgia is a few years may not be a desert; place more emphasis on home life that America may stand as a nation; maintain a progressive government in keeping with the time; an appreciation of the beauty in art and music; and a consciousness of the presence of God by avoiding looseness of speech and slang.

Rev. Lawrence Davis spoke on character education, stressing the need for religious training in an educational program.

The committee appointed to work for the reduction in bus fare to five cents for school children to correspond with car fares, reported that the resolution was being given careful consideration and they hoped to have a favorable report by the next meeting.

Mrs. J. Elmer Slider, president, requested local units having budgeted money for the council welfare fund to send it to Mrs. R. E. Wise, treasurer, as the fund is almost depleted, and requests for shoes for children at this time of the year are heavy.

The council went on record as approving a resolution of the Atlanta Motor Club in support of the drivers' license law.

National P-T-A. Honors Miss Reeves.

Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers announces the election of Miss Lillian Reeves, 797 Juniper street, N. E., Atlanta, Ga., formerly of Barnesville, Ga., as the new chairman of parent education.

Miss Reeves has had experience in adult education, having been formerly connected with the State Department of Education. Her services will be available for conducting parent education classes in local Parent-Teacher associations.

The new Parent Education Guidebook may be secured from the State Parent-Teacher office. Price 10 cents. This booklet was prepared by Dr. Ada Hart Arlitt, parent education chairman of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and will prove a great help to local associations.

Life Membership Certificates Given.

The presentation of life membership certificates to Mrs. J. H. Hearn and Mrs. W. E. Vaughn was the highlight of the impressive and inspirational service held by the Stewart Avenue Methodist W. M. S. recently at the church. Mrs. J. L. Pickett, circle chairman, gave Mrs. Hearn a certificate from her circle. At the conclusion of the presentation, little Hilda Copeland, granddaughter of Mrs. Hearn, placed the life membership pin on her grandmother, who has been a valued member of the society for many years. Mrs. R. E. Pim presented Mrs. Vaughn a certificate from the society and Mrs. J. W. Glass gave her the life membership pin from Circle No. 6. Mrs. Vaughn is treasurer of the society and has held this office for 15 years.

The theme for the program was "Peace." Mrs. Royce Lewis and Mrs. Emmett Quinn brought splendid messages on this subject, Mrs. R. S. Bell sang, "Make Somebody Happy Today."

Officers for the new year were installed and pledged themselves to service by singing the hymn "Ready." Mrs. Emmett Quinn concluded the meeting with prayer.

Be a Xmas "Star" ... Show a Sparkling Face

A few hours in the deft hands of our experts, and the most shopping-worn face will be transformed into sparkling charm!

A facial—to glorify your skin, madame... perhaps a smart permanent as the basis for a new hair-style to captivate your "public"... a gleaming manicure, a shapely eyebrow arch, a shampoo and finger-wave... These are the essentials for Xmas stardom! Telephone for your appointment early.

Beauty Salon, Fourth Floor

RICH'S

WATCH REPAIR GIFT SPECIALS

Modernize

your old watch for someone's Christmas Gift as low as $2.95

This includes a new case, new dial, new hands, new stem and crown, new crystal!

GIFT WATCH BANDS 69c to $5

Use Your Charge Account RICH'S Street Floor

RICH'S Fluffy Gift Slippers

1.49

Figured satin white fur-trimmed bootie—light blue, red or black.

1.29

Figured satin white fur-trimmed dorsay—light blue, green, white, red or black.

1.79

Velvet Hostess Slipper—pink, royal blue, red, black or green.

MAIL SERVICE
STREET FLOOR

Answer truthfully

Should You Pass Up
This Dress

SALE?

$13.75

No need to stress the point... a Muse dress at $13.75 is a BUY! And these are Muse dresses with all the quality and fashion rightness that the name implies. Dresses for the office, for teas, for gala nights... crepes, materials, velvets, metals, soft woolsens... in such fascinating variety that you'll have difficulty choosing just which one you like best. It's perilous to describe them in detail for many are few-of-a-kind and cannot be duplicated. Imagine our embarrassment if they'd be gone before you got here. Even so... better hurry. Values like these are snapped up.

200 DRESSES

- All Sales Final
- No Mail Orders
- No Approvals

Fifth Floor

Only Yesterday

They Were

$19.75, $22.75, $25.00,
$29.75

SPECIAL CHRISTMAS OFFER!

with this White

ROTARY ELECTRIC SEWING MACHINE

3-PIECE SCISSORS SET with the White—at no additional cost. This fine set of scissors packed in a genuine leather Zipper case.

$110.00 WHITE PLUS THE SCISSORS

$79.95

PRE-CHRISTMAS PRICE!

ONLY A FEW DAYS LEFT

Shop early to get this $110.00 White—two-tone walnut finish—and the $4.50 Scissors—gold-plated bows—at this grand saving! The White alone is one of the season's biggest values.

Substantial Old Machine Allowance

$3.00 Down Delivers—Balance Monthly

Rich's Second Floor

RICH'S

Emory Fraternities Plan Program Of Social Affairs for Centennial

Beginning of Emory's centennial celebration this week finds members of campus fraternities busy in preparation for a variety of functions, planned for the week in honor of distinguished visitors and alumni. Receptions, smokers and informal dinners are all included in the list of events planned for the week. Fraternity homes will be opened all week to home-coming alumni and centennial visitors from other colleges.

Starting the week's festivities Sunday, Pi Kappa Alpha and Sigma Chi will entertain with buffet suppers, with alumni as guests.

On Thursday afternoon the Emory chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon will entertain at open house in the chapter home on fraternity row. Mrs. J. R. Alexander, hostess, will preside at the punch bowl. Friday evening the chapter will entertain with an informal dinner honoring Mark Ethridge, general manager of the Louisville Courier-Journal. Mr. Ethridge, alumnus of the University of Mississippi chapter of the fraternity, comes to the centennial as featured speaker on the press day program Friday morning. Richard G. Brumby, chapter president, will preside at the dinner.

Saturday afternoon, campus chapters of Alpha Tau Omega, Chi Phi and Sigma Chi will hold informal receptions in their chapter houses. Sigma Chi will honor one of its alumni, Dr. George A. Morgan Jr., of Duke University, who will speak on the alumni night program in conjunction with the Emory Glee Club concert in Glenn Memorial auditorium, Saturday evening. Mrs. E. A. Drake, hostess, and Graham E. Golson, chapter president, will head the receiving line.

Chi Phi has mailed more than 500 invitations to its alumni for the occasion. Mrs. Pearl Hyde, chapter hostess, will officiate at the table.

Judge Luther Z. Rosser, of Atlanta, national president, is among the alumni who will attend.

Alpha Tau Omega will also be host to alumni Saturday afternoon, with an informal gathering in the chapter house on North Decatur road.

On Saturday evening, Pi Kappa Alpha will entertain at an open house in the chapter home on Clifton road, following the glee club concert and alumni night program. National officers and other prominent alumni have been invited to attend. James M. Thurman, chapter president, and Mrs. W. H. Barron, hostess, will welcome the guests.

A series of informal gatherings, characteristic of such a week of celebration, will occupy the attention of members of other fraternities. Among other groups already tentatively planning activities for the week are Kappa Alpha, Phi Delta Theta, Sigma Nu and others.

Lovely Brides and Brides-Elect

Lomax Studio Photo.
MRS. LA BAN K. WOOD.

Lomax Studio Photo.
MRS. JAMES S. MANLEY.

Gates Studio Photo.
MISS GLENNIE MARLOW.

Little Studio Photo.
MRS. MIKE E. BOCK.

Mrs. Wood, of San Antonio, Texas, and Atlanta, is the former Miss Eleanor Lee Hicks and her marriage took place October 21. Mrs. Manley was before her marriage Miss Mary Elizabeth Moore, daughter of Mrs. Herbert B. Moore Jr., and her marriage took place October 3. Miss Marlow is the daughter of Mrs. G. W. Marlow, of Athens, and her engagement is announced today to Ralph Woodrow Hardy, of Athens and Winston-Salem, the marriage to take place on December 23. Mrs. Bock is the former Miss Sonia Marks and her marriage was a recent event taking place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Bock on Parkway drive.

O.E.S. Elects Officers.

Center Hill Chapter No. 235, Order of Eastern Star, Tuesday night elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Worthy patron, O. Lee White; worthy matron, Mrs. Stella Brewton; associate patron, W. H. McClesky; associate matron, Mrs. Maude Thomas; secretary, Mrs. Elnor Smith; treasurer, Mrs. Willie Penn; conductor, Mrs. Nellie Mae Wright; assistant conductor, Mrs. Gertrude Beard.

To Present Drama.

Senior Dramatic Art class of the University of Georgia Evening school will present a dramatized adaptation of Charles Dickens' "Christmas Carol" in the Roof Garden auditorium at 223 Walton street Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

This production is sponsored by The Playcrafters, the evening school dramatic club, and a small admission fee will be charged to defray the expense of the presentation. The public is invited to attend.

Meetings

Oakland City Chapter No. 560, O. E. S., meets at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening at the Masonic Temple in Oakland City, and officers will be elected.

Golden Rule Chapter No. 110, O. E. S., meets on December 12 at 7:30 o'clock in the Joseph C. Greenfield Masonic Temple on Moreland avenue at Little Five Points, and election of officers will be held.

Mary E. La Rocca Grove of the Supreme Forest Women's Circle meets Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Masonic Temple, Bankhead and Ashby streets. Election of officers will be held.

Mrs. Aba Leon Johnson will be hostess to the Service Club on Wednesday at her home, 117 Mill street, in Atlanta.

John R. Wilkinson Chapter, O. E. S., No. 225, meets on Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Masonic Temple, Bankhead and Ashby streets. Election of officers will be held.

Queen Esther Chapter No. 202, O. E. S., meets Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Red Men's Wigwam on Central avenue. Election of officers for the ensuing year will take place.

The annual election of officers of Atlanta Chapter No. 57, O. E. S., will be held Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock in Joseph C. Greenfield Masonic Temple on Moreland avenue at Little Five Points.

North Atlanta Chapter No. 36, O. E. S., meets Thursday evening in John B. Baker Masonic Hall, 1002 1/2 Hemphill avenue, at 7:30 o'clock. Members are urged to be present for the purpose of electing officers for 1937.

Azalea Garden Club meets Tuesday at 2:30 o'clock with Mrs. D. E. Muslin, 1684 North Emory road. Mrs. J. W. Mosley and A. S. Sanders will be co-hostesses.

Cheshire Bridge Garden Club meets Tuesday at their clubhouse, 1821 Piedmont road.

Kirkwood Chapter No. 228, O. E. S., meets Tuesday evening, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Election of officers for 1937 will be held.

East Atlanta Chapter No. 306, O. E. S., meets in the E. A. Minor Masonic hall on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, at which time the annual election of officers will take place.

Cherokee Rose Lodge No. 604, Ladies' Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, meets Thursday at 2:30 o'clock at the Red Men's wigwam.

Election of officers for 1937 will be held at Martha chapter on Tuesday at 7:30 o'clock.

Directors of the Fulton County Teachers' Association meet December 7 at 8 o'clock at the courthouse.

The Y. W. C. of the West End Baptist church will meet Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the church. Supper will be served by a circle of the Y. W. C.

West End Woman's Club will meet Wednesday at 8 o'clock with Mrs. W. C. Messer presiding. Mrs. H. B. Bankston will conduct a board meeting at 2:30. A program of songs and dance numbers will be presented by Georgia Garrison, Martha Groves, Robbie Gaudin and others. There will be a square dance on Saturday from 9 to 12 o'clock, with Mrs. J. C. Cowden in charge.

Benton Chapter No. 143, O. E. S., meets Tuesday. Officers for next year will be elected.

Mrs. John E. Brickman will entertain the members of the Georgia Club at her home at 789 Penn avenue Thursday at 10:30 o'clock. The nominating committee: Mrs. Frederick C. Rice, chairman; Mrs. John D. Evans and Mrs. H. M. Long will present their report. Luncheon will be served by Mrs. Brickman, assisted by Mrs. W. A. Anttila and Mrs. W. O. Alexander, co-hostesses.

Atlanta Normal Alumnae Association meets Thursday at 8:30 o'clock at Faith school. Members are urged to make reservations by calling Jackson 0083.

Epsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority meets Monday at 5:30 o'clock at Capital City Club. Mrs. Claude Clayton Smith will speak.

The Young Mothers' Revue Club will meet Tuesday at 11:15 o'clock at the home of Mrs. James Rankin, Mrs. T. V. Morrison. The president, will preside, and an interesting program will be presented.

The Shoshone Indians have a tradition that at some remote time a terrible holocaust of nature destroyed many of their people.

Mrs. Marjorie Hodges Dobyns Weds Paul Burt at the Pro Cathedral

The marriage of Mrs. Marjorie Hodges Dobyns and Paul Burt, of Decatur, took place yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the Pro Cathedral of St. Philip, with Dean Raimundo de Olives performing the ceremony. The altar was beautifully with vases filled with white chrysanthemums. Stately palms were banked in graceful arrangement at each side of the altar.

Four seven-branched candelabra held white tapers, and white satin pried added an effective note to the decorations, and the family pews were marked with white satin ribbon. The musical selections were rendered by Arthur Davis, the organist, who played appropriate selections preceding and during the ceremony.

Maurice Hodges, of Griffin, the bride's brother, and Byron Brooke were ushers, and Mrs. Frank S. Pittman Jr., of Summerville, was matron of honor. She wore a costume of peacock blue crepe and black accessories. She carried a bouquet of golden souvenir roses and anemones.

The lovely bride was given away in marriage by her brother, LaMonte Gresham, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, George R. Burt, who was the best man. The bride wore a gown of white wine crepe and black accessories. She carried a bouquet of talisman roses and valley lilies tied with bronze satin ribbon.

Mr. and Mrs. Burt departed by motor on their wedding trip to Florida. The bride traveled in a costume of coronation blue crepe worn with black accessories. Her black topcoat was collared with black kid caracul. Upon their return to Atlanta the middle of December they will reside at the Athletic Club.

Mrs. Burt is the daughter of Mrs. Francis L. Hodges and the late Mr. Hodges, of Griffin. She is a sister of Maurice Hodges and LaMonte Gresham, of Griffin, and Roswell Gresham, of Atlanta.

Mr. Burt is the son of Mrs. Frank Burt and the late Mr. Burt, of Decatur. He is a brother of Mrs. Byron Brooke, George R. Burt, L. J. Gray and V. S. Gray, of Decatur. The groom is associated in business with Brooke, Tindall & Co. and belongs to the Athletic and East Lake Country clubs.

Skelton-Carpenter Betrothal Announced

HARTWELL, Ga., Dec. 5.—Among interesting Yuletide weddings will be that of Miss Mary Sinclair Skelton and Richard Leon Carpenter on the evening of December 30. This marriage will unite pioneer families of the Virginia Settlement of Georgia.

The bride-elect is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Stephens Skelton. She attended the University of Georgia, where she was a member of the Chi Omega sorority. She later received her degree from Limestone College in South Carolina.

Mr. Carpenter is the youngest son of Mrs. James Thomas Carpenter and the late Mr. Carpenter, of Hillcrest, Elbert county. He received his education at the University of Georgia, where he majored in agriculture. He is a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. He is actively engaged in farming in Elbert and Wilkes counties.

Fort McPherson To Have Concert.

The chapel at Fort McPherson will provide the setting for the concert of Christmas-tide music on Wednesday evening. Taking part will be Lucy MacMorland, soprano; Flora Finley Noble, violinist; and Kathryn Hill Rawls, A. A. G. O. organist. Wives of army officers stationed in Atlanta will present the program promptly at 8:15 o'clock. Proceeds from the performance will be given to the post chapel music fund.

Everything for the Fireplace
Queen Mantel & Tile Co.
224 Mitchell St., S. W.
Established 1909

Special Christmas Prices

on many attractive gifts

You may still have a choice of cover material on upholstered pieces, and receive them in time for Christmas.

Chippendale Wing Chair, with hand-carved solid mahogany claw and ball feet. A very comfortable and attractive chair. Finest construction, of oiled and tempered springs with the best grade of curled hair quilted into the springs, to insure long wear and extra comfort. Choice of cover in tapestry, damask, or velvet. Regular Price $95.00.

Special Christmas Price $77.50

Mahogany Colonial Ottoman. From a period of about 1800. Box spring seat. Size 16 by 20. Height 13 1/2 inches. Choice of cover.

Regular Price $18.50

Special Christmas Price $15.00

BIGGS
ANTIQUE COMPANY INC.

221
Peachtree

Furniture
Sheffield Plate
Colonial Brasses
Objects of Art.

Write for illustrated Christmas Catalogue

Biggs Reproductions Antiques of Tomorrow

Elegant... GIFTS in FURS

Be assured that your gift will reflect discriminating taste. Isaacson's fine furs are renowned for their acceptability by women who know quality and style.

Gorgeous FUR COATS

Russian Ermine 450.00 Hudson Seal 198.50
Russian Caracul 350.00 Alaska Seal 298.50
Eastern Mink 1500.00 Jap Mink 325.00

Silver Fox Scarfs priced from 98.50
to 300.00.

Fox Capes
priced from 85.50
to 275.00.

charge and club accounts.

LOUIS ISAACSON INC.
FURS OF FASHION

210 PEACHTREE
Henry Grady Hotel

Gifts of Glamour

Satin Gown — fitted, with long sweeping skirt, cap sleeves. Exquisite lace! ... $5.98

Satin Gown, full and long, exquisitely embroidered. $2.98

2-Pc. Pajama of pure dye crepe, embroidered. Novel necklines, cap sleeves! ... $2.98

Satin Pajama in bubble print . . . cap sleeves — high neckline. $5.98

Satin slips, bias cut, imported Alencon lace. $1.98

Glorious Gift Selection

At $1.69—Pure Dye Satin Slips, lacy or tailored!

At $1.98—Satin or French Silk Crepe Slips!

At $1.98—Rich Satin and Crepe Silk Gowns!

At $1.98—2-Pc. Silk Crepe Pajamas!

At $1.98—All-over Satin and Lace Bed Sacques!

At $1.98—Lovely Lace-Trimmed Satin Dance Sets!

At $2.98—Satin Gowns and 2-Pc. Silk Crepe Pajamas!

At $3.98—Satin Gowns and 2-Pc. Printed Pajamas!

At $5.98 — Beautiful Satin Gowns and 2-Pc. Pajamas!

Satin Gown of pretty bubble print. High, stitched neckline. $3.98

Dance Set of rich satin in tearose, lovely with lace. $1.98

Bed Sacque of all-over lace with wee sleeves! . . . $1.98

Here are gifts that express glamour . . . and confer it on their wearers! Gleaming satins and rich silk crepe, exquisitely plain or lavish with lace . . . in gowns, pajamas, slips and other dainty wearables so eternally feminine. We've sketched a few, and we've listed a few—from a tremendous variety at a wide price range.

There's a gift here for every lady on your list!

HIGH'S THIRD FLOOR

Mather Bros.

MATHER BROS. FEATURES

Approved Gifts

"SANTA" HAS PUT HIS O. K. ON THIS COLLECTION

No Interest • No Carrying Charge
Up to 18 Months to Pay!

Everything FOR THE Home!

24.—Modern Living Room Suite—Two attractive pieces, as shown above; upholstered in tapestry and leather combination; one of the newest designs on our floor.

$79.50

25.—Lane Cedar Chest—48 inches long; finished in genuine walnut and priced now at only

$29.75

26.—Pier Cabinet—Beautifully finished in walnut and priced now at $4.95

30.—Occasional Table—In genuine walnut, inlaid top—

$11.75

32.—Occasional Chair—Upholstered in your choice of colors—

$6.95

31.—Console Table—In genuine walnut; a real special at—

$4.95

33.—End Table—Walnut finish, 3-shelf type—

$4.95

5.—Cellarette—Finished in walnut, complete with accessories.

$27.50

10.—Norge Refrigerator—De Luxe Model Electric Refrigerator, an ideal gift, only

$149.50

14.—Secretary—Governor Winthrop Type, in genuine mahogany, and priced specially, while they last—

$29.75

1.—Alabaster Lamp—Table type with parchment shade

$3.95

2.—Alabaster Lamp—For the Table, with silk shade

$4.95

3.—Reflector Lamp—Three-Way, with candelabra and silk shade

$11.75

4.—Reading Lamp—Bronze stand with new style cloth shade

$9.95

20.—Lamp Table—Made of solid mahogany, and an unusual value at—$8.95

19.—Chipendale Wing Chair—Choice of upholstery in hand-blocked linen—

$42.50

12.—Coffee Table—Made of Solid Mahogany, has removable tray.

$8.95

11.—Magazine Carrier—Made of solid mahogany, a really nice present for—

$2.95

21.—Streit Chair and Ottoman—Has adjustable back, assortment of upholsterings to select from—

$39.75

23.—Philco Radio—Six-tube cabinet model as shown; 2-band receiver—

$59.95

6.—Pullman Couch—Made by Simmons, upholstered in your choice of colors

$39.95

7.—Knee-Hole Desk—Finished in walnut, 7-drawer type

$19.75

16.—Breakfast Room Suite—Five pieces, choice of finishes; these are sturdily constructed and priced as low as

$18.75

29.—Cedar-Lined Chifforobe—Finished in walnut; just the thing for any bedroom, and priced at

$37.50

27.—Lawson Sofa—An exceptionally comfortable piece for your living room; upholstered in attractive shade of green tapestry—

$59.50

28.—Child's Desk—Roll top, with chair to match, walnut finish—

$9.95

8.—Dining Room Suite—Nine pieces, beautifully finished in walnut new modern design, now priced at

$109.00

9.—Duncan Phyfe Sofa—Beautifully finished, several new colorful materials to select from, choice

$49.50

13.—Bedroom Suite—Four pieces in modern design, beautifully finished in genuine walnut.

$79.50

FREE DELIVERY TO ALL POINTS IN GEORGIA

PHONE
WA. 7811

Mather Bros
The Store That Appreciates Your Patronage

122-124-126
WHITEHALL ST.

Miss Williams Weds Lt. C. C. Harman Jr.
GRANTVILLE, Ga., Dec. 5.—The marriage of Miss Mary Williams and Lieutenant Charles C. Harman Jr. took place at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Virgil G. Williams, recently. The ceremony was performed by Dr. J. E. Hannah, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Newnan, in the presence of a few friends and relatives.

Miss Rebecca Brauch presented a program of nuptial music preceding and during the ceremony. Misses Martha and Louise Williams, sisters of the bride, were the only attendants. They were becomingly gowned in turquoise blue and gold crepe, fashioned along princess lines. The lovely titian bride entered with her father, Dr. Virgil G. Williams, by whom she was given in marriage, and they were met at the altar by the bridegroom and the best man, his brother, Claude Harman.

The bride wore a costume suit of gray, trimmed in mole skin, with black accessories, and she wore a cluster of orchids.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served. Lieutenant and Mrs. Harman left for a short wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside at Tellico Plains, Tenn., where Lieutenant Harman is stationed.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Glendon, Miss Florence Harmon, Mr. and Mrs. John Corley, of LaGrange; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Williams, Mrs. Durand Sivell, Miss Sandra Sivell, Mrs. W. J. Crawford, Miss Fay Dunlap, of Chapel Hill; Miss Sara Miller, Miss Sadie Evans, Mrs. O. W. Tucker and Miss Elizabeth Tucker, of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Harmon, Claude Harman, Mr. and Mrs. Walton Partridge, Miss Leo Partridge, Miss Dorothy Partridge and Harman Partridge, of Odessdale; Calvin Marman, of Stovall, and Gaines Williams, of Macon.

Lenox Park Club.
Lenox Park Club meets Wednesday at 10:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. H. H. Ware Jr. on East Rock Springs road with Mrs. Warren Clark as co-hostess. Each club member is asked to bring an item pertaining to Christmas decoration, or an exhibit appropriate to the season, as her part of the December program.

Epworth W. M. S.
Epworth Methodist W. M. S. meets Monday at 10:30 o'clock at the church. The president, Mrs. E. D. Brewer, will have charge.

Circle No. 5, with Mrs. G. A. Potter, chairman, will present the literary program. Mrs. L. E. Whittaker will conduct the devotional using Isaiah 40:28-31 and the "Meditation" from the World Outlook. The missionary topic, "My Gift Complete," will be given as a playlet by Mesdames Bennett Hutchinson, Scott Robinson, Herman Thie, J. G. Mathis, A. B. Williams, Harry Ingram, J. M. Bradford and others.

After the business session the circle chairman for 1937 will be appointed and circle members will be drawn.

The Empire stadium at London, larger than the Colosseum at Rome, has a seating capacity of 100,000.

FREE

26-Pc. Silver Set
A beautiful 26-piece Silver Set is included with every purchase of $20.00 or more. (Only exceptions are a few nationally advertised items.)

★★★★
Worthwhile Gifts For LADIES

Week-End and Fitted Cases	3.95 to 29.50
Coffee Tables	4.50 to 59.50
Telephone Stands	4.95 to 39.50
Comfy and Blankets	4.95 to 15.50
Drum Tables	5.95 to 49.50
Dresses	6.50 to 15.00

for MEN

Smokers and Cabinets	1.95 to 24.50
Gladstone Bags and Suit Cases	9.50 to 29.50
Chiffoniers	19.50 to 119.50
Lounges	19.50 to 69.50
Chairs	29.50 to 49.50
Cocktail Sets	29.50 to 49.50

$1 DELIVERS ANY GIFT Monday

Haverty's 51ST Christmas Sale

Free Delivery to Rural and Suburban Points

A new RUG will make it a Merry Xmas

9x12 Seamless Velvet Rugs
Fine Velvets—ones that can be used in the dining room or living room. Woven from yarn.

$29.95

Pay Only $1 Weekly

9x12 Heavy Oriental Reproductions
First quality! Heavy close-woven pile! Choice of gorgeous Persian or soft, lovely Early American designs.

$39.50

Pay Only $1 Weekly

For Her—What Finer Gift Than This Lovely Maple Suite
Authentic Dutch Colonial Suite in solid, hand-peeled maple. Think of the thrill of saving that to your friends! Sturdy construction, large sized lovely pieces.

$59.50

Pay Only $1.25 Weekly

For Increased Joy and Comfort For All the Family This Suite
These new arrivals will surprise you with the new beauty of design and cover. Not the usual suite, but a finer, lovelier type which will give added joy for years.

$89.50

Pay Only $2.00 Weekly

Carload CEDAR CHESTS

Just What She Wants!
A Genuine Moth-Proof CEDAR CHEST

$9.50

to $59.50

Pay Only $1.00 Weekly

Philco Radios
in Tune With Giving

Philco Console
American and Foreign Receiver—complete with $56.95

$29.95

Pay Only $1.00 Weekly

A Worthwhile Gift Coal Range
And 15-Pc. Aluminum Set

$19.50

Heaviest virgin cast-iron range made. Will give service for years.

Pay Only $1.00 Weekly

For Mother Westinghouse Washer

$59.50

Celebrate Christmas this year by emancipating Mother from all the drudgery of washing!

Pay Only $1.00 Weekly

The Gift Supreme Electric Refrigerator

$99.50

Give the family a beautiful new Electric Refrigerator. Buy it on HAVERTY'S Christmas Terms

For Daughter Secretary

$24.50

Good design, strongly built. Mahogany or walnut finish.

Pay Only $1.00 Weekly

For the Home Venetian Blinds

$4.98

Regularly 7.50! Sizes 32"-34"-36", and finished in Ivory.

Lounge Chair and Ottoman

$19.50

A gift he will always appreciate. Your choice of fine coverings in figured, plain tapestries.

$1 Cash—$1 Weekly

SIMMONS Studio Couch

$29.50

For your Christmas guests. This couch makes two twin or full-sized beds.

Pay Only $1.00 Weekly

Give Them This Modern Circulator

$24.95

Give the whole family this fine circulator. A real gift for everyone.

Pay Only $1.00 Weekly

How Happy She Will Be Christmas With This 67-Pc. Dining Room Group
Beautiful walnut dining room suite worth $139.50. 58 pieces are included free. 32-piece dinner set and 26-piece silver set—FREE.

$98

Pay Only $2.00 Weekly

A Gift That Brings Health and Beauty! SIMMONS

Beautyrest 25c

Delivers

★ Pay Balance on HAVERTY'S EASY CLUB PLAN

Here is the Club Plan

25	35	45	50	55	60	65
70	75	80	85	90	95	100
105	110	115	120	125	130	135
140	145	150	155	160	165	170
175	180	185	190	195	200	205
210	215	220	225	230	235	240

Why not give Mother or the Wife one of Simmons Beautyrest Mattresses? No gift could be more appreciated. Insures restful sleep and on such easy terms.

Give This Lovely Complete 8-Pc. Bedroom Group

- Vanity
- Bench
- Chest
- Bed
- Coil Spring
- Cotton Mattress
- 2 Feather Pillows

$69.50

Most outstanding style in low-priced bedroom suites of the appealing style. Add to the attractiveness of your home with this lovely group.

Pay Only $1.25 Weekly

Make the Family Happy With A Popular 10-Pc. Living Room Group

- Sofa
- Chair
- Spot Chair
- 2 End Chairs
- Coffee Table
- 2 Table Lamps
- Magazine Rack
- Smoker

$79.50

We have taken one of the popular groups and marked it down within reach of everyone to make this Christmas a real event!

Pay Only $1.50 Weekly

For Your Wife This Cabinet

$29.50

Brighten up the kitchen with one of these new cabinets with approved convenient features.

Pay Only $1.00 Weekly

A Practical Gift FLORENCE Range

$49.50

Make the kitchen a happier place to work in with one of the new Gas Ranges.

Pay Only $1.00 Weekly

Haverty

FURNITURE COMPANY

Corner Edgewood Ave. and Pryor St.
Phones WA. 2906-7-8-9

Open Every Evening until Christmas

Easy Terms ON ALL TOYS

Larger Selection Than Ever Before!

Purchases Held for Christmas Delivery

Regular Fellow Gifts... $50 to $500
Chairs and Rockers... $50 to $500
Doll Carriages... $50 to $500
Chairs & Table Sets... $50 to $500
Scooters... $50 to $500
Vespas... $50 to $500
Automobiles... $50 to $500
Decks... $50 to $500

ONE OF THE WORLD'S MOST STRIKING PANORAMAS is New York city's skyline at 5:30 in the evening. The gigantic tower in the center is the Empire State building, and the row of lights in the left background are on the Brooklyn bridge.

STREAMLINE FIGURE—Not as slender as the athletic girl of a few seasons back, nor as buxom as the girl with curves so popular the past two years, the "streamlined" figure is now the ideal in feminine pulchritude. Myra Braton, Alabama girl who appears in "Born to Dance."

BRYAN GRANT, internationally famous tennis star, and Miss Catherine Campbell, caught by the camera when they attended the recent Nine O'Clocks' ball at the Piedmont Driving Club. (Turner Hiers)

CHIP ROBERT, secretary of the national Democratic committee, and his daughter Louisa, photographed at the recent Nine O'Clocks' ball at the Piedmont Driving Club. Miss Robert is a nationally known swimmer and has been mentioned for one of the prominent parts in the film version of "Gone With the Wind." (Turner Hiers)

NO WORK, NO BED—One of the maritime strikers resisting police after the New York Seamen's Institute had demanded that the strikers either go to work and pay for their lodging or get out.

DORIS DUKE CROMWELL, camera-shy millionairess, favored the breathless photographers by posing for this photograph just before she sailed for Hawaii to open her winter home.

"GOLDEN WEDDING"—Consuelo Vanderbilt Smith, heiress of the Vanderbilt millions, was married recently aboard her $2,000,000 yacht docked at Miami Beach, Fla., to Henry Gasaway Davis III of Washington. The wedding party are, left to right, Mme. Jacques Balsan and Colonel Balsan, of Paris; Commodore and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, mother and father of the bride; Mrs. Armistead Davis, mother of the bridegroom, and the bride and groom.

(Left) MEMBERS OF POLAR BEAR CLUB, who consider icy water and zero temperatures as an invitation for a dip in Lake Michigan, are shown as they opened their winter swimming season.

FOR THE MAN WHO CARES—Robert Fairchild, Men's Fashion Editor for The Constitution, brings you an illustrated article every Friday, giving the very latest advice on what to wear and when to wear it.

A MEDIEVAL BONNET for evening made of black velvet outlined in turquoise blue beads and fine gold braid.

(Upper Left)
AS EVENING SHADOWS FALL—Silhouetted against evening clouds, this sailing schooner, at anchor near Seattle, Wash., presents a striking picture at sunset.

• DEPENDABILITY •

Glasses styled by HUFF'S

Remember--It's all in the Examination

L. V. HUFF OPTICAL CO.

54 Broad St., N. W., Next to Hinkley Bldg. WA. 3534

TOLD THE TALLEST TALE of all tall tales told at the Niagara Falls Liars' Club. Peter Sawyer won on his story concerning the world's fastest horse which lost its race because another horse perspired and made the track muddy.

DORIS DUDLEY, who has deserted the New York stage to appear in motion pictures, photographed shortly after she arrived in Hollywood.

"California, here we come...in the next best thing to flying!"

WHEELS ARE WINGS on this new kind of car! Like an air transport hugging the land, the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR glides across hill and countryside . . . giving a fresh idea of how a motor car should perform . . . rolling up fresh records of economy.

This is the car, Lincoln-built, in which a Louisiana owner drove 12,000 miles across country through ice, snow, flood and windstorm to average 17 miles per gallon. (Owners consistently report 14 to 18 miles to the gallon!)

This is the car that left Arizona for California . . . over desert, sand, stream, roads with high centers and roads by name only . . . and caused the owner to say, "It makes you feel, always, as though you were on a boulevard."

This is the car with an engine of 12 cylinders in V-formation . . . with a new, rigid, steel, one-piece body and frame . . . with features that set new standards of comfort, safety, and roadability.

This is the only car of its kind!

Arrange, today, to drive the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR. Prepare for a new thrill at the wheel. For this new car brings back the old desire to travel . . . to see the land and the people . . . to look again upon far and lovely places.

Prices this year are lower. Lincoln Motor Company, builders of Lincoln and Lincoln-Zephyr motor cars.

BASE PRICES

$1090

AND UP AT DETROIT PLANT

Taxes, delivery and handling, bumpers and spare tire extra.

On display at showrooms of all Lincoln-Zephyr dealers. Convenient terms through Authorized Universal Credit Company
Finance Plans.

LINCOLN-ZEPHYR V-12 for 1937

FROST-COTTON MOTORS

Lincoln and Lincoln Zephyr Distributors

452 PEACHTREE STREET, N. E.

ATLANTA, GEORGIA

ROBERT FAIRCHILD, Men's Fashion Editor for The Constitution, brings you an illustrated article every Friday, giving the very latest advice on what to wear and when to wear it.

MRS. W. F. MELTON, president of the Atlanta Woman's Club, and Mrs. Ellen D. Hopkins (left) shown cutting the birthday cake during the club's 41st anniversary celebration. Mrs. Hopkins, a former Georgian and mother of Mirian Hopkins, the movie actress, was an honor guest of the club. (Slayton)

"SIMPSON HAIR DRESS"—Dorothy Lamour, of Hollywood, one of the first to affect the hair dress worn by Mrs. Wallis Simpson, close friend of King Edward VIII, of England.

A VIEW OF THE ELEVATED railroad crash in Chicago, in which eight were killed and many injured. The splintered coach was rammed in the rear by a speeding all-steel electric train.

SEES AGAIN—Jane Borsch, who recently regained her sight while attending a class at Arkansas State College where she was studying to become a teacher of the blind. She had been blind for 21 years.

FIREMEN working over victims who were overcome by poisonous fumes from chemical ice on board a ship docked in New York. Eight men were overcome, five of whom died.

RETURNING PROSPERITY proved to be quite a problem to this theatrical troupe, when they arrived in Philadelphia. With every hotel room in the city filled, they were forced to turn the theater lounge into a dormitory.

HEARTACHES THAT NEEDN'T HAVE HAPPENED . . . In dressing the wound, they thought they'd been very careful. Even the bandage they used came in a box marked "sterilized"! But infection set in! For some bandages of unknown make are sterilized only in manufacture—later they may be contaminated in handling. So don't take chances! All Johnson & Johnson first-aid supplies that are marked "sterilized" are not only sterilized in the making. They are sterilized again in the package. Buy them with confidence.

AT YOUR DRUGGIST:

RED CROSS ABSORBENT COTTON
Sterilized after packaging.
Purified, highly absorbent, safe cotton. 2-oz. size 15¢

RED CROSS BANDAGE Sterilized after packaging.
Tightly rolled for quick and easy application.
2 in. by 10 yds.
10¢

RED CROSS GAUZE
Sterilized after packaging.
Soft and absorbent.
1-yd. size
15¢

Be Safe with Johnson & Johnson Red Cross Products

Christmas Gifts From FREEMAN'S

Emerald-Cut Diamond Ring, $1,100.00. Diamond Ring, $395.00. Diamond Ring, $330.00. Diamond Brooch, $1,100.00. Pearl Necklace, $4,000.00. Longines Diamond Wrist Watch, $325.00. Diamond Solitaire Rings, $525.00. $325.00. $100.00. Diamond Fancy Rings, $325.00. $100.00. Diamond Bracelet, $1,530.00. Diamond and Ruby Ring, $525.00. Diamond Diamond Ring, $400.00. Diamond Wrist Watch with Bracelet, $275.00.

THE HIGHEST QUALITY AT MODERATE PRICES

Myron E. Freeman & Bro.
JEWELERS

103 P. O. BOX 103, NEW YORK, N. Y.

FOR THE MAN WHO CARES—Robert Fairchild, Men's Fashion Editor for The Constitution, brings you an illustrated article every Friday, giving the very latest advice on what to wear and when to wear it.

NEW ALL-PAVED CENTRAL DIXIE HIGHWAY, ATLANTA-JACKSONVILLE VIA. FITZGERALD, OFFICIALLY OPENED with MOTORCADE CELEBRATION

(Photographs by Kenneth Rogers)

MRS. A. N. SEWARD, AND MR. SEWARD, of Fitzgerald, chairman of the Central Dixie Highway motorcade; Mayor John T. Alsop, of Jacksonville, who welcomed the visitors, and Mrs. Alsop, photographed at the banquet in the Florida city.

THE MOTORCADE was escorted into Fitzgerald by this 1936 model Cadillac. Grouped about the car are, left to right, J. J. Whitfield, of Hawthinsville, president Georgia County Commissioners' Association; Isador Gelders, Fitzgerald, secretary Dixie Highway Association; Homer Waters, Fitzgerald, owner of the car; Judge J. D. Mitchell, Waycross, and H. J. Davis, of Folkston.

MR. AND MRS. W. M. RAWLINS and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Vinson pictured as they attended the banquet in Jacksonville given the motorcaders who officially opened the new all-paved Central Dixie Highway. Mr. Vinson was vice president of the Dixie Highway Association motorcade.

HAVOC wrought by the recent landslide at Electron, Wash. The photo shows all that remains of a large power house which stood in the path of the avalanche.

CHRISTMAS GIFT! Margaret, one of the 25 'Christmas Babies of 1936' to be offered as yuletide presents for permanent adoption by the Tennessee Children's Home Society of Memphis.

THOUSANDS OF PERONS attended the annual Santa Claus celebration in Athens recently. The old gentleman is shown with one of his young admirers when the proceedings were broadcast over WTFL.

MAYBE HELL FIGHT NOW. Jim Braddock, world's heavy-weight boxing champion, shown leaving the New York State Boxing Commission's office after a physical examination which showed Braddock's arthritis had completely disappeared.

CHAMPION—Robert E. Vaughn Jr., 20-year-old 4-H Club boy, of Chenoa, Ill., with his grand junior champion Angus steer, "Whizbang," at the International Livestock Show in Chicago.

Sterling Gifts

Candlestick

The beauty of this candlestick is reflected in the table it holds.

Louis XIV

The beauty of this candlestick is reflected in the table it holds.

Complete Selection of Other TOWLE and CORHAM Patterns

Candlestick

The beauty of this candlestick is reflected in the table it holds.

Louis XIV

The beauty of this candlestick is reflected in the table it holds.

J. J. BOOKOUT, INC.

HENRY BOOKOUT, Pres.

10 Peachtree Street, Peachtree Arcade

Pen & Pencil Shop
Gift Sets $5.00, $7.00, $11 and up
115 Peachtree Arcade

H.P. HOUSE
Ask Your Doctor
2 Plaza Way, Atlanta, Ga.
OPTICAL CO.

See Dodson for Your CHRISTMAS JEWELRY

A fine selection of Diamonds, Watches and other Jewelry Gifts await your inspection at Dodson's in the Peachtree Arcade.

Quality Jewelers for over 20 years
W.H. DODSON
Quality Jewelers
127 PEACHTREE ARCADE

(Left) WHEN THE CENTRAL DIXIE HIGHWAY MOTORCADE arrived at Fitzgerald the visitors were entertained with a musical program at the American Legion Home followed by a barbecue luncheon.

Lady Shoppers Lunch

After a tiresome morning of shopping, how delightful and restful to stop at Peacock Alley for a delicious luncheon and only 35c. Your car and packages will be safe while you dine.

PEACOCK ALLEY

MEN'S RINGS ...

Complete selection of the new Stone and Emblem Rings. Moderate prices.

Men's heavy yellow gold Ruby ring. $18.50

Men's heavy yellow gold Cameo ring. $18.50

E.A. MORGAN

Established 1904
111 ALABAMA ST. N.W.

IF YOUR FEET ARE NORMAL KEEP THEM SO

KNOWLEDGE ENABLES US TO ELIMINATE FOOT TROUBLE WITH SHOES THAT ARE IN KEEPING WITH THE MODERN TREND PLUS OUR SERVICE.

DR. PARKER'S HEALTH SHOES—BY DREW
216 PEACHTREE, N.W.—JACKSON 4697

No. 1 40% Center Diamond 46
No. 2 15% small diamonds all platinum $145
Other Diamond Rings from $20

J.W. BOONE JEWELER

117 PEACHTREE ARCADE
Open at all hours. Divide the Payments

Tell Your Story with Photographs in
The Atlanta Constitution
ROTOGRAVURE

...MAN WHO CAKES—Robert Fairchild, Men's Fashion Editor for The Constitution, brings you an illustrated article every Friday, giving the very latest advice on what to wear and when to wear it.

GIVES UP SCREEN CAREER FOR RELIGION—Patricia Farley was rapidly rising to stardom in the movies—then she disappeared from the glamorous haunts of Hollywood. Now she is rediscovered—playing a guitar at evangelistic services.

CANDIDATES for the colorful honor of being queen of the Tournament of Roses to be held at Pasadena, Cal., on New Year's Day. The annual Rose Bowl football classic will be the highlight of the occasion.

JAMES A. FARLEY, left, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, shown as he was greeted by United States Ambassador Robert Bingham on his arrival in England. Mr. Farley plans to visit relatives in Ireland.

PRESIDENT TAKES TIME OFF FOR FISHING—President Franklin D. Roosevelt took a few hours off for fishing while on his way to South America. This photograph shows him fishing in the gulf of Paria.

TRAFFIC WAS AT A STANDSTILL along the world's greatest shopping thoroughfare, when 250,000 people lined State street in Chicago to see Santa Claus arrive via airplane, for a pre-Christmas check-up.

Glare and squint can be avoided by wearing the famous Soft-lite lenses. Let us fill your next prescription with them.

Prescription
OPTICIAN
J. N. KALISH
385 Peachtree Street
Convenient to Medical Arts and Doctor's Building

Christmas Gifts...

Whether You're Seeking a Fine Gem... Or An Exquisite Trifle.

1. Woman's Lighter, with Brilliant Decoration Motif.....$6.00
2. The last word in compacts—opening like a miniature dressing table.....$8.00
3. Evening Lipstick, by Mary Dunhill.....$2.50
4. Schiaparelli's very chic new cigarette case with complete top of simulated emeralds.....$12.00
5. The very new "Portmanteau" case featuring brilliant clip clasp and containing cigarette case, and all vanity items $15.00
6. Diamond Brooch.....$1,150.00
7. One of the gems of our bag collection. Golden Antique Brocade, with unusually handsome Chinese Clasp.....$38.00
8. Modern French Evening Bag, Gold Mesh studded with simulated Rubies, Sapphires, and Emeralds.....$18.00

A Maier & Berkele Gift Need Cost No More.....

Prices start at $2.50.

CONVENIENT TERMS MAY BE ARRANGED

Maier & Berkele
JEWELERS TO THE SOUTH SINCE 1887
Atlanta - Savannah

MOTHERS TIGER CUBS—Queenie, a German shepherd, has adopted four tiger cubs at the Cincinnati zoo. Queenie's concern for the welfare of the baby tigers was so great that zoo officials were forced to muzzle her so they safely could attend to the litter.

OFFICIALS of the Denver zoo fear that "Commodore," their sea lion, is mourning himself to death. He has lost 25 pounds since his mate died last month.

YULE THINGS OF JOY
from
YARDLEY OF LONDON

For a Christmas as joyous as those famous Pickwick Yuletides... as aristocratically luxurious as the boudoir of a smart young duchess. The exhilarating scent of Yardley's English Lavender will mingle with that of fir or pine under many a Ladyship's Christmas tree. The traditional gift of gentlemen to ladies of quality, Yardley's is presented to you in an enchanting collection of gift sets. Give royalty this year and still stay within your means. You will find these, and many other lovely Yardley gifts in our Yardley of London Toiletries Section.

RICH'S INC.

RICH'S
TOILETTE - 1000 STREET FLOOR

FOR THE MAN WHO CARES—Robert Fairchild, Men's Fashion Editor for The Constitution, brings you an illustrated article every Friday, giving the very latest advice on what to wear and when to wear it.

PREPARATIONS for the inauguration of President Roosevelt in January are already under way. Workmen are constructing stands in front of the capitol where the ceremonies will take place.

AN INTERESTING PHOTO OF THE FIRE that recently destroyed the West Lumber Company plant in Atlanta.

(Turner Hiers)

SOLDIERS OF FORTUNE — A remarkably interesting camera study of a German and an American fighting with the Reds in Madrid.

(Right) CALIFORNIA CONGRESSMAN AND SON JAILED — Representative John H. Hoepfel, and his son, Charles, being committed to the District of Columbia jail to serve a sentence of four months to two years for selling an appointment to West Point Academy.

EYE CATARACT CURE BELIEVED DISCOVERED—His prize dog completely cured of blindness, George Murphy, of California, believes he has discovered a simple cure for blindness in dogs caused by heretofore incurable eye cataracts. Murphy uses the famous "warm milk" treatment originated by his father to alleviate eye strain among athletes at Yale.

Gentlemen's Compendium Kit—with Shaving Bowl, Shaving Cream, large After-shaving Lotion, Invisible Talc, Brilliantine, large Hair Tonic and Lavender Soap—a treasure for Yardley fanciers. . . . $7

Distinguished menfolk like this "ship-shape" (or train-type) leather-texture folding case bearing their favorite luxuries—Yardley Shaving Cream, After-shaving Lotion, Invisible Talc . . . most welcome gift of all at $2.95 only

The Guest Bag—with English Lavender, Face Cream, English Complexion Cream, Lavender Soap and Lavender Soap. One for a dainty, small remembrance. Six for an impressive gift to hostesses. Each . . . $1.95

Christmas fragrance—arising from a luxurious box containing Yardley Face Powder, Bath Salts Tablets, Sachet, Lavender Soap and flask of lovely English Lavender . . . $3.30

The sweetest gift of all—Yardley's English Lavender, the clear, delicate perfume of a hundred and sixty-six charming Christmas. Ever new, ever beloved by subtle women. In a lovely new series of containers, $7.50, $4.40 and . . . $2.75

IN CELEBRATION OF THE PICKWICK CENTENARY

MERRY CHRISTMAS
from
YARDLEY OF LONDON

Wishing you a Christmas as lasting and memorable as the good Mr. Pickwick's—as traditionally luxurious as these exquisite English toiletries and cosmetics . . . as smart as the aristocratic Bond Street shoppers who created the tradition of giving them as gifts. From the satin-lined assortment cases awaited by lovely young duchesses, to the most casual flask of scented crystals, Yardley presents are aristocratic messengers all over the world. To fill gift rites as full of glowing gratitude as are finer stores this minute with Yardley gift sets, from $1.25 to $30. . . . Yardley & Co., Ltd., 620 Fifth Ave. (Rockefeller Center), New York; 33, Old Bond St., London; Paris; Toronto; Sydney.

The Beauty Case—a tribute of loveliness for the beloved . . . English Complexion Cream, Night Cream, Foundation, Tanning Lotion, Complexion Milk, Eye Shadow, Cream Rouge, Lipstick, Face Powder, Cotton, Tissues, Lavender Soap $18

A gleaming vision of loveliness for Christmas morning—in the clear beveled mirror-top of this charming compact bound with a slender gold band, filled with Yardley's exquisite powder and rouge. Cake or loose powder styles . . . $3.50

For Ladies of the Bath—Yardley Bath Salts, Lavender Soap, Dusting Powder, Complexion Cream and Flask of English Lavender. An exquisite Bathroom Kit at . . . $5.50

YARDLEY & LONDON

ALCO-GRAVURE, New York Chicago Baltimore Kansas City Atlanta

ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1936.

FOR THE MAN WHO CARES—Robert Fairchild, Men's Fashion Editor for The Constitution, brings you an illustrated article every Friday, giving the very latest advice on what to wear and when to wear it.

HERBY

MARKETING YOUR LITERARY PRODUCTS. The Constitution's Washington Bureau, 1013 Thirteenth Street, Washington, D. C., has a ten thousand-word booklet telling in a practical way how to prepare manuscripts, drawings, etc., giving legal phases of copyrighting, and listing markets, including magazines, feature syndicates, literary agents and protective societies. Send 10 cents for handling charges to Dept. B-146 for "MARKETS FOR LITERATURE."

EIGHT PAGES OF WORLD'S GREATEST COMICS

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

COMIC SECTION

COMIC SECTION

ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1936.

JANE ARDEN

by Monte Barrett and Russell E. Ross

OFF THE RECORD

"Here Comes Murphy Showing Off With His Swan Dive Again."

"Look, Mama, Is This What You Don't Want Me to Do?"

"Mr. Moore, If You're Listening in---I've Changed My Mind About That Accident Insurance!"

"I Learned This Hopping Freights in the U. S. A."

"We'll Just Have to Wait Until She Gets Used to the Idea That We're Married!"

"The Hand Is Quicker Than the Eye!"

"JANE ARDEN" AND "OFF THE RECORD" COME TO YOU REGULARLY IN THE DAILY CONSTITUTION, ALSO

Tarzan

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

© 1936, Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc.—The King of the Jungle

THE SOLDIER LION

WHEN TARZAN NEARED HIS SECRET HEADQUARTERS, A DEEP ROAR SOUNDED NEARBY. "LION!" SHOUTED HIS COMPANIONS, AND FLED.

BUT TARZAN SMILED AS THE GREAT BEAST BURST FROM THE BRUSH, REARED UP, AND LICKED HIM. IT WAS LETHOR, HIS FRIEND.

SOON, IN HIS CAMP, HE FOUND THE FORCES OF FREEDOM SWELLED BY MANY REFUGEES, FROM FLINT'S REIGN OF TERROR.

AND THERE THE FUGITIVE PRINCESS NAKONIA SHYLY GREETED THE JUNGLE LORD, MODESTLY HIDING HER GROWING LOVE.

TARZAN BEGAN TO TRAIN HIS TINY ARMY FOR THE SWIFT THRUSTS OF GUERRILLA WARFARE, TO CUT FLINT'S COMMUNICATIONS WITH THE COAST

THEN HE DIVIDED HIS FORCES STRATEGICALLY IN THE MOUNTAIN PASS BY WHICH CARAVANS TRANSPORTED FLINT'S PLUNDERED GOLD.

WHEN A CONVOY APPEARED, ARROWS POURED FROM BEHIND BOULDERS. THE GUARD CHARGED THE HIDDEN FOE.

BUT TARZAN AND HIS SWORDSMEN SWEEP DOWN ON THEM FROM THE REAR LIKE A DEVASTATING HURRICANE.

LETHOR THE LION, TRAINED TO BATTLE BY HIS MASTER, WAS A POTENT SOLDIER, FIGHTING FURIOUSLY AND TERRIFYING THE FOE.

AND ONCE HIS SPIRITED TALONS SAVED TARZAN FROM A FATAL ATTACK.

FINALLY, OF ALL THE CARAVAN, ONLY ONE MAN WAS LEFT. HE WAS SPARED--TO CARRY THE NEWS OF DEFEAT TO FLINT.

NEXT WEEK: FLINT'S SURPRISE

BUT THE TYRANT WAS UNDISMAYED, FOR NOW HE HIT UPON A TRICK TO OUTWIT TARZAN!

"BREATHLESS MOMENTS" in the life of the nation and of the world! Charles W. Duke brings you these startling accounts, concisely written, every day on the classified ad page of The Constitution.

MOON MULLINS

by Frank Willard

KITTY HIGGINS

WHAT SHOULD MARRIAGE GIVE?—Security?—Gaiety?—Romance?—Phil offered the first, Toby the second, but Arleen Leeds wanted the third—and by some queer twist of fate the one man who could give ROMANCE was already married. Watch for "ROMANCE, PREFERRED," Margaret Gorman Nichols' newest novel, on the daily feature page of THE CONSTITUTION.

EIGHT PAGES OF WORLD'S GREATEST COMICS

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

COMIC SECTION

COMIC SECTION

ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1936.

UNEARTHING A LOST CITY OF THE VANISHED MAYAS!

LONG BEFORE COLUMBUS AND THE CONQUISTADORES, A MIGHTY CIVILIZATION FLOURISHED IN AMERICA. THE RACE THAT BUILT IT VANISHED, LEAVING THEIR LOFTY PYRAMID TEMPLES, THEIR SPACIOUS CITIES, TO THE CREEPING JUNGLE. TODAY THEIR RUINS CHALLENGE THE WORLD. LAWRENCE GRISWOLD HAS BRAVED UNTOLD HARDSHIPS TO SOLVE SOME OF THE MYSTERIES OF THESE MAYAS. GRISWOLD KNOWS THE IMPORTANCE OF STEADY NERVES IN HIS ADVENTUROUS WORK. HE SAYS: "I MAKE SURE I HAVE A GENEROUS SUPPLY OF CAMELS. CAMELS NEVER GET ON MY NERVES!"

FLYING TO PANAMA ON THE TAIL OF A HURRICANE, GRISWOLD'S PLANE IS BLOWN FAR INLAND OVER THE UNEXPLORED CENTRAL AMERICAN JUNGLE. SUDDENLY THROUGH A RIFT IN THE CLOUDS —

HE SAYS — 'NO SAVVY LOST CITY—INDIAN NEVER GO BEYOND HERE—BAD COUNTRY—NO WATER, PLENTY DANGER!'

RUINS! IT MUST BE ANOTHER LOST MAYAN CITY ABANDONED AGES AGO. I'LL WHIP AN OUTFIT TOGETHER AND EXPLORE IT!

4 MONTHS LATER AT THE DOOR OF THE JUNGLE

THAT'S ALL PART OF THE GAME! GET GOING, MEN! CHOP A PATH THROUGH THIS JUNGLE

WEEKS OF SCORCHING, BACK-BREAKING WORK ACTUALLY TUNNELING FOOT BY FOOT THRU THE JUNGLE.

ONLY FOUR MILES A DAY. ANOTHER MILE OF THIS AND I'LL HAVE THE JIM-JAMS

HERE, OLD MAN, HAVE A CAMEL. THAT'LL SET YOU RIGHT!

THEN—WITHOUT WARNING, UNSEEN SAVAGE BUSH MAYAS ATTACK —

FLATTEN OUT, MEN! WHY THEY'RE OBSIDIAN ARROW HEADS—THE ANCIENT MAYAS THEMSELVES USED OBSIDIANS

OUT OF THE JUNGLES FINALLY. ONLY TO FIND AN IMPASSABLE SWAMP

NOTHING TO DO BUT BUILD A CORDUROY ROAD OVER THIS!

RIGHT! AND WORK LIVELY TOO! WE'VE ONLY SIX WEEKS' PROVISIONS LEFT

4 DAYS LATER—AT SUNRISE!

HEY! THERE SHE IS AT LAST—RIGHT UNDER OUR NOSES!

WORKING FEVERISHLY AGAINST TIME — GRISWOLD SCIENTIFICALLY SURVEYS THE LOST CITY —

LOOK! A CITY OVER 4 MILES IN AREA, WITH TEMPLES, PYRAMIDS, COURTS, HOUSES, ROADS, EVERYTHING. WE'VE ROLLED BACK THE AGES

CONGRATULATIONS! I CAN SEE IN MY MIND'S EYE HOW IT REALLY WAS

BUT MEANWHILE, THEIR PROVISIONS HAVE DWINDLED. SO ON THE RETURN JOURNEY —

UGH! NOTHING TO EAT BUT RICE —AND NO WATER EXCEPT WHAT WE GET FROM SUCKING LIANAS

BUT, FORTUNATELY WE'VE ENOUGH CAMELS! AND THAT MAKES UP FOR A LOT

CIVILIZATION—AND THE FIRST SQUARE MEAL IN WEEKS!

YOU MUST HAVE THE 'IRON' STOMACH, SEÑOR!

NOT AT ALL—I JUST HAVE GOOD HEALTH—NO MATTER WHAT I EAT, I SMOKE CAMELS AND MY DIGESTION BEHAVES ITSELF

EATING IN THE JUNGLE IS NO PICNIC. I'VE FOUND THAT SMOKING CAMELS IS A GREAT AID TO MY DIGESTION. CAMELS CERTAINLY EASE TENSION AND HELP ME ENJOY MY FOOD!

CAMELS COMPLETE A MEAL—WHEN YOU ENJOY CAMELS WITH YOUR MEALS AND AFTER DIGESTION IS STIMULATED. FOR THE FLOW OF DIGESTIVE FLUIDS—ALKALINE DIGESTIVE FLUIDS—SPEEDS UP. CAMELS SET YOU RIGHT!

For Digestion's Sake—Smoke CAMELS

CAMELS ARE MADE FROM FINER, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOES—TURKISH AND DOMESTIC—THAN ANY OTHER POPULAR BRAND.

(SIGNED) R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY
WINSTON-SALEM, NORTH CAROLINA

OL' JUDGE ROBBINS

WELL, JOE, A SIMPLE TEST WILL TELL YOU HOW COOL-BURNING PRINCE ALBERT IS. WE'RE BOTH SMOKING THE SAME KIND OF PIPE —

— YOU LOAD YOURS WITH YOUR TOBACCO. I'LL LOAD MINE WITH P.A. AND WE'LL SMOKE PUFF FOR PUFF FOR 5 MINUTES

NOW HOLD YOUR PIPE BOWL TO ONE CHEEK — I'LL HOLD MINE TO THE OTHER

GOSH, YOURS IS MUCH COOLER

IT'S BOUND TO BE! PRINCE ALBERT IS CUT IN A SPECIAL, SCIENTIFIC WAY. 'CRIMP CUT.' THAT'S WHY IT BURNS SO MUCH COOLER AND SMOKES SO MILD AND MELLOW

I'M CONVINCED, JUDGE, FROM NOW ON I'M TEAMING UP WITH P.A.

PRINCE ALBERT MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE
"You must be pleased!"

MEN, TAKE ADVANTAGE OF OUR IRONCLAD MONEY-BACK OFFER: SMOKE 20 FRAGRANT PIPEFULS OF PRINCE ALBERT. IF YOU DON'T FIND IT THE MELLOWEST, TASTIEST PIPE TOBACCO YOU EVER SMOKED, RETURN THE POCKET TIN WITH THE REST OF THE TOBACCO IN IT TO US AT ANY TIME WITHIN A MONTH FROM THIS DATE, AND WE WILL REFUND FULL PURCHASE PRICE, PLUS POSTAGE. (SIGNED) R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO., WINSTON-SALEM, N.C.

50 PIPEFULS OF FRAGRANT TOBACCO IN EVERY 2-OUNCE TIN OF PRINCE ALBERT

PRINCE ALBERT THE NATIONAL JOY SMOKE
AND P.A. IS GREAT 'MAKIN'S' FOR CIGARETTES TOO

FREE DIXIE DOODLES

OH BOY They're GOOD

CUT THIS COUPON

Buy 1 DIXIE DOODLE for 5¢ and this Coupon will get you another DIXIE DOODLE FREE

CUT HERE

--- COUPON ---

Any store selling Foremost Dixie Doodles is authorized to give you one Dixie Doodle for this coupon when you purchase one Dixie Doodle for 5¢. Good only until December 13, 1936.

ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1936

Maw Green

"Marvels of the Sky," a leaflet illustrating sizes of planets, distances from the sun and telling of many wonders of the sky, may be had by sending a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to UNCLE RAY, at The Constitution.

SCREEN & RADIO WEEKLY

Section of

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

Dec. 6, 1936

BRIDGE ACCORDING TO CULBERTSON

By ELY CULBERTSON.

QUESTIONNAIRE.

I HAVE received a great many letters from readers of this column asking me to submit another "self-rating questionnaire," by means of which they can test their knowledge of bidding and play. I hasten to comply herewith. By way of warning I might say that this list of questions is more difficult than the lists appearing here six and eight months ago. Compare your answers with those printed at the very end of this article. For correctly answered questions having only one part mark yourself 10 points, if the question is split up A and B allows 5 points for each part. If a reason is demanded for a play you must give it to deserve full credit. A master player should score 100 points, an expert 90 points, a good average player 75, average players 65. Below that you would have been wiser to have cheated by looking at the answers first!

1. Dummy leads the queen from Q J 9. You, next to play, hold K 7 5. What card do you play?

2. The bidding has gone (both sides vulnerable):

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	1 no-trump	Pass
Pass	?

You are East, and hold:

♠ Q 10 8 5 ♥ K 10 3 ♦ A J 7 6 ♣ K 10

What do you say now?

3. The opponents are playing three no-trump. Your partner leads the five of hearts and the dummy goes down.

♠ 10 4 ♥ J 9 8 ♦ A Q 9 8 7 2 ♣ 8 8

Dummy plays the heart six. Your holding is:

♠ J 9 8 5 ♥ Q 2 ♦ K 7 4 ♣ K Q 10 6

What card do you play to the first trick, and why?

4. Declarer leads the diamond jack up to dummy's diamond holding of A 10 4. You, West, hold 9 3 2. What card do you play, and why?

5. The bidding has gone:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 spades

*Final bid.

You are West, on lead, and hold:

♠ K 12 ♥ 8 ♦ Q J 10 7 4 ♣ J 10 8 5

What do you lead?

6. You are playing a six-spade contract and have no losing tricks except possibly in the trump suit itself. Dummy holds spade K 9 6 5. You hold A J 7 4 3. Lead is in your hand. How do you play for the maximum five trump tricks, and at the same time to limit possible losers to one trick?

7. You are not vulnerable, the opponents are vulnerable. You can choose between defeating the opponents two tricks doubled or going game yourself. Which do you choose?

8. (a) If you knew that a vulnerable game depended on two successful finesses out of three that you must take, would you bid the game or stop at a less-than-game contract? (b) If you knew that a non-vulnerable slam depended on your losing no-trump trick when dummy held A 5 3 and you yourself K 9 8 7 4 2, would you bid the slam?

9. Both sides vulnerable. South deals and bids one no-trump. You, West, pass; your partner doubles. South passes. You hold:

♠ Q J 10 8 5 ♥ K 8 ♦ 7 5 4 ♣ 8 8

What do you do?

10. Both sides vulnerable. South deals and bids one spade. West overcalls with two hearts. You, North, hold:

♠ J 8 5 ♥ J 7 ♦ A 9 7 6 ♣ J 8 6

(a) What do you do? (b) Suppose you pass, East passes, and South then doubles. West passes. What do you do now?

LIQUOR HABIT

HELP HIM QUIT Send for FREE TRIAL of Nozalco, a guaranteed harmless home treatment. Can be given secretly in food or drink to anyone who drinks or craves Whiskey, Beer, Gin, Home Brew, Wine, Moonshine, etc. Your request for Free Trial brings trial supply by return mail and full $2.00 treatment which you may try under a 30 day refund guarantee. Try Nozalco at our risk. Write, ARLEE CO., Dept. 34, BALTIMORE, MD.

BRIDGE PROBLEM

The bidding (both sides vulnerable):

South	West	North	East
spades	Pass	spades	Pass
spades	Pass	spades	Pass

West opens the king of diamonds and follows up with the queen and ace. How should declarer play, and how should East-West defend? (See solution below.)

SOLUTION—Declarer should run the diamond suit, drawing adverse trumps, cash clubs, ending in his own hand, and then lead heart toward dummy. If West plays low, dummy's eight should be played. East is then forced to return a heart into dummy's tenace or a card that will permit a ruff and a discard.

West, seeing clubs and diamonds stripped from the North-South hands, should protect his partner from the heart throw-in by playing the ten when declarer leads heart toward dummy.

That Vital First Play!

The longer I play bridge, the more hands I analyze, the surer I become that the plays of declarer and defenders to the first trick are apt to be the vital ones. Needless to say I am not maintaining that the player who makes the correct first play may relax for the rest of the hand. But it is a fact that getting off on the right foot is a good part of the race. Take such a typical situation as is illustrated in the following hand:

NORTH
♠ K 5 3	♥ A 10 9 4	♦ J 3	♣ A K 7 6
WEST
♠ 8 4	♥ 7 6 5 3	♦ K 7 4 3	♣ 8 5 5
SOUTH
♠ Q 8 6	♥ 8 5	♦ A Q 10 9 8	♣ Q 7 1

The bidding (both sides vulnerable):

North	East	South	West
1 club	1 spade	2 diamonds	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	2 no-trump	Pass
3 no-trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

As I saw this hand played, in a supposedly much better than average game, West opened the nine of spades, dummy followed with the three, East played the ten, and declarer, in an effort to exhaust West's spades so that if he should regain the lead with the diamond king he could not again lead through dum-

The Planets—Your Daily Guide

By BERNICE DENTON PIERSON

Bernice Denton Pierson, eminent astrologer, has prepared this forecast in brief for a handy reference convenient to Constitution readers. This guide will aid you, for it indicates the most auspicious time to begin any new endeavor, whether it be business, social or domestic.

DECEMBER 6—SUNDAY: The day will start with pleasant influences, when you are apt to radiate happiness and feel a contentment all around. However, between 9:04 a. m. and 3:45 p. m., you may wear yourself out because of a feeling of impatience. If you allow this impatience to predominate, you will surely run into confusion, so try to take it easy. After 3:45 p. m. is a favorable time for recreation, pleasures, educational and philosophical works.

DECEMBER 7—MONDAY: This is not a favorable day for decided activity in any line. New beginnings will encounter worry and delays, and around this date, those born in March, June, September and December, may find themselves overworking to obtain the advice of sober and sane counsel. This is a favorable time to undertake affairs that require tact and diplomacy, especially if such work has any relation to property, or brings you in contact

DECEMBER 8—TUESDAY: Before 12:01 noon favors minor operations, but do not go into elaborate schemes. Go to superiors with routine matters, and they will be able to get you on the right track, but if you are thinking of asking for large favors, it will be better to wait. Do not force any issues during the afternoon and evening, for you are apt to encounter explosions directed against yourself.

DECEMBER 9—WEDNESDAY: Previous to 12:51 p. m. offers particular opportunities for good results in affairs around domestic, business and financial dealings. You can make the most out of contracts, conferences, journeys and trading. After 12:51 p. m. new beginnings will encounter hidden factors, and personally you will feel a restlessness which if taken upon your associates will produce difficulties of various kinds. You are inclined now to feel that you are being deliberately hindered, but restrain yourself from attempting to push through whatever barriers you encounter.

DECEMBER 10—THURSDAY: Before 6:18 p. m. is a splendid time to obtain the advice of sober and sane counsel. This is a favorable time to undertake affairs that require tact and diplomacy, especially if such work has any relation to property, or brings you in contact with people older than yourself. This is a very auspicious date for beginning anything that is conservative, that requires a great deal of thought and time, and for work of a laborious nature. After 6:18 p. m. keep away from anything of a speculative or that is of an "off-color" nature.

DECEMBER 11—FRIDAY: If you have a clever idea to introduce, whether it be business, literary, or of an artistic nature, see what you can do about it today, for your magnetism, or your attractiveness is strong, and you are better able to sell yourself and your product. This is a favorable day for literary and advertising matters.

DECEMBER 12—SATURDAY: While the morning hours before noon are filled with influences that produce irritation and a lack of poise, the afternoon hours and until 8:45 p. m. are most favorable for week-end plans and activities, social affairs, shopping, travel and financial matters.

HOW TO USE THESE INDICATIONS TO BEST ADVANTAGE.

Should you receive an important telephone call, giving you the first news you have of a certain thing, look and see if the influences at that particular time are friendly or unfriendly. The outcome of that call my's vulnerable spade queen, allowed the ten to hold. East was an expert, however; he had deliberately played the ten-spot on his partner's nine because he had anticipated such a maneuver on declarer's part and was prepared for a counter-attack. East could see that if declarer's diamond suit was not solid he would have to finesse into West; that being the case, declarer would certainly try to exhaust West's spades. But if, by the same token, West had the diamond suit stopped, the defenders could establish plenty of tricks without relying too much on East's spade suit. Thus, when East's spade ten held he laid down the heart king; when that held also he continued with the queen. The ace won and now declarer tried the diamond finesse. It lost to West's king and a spade return was taken by the ace. East then cashed the heart jack for the setting trick.

As I said before, this hand is a type. Declarer had beaten himself by his very first play. The crux obviously was to avoid losing spade tricks to East's announced suit but at the same time declarer had to worry about a shift to hearts! In order to control these twin situations while the diamond suit was being established declarer had only to play dummy's spade king on the lead of the nine-spot! As simple as that! East would have been "stymied." If he should take the ace and continue spades declarer would win the second trick, lead a low club to dummy's ace, and finesse against the diamond king. West would never be able to put East back on lead!

If East should win the spade king and shift to hearts the ace would win and diamonds could then be finessed as before. Defenders could then win only one spade, two hearts, and one diamond.

The declarer, if he reads this, will be surprised to find that he "dubbed" an ironclad contract.

Answers to Questionnaire.

1. The five. 2. Double. 3. The heart deuce. You can hold up your diamond king and probably shut out dummy's long suit, but if you play the heart queen to the first trick you are too apt to establish dummy's heart jack as an eventual entry. 4. The queen; you may promote the K 9 x in partner's hand to two winning tricks. 5. A low trump. 6. Lead the ace, then up to dummy. 7. Collect the 500-point penalty. 8. (a) Bid the game—you have a 50-50 chance of success. (b) Do not bid the slam; you have not an even chance of losing no-trump trick. 9. Pass; with fair luck, you should "wreck" the no-trump. 10. (a) Pass. (b) Bid three spades.

(Copyright, 1936, for The Constitution) will be colored by the influence prevailing then.

If you wish an astrological chart covering your sign of the Zodiac, Bernice Denton Pierson will be glad to send it to you. State your birth month and date (year unnecessary). Write your name and address plainly. Accompany this with 10 cents in stamps or currency to cover clerical expenses, together with self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address: Bernice Denton Pierson, care Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Chart will be sent promptly.

NOVEL WAY TO GET WONDERFUL RELIEF FROM CONGESTION CAUSED BY

COLDS IN THROAT AND HEAD

Almost unbelievable—but it's true. With Dr. Blosser's Medical Cigarettes (no tobacco), you just smoke your way to relief from congestion and irritation due to common colds or simple Catarrhal conditions arising from colds.

Warm vapors of soothing medication deeply penetrate breathing passages, loosen phlegm, and ease congestion. Relief comes fast from sneezing, sniffing, eye-watering and other common cold symptoms. A proven success for 30 years. Buy at your druggist's today. Or write for FREE SAMPLE CIGARETTES—address The Blosser Co., Dept. 94M, Atlanta, Ga.

DR. BLOSSER'S MEDICAL CIGARETTES

Who's Afraid of Fifty?

By Louise Dresser

WHO'S afraid of 50? I'm not, but that doesn't mean there aren't a couple of hundred thousands that are, and that's a small percentage.

I object most strenuously when people, even my own family, try to make me think their way when I have a way of thinking my own. I can be persuaded. I try not to be pig-headed or stubborn when an argument is on, and I am seldom right in my argument, nor do I have a million alibis when I lose. I'm rather nice that way, but just because I think a thing is right I don't expect the whole world, or even one other human being, to think my way.

Why, if I feel younger approaching 50 than I did at 25, does it mean that other women or men should feel as I do? My life has been cast in its own particular mold. So has everyone's. I will wager no two blades of grass in the world are alike. That goes for flowers, trees, animals, fish, birds and twins. There aren't two people in this whole wide world who think alike in every blessed detail. That I will bet my life on.

When I say I'm not afraid of 50, it doesn't mean I wouldn't like to be 16 again. Certainly I would! But I know that there's no going back over that trail and if I had to go through everything that I have been through from 16 up to my present age I'm mighty sure I'd say, "No, ma'am! Thank you very kindly."

SOME years ago I had a splendid talk with Ada Patterson, who was writing articles for newspapers and magazines. The story she did for me was called, "Thirty-six and Proud of It." When the magazine came out the story was a hit, but oh, my children, what a lacing I got from my friends!

Hardly one of them approved of telling my right age, and the things I said of women of my age didn't click at all. I don't know to this day why they all raised such a fuss. I was talking of myself mostly, but some of the things I said must have touched a few sensitive souls.

I have never been afraid of the age question, not even when I have been warned that it would probably cost me my job. I have always kept a great deal of childhood away back one did! And 16 is pretty much the same in all ages, mid-Victorian or jazz.

Miss Dresser enjoys many simple pleasures, including getting herself very dirty in her garden.

I AM NOT the least bit afraid of 50 for I know that the very best work of my life is still to come. I am building now for a real career. All these years that have gone were just my kindergarten course. When I was 20 I set 40 as my goal to be the big success I had planned to be. I missed it. True, I had been working since I was 16, earning a great deal of money, and a certain amount of success, but I had not done the thing I set out to do.

Lots of women would have been satisfied. I wasn't, so I added another five years to my goal point. I nearly made it. Nearly, not quite. Well, here I am 49—55 is the big objective now. That gives me almost six years, and if I don't do what I expect to do at 55 I will go right on until 60, and so on until they put the crutches under my arms.

A friend of mine asked me the other day just what it was that I wanted or intended to do. I said I didn't quite know, but I do. I didn't deliberately lie. I had no reason not to tell her, but I like to keep that one secret to myself. When I do the thing I have intended to do since I was a kid, I will tell the whole world and, believe me, I am going to do it.

I am not saying this with the least bit of egoism or cocksureness; I am not bragging or overambitious. I am simply determined. I have come too far to fall down on my own job now.

Fifty! Good gracious! One would think to hear a lot of folks talk that 50 was the hopeless instead of the dangerous age. Of course, I don't expect to have any wild love affairs or break up any happy homes during this fifty-period of my life. I don't think my husband would let me. He's funny that way. But I do honestly think a real love at 50 is beautiful.

SOMEONE has asked me what I will do about my hair and the lines in my face, when they come. You see how nicely I slipped that in? There are no lines as yet. The cheeks and chin are still firm, although there is a funny little place in my throat in my brain, and every once in a while it crops out.

Louise Dresser (above)—her latest portrait; and, left, as she appeared in 1906 in her first job on Broadway, with Lew Fields.

I never intend to grow up. I have the same kind of tantrums now that I had when I was five, so Mother says, and certainly she ought to know. Only, of course, I don't throw myself on the floor and kick as I did then. I like being told that I will never grow up. Why on earth should I? Now remember, I am talking of me, and my age, not anyone's else.

Ever since I was a kid I have watched people grow old, and even as a little girl I made up my mind I would not ever be like the old ladies in our neighborhood. They were possibly only 35 or 40, but they seemed to me 100. I remember once when I was about 18 an acquaintance passed away. When I was asked his age I said, "He was quite an old gentleman, almost 50."

A few years ago I lost a dear friend who was just 54, and the thought came to me forcibly she was so young to die. The viewpoint changes, you see. The teens are a wonderful age. At 16 no one could have told me anything. No

More than a year ago Louise Dresser and her husband, Jack Gardner, both of whom had been on stage and screen for years, determined to retire. She was going to be a housewife. But her retirement ended when Frank Lloyd wanted her for "Maid of Salem" and she is off on another career, with no indication that she will be able to get back to retirement for a long time.

which makes me think it won't be long now, but it doesn't scare me.

Nothing has begun to fall as yet, and if it does it can jolly well fall. There will be no face-lifting in this family. I don't like being hurt. Besides, what's the use? It only has to be done over again every year or so, and I can't be bothered. I have a few gray hairs but they don't show because my hair is very blond. My mother's hair is snow white, very long and heavy. She has been gray since she was 30. She is now 80 and very lovely to look at.

So if my hair grows to be like Mother's, I have nothing to fear on that score.

I don't fuss with myself very much. I know I am the despair of several of my friends. I stay for hours in the sun without gloves, hat or many clothes, and I am as freckled as a guinea hen, but I'm mighty well. I love nice, clean dirt, the same as all children do, and I am never happier than when I am filthy dirty and soaking wet from work in my garden or wherever else the dirt happens to be.

Dirt is good for children, that's why I like it. Do I see a sarcastic twist to a few readers' lips? Do I hear someone saying, "Poor thing, she's kidding herself! Children! Childhood! Don't make us laugh—second childhood!"

WELL, if that is what you think, I hope you are right. I hope that my fiftieth year will be the beginning of my second childhood. What a great life I will have from then on, for my first childhood and all that came after it will have served its purpose. I hope and pray 50 will see me in the most bee-yu-tiful pair of rompers that ever were made.

WHEN JUSTICE TRIUMPHED

By PETER LEVINS.

SHORTLY after 12 o'clock on the night of March 26-27, 1936, the Pennsylvania state police in Warren county were informed by telephone that Metro Seminuk, owner of the Airport Inn, had been cold-bloodedly murdered. The informant was Tom Bower, a farmer, who lived near by.

When Troopers Joseph F. Schmidt and John Mehallick arrived, Seminuk was still lying where he had fallen, near one of the gasoline pumps in front of the roadhouse-filling station. He had been struck by three bullets and apparently had died instantly. Two bullets had entered the right side of the abdomen and the third over the right hip.

Farmer Bower told the officers that Seminuk had been ruthlessly shot down by a customer who had had some drinks at the bar and then bought some gasoline. Bower was positive the killer had been a total stranger to his victim.

"Business had been poor all night on account of flood conditions," the farmer related. "When the time came to close up the place the only customers were myself and this other fellow—a fairly young man, about 25, I should say. I was walking along the railroad tracks, bound for home, when I heard Mike at one of the pumps. A moment later I heard the shots."

Bower said the young man had done quite a lot of talking while they were at the bar. He had driven through from New York, and had run into plenty of trouble—this was during the disastrous floods that paralyzed large areas of Pennsylvania—and had almost lost his car on several occasions. Once some farmers had pulled him out of a ditch, the stranger had told Bower and Seminuk.

Mystery Man "Did Lot of Big Talking."

The troopers questioned Bower closely for a description of the murderer. The witness said that the fellow had sandy hair, parted on the side, and that his eyes were "big and shining." He was wearing a light hat, blue trousers and low shoes, and was carrying a mud-spattered jacket. His car might have been a Plymouth coach, said Bower.

"He said he worked for the Continental Steel Company of New York," the farmer said, "and that he had quit them because they wouldn't raise his salary $300 a week. He did a lot of big talking like that. Said he was going to get a position with a future."

The troopers questioned the pretty young widow, Mary Seminuk, who had been asleep upstairs when the tragedy occurred. She sat with her handkerchief to her eyes, moaning. Upstairs, meanwhile, her mother, Mrs. Dora Zurkin, comforted the 9-year-old daughter.

Mary Seminuk said that she had seen the killer sitting at the bar at about quarter to 11, and that he was a complete stranger to her. She could give no explanation for the shooting.

"Did your husband know any people who wished him harm?" asked Trooper Schmidt.

She hesitated, then answered. "No, he didn't."

"Are you positive?"

"I'm not positive because—well, during prohibition my husband used to run beer from Canada into this country."

"You think that some member of that gang did away with him?"

"Oh, no, I can't say that. It's only that he knew some rough characters in those days, and he might have made some enemies."

"Can you suggest any one?"

She shook her head. "He never mentioned any names to me."

The widow was then asked how she and her husband had gotten along lately. She replied that they got along "like any married couple." Once, a long while ago, they had quarreled over money matters, and in 1932 she had decided Metro needed to be taught a lesson because he had not been paying enough attention to the house.

"I went to see a lawyer about a divorce, but I never really meant it," she said. "As soon as Metro heard about it he changed and we never had any trouble after that. Lately the place has been making money, so everything was running smoothly."

"You have been happy together?"

"Very happy," she said, and averted her head, handkerchief to her eyes.

Trooper Mehallick, meanwhile, had found a whisky glass on the bar, which Bower said was the one the murderer had used. There were three distinct fingerprints on the glass. At the state police barracks later they discovered that these were the prints of a thumb, forefinger and middle finger of the right hand.

This seemed like a fortunate break. If the man had a record, then his fingerprints would be on file in the central bureau at Washington, D. C.

Dr. M. V. Ball performed the autopsy and reported that the first bullet had penetrated the right side of the abdomen on an upward angle. This indicated, he said, that the murderer had been sitting in the car with the door open and that Seminuk had been standing by the door. There were a few powder burns on the clothing, but no burns on the body.

The weapon had been a .38-caliber army special.

Inquiry at the Continental Steel Corporation in New York proved fruitless. And on top of this came a report from Washington that the fingerprints on the whisky glass could not be identified.

Probing for a motive, the investigators began to unearth details about Seminuk's daily life, his domestic life and his estate. He had left very little. It developed. There were two small insurance policies naming the widow as beneficiary. One policy was for $300 with the Polish National Alliance of Chicago and the other was for $1,000 with the Ohio National Life Insurance Company. The second policy had been written over Mrs. Seminuk's objections.

Among those questioned by the two troopers was 17-year-old Gertrude Manerlik, a waitress who had formerly worked in the Airport Inn. She was located the afternoon Metro Seminuk was buried in a cemetery not far from his home.

Waitress Heard Victim And Wife "Fighting Plenty."

"We are looking for details about Metro Seminuk's past life," Schmidt told her. "We think you may be able to help us."

But she shook her head. "I haven't an idea in the world who could have killed Mr. Semnuk," she said. "Do you know of any one who might have had a motive for shooting him?"

"No. He always treated people nice enough. He didn't have any enemies. It must have been a hold-up man that did it."

"We don't think so. How did he and his wife get along?"

Miss Manerlik stared at the officers. "Say, what are you driving at? You don't suppose—"

"She has told us that she and Metro were happily married. Is that true?"

The girl's eyes widened and her mouth opened. "Did she tell you that?" she exclaimed.

"She did! What do you say?"

"I say she was lying," she declared emphatically. "Why, I heard them fighting plenty lately!"

"What were they fighting about?"

"Mr. Seminuk wanted her to do something and she wouldn't."

"What was it he wanted her to do?"

"He didn't want her to see any more of John Polens."

The officers learned that Mary half been running around a lot recently with Polens, a graduate of Carnegie Technical College and a former justice of the peace of Garland township. Miss Manerlik said the wife had gone to dances with Polens, and gone driving with him while Metro was busy at the inn.

Schmidt and Mehallick, convinced that they had at last found an opening, hastened to the inn.

(Continued on Page 15)

SWELLING REDUCED

And Short Breathing relieved when caused by unnatural collection of water in abdomen, feet and legs, and when pressure above ankles leaves a dent. Trial package FREE.

COLLUM MEDICINE COMPANY
Dept. 285, Atlanta, Ga.

Weekly Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS.

- 1 Lively, cheerful tunes.
- 6 Fermented grains.
- 11 One.
- 15 Mountain peak in California.
- 21 Ancient Greek theater.
- 22 Benefit.
- 23 A full grown pike.
- 24 French city.
- 25 Capable of being known.
- 27 Encroachers.
- 29 Alcoholic beverage.
- 30 Clayey.
- 31 Scripture.
- 33 A black viscous liquid.
- 34 Feminine name.
- 35 To grease.
- 37 Rap lightly again.
- 39 Large Australian birds.
- 41 Grassland.
- 43 A decade.
- 44 Part of "to be": poet.
- 46 To sweeten.
- 49 Spirit.
- 51 Place of occurrence or action.
- 53 Idolizer.
- 54 Observe.
- 55 Expensive.
- 56 Nuts.
- 58 To fasten securely.
- 60 Secure.
- 62 Isinglass.
- 65 State or quality of being close.
- 67 Triple crown.
- 69 Wire measures.
- 71 A cereal grass.
- 72 A member of a Siamese race.
- 73 Want of feeling.
- 75 Pointed or narrow tips.
- 77 To thrust out of the way.
- 79 Wild buffalo of India.
- 81 Italian coin.
- 82 Stables.
- 84 A relative.
- 85 Rope used to draw a gun carriage.
- 88 Pertaining to abstinence from intoxicants.
- 90 Hungarian cavalryman.
- 93 Robbery at sea.
- 95 Turkish coin.
- 96 Reverberate.
- 100 Wingless.
- 102 Food.
- 103 Layer of earth or rock.
- 105 Steal.
- 106 Neither.
- 107 Black.
- 109 Deserve.
- 111 Star-shaped.
- 113 A small insect.
- 115 Burden.
- 117 Challenger.
- 119 Landed properties.
- 120 Fillet.
- 122 Moccasin.
- 124 Catchers of certain burrowing animals.
- 126 Mexican corn meal mush.
- 127 An authoritative letter.
- 129 Province or territory of an officer of an imperial palace.
- 131 A musical instrument.

DOWN.

- 132 A limb.
- 133 Consumed.
- 135 Ages.
- 136 The upright part of a step.
- 138 Sprinkled: Her.
- 141 Greedy.
- 143 The bitter vetch.
- 145 Hard shelled fruits.
- 147 Curved moldings: var.
- 149 Chinese pagoda.
- 150 Formal acknowledgment.
- 153 Learnedness.
- 156 Obliterates.
- 157 Formerly.
- 158 Lamprey catcher.
- 159 Succinct.
- 160 Expunge.
- 161 Short pipe connections.
- 162 Winter vehicles.
- 163 Flexible pipes.
- 1 Not general or widespread.
- 2 False forms of thinking in logic.
- 3 Sleight of hand.
- 4 Avoirdupois weight.
- 5 One conscious of his superiority.
- 6 A twin crystal.
- 7 Navigated the air: colloq.
- 8 North American peninsula.
- 9 Sesame.
- 10 Killed.
- 11 The last month.
- 12 Food.
- 13 Freeze.
- 14 Trial.
- 15 Trap.
- 16 Possesses.
- 17 Handle.
- 18 Extremely loud.
- 19 Covers with an alloy of tin and lead.
- 20 Acquiesce.
- 26 Kind.
- 28 Wanting in color.
- 32 Cowardly.
- 36 A giver.
- 38 Cleanliness.
- 40 Speaks.
- 42 Era.
- 45 Important drug herb.
- 47 Son of Jacob.
- 48 Group of persons pulling together.
- 50 A cut of meat.
- 51 River in Peru.
- 52 Lucid.
- 53 Attack.
- 55 Gratifies extremely.
- 57 Lamentable.
- 59 An agreement between two or more independent states.
- 61 A supporting bar.
- 63 Mahometan magistrate.
- 64 Egyptian solar disk.
- 66 To sharpen.
- 68 Efficient.
- 70 Portico.
- 74 An orthodox Moslem.
- 76 Slumbered.
- 78 Govern.
- 80 Projecting part of a building.
- 82 Withered.
- 83 Asterisks.
- 86 Scarce.
- 87 Metric weight.
- 89 Harangues.
- 90 To dangle.

Solution of Last Week's Puzzle

TRADITION SCAP SHE AGAPE PLACES ELEM MAYFLOWER RAISE EPICAL AURA DELOM
ANNA SLACK GALLANT DADO
SKY STALK FRILLS TED SEM
ES BEATS FAIRIS TACILY
GEORGE BARRY WISHBONES
MIRAGE NAMES HALMY NIKE
WAGSE VINES VOICIS SNEER
MIST PINEB SOLVER GINGER
ONE TORNIS BALLE NILNA
GEELEY JAMES TONGUES
ORDO TAGES MINCE PIE
TABLES LURES SAREE DIME
AVOID PENAL SITES ARGLE
LAMA GIANT SUNNS SPIELS
GRANDPRA SPICE QUINER
SEBTON SPATER ROUNER RE
OAR NUG AMINE CLING MIL
PLUM PUDDING ARENG VOTE
JAMOA FEAR LEGEND RENLO
MOONHOLE BARRED TURKEY
HARRET DOD GAVEL A WAG

- 91 On.
- 92 Pertaining to the art of military science.
- 94 Pottery manufacturer.
- 97 Instruments for measuring magnifying power.
- 98 An inn.
- 99 Excessively corpulent.
- 101 A game of cards.
- 103 Resembling a pillar.
- 104 Communion table.
- 106 A kind of leather used for gloves.
- 110 Fetter.
- 112 Side: Latin.
- 114 Hebrew letter.
- 116 Valley.
- 118 Woman's handbag.
- 121 A leguminous vegetable.
- 123 Fleishy.
- 125 Dwelt.
- 127 Proclaimed loudly.
- 128 To venerate.
- 129 Persian fairy.
- 130 Jeers.
- 131 A mild swear word.
- 134 Rapt.
- 137 Arabian military commanders.
- 139 A billiard stroke.
- 140 Mitigates.
- 142 Measured quantity of medicine.
- 144 Let it stand.
- 146 Perceives.
- 148 Masculine name.
- 151 Receive.
- 152 Anger.
- 154 Relating: abbr.
- 155 One that represents what is newest.

My splitting headache warned me of constipation. I chewed FEEN-A-MINT at night. Next morning—headache gone—clogged-up condition overcome. And all without griping or nausea. Chew FEEN-A-MINT, the chewing gum laxative, for 3 minutes. This chewing, according to scientific research, helps make FEEN-A-MINT more thorough and dependable. 15c and 25c for the big, economical, family-sized box. Try FEEN-A-MINT yourself and you will never go back to the old-fashioned cathartics that are unpleasant to take.

FEEN-A-MINT The 3 minutes of chewing make the difference
THE CHEWING-GUM LAXATIVE

Old Hat, No Tie and Grin

Mr. Astaire of the Films Drops His Top Hat Manners When He's on the Air

By Peter Mottfram

HES pretty cute in that wing collar, isn't he? Debonair is the word. And though he sounds as if he's completely outfitted with white tie and cane as he does that Tuesday evening broadcast you hear over NBC, he isn't. Oh my, no. Fred Astaire is rarely top-hatted.

He's more like this—more like the first time he rehearsed for his first series. Everyone was at Johnny Green's house sitting around the piano when Fred came in. He wore a pair of old flannels, a soft shirt open at the neck, and a dilapidated hat that is almost as much a part of him as his grin.

He plopped down in an easy chair, doubled over so that he could reach everyone and shake hands, then settled back and talked about his vacation in England for a while. His hat and his grin were on, his shirt open at the neck. After five minutes of that—after laughing about the ease with which he goes into difficult dance routines in the pictures—he moved over to the piano with Johnny Green and went to work. He's worn his hat, his grin and his work ever since.

THE Astaire who is so darn debonair is really a battlefield upon which Fred fights with Fred. During that first rehearsal, he gave an excellent example of how hard he works to bring out the smooth qualities of his performance. Green, who had prepared an elaborate score for broadcast, had it ready on the music stand. When he sat down to play, Fred leaned over the piano and, with his hands resting on the lid, began to work. As Green played, Fred sang, danced, worked out arrangements, special effects and choral interpolations, always with his hands on the piano, always with his feet moving and his eyes fixed on the score. The meeting had been scheduled as a preliminary one to last an hour and one-half. It carried on for four.

The people who work regularly with Fred Astaire on his radio program—and those include Green, Charlie Butterworth, Trudy Wood, Anne Jamison and Ken Carpenter—are beginning to think of him as Astaire the Eternal. That's a funny way to think of a guy, but apparently he has earned the distinction. For instance, no one has ever seen him eat, not even a sandwich or a malted. No one has ever seen him with an entourage of stooges, a sort of Greek chorus which many stage and screen stars effect.

The only things they've seen him do is wage the Astaire vs. Astaire battle. The one in which Astaire demands of Astaire constant improvement and perfection.

WHEN he walks into a rehearsal of his program, the first place he goes is the control room. There he sits entranced by the Green arrangements being worked out on the bandstand. He'll remain there for 15 minutes or so, nodding in time with the music and making expressions that indicate complete approval.

After the 15 minutes are up, or just a little before, he will begin to squirm and glance surreptitiously at the script he carries in his pocket. Then suddenly he can stand the inactivity no longer. He goes into a discussion of the script, an elaboration of an idea or a suggestion for a song story.

He's shy and meticulous, not self-satisfied. Shy because he knows show business is a thing in which you are not always on the top and may some time be shuffled off to the bottom; meticulous because he doesn't want that shuffling to come about through any fault of his own.

So Astaire, who really could wait until Johnny Green came to the Astaire numbers before he started to work, goes on the job. He leaves the control room, goes into the studio and starts tapping out his dance routines. If Johnny Green's band is, for instance, working out the accompaniment for a guest star, Green doesn't have to stop. Astaire merely puts his hands over his ears to shut out the Green rhythm and dances to a rhythm he sings to himself.

Fred Astaire's dancing feet do an important staccato as he slaves away at a rehearsal. Once only a complete upset of the equipment brought perfection to the program.

Always, Astaire will dance. When Trudy Wood is singing, when Green is playing, when Butterworth is doing a funny monolog, he accompanies with his graceful, enchanted feet. A million dollars' worth of taps virtually thrown away. He doesn't think so.

IT IS when Green and the ensemble leave their own music and concentrate on Fred's portion of the program that you see why. Then there are two million dollars' worth used. An Astaire production number, entailing as it does words and music, song and dancing, is a thing of intricate timing, quarter-beat perfection. Astaire goes over and over one until it seems that he would know it by heart and that nothing could possibly be as good as his performance was when he first started.

However, he is seldom satisfied—with himself. His inflection of a word, the number of taps on one beat and the placement of a choral background all might be changed three or four times during one number. Even his shoes might.

Those shoes are important. He brings two, sometimes three, pairs to a rehearsal, and if one doesn't feel right or sound right, he'll try another until he gets one that does.

When he first signed for his program, he realized that sound transmission presents different problems on the air from what it does on the screen. Because he feared his regular dancing shoes might not give the proper quality for the mike, he had another pair built especially.

He was rather proud of those shoes on the first rehearsal, too. Kept looking down to admire them and taking practice steps to see how they sounded as he talked over the script with the production man. After the talk, he walked out to his special platform and started to tap, still admiring his new shoes.

But then doubts began to assail him. He stopped work completely to ask if everyone was sure they sounded all right. Then he had the music stop while he tried them. Finally, after another quick conference, he came to the conclusion that the old type of shoes was the best. Although he's tried his radio shoes once or twice since then, they haven't been able to win back his enthusiasm.

THE man could not be wearing a top hat and work like that. And even if he were, it would have to fall off at times, since he becomes so overwrought with what he considers his own slowness in getting things right.

Like the time he and Green and the chorus spent two hours working on one production number six minutes long. It was a split-second job all the way through those 120 minutes of work. The number started out with the band, then Astaire came in with a dialog the very inflection of which was timed with the music, then he broke into his song with the choral group acting as a background, and then—finally—he danced.

He couldn't please himself. Always there was some little mistake in his work that only he could notice—but which had to be remedied. When they happened, he would push back his hat, smite himself heavily on the forehead, and moan, "Oh, why can't I get this right? Sorry, Johnny."

There were other mistakes by other people during those two hours, but Astaire didn't mind. Didn't even seem to notice, as a matter of fact. It was in the second hour, toward the end, that he made his last mistake—a muffed word. He pushed his hat back again and smote his head. Then his eyes gleamed, he picked up the script and dashed it at his music stand. The whole business fell with a bang and a clatter and rolled over the studio. He watched it with satisfaction and remarked sagely: "!!!!!!&1+1"

It seemed to relieve him, because on the next try the whole gang went through swimmingly. Lightly and brightly, with Astaire wearing his grin. The piece was, incidentally, "Top Hat, White Tie and Tails."

The Secret of Good Grooming

By Kay Francis

Attention to Details Is the Answer, Says a Beautiful Star of the Screen in the Last of a Series of Articles

IT HAS always seemed to me that grooming bears the same relation to beauty frosting has to cake. Unfrosted cake is still cake, certainly, but it isn't very special. Neither is beauty that has not been carefully tended. Grooming is the tending process.

Too many girls mistake the meaning of the description "well groomed." They think it implies dressing to within an inch of their lives. And they are sure they are well-groomed when they have succeeded in over-powdering, over-curling and over-scenting themselves, which is exactly the opposite of the right idea. A really well groomed woman never over-does anything. She makes no attempt to startle the populace with either her clothes or her make-up. Both are used to subtly compliment her personality and whatever natural beauty she possesses.

She is completely tidy. What a lot of territory that covers! And she must be what the Victorians called "dainty," meaning immaculately fresh.

ANY girl who wants to have a just-stepped-out-of-the-band-box look must pay strict attention to details. Grooming is a matter of never, ABSOLUTELY NEVER, neglecting the little things. Little things, for instance, like keeping the seams of your stockings straight, the back of your neck neat and your eyebrows the same, the lipstick outline of your mouth clean and unwavering. Can the neckbands of your dresses and coats stand close inspection?

Oh yes, little things make all the difference. Fingernail polish that is beginning to peel off or is turning amber on the right thumb and forefinger from cigaret smoke. Dust on a hatbrim, a skirt hem that sags a bit, a slipping lingerie strap, rundown heels. These are all trivial things, but any one of them is sufficient to take the fine edge off an attractive appearance.

I AM not the first to say that the test of fastidiousness in a woman is the way she cares for her hair and her hands. No one who prides herself on exquisite daintiness can go around with dirty hair. And hair has to be laundered oftener than once every fortnight to be really clean, though that is frequently prescribed as the proper lapse of time.

Well groomed hair is, first of all, scrupulously clean. Then it must be shiny from much brushing. In the third place, if it is worn short, as it usually is these days, it must be well trimmed. Bobbed hair should be trimmed at least once every three weeks, oftener if it grows unusually fast. Girls who need a haircut look just as untidy as men do when they put off a visit to the barber.

Smooth coiffures are much smarter than tumbled masses of curls. The girl who can't afford the time or the money for very frequent sallies to a beauty shop had better avoid intricately sculptured hairdresses. I know they are being emphasized in the fashion magazines and presented to you in the movies, but remember they take a great deal of professional attention. It is better to choose a simple arrangement you can manage to keep looking right all day.

WHETHER we realize it or not, others are constantly judging us by our hands. Conspicuous as they are they should be given at least half as much attention as we give our faces.

A bottle of hand lotion or cream ought to be in every kitchen and in a convenient drawer of every stenographer's desk, as well as in every bathroom. Nails need a daily going over and they should have a weekly professional manicure. It is easier to keep them well groomed if they are not worn too long, shaped too pointedly or colored too brightly.

Ragged cuticle will spoil one's entire ensemble, no matter how meticulously every other detail has been checked. Yet the cuticle can be kept in perfect condition if you will do two things. Every night before bedtime push it back with a cotton wrapped orangewood stick that has been dipped in cuticle oil. Every time you wash your hands take an extra minute to push back the cuticle from each nail with the towel wrapped around your forefinger. It is an easy habit to form and in the long run it saves time.

Hats, shoes and gloves make or break the street costume. Collectively they answer half of the question of being well groomed so far as clothes go. Pay as much for your hats as you can possibly afford. They are tremendously important to your appearance. If it was worth buying in the first place, last year's tailored suit will be just as good this year. But last year's hat is bound to be out.

MOST of the worth of a hat is in its line, and the rest is in the way you put it on. A woman who has the reputation of being one of the best dressed in the whole world boasts that she takes half an hour to put on a hat. That seems going a bit far. The suggestion of taking time to be sure you're right is excellent though. The best looking hat can be ruined if it is not worn at the proper angle.

Hats keep their shape if they are put on hatstands when not being worn. Or you can stuff their crowns with tissue and place them, upside down, on the cupboard shelf. This will preserve both the brim and the crown. But you can't just set them down anywhere and expect the brims to remain intact. It also pays to have one of those cellophane envelopes made for the purpose to cover each of your hats. If you keep a hat in its original box always stuff the crown with tissue paper.

BY THE same token shoes should be kept on shoe trees when not in use. They will hold their shape twice as long if you slip trees into them every time you take them off. My personal opinion is that the design of street shoes should always be rather plain. Even if every hair on your head is in place, every other detail of your appearance perfect, you still won't look well groomed if you get mixed up and wear elaborate footwear with sports or tailored clothes.

The smartest gloves are also plain. It is essential that they look fresh and spotless. If you succumb to the new brightly colored gloves be sure that you wear them only with dark, solid colors or gray and be careful about repeating the contrasting shade of your gloves anywhere else in your ensemble. One dash of vivid color in a costume can be sheer genius. Two may be too many.

Be miserly with ornaments and costume jewelry and beware of those "little touches" with which so many of your sisters defeat their desire to be chic. That goes double for evening clothes. There is a very ancient Indian commandment which I like. "Do not adorn yourself profusely with over-elaborate things because this is a sign of little sense."

Kay Francis: Beauty finds its perfection on the screen.

Rembrandt, Mules and Movies

Story of De Mille Is Completed with Recital of Talkie Innovations

By Clarke Wales

"PROGRESS," said Cecil B. De Mille, "usually results from somebody being too mulish to believe that something can't be done just because everybody else says it can't."

We were talking about advances in motion picture technique in the quarter century he has been in the industry, and more particularly about the advances generally credited to his fertile mind.

"Like others who have been in the business for a long time," he said, "I have been responsible for a number of improvements in the way pictures are made. But not because I had any technical training or genius; usually it was the result of pure pig-headed stubbornness. I wanted something done and I raised the devil until I or somebody working with me figured out a way to do it."

MOST commonly known of the mechanical developments credited to De Mille is the camera blimp, the box-like contraption which houses the working parts of the photographic machine and keeps their hum and click from reaching the sound track. It is a case in point.

In the first days of sound pictures, the camera was in a sound-proof booth about the size of a pilot house on an ocean-going freighter. It was on wheels, but its mobility was limited to moving from set to set. When a sequence of a picture was to be shot, the stage was set, the players rehearsed the scene and it was photographed from one spot. Watching the early talkies was like watching a stage play; the point of view was fixed and movement was limited to the range of the camera lens.

This was not the way De Mille had been in the habit of shooting pictures. Ever since Karl Freund had taken his camera onto a trapeze in Germany in the Emil Jannings picture "Variety," cameras had done as much acting as the players.

De Mille's first talking picture was "Dynamite," starring Charles Bickford. And for one scene De Mille wanted the camera on a stairway.

"But you can't do that, Mr. De Mille," the sound man said. "This isn't like the old silent days. The camera is in a booth."

"I want the camera on the stairway," said De Mille.

The sound men and other technicians continued to argue. "It just can't be done," they said. Says De Mille:

"I finally said: 'I want that camera on the stairway. Are you going to put it there or have I got to pick it up and put it there myself?'"

The camera was put on the stairway and De Mille sent a boy to the property department for blankets. He draped the camera until it looked like a cartoon of a man with chilblains and a cold in his head. The camera was set rolling.

"How was that?" De Mille asked the sound man.

"I could hear it, but it wasn't very loud. You could work 40 feet from the microphone."

MORE blankets were heaped on the camera, and this time the sound man reported that the camera was muffled well enough to work 20 feet from the microphone.

"Finally," says De Mille, "one man got the idea. A young fellow named Douglas Shearer (Norma's brother) came over to me and said:

"I have an idea, Mr. De Mille. If you can wait three days I think I can work out something that will give you what you want." So I stopped production, and three days later Shearer brought me the first camera blimp, a big box lined with blankets. With that we went ahead with the picture."

De Mille (above) standing between the camera blimp which he invented for talking films and his old silent camera. Below, he directs Charles Bickford and Kay Johnson in a scene for his first talking picture, "Dynamite."

The blimp, an essential of modern screen photography, was a result of the same stubbornness that put De Mille in picture business when the men who controlled the industry told him that there was no room for him.

This first De Mille sound picture, "Dynamite," brought forth another mechanical gadget which is as common on a motion picture lot as politics. Walk onto a De Mille set or a Von Sternberg set and likely as not the director will be high in the air on what looks like the giant arm that controls the business end of a steam shovel. It is the camera boom.

De Mille was not satisfied just to get the camera on a stairway. He wanted it all over the set and above it. And again his technical crew said "It can't be done." The old silent camera could be toted up into the rafters, if the director wanted it there. But with the new blimp the photographic machine weighed only a little less than Barnum's best elephant.

DE MILLE ordered a huge plank brought to the set. The plank was fastened in the middle to an upright post, so that it operated like a sec-saw board. Then the camera was put on one end and a crew of husky men on the other.

"We used that make-shift boom through the rest of the picture," De Mille says. "We couldn't swing the camera in every direction, but at least it could be moved up and down. When the picture was finished I had an engineer draw plans for a steel boom that would do everything I wanted. But I couldn't get the studio to have one made. I finally had to pay for getting one made myself."

De Mille's contributions to the picture industry started almost with the day he began his first picture. When he came to Hollywood he had a few valuable qualifications: Some knowledge of the stage and its technique; confidence; and an appreciation of the fact that he didn't know much about pictures but nobody else knew much more. With this equipment it was inevitable that he do things that hadn't been done before.

In the beginning motion pictures were shot entirely out of doors. When the sun didn't shine, no work was done. When the sun shone too brightly, all the film looked as though it had been over-exposed.

The first improvement on nature came through the use of cloth diffuses. Big sheets of scrim were suspended over the sets to break up the sun's glare. On "The Squaw Man," De Mille's first picture, the diffuses were drawn over the set by hand with cords, somewhat after the manner of a window shade being drawn out horizontally.

ALSO, De Mille, so far as he knows, used the first artificial lighting in Hollywood. First Wilfred Buckland, who had designed sets for Belasco, rigged up a reflector spot which caught sunlight and projected it in a beam. This, as De Mille says, "was interesting but only good when the sun was out." And De Mille, who was probably the first to build indoor sets, was already beginning to work when the sun was not shining; frequently the sun does not shine in Hollywood.

Buckland went to the Mason Opera House in Los Angeles (De Mille had played there in the theater's opening production 12 years before) and borrowed a spotlight. It was first used in a scene in which a player turned on a lamp. When he pulled the string, the spot was thrown on the lamp. This, says De Mille, is the first instance of which he knows in which the lighting was changed after the camera had started to turn on a scene.

IN THE early pictures, good photography meant being able to see everything that the lens faced. The far corner of a room, behind a door, had to be just as brilliant as the face of the heroine in the foreground. If the cameraman couldn't do that, you fired him and got a cameraman who could.

The only variation in light effect was in the color of the actual film. For a night scene the film was dyed blue; for day it was white; and the last word in "effects" was to use amber for interiors or a sunset. De Mille says:

"I began to think we were wrong, and looked again at the great paintings. I saw, naturally, that the back of a room wasn't as light as the man standing facing the window, and that one side of his face was darker than the other.

"In 'The Warrens of Virginia' (his eighth picture), with James Neill, Blanche Sweet, House Peters and Raymond Hatton, we had a room with artificial lighting—what we called big spots then. I had Hatton come through a pair of curtains and lighted only one side of his face. This was the first such screen photography.

"When the picture was finished we sent it to New York. On other pictures I had always got a telegram, something like 'fine piece of work, Cecil; keep up the good work.' I waited for word of some kind on this picture and nothing happened. Finally Sam Goldwyn wired me.

"The exhibitors were kicking, he said, because the photography was so bad. They couldn't see both sides of Hatton's face as he came through the curtains. Because the picture was only half lighted, they wanted to pay only half price, and some threatened to cancel their contracts unless adjustments were made.

"I WAS desperate. I couldn't shoot the whole picture over again. I had to tell Goldwyn something that would make the exhibitors happy again. Finally I had an inspiration, one of those flashes that come once in a great while. I wired Goldwyn:

"If you and the exhibitors don't know Rembrandt lighting when you see it, it isn't my fault."

"Well, Goldwyn was a great salesman. He caught up that phrase, Rembrandt lighting, and told the exhibitors: 'If you fellows don't know Rembrandt lighting when you see it, it isn't our fault. You ought to pay double for it; it's very hard to get and we have to pay more to get it.'

"Rembrandt lighting became the big selling point of pictures. And 'The Warrens of Virginia' was the father of modern photography."

That anecdote contains the essence of the story of Cecil B. De Mille. It is the story of a quick mind, a mulish tenacity and mostly a tremendous capacity for work. He said this to me recently:

"A lot of things can happen when you work 18 hours a day for 25 years."

That is the basic factor in the story of De Mille.

At the top we have Clark Gable, the king of the hard-boiled school. But Robert Taylor now tops his fan mail mark. Below are Don Ameche, whose employers are grooming him for a special berth in the handsome school; Fred Astaire and Henry Fonda. The latter two are classified as belonging to the my-face-is-not-my-fortune school, along with Gable. Miss Rooks points out other prosperous members in William Powell, Fred MacMurray, Franchot Tone and James Stewart.

Long Live T

THE King of Hearts, he plays some parts . . . But pretty soon a whole lot of his subjects get tired of looking at his handsome pan and, before he knows it, the studio publicity department is busy putting the big build-up behind a new king whom the citizens of Fandomania have picked for themselves.

That's the way it goes. They're up. They're down. They're in. They're out. It works in cycles. For a while we have a crop of heroes who can so prettily black a leading lady's eye that all the cuties from here to there go about with their chins out hoping their boy friends will pop them thereupon so they can go to sleep and dream Cagney done it.

Then again the vogue changes. Hairy chests and calloused knuckles start slipping. The screens become filled with gorgeous gents who can bend from the waist and lingeringly kiss a wrist in a way to draw tremendous sighs out of a million babies from the five and ten-cent stores.

So it happens and all on account of the fickleness of women, because two-thirds of all fan mail comes from women.

A FEW months ago it was King Gable. No doubt there are troops of loyalists who will scream: "It still is and always will be. No one ever can be as grand as Clark."

Maybe not. But you can't trifle with anything so sacred as fan mail statistics. And the fan mail lately has been emphasizing the wonders that are Robert Taylor. It's the fan mail that knows all, sees all, tells all.

Just now Gable gets 2,300 fan letters in an average week. In the same time Taylor gets 3,500, and still climbing. There is woe for those followers of the rugged school who feel that "it takes nine Taylors to make a man" in the fact that in one amazing week Robert got 8,000 letters, while Clark slipped down to 1,200.

That would seem to call for clanging of bells and loud shouting in the streets of "The King is dead! Long live the King!"

Well, perhaps it is all for the best. The treat-em-rough boys have held the spotlight for a long time — ever since Cagney endeared himself to the movie public by pushing a well-ripened grapefruit into his sweetie's face in his debut as a film gangster. Ever since Gable started on the road to glory by leading with a left to Barbara Stanwyck's chin in an opus dedicated to the vicissitudes of night nursing, and followed with a stiff right to Norma Shearer's nose in "A Free Soul."

Of Fandom's Fickle Fancies

THOSE were the shots that were seen around the world and they left the fans a little groggy, hanging to box-office windows and going down into their pockets for the count of enough pennies to get in and witness more of that stuff. Out of their heads went all memories of the chiseled profile of Barrymore, the burning eyes of Gilbert, the fair face of Nagel, the Latin look of Novarro and the masculine loveliness of all the others. It was three strikes and out for all those gallant, romantic gentlemen who treated a lady like a lady, suh.

Don't get the idea that Clark Gable liked the thought that the fans crowned him king because of his masculine magnetism rather than because of the way he recites his lines. Mr. Gable, unquestionably, would prefer recognition at the court of the Prince of Denmark (Hamlet, to you). But that's all the good it has done him. Female fans admire an actor for reasons that darn well please themselves and all the poor boy can do about it is scoot for cover and a police escort when a mad rabble of the dear girls decide to take him to pieces at a personal appearance.

Bob Taylor quickly learned about that. He knows how uneasy is the head that wears a celluloid crown. He's been mobbed and swooned over. He actually has had to ask for police protection from the too ardent attention of a clamoring crowd. No wonder he announces that he is going to travel to Europe "incognito," just like any other member of royalty. How he is going to accomplish it with that face remains to be seen. It is such a handsome face. It has even been called beautiful. Nothing makes him madder.

TAYLOR marks a trend to producers. He has had them all worried for quite a while now. They borrow him when they can and when they can't they pretend not to care on account of they each have one or two handsome, lady-killing blades in the process of grooming. Who knows when one of these may top Taylor? At least it is a comforting possibility to the gentlemen who do not hold Taylor's contract. Episodes like the following give them hope.

Two typical feminine members of the younger generation were overheard chattering at "Wasn't I

in 'The G
"Oh, h
"I'm tire
Don Ame
Appare
ters have been on e
"Sins of gets a su
It was ex
in Love" under the gory. Th Century-ing of T of the I leaves a however,
head ban any face.

beam wi who is E treme E tremely sponsible
"Give Me an impre
Light Bri RKO I worth si ture, "W transfer
Marge p
But Pa position threat.
to be pe serve Un a half a precisely Taylor h reluctant of a cam
a Metro
5 feet 1 eyes and eight pi which a Carrie" a Another is Frank tenor vo tache.
known o ways be at Nelson and bari perfumed Gable. I was 2,10

The King!

Fancies--By Lyle Rooks

"A tering at luncheon. One of them said: 'Wasn't Robert Taylor just too gorgeous in 'The Gorgeous Hussy'?'"

"Oh, him!" pooh-poohed the other. "I'm tired of Robert Taylor. I think Don Ameche is simply wonderful."

Apparently a great many of her sisters have the same opinion. He has been on exhibition in only two pictures, "Sins of Man" and "Ramona," and he gets a surprising amount of fan mail. It was expected to double when "Ladies in Love" was released. Probably he comes under the extraordinarily handsome category. They think he does at Twentieth Century-Fox, where they are also boasting of Tyrone Power, Jr. Observation of the Don gotten up as Alessandro leaves a reasonable doubt in the mind, however, even granting that the Indian head band was an awful handicap for any face.

WARNER BROTHERS beam with pride at Patric Knowles, who is English and carries an air of extreme refinement along with his extremely good looks. Patric was responsible for Kay Francis' suffering in "Give Me Your Heart" and he will make an impression in "The Charge of the Light Brigade."

RKO looks hopefully to Vinton Haworth since the preview of his first picture, "Without Orders." Haworth is a transfer from radio and the Myrt and Marge programs.

But Paramount feels in the strongest position of all. They have a triple threat. Young John Howard, who had to be persuaded to leave Western Reserve University in Cleveland a year and a half ago, became a movie actor in precisely the same way as the great Taylor himself. Bob, too, was a trifle reluctant when he was yanked right out of a campus play at Pomona College by a Metro talent scout. John Howard is 5 feet 10 inches tall and he has blue eyes and brown hair. He has been in eight pictures, the most important of which are "Valiant Is the Word for Carrie" and Columbia's "Lost Horizon."

Another of Paramount's white hopes is Frank Forest, he of the beautiful tenor voice and elegantly curved mustache. Forest is an internationally known opera star and women have always been susceptible to music. Look at Nelson Eddy. The handsomely blond and baritone Eddy gets only 200 less perfumed epistles a week than Clark Gable. Eddy's fan mail for a test week was 2,100.

Anthony Nace, the most recent Paramount discovery, completes the trio. He says he prefers being a heavy to a leading man, but there is a caressing quality in his light blue eyes and a symmetry in the modeling of nose and chin which may combine to take the choice entirely out of his hands.

EVEN Metro has another godling in reserve. His name is Stanley Morner and he looked so stunning in tails in the "Pretty Girl" number in "The Great Ziegfeld" that requests for more of him have come pouring in from all over the country. Allan Jones really did the singing of that number, but it was Morner's face you saw, in case you haven't been able to forget it.

On the other hand wily old Leo has a runner-up for Gable just in case tastes swing abruptly to the left again. His name is Edgar Edwards and he is reputed to have personality plus. It is easy to see that he would naturally be on the virile side when you learn that he was discovered digging ditches at Paramount. Just what Paramount was wanting with ditches at the time isn't clear, but that's where Edgar was taken from obscurity.

For those who need to place him here is identification. He died of fever in "His Brother's Wife" and he uttered one immortal line in "San Francisco." Edgar led the returning refugees up over the hill at the end of the picture and his voice boomed out fit to break the sound track, "We'll build a new San Francisco!"

Because of Taylor the very handsome lads seem to be in the lead at the moment. Cary Grant can't get around to fill picture engagements fast enough to satisfy producers and Buddy Rogers is making a comeback picture for Columbia.

DICK POWELL is No. 1 man on the Warner lot, rated by amount of fan mail received. Dashing, romantic Errol Flynn is second. Within the last few weeks Craig Reynolds has moved up to third place. Now Reynolds is stalwart rather than exceedingly handsome and, though he has appeared in 17 pictures in 14 months, he has always played a heavy.

At Hollywood's last premiere, the opening of "Romeo and Juliet," fans by the thousands lined each side of the approach to the theater. They cheered their favorites as the stars ran the gauntlet after the fine old Hollywood custom. Robert Taylor brought Barbara Stanwyck to the show and Clark Gable escorted Carole Lombard. And which of our heroes got the biggest hand, do you suppose? Clark Gable. It just goes to show.

You should know by this time that the chap at the top is Robert Taylor, and he is right there in the fans' estimation, too, if fan mail records can be believed. Below are further representatives of the handsome school—John Howard (left), Frank Forest (upper right), opera singer turned actor, and, below, Errol Flynn. Flynn stands second only to Dick Powell on his home lot. Another contender for top billing is Craig Reynolds. Will tomorrow's usurper of filmland's crown come from these ranks?

Great Day in the Mawnin'

Stars Break Habits, Get Up Early for Morning Matinee

By William L. Stuart

THERE is the story of the bewildered young man who was a little hazy about his whereabouts that bright sunny morning. As a matter of fact, his last distinct recollection was a couple of drinks before lunch on what he hoped was the day before.

He snapped on the switch to the radio and listened as an announcer said it was 9 o'clock and that the next feature would be the Morning Matinee.

He lay there as the program began, then he suddenly struggled to a sitting position. First he heard a famous master of ceremonies, then a famous orchestra, then a famous guest star, all in the flesh, so to speak. He looked at his watch again, looked at the bright morning sun streaming through the window and murmured, "These at this time of day? Sam, you must be in China."

THE point is, the Morning Matinee, featuring as it does famous orchestras, great personalities and a topnotch master of ceremonies, is really an evening program that has strayed into the early hours of the day.

Last year the Mutual Broadcasting System came to the conclusion that the housewife who listens to the radio after her hubby trots off to his chores must become tired of recorded music, second-hand male trios and sob story serials. Accordingly, MBS presented 13 stations in 13 cities with a plan whereby they could give all these gals all the brilliant entertainment they could use at the time they most needed it.

The plan was very simple. Mutual would build a show using only the very best talent available: the most expensive orchestras on the Music Corporation of America lists, the most brightly shining stars of the stage and screen, and the most affable emcee. Mutual would write the script and broadcast the program, using no commercials at all. Then, at fifteen-minute intervals, while the orchestra played its theme, the 13 local sponsors could have their say.

The Morning Matinee, in the 13 or more weeks it has been on this year, has set a pattern for the broadcasts that you can expect it to follow next time you listen in. At the stroke of 9, James Hall, who thinks the radio is at least as good as the movies, steps up to the MBS microphone at the MBS New York studios (all MBS mikes look like ash trays—excepting those that look like cigar lighters) and talks cheerily about what you're going to hear. He's wide-awake.

When he's finished, the musicians yawn, rub their eyes, and start to play. After a bit, Jimmy comes back on and chews the rag with a guest star or tells one what to sing or asks if he can't sing himself and is refused. Then the orches-

One of the more important "new ideas" in radio is the Mutual Broadcasting System's Morning Matinee, heard at 9 a. m. EST., Thursdays. Big-time entertainers find themselves working night and day when they appear. Ben Bernie, however, didn't trust the alarm clocks. He stayed up all night.

Ethel Merman (above) and Benny Goodman (left) and his swingsters are two of night life's brighter aspects who got up early for the Morning Matinee. An alarm clock is usually supplemented by a telegraph messenger boy to ensure the presence of these people at the broadcasts.

order a messenger to awaken them.

Ben Bernie took even more extreme measures. The first time on the program he went over to Harpo Marx's apartment and played poker all night. Said he'd just been waiting for some excuse to do it. The second time Ben was on, he had to come into New York from Philadelphia. He arranged it so that he and the orchestra didn't arrive in town until after dinner on Wednesday evening. Then he rehearsed all night on the numbers both for the Morning Matinee and for future programs. Said he'd been waiting a long time for an excuse to do that, too.

Incidentally, though Bernie groaned all through his broadcast about the lack of sleep and declared he was going to bed for a week immediately after the conclusion of the show, he stayed in the studio another hour picking ponies upon which he could lay a few bob.

EXCEPT for those guest stars who are in the theater, the others on the program don't have so much trouble about staying awake during their appearances before the mike. Imogene Coca and Leonard Sillman of "New Faces," the Broadway revue, snoozed placidly in their chairs right up to the time their program went on, but that was because their show had a late closing.

Otherwise, the stars are prompt, chip-

James Hall, formerly of the movies, is the master of ceremonies. Early hours don't bother him. And he has to be peppy, too. Hall points out that he had to get up at 6 a. m. in Hollywood, so what's the difference?

cra comes back, Jimmy comes back, another guest star who is a famous expert comes oack, and Jimmy comes back. Jimmy is on the program a lot. Every week, and rightly so.

AS YOU might guess, that early-bird-gets-the-worm stuff is the only thing that gets the stars who appear on the show. The orchestras, especially.

Ben Bernie, Guy Lombardo, Benny Goodman, Shep Fields, Richard Himber, Eddy Duchin and Ozzie Nelson have been on the program. They've all been pretty sleepy, too, until they got into the swing of things. Trumpet and trombone players are the ones who are especially bitter as they warm up their instruments. Their lips, they say, aren't used to such hours. The only thing the lips are usually forced to do that early in the morning is part while their owners snore.

The band leaders have done some unusual things to make sure they arrive on time for the quick dress rehearsal at 8 o'clock on Thursday morning. Almost all set two alarm clocks, then per and almost as wide-awake and almost as quietly gleeful as Jimmy Hall, who revels in the show.

He is the nub of the program. He sits around the studio on Wednesday afternoons when the orchestras rehearse, helps them get the "bounce"—which, he explains, means balance on the microphone—and will move a music stand for a saxophonist or bass fiddler when that instrumentalist has to shift position for a better pick-up.

He pulls into the studio as early as 6:30 on Thursday morning and goes over his scripts, just to make sure everything is right. That's pretty early, so they have a special elevator man to take him up to the studio.

JIMMY says getting up in the morning doesn't bother him at all. It reminds him of Hollywood, where he used to have to get up at 6 every morning, whether he liked it or not. And, besides, he's pretty darn set on making a go of this new job of his.

The movies were very Hall-conscious not many moons ago. He did a lot of work in them and you'll remember that it was good work, too. But people change, he says, and he did—or something happened so that he slipped out. He's on the comeback trail now.

One listener pointed out that he's got a swell voice, an easy manner, good looks, a fine name, an excellent background, a resonant baritone voice, an assuredness with lines that is almost like Jack Benny's.

And besides, he can get up so early in the morning and still be pleasant!

Radio Purls Two and Drops One

Those Smart Looking Women at CBS Are Busy with Their Knitting Needles and
All Is Fair and Warmer in the Fashion World

NEW YORK.

THAT rhythmic ticking which you hear when you approach Fiftieth St. and Madison Ave. isn't a time bomb. It is the clicking of knitting needles in Columbia Broadcasting studios. Everybody from the little debs who are trying (complete with mamas) to get jobs to the big stars are knitting like mad. And the results are—well, something to write home about.

I called on Alice Frost the other day and found out all about it. Alice is the Big Sister on CBS's Big Sister radio serial drama heard every day from Monday through Thursday at 11:30 a. m. (EST). Alice is a grand girl who has had lots of dramatic experience and, as a result, has acquired a great deal of clothes sense. She has traveled on a Chautauqua circuit with one-night stands; in rickety autos over muddy roads; in stock companies. And she has a lot to say about clothes that will look well under all circumstances.

That is why she is so keen on knitted things. In the first place, if you are working hard and making all sorts of appearances, knitted clothes are the answer. They do not muss, they take up little room in suit cases and they always look well groomed. In the second place, you can make your own knitted things and look very well dressed on a small budget.

"Besides," says Alice, "it is such fun to knit! I like to do things with my hands and it gives me such satisfaction to really be working on something to wear."

SHE showed me three handsome outfits which she has made herself. One was a suit, all in purl stitch, with a grand little brief jacket which buttons up the front. It is in a beautiful shade of bright blue which does nice things for her blond hair and makes her gray eyes seem blue.

"I wear the jacket over my tweed skirts," she said. "I love to combine colors and I think that bright blue goes with nearly everything. It is smart with black and brown and simply stunning with red."

Alice has another one-piece dress

Although Mary Jane Barrett (left) is an expert knitter, the photographer caught her in a black wool dress embroidered in gold, complete with lame scarf. At the right is Alice Frost in a two-piece suit, hand-knitted, of bright blue designed to set off her patrician blondness.

By Isabella Taves

which is in dark gray with a maroon yoke and deep knitted-in cuffs of maroon. This is her favorite rehearsal dress and she is especially fond of it under a fur coat. With this outfit she always carries a big hand-blocked maroon and gray handkerchief.

"I think my one superstition is about handkerchiefs," she laughed. "I never broadcast without one clasped in my right hand. Maybe this idea of mine grew out of an early nervousness in broadcasting. I never dared face the mike without one clasped in my hand—I was so afraid I would cough a cough that would be heard from Coast to Coast. But I like handkerchiefs, anyway. I haunt the counters at stores. And I think they are making some beautiful ones now, don't you?"

But one of Alice's favorite costumes is a black knitted suit. Through some especial trick in knitting the suit has little nubs of wool all through it. (Alice loves fabrics with texture. She wears black very well because of her blondness, but plain black crepe or wool bores her; she wants fabric interest.)

With this suit, she makes it a point to always change her accessories. One day she will wear a bright red belt and a hat and handkerchief to match. Another she will wear black shoes and a black leather belt with a yellow scarf at the neck and imported washable yellow suede gloves. And sometimes she will wear her favorite blue velvet hat and a blue handkerchief with the dress.

ANOTHER young person who is doing her share of clicking knitted needles around Columbia these days is Doris Kerr. Doris is one of those girls who, though she is just a youngster, has landed on her feet and is making good in a big way with her singing. She has her own program over CBS and you can tell to look at her that she is on her way up. She is that smart.

When I am around Fifty-fifth St. and Madison lunching I nearly always run into Doris with some of her cronies from Great Neck. Doris dresses like a typical debbie with a dash of sophistication thrown in. She wears Munro tweed suits in brilliant colors with simple sweaters (knitted by Doris) and she pushes the sleeves of the sweaters up beyond her elbows, very Vassar.

Doris has been knitting for years. Give her a couple of free afternoons and some yarn and she will dash off a sweater.

"One of my great secrets," she says, "is to always have my sweaters blocked professionally. It makes all the difference between a really smart garment and something that has that 'made with loving hands' look."

AND for sophisticated knitting—really sophisticated—I can give you Mary Jane Barrett. Hold your breath, for though she looks fresh out of college, she has been acting for a long time both in this country and abroad. She has recently returned from London and is now on the Columbia Workshop program.

And does this girl know her fashions! She designs all of her own clothes and comes by this honestly, for her mother was quite a designer in Chicago. She is very brunet and she has several pet theories about herself.

First, she believes in the glint of gold to liven up a black costume. She has one black wool dress which is embroidered in gold and which she wears with a gold belt and a lame scarf at the neck. Mary Jane also is fond of the new imported knitting yarns—she discovered them in London—which have gold threads interwoven with the yarn.

She told me about several evening dresses she saw in London which were knitted or crocheted of this "glint of gold" yarn. I must have let my jaws sag a quarter of an inch, for she grinned—a gamin smile that lights up her whole face and makes her look like a little girl instead of an accomplished actress and quite a fashion expert.

"Down in Switzerland for winter sports the very smart Paris women have entire wardrobes of knitted clothes. And formal clothes, from suits to evening gowns. They do this because ski things are clumsy to pack and take up lots of room. After they have finished packing their sports things, they toss in as many knitted dresses as possible. Knitted things don't muss, you know, and they take up very little room. As a matter of fact, I know of no really chic Parisian woman who does not include in her wardrobe a complete variety of knitted things."

MARY JANE is working now on a Tyrolean sweater, very brief, buttoned down the front, in a darling rope stitch. She is making it in black and planning to bind it in that bright shade of red she wears so well.

"Then I can wear it with my black skirts and my blue skirts," she says, "and with my ski clothes in the country. For I am planning to take ski trains this winter."

Mary Jane says that she thinks that she started the very great vogue of wearing flowers on top of the head in London. She has always done it, more or less, but it wasn't until she began appearing in the smart London restaurants that people began sitting up and taking notice. She says that she has just the right sort of hair for flowers-on-top—it is about two inches long all over her head and curled.

I could go on for hours, counting these knitting girls on my fingers. I could—but I won't. Because this afternoon I bought myself some heavenly tweed yarn and I am going to knit a short-sleeved high-collared sweater with a red zipper all the way down the front. I swiped the idea from Patti Chapin, but I am counting on you not to tell her.

Mental-Lifter

By Joan Brooks

MARJORIE GATESON has been in Hollywood four years and she has been in 45 pictures. That means the consistent movie fan must have seen her on the screen much more often since 1932 than he has seen any single star.

Everybody in the world must feel downright neighborly with all of the stars by now. The experience of these celestial beings and their tastes in everything from toilet soap to love and marriage—particularly love and marriage—are more familiar to the average man than the mental processes of his own wife. Motion picture stars and goldfish have the same residential problem, which is today's original thought.

But the featured players like Marjorie Gateson dwell in semi-privacy. And, though this is treason to be whispered behind a well-gloved hand, half the time it is the featured players who save the pictures. Stars are great personalities and may be loved for themselves alone. Sometimes they are also good actors, and sometimes the less said about that the better. Feature players always have to be actors.

They include, moreover, some of the most interesting and charming people in pages and kings to talk about herself, she said:

"My mother conducted classes in Shakespeare and Browning when she was young. It was a terribly genteel and elocutionary way of satisfying an inner longing for the stage. It had to remain an inner longing because her father was an Episcopal clergyman, rector of St. Mark's Church, Brooklyn, New York. Naturally, mother went to hear a great many sermons and she sat as rapt at the beautiful flow of words as she ever was at the religious meaning.

"Eventually she had two children, a son and a daughter. The son became a minister and the daughter an actress. You see, my mother's ungratified ambition came out in both of us, only in slightly different form."

MARJORIE GATESON was born in Brooklyn. She was graduated from the Packer Collegiate Institute there and she did not take part in school dramatics, which, according to the records of contemporary historians, makes her practically unique among actresses. Her first job was the result of answering a newspaper advertisement asking for musical students. She sang a high "C" and qualified for the chorus.

Her first break came in the usual manner. She was understudying in a musical comedy, and illness of a principal gave her a chance to show what she could do. It becomes a good story, though, when you know that she was understudying not one, but three feminine principals in the show, and blessed if they didn't all fall ill on consecutive nights of the same week. So the first was a triple break and Erlanger increased her salary. In this way musical comedy became her forte this w. k. industry. It is high time we connected up a few of the faces we have seen hundreds of times with their owners' names and pedigrees. Miss Gateson, for one.

Marjorie Gateson may have been Loretta Young's employer in "Private Number," but in reality she has always played roles in support of the stars.

SHE LIVES in a delightful apartment in one of the town's better known apartment houses, which she refers to as the dormitory because so many other actors and actresses live there. Any other time she should happen to feel inclined to invite this thumb-nail biographer to lunch, I'll toddle right over wearing one of those pleased all-the-way-from-ear-to-ear grins. Marjorie Gateson is that most ingratiating of companions, a wise and witty woman who knows how to make good talk.

Led with difficulty back from cab-and it is still her first love. She likes the musical comedy form in pictures and says she went to see "The Great Ziegfeld" five times. It recalled the old days in New York. Marjorie introduced the popular war song, "Smile, Smile, Smile" in a military musical comedy. Her outstanding Broadway successes were "Little Simplicity," "The Love Letter" and "Strange Bedfellows."

She also took part in the dear, dead days of vaudeville. She regrets, with many others, that pictures had to kill vaudeville, which in its way was the acid test of a performer's mettle. As she says, when you had "12 minutes, a piano with accompanist, a back drop and nothing else" to get the people out front, it took a bit of doing.

Meet Marjorie Gateson

"Things are being done out here now that set a pace for the future. And what a future it promises to be. The mold is being made. Hollywood is not pioneering any more. The nickelodeon we stage people used to sniff at has grown up to a medium which should be able to surpass any possibility the stage ever had."

Over dessert she revealed two shrewd resolutions which all women might well adopt. An opulent chocolate macaroon inspired confidence of the first resolution.

"Do you know, I think dieting is like brushing your teeth. It shouldn't be done in public. I grew weary unto my soul hearing women discuss their diets. Knowing I was guilty, too, I decided one day not to talk about mine any more, and never again to make it obvious. When I lunch or dine with friends, I eat what is served. If there happens to be something on the menu I don't take much of, I eat a little bit and then I keep still about my reasons for passing up the rest of it. I will never again say, 'Oh, I couldn't possibly eat that,' or 'So sorry, but you see I'm dieting.' Who cares?"

THE other good resolution is generally applicable only in spirit, perhaps. Marjorie said a bit later:

"I used to commit the common folly of ex-stage actors—eternal discussion of the glories of the stage as they knew it. Whether intentional or not, such discussion always implies criticism of the way things are done in pictures. Well, pictures are feeding us now.

"Jack Oakie cured me. I happened to overhear something he said about me and it did me a world of good. What he said was, 'Oh, that Gateson. She's all right, only she can't forget she got going on Broadway.' I suddenly realized he did, too, but he never talked about it. Then I made up my mind not to mention my past career any more unless asked about it point blank. People never care very much what we used to do. Why should they, when you come right down to it? Today and tomorrow are all that counts."

Marjorie Gateson is a vivid, staccato person who packs much into a brief space of time with dashes for punctuation. And that seems a good way to leave an impression of her. She talks rapidly and easily, but she shows a flattering interest in what other people have to say. She prefers light comedy and brittle dialog in her roles; probably realizes they become her. Is interested in national affairs and once took an active part in women's politics. Reads biographies. Likes Rudy Vallee. Is a perfect hostess because she's thoughtful but casual about it. Owns a cat named Luly. Plays tennis like a man. Wants to see the Orient. Is English on both sides, but can't abide titled Britishers who patronize us for our gullibility, which she nevertheless admits. Designs clothes as a hobby and plans to make a business of it when and if she stops being an actress. Always wears a touch of red somewhere when she is being interviewed or making a public appearance because she thinks it is lucky and gives her confidence. Has what she calls "vacation" hair because it is always trying to fly out of bounds. And a humorous upward quirk at the corners of her green eyes.

She gives one a mental lift,

Reviews of New Films

By The Boulevardier

Graceful, tap-dancing Eleanor Powell in M.-G.-M.'s "Born to Dance."

"Born to Dance."

An expensive, pretentious vaudeville show starring Eleanor Powell. Recommended. M.-G.-M.

Of the same nature as "The Big Broadcast," "Broadway Melody" and the other annual screen vaudeville shows, "Born to Dance" presents a bill such as no stage variety house could assemble. Every act is a headliner and the settings, with enough chromium and white leather to fill Radio City, represent Hollywood at its most glittering.

In fact, at times, the backgrounds are so extravagant that it is hard to see the actors for the sets.

Topping the cast is Eleanor Powell, with James Stewart, Virginia Bruce, Una Merkel, Sid Silvers, Frances Langford, Raymond Walburn, Alan Dinehart, Buddy Ebsen, a submarine and half the dancing girls in Hollywood. Everybody but the submarine sings and dances at one time or another.

The story, which is inconsequential, is the old one about the small-town girl who becomes understudy to a musical comedy star. As usual the star doesn't like the girl, and also as usual the girl is on the stage on opening night and is a great success. The story is saved by good dialog and, of course, the specialty acts which need no story for introduction.

Highlights of the picture are Miss Powell's dancing, Stewart's acting, the comedy of Sid Silvers, Una Merkel, Buddy Ebsen and Raymond Walburn, the music of Cole Porter and two specialties—Reginald Gardiner as a cop giving a gag imitation of an orchestra conductor, and Barnett Parker as a demonstrator in a model love nest.

Sid Silvers and Jack McGowan collaborated on the script and Roy Del Ruth directed. Dave Gould directed the dances.

"Winterset."

Maxwell Anderson's Pulitzer prize play becomes one of the year's outstanding achievements on the screen. Recommended. R.-K.-O.-Radio.

It is a temptation to a reviewer considering the screen version of "Winterset" to go into so many high-flown rhapsodies about superb performances and artistic achievement that he forgets to mention that the picture is entertainment.

That is an unfortunate error. "Winterset" is undoubtedly a rare example of motion picture art, but divested of the capital A, it is a beautiful love story combined with a tense, gripping gangster yarn. The combination is the tightest piece of drama I have seen on the screen this year—the sort of drama that picks you up at the beginning and keeps you suspended up to the final fade-out.

The bitter tragedy of Maxwell Anderson's stage version has been taken out of the screen play. It still isn't anything to laugh at, but it is entertainment. ("The Informant" wasn't very funny, either, but a lot of people saw it and liked it.) Spots of humor have been injected—Mischa Auer, the clown of "My Man Godfrey" and "The Gay Desperado," as a soap box radical; Willard Robertson as a cop—and the ending has been turned to beautifully ironic poetic justice which allows the love theme to end as screen love themes should.

This is the story: a harmless Italian radical, Romagna, is railroaded to the electric chair for a robbery and murder which he did not commit. Years later the case is revived by discovery of new evidence and Romagna's son Mio, an embittered young man who is devoting his life to trying to avenge the injustice against his father, goes to New York in search of a missing witness. He finds the witness, the driver of the robbery car, but first meets and falls in love with the witness's sister.

At the same time the real killer, Trock, has just been released from prison. Jittery through fear that the new interest in the Romagna case will finally involve him, he too goes to the witness. The menace of death hangs over the boy, the girl and the girl's brother, the most real, terrifying menace any picture has ever had; not the synthetic menace of the ordinary cops and robbers picture, where you know from the beginning that the hero and heroine will outwit and outlive the hoodlums, but a menace as inexorable as death itself.

Most of the names in the case are unfamiliar to picture audiences. But it would have been well-nigh impossible to cast the picture adequately in Hollywood. Popular stars could have been used to increase boxoffice appeal, but the result would have been a much less notable picture. Pandro Berman, young producer who has turned out the Astaire-Rogers pictures and most of R.-K.-O.-Radio's other great successes, deserves credit here for sacrificing potential profit in the interest of fine performances.

The leading roles are played by members of the New York stage cast—Burgess Meredith as Mio, Margo as the girl, Eduardo Ciannelli as Trock, Paul Guilfoyle as Garth, the girl's brother; Maurice Moscovitch as her father. All these give superb performances. With this picture Margo becomes one of the outstanding personalities on the screen, as she already is on the stage.

"Pennies From Heaven."

Bing Crosby as a modern troubadour. Acceptable. Columbia.

"Pennies From Heaven," which heads a rather thin week's list of Hollywood's offerings, is notable for two reasons:

In it Bing Crosby smiles, which makes this unique among Crosby pictures.

It is his first venture into the business end of pictures; he put up approximately half the money for the production.

Otherwise, it is a usual Crosby picture—pleasant music, some extraneous humor and a story which gives Bing adequate cause to sing. The total is a passable evening's entertainment for the Crosby group of fans, which I understand is considerable.

Chiefly entertaining is the music. Two of Crosby's numbers, "Pennies From Heaven" and "One, Two, Button Your Shoe," will undoubtedly be sufficiently popular so that you can get them on the radio at any hour of day or night for the next few weeks. And one of the brightest spots in the picture comes from Louis Armstrong and his band in a hot number called "Skeleton in the Closet."

Crosby is a wandering troubadour who becomes burdened with an incorrigible child (Edith Fellows) and her ineffectual grandfather (Donald Meek), who has given up the idea of working and is waiting for the Townsend plan to give him an income.

Crosby's chief ambition is to go to Venice, where he can play his thirteenth century lute and be appreciated. But he postpones his trip to save the child from the well-meant efforts of a welfare worker (Madge Evans). Inevitably the situation is solved by love, which grows out of antagonism, and the picture ends with Miss Evans, Crosby, Meek and the child in a gondola—on a lagoon in Central park.

One of the minor players in the picture, Nydia Westman, has a brief but entertaining bit as a servant in a rooming house. Miss Westman is a highly capable comedienne who should be seen more often on the screen.

Others in the cast are John Galaudet, William Stack, Nana Bryant, Tommy Dugan and a carnival troupe.

The picture undoubtedly will bring Crosby a profit on his investment; apparently the only way he can lose money is by buying race horses.

Edith Fellows and Bing Crosby in "Pennies from Heaven."

Also Ran.

Reunion—An average picture distinguished by two appearances of the Dionne quintuplets and the fine acting of Jean Hersholt. Others outstanding in the cast are Helen Vinson, Slim Summerville, John Qualen, Dorothy Peterson, Alan Dinehart, Tom Moore and Esther Ralston. Story is of a reunion of some 3,000 people whom the country doctor has brought into the world. During the reunion the doctor straightens out the difficulties of some of his "children." Twentieth Century-Fox.

"The Jungle Princess"—Introducing Dorothy Lamour, former radio singer who was much too good looking for radio, to the screen as a feminine Tarzan. Ray Millard, Lyne Overman and Akim Tamiroff are also notable. Paramount.

"Smart Blond"—Glenda Farrell as a newspaper woman and Barton MacLane as a detective. Formula newspaper-mystery stuff brightened by good comedy. Winifred Shaw sings a song. Warner Bros.

Recent pictures which have been reviewed and recommended in Screen & Radio Weekly are as follows: "Romeo and Juliet" (M.-G.-M.); "Anthony Adverse" (Warner Brothers); "Mary of Scotland" (R.-K.-O.-Radio); "Girls' Dormitory" (Twentieth Century-Fox); "Swing Time" (R.-K.-O.-Radio); "The Gorgeous Hussy" (M.-G.-M.); "Old Hunch" (M.-G.-M.); "The General

"Died at Dawn" (Paramount); "Wives Never Know" (Paramount); "The Devil Is a Sissy" (M.-G.-M.); "Dodsworth" (Goldwyn-United Artists); "Ramona" (Twentieth Century-Fox); "Craig's Wife" (Columbia); "The Longest Night" (M.-G.-M.); "Valiant Is the Word for Carrie" (Paramount); "The Gay Desperado" (Pickford-Lasky); "Libeled Lady" (M.-G.-M.); "The Big Broadcast of 1937" (Paramount); "Three Men on a Horse" (Warner Brothers); "Charge of the Light Brigade" (Warner Brothers); "Pigskin Parade" (Twentieth Century-Fox); "Come and Get It" (Goldwyn-United Artists); "A Woman Rebels" (R.-K.-O.-Radio); "Tarzan Escapes" (M.-G.-M.); "Theodora Goes Wild" (Columbia).

Free for Asthma During Winter

If you suffer with those terrible attacks of Asthma when it is cold and damp; if raw, wintry winds make you choke as if each gasp for breath was the very last; if restful sleep is impossible because of the struggle to breathe; if you feel the disease is slowly wearing your life away, don't fail to send at once to the Frontier Asthma Co. for a free trial of a remarkable method. No matter where you live or whether you have any faith in any remedy under the sun, send for this free trial. If you have suffered for a lifetime and tried everything you could learn of without relief, even if you are utterly discouraged, do not abandon hope but send today for this free trial. It will cost you nothing. Address: Frontier Asthma Co., 109-B Frontier Bldg., 462 Niagara Street, Buffalo, New York.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's

"Born to Dance"

Starring

Eleanor Powell

Now Showing

Loew's Grand

"PENNIES FROM HEAVEN"

Starring

BING CROSBY

RIALTO THEATRE
COLUMBIA PICTURES

The Radio Reporter By William L. Stuart

Clothes Horse

The press agents who get the stars' names in the papers have one little trick they always fall back on with a plop if they've run out of good ideas. They'll sit at their typewriters, purse their lips and ponder, and presently bat out a little story about the best dressed men in radio, putting their client's name fourth or fifth from the top. It's a clipping.

The gents who are invariably listed at the top are Ray Noble, John S. Young, Rudy Vallee and Paul Whiteman — and

Ray Noble

Noble is the man who always heads the list. That amuses him. He laughs to beat the band every time he sees one of the releases. You see, he really isn't well dressed. His favorite suit is a sand-colored misfit a size too small for him which he brought from England; his tails are sometimes unpressed; and he hates to shave.

HIGH DIVA: Little Deanna Durbin, one of the two stars on Eddie Cantor's juvenile radio review, will be only 14 this December, but she's as lovely as a great many of our leading ladies. Lovely voice, lovely looks and a good strong constitution.

The last means something, you know, if you're going to be a singer. Vocal chords must have a lot more than just twang. And, because Deanna's have, it is reported that Edward Johnson, general manager of the Met, wants to take her under his wing so that she can make her opera debut as soon as she is old enough. Whether or not she will appear on the Metropolitan Auditions over NBC is problematical. Unlikely, really, since she is under contract to Cantor, and Eddie is a CBS star.

Speaking of Mr. Johnson's Auditions, heard on the NBC-Red Network at 3 EST each Sunday, the mood of the performers as they rehearse is vastly different from the mood of regular rehearsals. More studied and tense—and very little laughing and talking.

For instance, gray-eyed Carol Deis was a recent contestant on the program. During her regular radio appearances, Carol can laugh and joke with the best of them. But as she faced the microphone to go over her difficult selections for Mr. Johnson, her lips were white. And her eyes very bright.

Gentlemen

Although you may think that the sponsors of big programs get pretty mad when people like Stoopnagle and Budd, Ken Murray and Milton Berle do those scathing burlesques of their shows, they really don't. They sort of like it.

All the big comedians are careful to find out whether the stars of the satirized broadcasts are likely to get mad or not; and, if you'll remember, most of the boys even give a little credit line after they've finished their fooling. There are programs that don't like kidding: Helen Hayes, Hit Parade, Show Boat and most of the morning serials. Amos 'n' Andy were a long time in giving comedians permission, and are still a little cagey about it. On the other hand, none of the news commentators like Boake Carter and Edwin C. Hill mind at all.

One of the last programs to withdraw permission from the jokesters is Good Will Court. Milton Berle had been running a business he called Square Deal Court until the program sponsors called him and asked if he wouldn't please stop. The reason was apparently the fact that A. L. Alexander is having his troubles with the show as it is. He doesn't want any more.

CONTRALTO: Meri Bell, the CBS star, is singing under a name not her own. And it's not the first time. When she started in radio she sang under the name of Christine Something-or-other. Can't remember the last one.

Meri—her real first name, of course, is Mary—started singing in an unusual way. Guy Lombardo, George Burns and Gracie Allen were playing a theater engagement in Indianapolis, and she had gone up to their broadcast rehearsal with the manager of the local Columbia station. The manager introduced her to Guy with the added comment that she was a pretty good singer, whereupon Lombardo called his pianist and told her to go ahead and sing.

No one thought anything would come of it, she says. She was pretty thrilled just because the famous orchestra leader had applauded the song she did. So she was quite surprised a week later when she received a letter from a pretty big guy in New York offering her a job with Gus Arnheim's orchestra.

Oh, yes! Meri has a very deep voice, you know. Lovely. For a long time after she joined him, Arnheim capitalized on that by introducing her as a mystery voice on his radio programs. Meri was always amused during those days with her fan mail, which sometimes began: "Dear Sir."

DECISIONS: Irene Rich has been visiting her mother out in Hollywood these past few months. While she was there, an organization sent out a questionnaire which proved, after it had been answered by a lot of college girls and debutantes, that the majority would like to have their mothers look like her. Which is interesting because Miss Rich had to turn down three motion picture offers recently. Her radio contract won't let her play mother parts.

METROPOLIS: Hollywood is sticking its chest out and bragging that, since it has already surpassed Chicago as a radio center, it may soon be rivaling New York. That is problematical; but there can be no doubt that the Hollywood rumor-mongers have settled upon the new medium like fleas on a new puppy.

Best example of that, we think, is the Astaire-Butterworth program, heard over NBC. After a bad start, during which the show looked a little peaked and kind of green around the gills, the following whispers began whipping around the movie colony.

1—That Astaire was so tired of the program he was trying to buy himself out of his contract.

2—That the sponsors were offering him a hundred thousand dollars to call the deal off.

3—That the program would be cut to half-an-hour.

4—That the sponsors were dicker-ing with the Marx Brothers as new stars.

How baseless all these were is shown by the speed with which the sponsors took up Fred's contract for 13 more weeks, and by the alacrity with which he accepted their terms.

NONSENSE: Red Nichols usually works pretty hard, with no time for fooling around at all. But whenever someone comes in and exclaims disparagingly about the easy life a musician leads, Red always knocks off work to take that person on a personal tour of the bands casualties. And usually the bass viol player can exhibit a badly blistered finger, or a saxophonist can complain about a violent headache that has been caused by the vibration of his instrument.

Playing Safe

Virginia Verrill, the girl with the large eyes and nice voice who sings over CBS, is going back to Hollywood for another shot at picture stardom. The contract, just signed with Samuel Goldwyn, won't be her first, and it won't even be her second. It's the third.

Miss Verrill, a California product, worked for the movies about four years ago. Everyone who heard her thought they were hearing Barbara Stanwyck, though. It was Virginia's job to supply the songs for the star, who merely moved her shapely mouth.

As we told you several months ago, she worked for the movies again last summer. Went out to Hollywood to appear in one picture and backed out when she learned her part called for no singing and characterized her as a villainess.

This time Miss Verrill is playing safe. Although slated for a meaty part in "The Goldwyn Follies of 1937" — or something like that — she is insisting that she continue her CBS program from Hollywood. And will.

PARADOX: Warden Lawes, whom you can hear each Monday evening over the NBC-Red Network, is credited with doing a lot toward modernizing American prisons. He put the lads in decent clothes, looked at their crimes from a humanitarian standpoint. And we notice, as we watch his program from week to week that, oddly enough, he goes for striped clothes himself.

Cricket

We have lots of little anecdotes today. This one concerns Deems Taylor, the composer and critic who was recently appointed director of music for CBS.

Deems Taylor

He's a good composer, you know. Back in 1912 he wrote his first serious composition, a little symphonic thing called The Siren Song. Never did hear it played, though, until 1923, when he had to comment on its rendition as music critic of the old New York World. He tried to be fair—unbiased is the word—in his review. He said the composer showed promise of real talent.

PARTICULAR: Most of the instrumentalists on the General Motors hour you hear each Sunday evening over NBC are darn fussy about the flutes, piccolos and stuff. When a famed pianist is scheduled to appear, he invariably has his own piano shipped right into the studios and supervises the tuning job himself. However, none of the great vocalists ever have shown as much concern as does Nelson Eddy, who brings his own organ when that sort of accompaniment is required.

Lazy Star

Ever since the London Times began running its Agony Column, the little personal notices of grief and happiness have supplied the impetus for stories. And it took a guy like Octavus Roy Cohen, who has written a good many pieces of fiction in his time, to decide that the personal column was just what the doctor ordered for radio.

It's on NBC now—both networks—from Monday through Friday. And Cohen, who got the idea from the London newspapers, listens in regularly. He's pretty fascinated by what goes on during the airing of his brain child—and we're pretty fascinated by the fact that he's the only radio star who isn't actually on the radio.

Inez Lopez, a dark-haired miss, is the person who runs the program. She says the interesting thing about it is the fact that most of the personals received come from people who, orphaned as youngsters, are trying to pick up the lost threads of their youth by contacting a relative or old friend of the family.

REALISM: Art Van Harvey, Bernardine Flynn and young Billy Idelson, who play Vic and Sade and the boy, Rush, on that NBC serial, are getting a little worried about the ease with which they slip into their radio roles. They're afraid their acting is being preserved for their private lives away from the microphone.

The series is produced in the orthodox manner. That is, a production man is assigned to the show, he times it, and may suggest minor script changes between the readings. But for the rest, the actors just step up and play themselves, so completely do they feel their roles.

They are just as casual about their broadcast as the characters in the story are about life. There is no stumbling or halting, and many times a first reading of the script is so well done that it could go on the air without further ado.

When there is an interval in the rehearsing—and there is one whenever someone thinks of something pretty funny to say—the folks, including Bob Brown, the announcer, do some mild ribbing. It gets fancy if Paul Rhymer, who writes the script, is present. Brown says the author's suppressed desire is to be a musician. Rhymer does not deny it.

The last name of the family portrayed in the daily script is Cook. Vic, Sade and Rush Cook. It isn't used very often, though. Rhymer just tacked it on in case. He agrees that it is a pretty silly one.

Triple Threat

If you've been listening to Joe Penner's program over CBS, you've noticed that Joy Hodges, the pretty thing, is a talented songstress. Well, you haven't seen her dance or heard her play the piano.

When Joy auditioned for her first job, it was as a singer—and as is typical of this rather screwy business, they put her to work as a tap dancer.

She tells about that with a twinkle in her eye, then tops it by revealing that she was so good as a tap dancer that her contract was renewed—as a piano player. After you have finished gasping over that, she asks you to ask her how she got her job singing on the Penner show. Then tells you—right quick—that it was by coming to New York and asking Ozzie Nelson and Harriet Hilliard for a job as a hooper or something.

Joy Hodges

All very strange.

What Is the Best Motion Picture of 1936?

Balky Players

Rapped by Fan

One of the amazing things about the motion picture business is the colossal self-esteem of some of the stars. After a few years of public acclaim and ballyhoo they lose all sense of proportion and come to regard themselves as paragons of beauty and talent indispensable to the industry. Instead of walking in humility before the fates which have lifted them up into a place in the sun, they turn and bite the hands that feed them.

For example, we read that Janet Gaynor has broken with Fox because she was asked to co-star with other artists. Miss Gaynor acted far too hastily for her own good. Had she paused to ask herself, "What have I to offer in exchange for these special privileges?" she would have been obliged to answer "nothing," for she has literally nothing to offer the public. Her personality is colorless and she has neither acting ability nor other talent.

We read, also, that Ginger Rogers regards herself the equal of Fred Astaire and has demanded the same salary. There is but one Fred Astaire, while there are dozens of girls who dance as well as Ginger Rogers. Because the studio needed a partner for Fred, she was built up and glorified until she was endurable and from then on Astaire simply carried her along with him.

There are others: James Cagney (a human mediocrity) and George Raft (devoid of talent) among them, who have demanded special consideration. The studios will some day learn that the public goes to

Prizes Are Given for Letters Nominating Favorites

Screen & Radio Weekly offers its readers the opportunity to select the best motion picture of 1936. Weekly prizes will be offered for the best letters of nomination. The poll closes January 3, 1937. Announcement of results will be made late in January.

Here are the simple rules: The picture you nominate must have been released on or since January 1, 1936. The letter, containing not more than 125 words, should state your reasons for rating the picture as the best of 1936 and is to be addressed to the Mail Bag Editor. Your name and address must be plainly written. Entries must be postmarked not later than January 3, 1937.

A first prize of $5 and five $1 prizes will be awarded each week.

General Comments on Films Win Prizes, Too

Similar prizes will be awarded weekly to writers of the best letters of general comment on the movies. These letters, too, should not contain more than 125 words.

This week a prize of $10 is won by Edna Taylor, of Battle Creek, Mich., and an award of $5 goes to Charles Hickey, of Grosse Pointe.

Celluloid Opera

Is Her Request

In the last year or so we have had one big parade of grand movies. The producers have dared to tackle the immortal classics of Dickens, Hugo, Shakespeare and loads of others. The results have been educational as well as excellent entertainment. Even the pictures of more lighter vein have been well worth seeing.

Now I wish someone would take a great big dare and produce an opera for the screen. Any of the better known ones would be very effective, especially in the newer, more nearly perfected technicolor.

We have already had two grand musicals, "Naughty Marietta" and "Rose Marie," both based on old and well loved operettas, which are the next step to opera.

And we have had several tastes of opera from the various scenes in "A Night at the Opera," "Rose Marie" and "San Francisco," all of which were well handled and very pleasing.

With all the famous singing stars flocking to Hollywood, the producers should have no trouble procuring and selecting the proper voices for any opera chosen for its screen debut.

EDNA TAYLOR.

others, but he sure can dance! He was excellent in "Too Many Parents." There were others in the same picture that were outstanding, but that is the only picture I've seen that he was in long enough to even see.

JEANNE TREMOR.

WITHERS, NOT TEMPLE, PREFERRED FOR HEIDI

I have heard that Shirley Temple is to take the part of Heidi. I think Jane Withers would be much better, because Heidi is supposed to have straight black hair, which Jane has. She is also supposed to be full of pep and very mischievous, which the movies not because of, but in spite of, these second-raters.

With artists like Paul Muni, Charles Laughton, Fredric March, Nelson Eddy, Jeanette MacDonald on the screen, the lesser stars would never be missed should they cease to shine altogether.

CHARLES HICKEY.

Screen & Radio Weekly, while not necessarily agreeing with Mr. Hickey's charges, is interested in the reaction of fans toward "star-trouble" in Hollywood.

THE FOREIGN ACTORS ARE DEFENDED STOUTLY

I would like to put in a few words for the foreign actors and actresses.

I don't think we should be so prejudiced against them, for in Europe there are also American stars who appeal to the European directors as much as do those of their own country. I believe they should be all given a fair deal, whether American or European.

Don't you believe that a director just fits Jane, and Shirley could never be anything but a nice little spoiled mamma baby, no matter how hard anyone tried to change her.

They also couldn't work any of Shirley's dances in that show very well, so she just wouldn't fit in that part, because I have read the book.
MARGARET SCHULER.

MANY YOUTHFUL STARS SEEN AS A POSSIBILITY

I really don't mean to be hard on the studios, but I think they are half asleep.

There are so many children who could easily become a big success like Shirley Temple. Virginia Weidler may not have curls or can't sing or dance like Shirley, but she has something in her that goes to the heart of the fans. Sybil Jason can dance, sing and I think she is very cute. She is a born actress and can play a part as well as grownups.

Jane Withers is talented, but just because she hasn't curls or dimples like Shirley she is not as popular.

Same with the boys. Billy Lee may not be as big or as cute as has far better taste in picking the proper actors and actresses for roles?

CHARLOTTE KING.

WHEN JUSTICE TRIUMPHED

(Continued from Page 4)

"Mrs. Seminuk," said Schmidt, "we have come to the conclusion that you did not tell us your whole story when we first talked to you."

"Did I have to do that?" she asked, much more composed than during their previous interview.

"You told us your married life was happy. That wasn't exactly the truth, was it?"

She shrugged, saying, "I don't know what you mean by happy. I guess we were as happy as most married people. We quarreled sometimes, but it didn't mean anything."

"Your husband objected to your seeing John Polens, your lover," Mehallick said abruptly.

"That's a lie," she replied. "I was faithful to Metro. You've been listening to neighborhood gossip. John Polens wasn't my lover. He was never my lover. He came in here sometimes, and while Metro was in the hospital I went out with him, but—"

"You might as well admit that you were having an affair with Polens," said Schmidt. "The more you lie the worse things will be for you. Your best chance is to tell the truth."

Mary Seminuk began to weep. Schmidt asked why she had not told the truth when they first questioned her.

"I didn't want people to know. I mean—how could you expect me to admit such a thing? John is a very dear friend—I wouldn't want to do anything to hurt him. This gossip has caused nothing but trouble for us."

"Tell us about that."

"One of the neighbors wrote my husband anonymous letters—about John and me. They were all lies! Each time Metro got a letter he would carry on and make awful accusations. He just wouldn't believe me when I told him it wasn't true."

"Do you think that John Polens knows who killed your husband?" Schmidt asked.

Her eyes showed terror. "Oh, no! How can you ask that?"

Rival Establishes

A Complete Alibi.

"Mrs. Seminuk, do you know why your husband was murdered?"

"Why should I? Somebody I had never seen before came here and shot Metro. I don't know why."

The officers left. Their next stop was the home of John Polens, a good-looking man with a scholarly manner. He greeted them affably, admitted that he had known Seminuk and his wife, but denied that there had been anything between him and Mary.

"Where were you the night of the crime?" Schmidt inquired.

"I was at the Garland Inn. I was there all evening. I got there at about 7:30 and left at about midnight."

He insisted that he and Mary had always been chaperoned whenever they went anywhere. And when Metro took sick from time to time, he had managed things at the inn while the owner recuperated at the hospital.

The trooper drove to the Garland Inn to check on Polens' alibi. They were told that he had been there all evening. Later, Farmer Bower stated positively that John Polens had not been the triggerman.

.....

Recalling that the killer had mentioned being pulled out of a ditch, the authorities now decided to make a thorough check on every Plymouth coach in that region. Various farmers remembered rescuing cars on the day of the murder. Among them was Mike Cowalski, who had dragged a dark Plymouth sedan out of a ditch in Spring Creek township, just east of the Erie county line.

Schmidt and Mehallick hastened to the Cowalski farm at once. The farmer informed them that the car belonged to Joe Sennette, a friend of his daughter, Katherine.

"Where is Sennette?" asked Schmidt.

"He's somewhere around. He comes up to visit my daughter."

The officers pounced upon the suspect as soon as he drove up in his car. Schmidt asked him what he had to say for himself.

"I don't see how you caught up with me so soon?" he said. "I guess I might as well admit everything."

The officers were taken aback. "You admit it?" said Schmidt.

"Sure. Why not?"

"Why did you do it?"

"I had my reasons."

"Your reasons must have been pretty strong if they led you to murder a man."

Sennette stared from one to the other. "Murder? What are you talking about? I never murdered anybody!"

"Didn't you just admit that you killed Metro Seminuk?" Schmidt demanded.

Sennette replied that they had him all wrong. He thought they were after him for an assault job in Cleveland. He had jumped bail and came here to visit Katherine Cowalski. Where did they ever get the idea he bumped somebody off?

Trooper Finds Gun;

Then Suspect Confesses.

Trooper Mehallick, examining the interior of the car, suddenly produced a revolver. It was a .38-caliber army special.

"Joe," said Schmidt, "if this is the gun that killed Seminuk, we'll soon know it, and we'll soon know if you fired this gun. The murderer left his fingerprints on a whisky glass. It will take just about 30 minutes to find out whether you're the man. Now, do you want to talk?"

Sennette did. He said, "I guess I might as well. I killed Seminuk."

His story was as follows:

"A few months ago I was down here, and Katherine Cowalski gave a party. I met this fellow Polens. He heard about my trouble in Cleveland and asked me if I knew any racketeers who could be hired to kill a man. I said I did. I tried to get him somebody in Cleveland, but he said why didn't I do it myself."

"In the early part of March he gave me 50 bucks. That was supposed to be the down payment. On the 26th I met Polens and he gave me this gun. I did target practice along the road. Then we got some liquor and drove by the Airport Inn. He pointed out the fellow I was to bump off."

"That night at 8:30 I met Polens at the Garland Inn. He told me that now was as good a time to do the job as any, because there wouldn't be any customers at the Seminuk place on account of the floods. I smoked a couple of marijuana cigarettes and then went to Airport Inn. There was a farmer sitting there. I thought he'd never go. But finally he started for home and—I guess you know the rest."

He had been paid $200, he said, but he couldn't say whether Mary Seminuk had participated in the conspiracy.

"Polens told me time and again that Mrs. Seminuk was putting up the dough."

The troopers had Sennette jailed and then went after Polens. He had left home, but was located the next day in Pittsburgh, where his father lived. Told that Sennette had confessed, he broke down. However, he insisted that the motive had been self-defense.

"Metro had threatened to kill me," he said. "It was my life or his."

"Where did you get the money to pay Sennette?" he was asked. And he answered, "From Mary."

Mrs. Seminuk, confronted with the confessions, also broke down. She had given money to Polens, she admitted, "to fix things." But she insisted that she hadn't told John she wanted her husband killed.

All three went on trial on June 1. Before the jury had been completed Sennette pleaded guilty, and Polens did the same the next day, both hoping to escape the extreme penalty of death.

Mary Seminuk elected to be tried, and was convicted of murder in the second degree. Judge D. U. Arld, convinced that Polens had forced her to fall in with his plans, sentenced her to serve a mere one-and-a-half to five years.

As for Polens and Sennette, their hopes proved vain, for on June 23 they were sentenced to the electric chair.

(Copyright, 1936, for The Constitution.)

SIMPLE TREATMENT QUICKLY RELIEVES STABBING ACHES AND PAINS

When rheumatic pains stab at joints and muscles, just remember to rub in "Ben-Gay." Its gentle warmth soon relieves the pain-ridden arm, back, or leg. This soothing pain-reliever is the scientific formula of Dr. Jules Bengel, of Paris. For more than 40 years it has been bringing blessed relief to sufferers all over the world. There are many imitations of this famous product. So, to avoid disappointment, be sure to get the genuine, original "Ben-Gay."

RHEUMATIC PAINS BACKACHE NEURALGIA HEADACHE
STIFF, SORE MUSCLES COLDS

RUB PAIN AWAY WITH

BAUME "BEN-GAY"

Appearing together for the first time are Brian Aherne and Merle Oberon in the Samuel Goldwyn production, "Beloved Enemy." It tells a romantic story of England and Ireland at the time of the Irish rebellion and will be released at Christmas time. In the inset is Gogo DeLys, who is again singing over CBS.